PHILADELPHIA CO. AND DUQUESNE LIGHT CO.

NOTICE OF FILING AND NOTICE OF AND ORDER FOR HEARING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 25th day of July 1950.

Notice is hereby given that pursuant to the provisions of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 ("act") a joint application-declaration has been filed with this Commission by "Philadelphia Company ("Philadelphia") a registered holding company and a subsidiary of Standard Gas and Electric Company ("Standard Gas") and Standard Power and Light Corporation, both registered holding companies, and by Duquesne Light Company ("Duquesne"), a public utility subsidiary of Philadelphia. The applicants-declarants have designated sections 6, 7, 9, 10, 11 (b), 12 (c) and 12 (f) of the act and Rules U-42, U-43 and U-50 promulgated thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions.

All interested persons are referred to said application-declaration, which is on file in the office of the Commission, for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which may be summarized as follows:

Duquesne's authorized capital stock consists of 1,500,000 shares of First Preferred Stock, $100 par value, of which 275,000 shares designated as 5 percent Cumulative First Preferred Stock are issued and outstanding; 1,000,000 shares of Participating Preferred Stock, $100 par value, none of which is issued and outstanding; and 4,500,000 shares of no par value Common Stock, of which 2,152,828 shares are issued and outstanding. Philadelphia owns all of the outstanding Common Stock of Duquesne.

Dequesne will create a new class of Preferred Stock ($50 par value) of an authorized amount of $40,000,000. The new class of Preferred Stock will be issued in an aggregate amount of $35,000,000 par value thereof, in two series, one series ("Philadelphia Series Preferred Stock") in the aggregate amount of $27,500,000 par value, and the other series ("Public Series Preferred Stock") in the aggregate amount of $7,500,000 par value.

Duquesne will sell the Philadelphia Series Preferred Stock to Philadelphia for a consideration of $27,200,000 in cash and the transfer by Philadelphia to Duquesne of all of the outstanding capital stock, aggregating 500 shares, $100 par value, and carried on Philadelphia's books at $300,000, of Cheswick and Harmar Railroad Company, a railroad whose principal business is the transportation of coal mined by Duquesne. The dividend rate for the Philadelphia Series Preferred Stock will be specified at the hearing on this application-declaration.

The cash required by Philadelphia to purchase the Philadelphia Series Preferred Stock will be derived in part from one or more bank loans aggregating approximately $17,500,000 and in part from the remaining balance of the proceeds realized by Philadelphia from the sale by it on March 31, 1950, of the Common Stock of Equitable Gas Company, jurisdiction over the use of which proceeds the Commission has heretofore reserved, and from other treasury cash. It is stated that further details as to the proposed bank loan or loans will be supplied by amendment to the application-declaration or at the hearing thereon.

Upon receipt of the payment of $27,200,000 from Philadelphia, Dequesne will utilize that cash plus funds derived from one or more bank loans, information as to the amount and terms of which will be supplied by amendment or at the hearing hereon, to redeem and retire its presently outstanding 275,000 shares of 5 percent Cumulative First Preferred Stock at the redemption price of $110 per share plus accrued dividends to the date of redemption.

Duquesne will eliminate from its authorized capital stock all of its authorized First Preferred Stock, including the 5 percent Cumulative First Preferred Stock being redeemed, and all of its authorized Participating Preferred Stock.

Duquesne will issue and sell $12,000,000 principal amount of First Morgtage Bonds, Series due August 1, 1980 ("Bonds"), and thereafter will issue and sell the aforementioned $7,500,000 par value of Public Series Preferred Stock. Both securities will be sold at competitive bidding pursuant to Rule U-50 with the respective coupon and dividend rates to be determined by such bidding. Duquesne will apply the proceeds realized from the sale of the Bonds to the repayment of its aforementioned bank loan or loans and will apply the balance of such proceeds, together with the proceeds from the sale of the Public Series Preferred Stock, to the financing of its construction program.

Upon consummation of the foregoing transactions, Philadelphia will invest in or contribute to Duquesne such amount, if any, as may be required in order that the common stock equity of Duquesne at the time shall be at least 30 percent of Duquesne's total capitalization and surplus.

Consummation of the proposed transactions by the applicants-declarants is conditioned upon the obtaining from the United States Treasury Department of a closing agreement or ruling as to tax consequences, satisfactory to the applicants-declarants, and applicants-declarants reserve the right to withdraw the filing or to postpone consummation of the proposed transactions until such agreement or ruling is obtained.

The applicants-declarants state that the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission is the only State commission having jurisdiction over any of the proposed transactions.

The applicants-declarants request that the Commission make, as to certain of the proposed transactions, the recitals, specifications and itemizations required by Supplement R and section 1808 (f) of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended.

The applicants-declarants further request that the Commission take appropriate action herein as soon as possible and that the ten-day notice period required by Rule U-50 for the submission of bids for the Bonds and the Public Series Preferred Stock be reduced to not less than six days.

This Commission, on June 1, 1948, in proceedings under section 11 (b) of the act, entered its order directing, among other things, that Philadelphia take appropriate steps to liquidate and dissolve in an appropriate manner not in contravention of the act or the rules, regulations or orders of the Commission thereunder, and that Standard Gas cause appropriate steps to be taken to effect such liquidation and dissolution. There is now pending before the Commission, at File No. 54–173, an Amended Plan for the Simplification of Corporate Structure of the Philadelphia Company System ("Amended Plan"), filed by Standard Gas under section 11 (e) of the act. Pursuant to authority granted by the Commission, Philadelphia has consummated certain of the steps proposed in said Amended Plan, as amended.

On July 12, 1950, Standard Gas filed further amendments to the Amended Plan which propose as steps in the Amended Plan the carrying out of the transactions set forth in the instant application-declaration. Said amendments also propose the use by Philadelphia of the Philadelphia Series Preferred Stock of Duquesne, together with cash, in the retirement of Philadelphia's noncallable Six Per Cent Cumulative Preferred Stock and the non-callable 6 percent Cumulative Preferred Stock of its subsidiary, The Consolidated Gas Company of the City of Pittsburgh, as to which Philadelphia has guaranteed the payment of cumulative dividends to the extent of 4 percent per annum.

It appearing to the Commission that it is appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that a hearing be held with respect to said application-declaration and that said application-declaration shall not be granted or permitted to become effective except pursuant to further order of the Commission:

It is ordered, That a hearing with respect to said application-declaration, pursuant to the applicable provisions of the act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, be held on August 8, 1950, at 10:00 a. m., e. d. s. t., at the offices of the Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. On such date the hearing room clerk in Room 193 will advise as to the room in which such hearing will be held. Any person desiring to be heard or otherwise wishing to participate in this proceeding should file with the Secretary of the Commission, on or before August 7, 1950, a written request with respect thereto as provided by Rule XVII of the Commission's rules of practice.

It is further ordered, That William W. Swift, or any other officer or officers of this Commission designated by it for that purpose, shall preside at such hearing. The officer so designated to preside at such hearing is hereby authorized to exercise all powers granted to the Commission under section 18 (c) of the act and to a hearing officer under the Commission's rules of practice.

The Division of Public Utilities of the Commission having advised the Commission that it has made a preliminary examination of the said application-declaration and that, upon the basis thereof, the following matters and questions are presented for consideration, without prejudice, however, to the specification of additional matters or questions upon further examination:

(1) Whether the securities to be issued will be reasonably adapted to the security structure and earning power of the issuing companies and will otherwise meet applicable standards of the act;

(2) Whether the terms and conditions of the securities to be issued, and particularly the dividend rate of the Philadelphia Series Preferred Stock and the interest rate of the proposed bank loans, are appropriate and not detrimental to the public interest or the interest of investors or consumers;

(3) Whether the incurring of bank loans by Philadelphia is detrimental to compliance by Philadelphia with the Commission's order of June 1, 1948;

(4) Whether the proposed acquisitions of securities satisfy the requirements of section 10 of the act, and particularly whether the consideration to be paid by Philadelphia to Duquesne for the Philadelphia Series Preferred Stock meets the requirements of section 10 (b) (2) thereof;

(5) Whether the proposed transactions meet the requirements of section 12 of the act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder;

(6) Whether the fees and expenses to be paid in connection with the proposed transactions are for necessary services and are reasonable in amount;

(7) Whether the accounting entries in connection with the proposed transactions are appropriate and in accordance with sound accounting principles, and whether any additional or different accounting entries should be required;

(8) Whether, generally, the proposed transactions satisfy the applicable requirements of the act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, and whether any terms or conditions should be required or imposed in the public interest or for the protection of investors and consumers and, if so, the nature of such terms and conditions:

It is further ordered, That particular attention be directed at said hearing to the foregoing matters and questions.

It is further ordered, That the Secretary of the Commission shall serve a copy of this notice and order by registered mail on Philadelphia, Duquesne, Standard Gas, Standard Power and Light Corporation, all persons having heretofore entered an appearance in the proceedings involving the Amended Plan for Philadelphia, the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Federal Power Commission, the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission, and the City of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and that notice be given to all other persons by general release of the Commission distributed to the press and mailed to the mailing list for releases issued under the act, and that further notice be given to all persons by publication of this notice and order in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

TITLE 6—AGRICULTURAL CREDIT

Chapter III—Farmers Home Administration, Department of Agriculture

Subchapter E—Account Servicing

PART 364—SETTLEMENT

SUBPART A—COMPROMISE, ADJUSTMENT, AND CANCELLATION OF DEBTS OWED THE FARMERS HOME ADMINISTRATION

DEBT SETTLEMENT ACTIONS ON CORPORATION INDEBTEDNESS

Subpart A of Part 364 in Title 6, Code of Federal Regulations (14 F. R. 6967), is amended to add § 364.10 as follows:

§ 364.10 Reduction of corporation indebtedness to zero—(a) Purpose, scope, and source of authority. This section provides for the reduction to zero of indebtedness of corporations meeting the conditions set forth in paragraph (c) of this section without application or request from the corporation. Cases in which applications or requests for debt settlement are received from corporations, as well as other cases not covered by this section, will be submitted to the National Office for consideration and further instructions. The reduction of indebtedness to zero will eliminate any necessity for further servicing or accounting activities with respect thereto. Authority for the reduction of indebtedness to zero is derived from section 41 (g) of title IV of the Bankhead-Jones Farm Tenant Act, as amended by the Farmers Home Administration Act of 1946.

(b) Definitions. For the purpose of this section, the following definitions are applicable:

(1) "Indebtedness" is the amount (including interest) owed by a corporation to the United States and under the jurisdiction of the Farmers Home Administration, including indebtedness on State Rural Rehabilitation Corporation trust claims. Such indebtedness may be for loans, rents, or other charges or advances.

(2) "Reduction to zero" is the final discharge of a debt without any payment thereon, except that in the case of State Rural Rehabilitation Corporation trust claims, it is the charging off of the claim as a trust asset.

(c) Conditions for settlement. State Directors are authorized to take such action as may be necessary to reduce indebtedness of corporations to zero without application or request from the corporation, when the following conditions exist:

(1) The corporation has not made an application or request for debt settlement.

(2) If an indebtedness has been reported to the General Accounting Office on Form FHA–752, "Reply to General Accounting Office Inquiry," as uncollectible, the State Director has obtained clearance from the National Office before proceeding with the reduction to zero.

(3) The claim is not pending before the Department of Justice for collection.

(4) A final liquidation report on the corporation has been submitted to, and approved by, the Administrator.

(5) The amount remaining on the indebtedness, including both principal and interest, is less than $10,000.

(6) All of the Government's security for the indebtedness has been properly applied on the corporation's account.

(7) All possibilities of making further collections on the indebtedness have been exhausted and the corporation has no assets of value and no present or prospective ability to make further payments on the indebtedness, or the amount which might be realized through further collection efforts would not justify the expense which would be involved.

(8) The indebtedness has not been assumed, in whole or in part, by another party.

(9) The corporation has acted in good faith and there is no evidence that it has concealed or disposed of any assets to avoid payment of its indebtedness to the Government.

(10) The Government does not hold any of the corporation's property or assets as security for the indebtedness.

(11) The corporation's corporate existence has been dissolved, or the corporation has been inactive from the standpoint of program operations for the past twelve months, and does not contemplate reactivation, but plans to forfeit or dissolve its organizational existence.

(d) Processing. Reduction to zero of indebtedness of a corporation must be recommended by the appropriate County Supervisor and County Committee. The Area Finance Manager will stamp notes, rental contracts and ledger cards representing indebtedness (other than on State Rural Rehabilitation Corporation trust claims) "Satisfied by Approved Cancellation". All such instruments, whether representing State Rural Rehabilitation Corporation trust or other claims, will be retained in the Area Finance Office.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter IX—Production and Marketing Administration (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Peach Order 1]

PART 962—FRESH PEACHES GROWN IN GEORGIA

REGULATION OF SHIPMENTS

§ 962.305 Peach Order 1—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 62, as amended (7 CFR Part 962; 15 F. R. 4105), regulating the handling of fresh peaches grown in the State of Georgia, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments of peaches, as hereinafter set forth in accordance with the provisions of § 962.61 of the amended marketing agreement and order, will tend to effectuate such orderly marketing of peaches as will be in the public interest and the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) in that (1) the level of prices of peaches is such that the operation of the amended marketing agreement and order cannot be continued after the effective time of this section in the absence of the regulation set forth; (2) the suspension of the amended marketing agreement and order would permit the unrestricted shipment of immature peaches from the area; (3) such unrestricted shipment of immature peaches is not conducive to orderly marketing of Georgia peaches in the public interest and would not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act; and (4) compliance with the provisions of this section will not require of handlers any preparation therefor which cannot be completed by the effective time of this section.

(b) Order. During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., August 2, 1950, and ending at 12:01 a. m., e. s. t., September 1, 1950, no handler shall ship peaches which do not meet the requirements for maturity set forth and defined in the United States Standards for Peaches (7 CFR 51.312): Provided, That not more than an average of ten (10) percent, by count, of the peaches contained in any bulk lot or in any lot of packages may fail to meet the said requirements for maturity, but not more than fifteen (15) percent, by count, of the peaches contained in any individual package in any lot may fail to meet the said requirements for maturity.

(c) Definitions. When used in this section, the terms "area," "handler," "ship," and "peaches" shall have the same meaning as when used in the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order.

PART 992—HANDLING OF IRISH POTATOES GROWN IN WASHINGTON

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

Findings. (1) Pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 113 and Order No. 92 (7 CFR Part 992) regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in the State of Washington, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 61 Stat. 202, 707; 62 Stat. 1247; 63 Stat. 1051), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the State of Washington Potato Committee, established under said marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the modification of the skinning requirement with respect to the White Rose variety of potatoes, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, and that such modification relieves restrictions on the handling of Irish potatoes grown in the State of Washington.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice and engage in public rule-making procedure (5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which amendment is based and the time when this amendment must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient therefore.

Order, as amended. The provisions in paragraph (b) (1) of § 992.304 (15 F. R. 4678) are hereby amended to read as follows:

(1) During the period ending 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., October 16, 1950, no handler shall ship potatoes grown in the State of Washington which do not comply with the grade and size regulation effective July 10, 1950 (§ 992.303, 15 F. R. 4337); no handler shall ship a lot of potatoes, except potatoes of the White Rose variety, if more than 20 percent of the potatoes in such lot have more than one-half of the skin missing or feathered; and no handler shall ship a lot of potatoes of the White Rose variety if more than 35 percent of the potatoes in such lot have more than one-half of the skin missing or feathered, as such terms are defined in the United States Standards for Potatoes (14 F. R. 1955, 2161): Provided, That one lot of not to exceed 360 hundredweight of each variety of potatoes of each producer may be handled without regard to the aforesaid skinning requirements if the handler thereof reports, prior to such handling, the name and address of the producer of each such lot, and each such lot is handled as an identifiable entity.

TITLE 14—CIVIL AVIATION

Chapter I—Civil Aeronautics Board

[Regs., Serial No. SR–348]

PART 24—MECHANIC CERTIFICATES

LIMITED MECHANIC CERTIFICATE WITH PROPELLER OR AIRCRAFT APPLIANCE RATING

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 27th day of July 1950.

The provisions of Special Civil Air Regulation SR–340 which authorize the issuance of a limited mechanic certificate with a propeller or appliance rating to an individual employed by a manufacturer or repair station expires July 31, 1950. At the time this regulation was adopted it was anticipated that the projected revision of Part 24, Mechanic Certificates, which would incorporate provisions for the issuance of mechanic certificates with propeller or appliance ratings, would be completed prior to the expiration date. However, while the Board has had such project under consideration it has not yet been promulgated. Therefore, in view of the fact that currently effective Part 24 makes no provisions for the issuance of certificates for propeller or appliance mechanics it is believed necessary to extend the authorization currently provided in SR–340 until July 31, 1951, or such earlier date as the projected revision may become effective.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this rule, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter submitted. Since this regulation imposes no additional burden on any person, it may be made effective without prior notice.

In consideration of the foregoing the Civil Aeronautics Board makes and promulgates the following Special Civil Air Regulation, effective August 1, 1950, to read as follows:

A mechanic certificate with a propeller or aircraft appliance rating, excepting a parachute rating, may be issued by the Administrator of Civil Aeronautics to an individual who is employed and designated by either a manufacturer holding a currently effective propeller or aircraft appliance production certificate or by an applicant for, or the holder of, a repair station certificate with a propeller or aircraft appliance rating. The individual must be in direct charge of the inspection, overhaul, or repair of propellers or aircraft appliances, and his experience and employment record must indicate that he is competent to engage in such activity. The individual to whom a certificate is issued shall exercise the privileges of his certificate only with respect to the work performed for such manufacturer or repair station and through the use of facilities provided by the manufacturer or repair station.

This regulation supersedes Special Civil Air Regulation SR–340, and shall terminate July 31, 1951, unless sooner superseded or rescinded.

Acting Secretary.

PART 40—AIR CARRIER OPERATING CERTIFICATION

PART 41—CERTIFICATION AND OPERATION RULES FOR SCHEDULED AIR CARRIER OPERATIONS OUTSIDE THE CONTINENTAL LIMITS OF THE UNITED STATES

PART 42—IRREGULAR AIR CARRIER AND OFF-ROUTE RULES

PART 45—COMMERCIAL OPERATOR CERTIFICATION AND OPERATION RULES

PART 61—SCHEDULED AIR CARRIER RULES

DELEGATION OF AUTHORITY TO ADMINISTRATOR TO PERMIT AIR CARRIERS UNDER CONTRACT TO MILITARY SERVICES TO DEVIATE FROM PARTS 40, 41, 42, 45 AND 61 OF CIVIL AIR REGULATIONS

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 28th day of July 1950.

The Air Transport Association (ATA) on behalf of several scheduled air carriers under contract to the military services has requested that authority be granted to such carriers to permit them to deviate from certain provisions of Parts 40, 41, 42 and 61, under which they are currently required to operate, in order to permit such carriers to accomplish expeditiously the mission assigned them by the military services. ATA states that in view of the type of operations that these air carriers have been requested to perform certain provisions of those parts impose an undue burden upon the air carriers involved. It appears that several of the difficulties encountered in complying with the currently prescribed regulations result from the fact that some of the air carriers are acting in the capacity of prime contractors with the military services, while others are acting as sub-contractors and are merely furnishing aircraft and/or flight crews to another air carrier for use in operations conducted pursuant to the military contracts. It should be noted that Parts 40, 41, 42 and 61 are designed to be applicable to scheduled and irregular air carrier operations performed under normal operating conditions. We believe that the type of operation which air carriers are expected to perform in executing their obligations under military contracts is a specialized type of operation and is different in many respects from the normal type of air carrier operation envisaged by current Civil Air Regulations relating to air carrier operations. In view of that we believe that the Civil Air Regulations applicable to air carriers should be tailored to the type of operation to be conducted under military contracts to the extent that the Administrator finds that deviation from those regulations is necessary or desirable for the expeditious conduct of such operations.

The Board considers it necessary to limit the operations conducted pursuant to any deviation granted by the Administrator to those operations conducted pursuant to military contracts and to require that all operations conducted in accordance with such deviations be conducted in accordance with such terms and conditions as to the Administrator may prescribe in granting the deviation.

It is anticipated that the Administrator will, as part of the procedure in issuing a deviation of major importance, coordinate his decision with the Board and the appropriate military authorities.

ATA has requested that authority to deviate be granted without delay since operations under currently prescribed regulations is hindering the expeditious execution of the air carriers' obligations under the military contracts.

For the reasons stated above notice and public procedure hereon are impracticable and contrary to the public interest and the Board finds that good cause exists for making this Special Civil Air Regulation effective without prior notice.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby makes and promulgates a Special Civil Air Regulation, effective immediately, to read as follows:

1. Contrary provisions of the Civil Air Regulations notwithstanding, the Administrator may upon application by an air carrier, authorize an air carrier under contract to the military services, or an air carrier furnishing civil aircraft and/or flight crews to another air carrier for use in operations conducted pursuant to a contract with the military services to deviate from the applicable provisions of Parts 40, 41, 42, 45, and 61, to the extent that he finds upon investigation a deviation from those regulations is necessary or desirable for the expeditious conduct of such operations.

2. Any authority granted by the Administrator pursuant to this regulation shall be limited to those operations conducted pursuant to military contracts and shall not be applicable to any other type of operation.

3. The Administrator shall, in any authorization granted pursuant to this regulation, specify the terms and conditions under which the air carrier may deviate from the currently prescribed Regulations, and each carrier shall in the conduct of operations pursuant to military contracts comply with such terms and conditions.

This regulation shall terminate August 1, 1951, unless sooner superseded or rescinded.

(Sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984, 49 U. S. C. 425. Interprets or applies secs. 601, 604, 52 Stat. 1007, 1010, 62 Stat. 1216, 49 U. S. C. 551, 554)

Acting Secretary.

The official name of the Municipal Airport, El Paso, Texas, which is a designated airport of entry (T. D. 43785), has been changed to "El Paso International Airport." TITLE 24—HOUSING AND HOUSING CREDIT

Chapter II—Federal Housing Administration, Housing and Home Finance Agency

Subchapter A—General

PART 200—GENERAL

SUBPART B—FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATION PROCEDURE

Subpart B is hereby amended by adding the following new section numbered 200.10:

§ 200.10 Title I Mortgage Insurance—(a) Purpose. This new legislative enactment is intended to assist in providing adequate housing for families of low and moderate income in rural and small communities as well as urban and suburban areas by making feasible the insurance of mortgages covering properties in areas where it is not practicable to obtain conformity with many of the requirements essential to the insurance of mortgages on properties in built-up urban areas. However, the construction and location requirements involve risk characteristics unlike those in connection with mortgages insured under other plans which this plan supplements, for which reason an entirely new insurance fund is required for its operation known as "Title I Housing Insurance Fund." In this financing plan there is presented an opportunity for families of low and moderate incomes to obtain soundly constructed houses priced within their means.

(b) Processing and closing. The Administrative, Fiscal, and Legal procedure for the processing and closing of loans under section 8 of the National Housing Act will be practically the same as for section 203 of Title II of the act. Substantially the same forms presently in use under section 203 of the act shall be used except that these forms will be modified by deleting all reference to Title II of section 203 of the act and inserting in lieu thereof, section 8 of the act.

DERIVATION: AFR's 205-17; 205-18.

INVESTIGATION AND CLEARANCE OF PRIVATE CONTRACTORS' FACILITIES

§ 805.31 Objective. To assure the protection of classified matter, procurement activities of the Department of the Air Force will insure that a prospective bidder or contractor has been granted a facility security clearance by one of the military Departments prior to disclosing classified information to such prospective bidder or contractor in connection with precontract negotiations for the award of or performance on a classified contract.

§ 805.32 Facility clearances. Facility security clearances will be granted by major air commands concerned to prospective bidders or contractors: Provided, That:

(a) The officers, directors, owners, and key employees who will require access to classified matter in connection with precontract negotiations or preparation of bids are United States citizens, or aliens who have been lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence under an immigration visa and have been issued a letter of consent, and

(b) A check of the central records of the Federal Bureau of Investigation and the records of such other agencies as may be pertinent reveals no adverse information concerning:

(1) The facility,
(2) Officers,
(3) Directors,
(4) Owners and key employees who have access to classified matter. If the records reveal adverse information, sufficient investigation thereof will be conducted to support a decision to grant or deny a security clearance.

§ 805.33 Forms. (a) Five copies of Department of Defense Form 48, "Personnel Security Questionnaire," will be completed by all United States citizens who are subject to investigation.

(b) Five copies of Department of Defense Form 49, "Alien Questionnaire," will be completed by all aliens who are subject to investigation.

§ 805.34 Scope of facility clearance. A clearance accorded a facility for the purpose of precontract negotiations or preparation of bids, made in accordance with § 805.32, shall also constitute a clearance of the facility for purposes of the award of a contract: Provided, however, That:

(a) Such facility clearance shall not be considered to dispense with the requirements of § 805.36 for adequate facilities for the protection of classified matter at the place at which the contract will be performed:

(b) Clearance of private contractor personnel shall be required in the manner and to the extent provided by §§ 805.51 to 805.60.

§ 805.35 Facility denial. (a) Facility security clearances will not be granted when an officer or director of the firm or corporation or any owner who will have access to classified matter is found to be unsuited for access to classified matter under the following criteria: On all the evidence and information available, reasonable grounds exist for belief that the person:

(1) Has committed acts of treason or sedition, or has engaged in acts of espionage or sabotage; has actively advocated or aided the commission of such acts by others; or has knowingly associated with persons committing such acts.

(2) Is employed by, or subject to the influence of, a foreign government under circumstances which may jeopardize the security interests of the United States.

(3) Has actively advocated or supported the overthrow of the Government of the United States by the use of force or violence.

(4) Has intentionally disclosed military information classified confidential or higher without authority and with reasonable knowledge or belief that it may be transmitted to a foreign government, or has intentionally disclosed such information to persons not authorized to receive it.

(5) Is mentally or emotionally unstable; is a habitual offender of the law; or does not possess the integrity, discretion, and responsibility essential to the security of classified military information.

(6) Is or recently has been a member of, or affiliated or sympathetically associated with, any foreign or domestic organization, association, movement, group, or combination of persons (i) which is, or which has been designated by the Attorney General as being totalitarian, Fascist, Communist, or subversive; (ii) which has adopted, or which has been designated by the Attorney General as having adopted, a policy of advocating or approving the commission of acts of force or violence to deny other persons their rights under the Constitution of the United States; or (iii) which seeks, or which has been designated by the Attorney General as seeking, to alter the form of the Government of the United States by unconstitutional means.

(b) When a denial appears justified, a copy of the report of investigation and any other evidence upon which the decision is predicated, with appropriate recommendations, will be forwarded to the Army-Navy-Air Force Personnel Security Board for decision. A facility security clearance denied or revoked on security grounds other than those pertaining to the physical elements of security is appealable to the Industrial Employment Review Board. Security clearances for precontract negotiations need not be denied when a key employee is found to be unsuited for access to classified matter: Provided, That the employee concerned will not be given access thereto.

(c) If the facility is foreign owned or controlled to an extent that it may constitute a security risk, clearance will be denied in accordance with specific instructions on this subject.

(d) When any officer, director, owner, or key employee is found to be an alien in the United States under other than an immigration visa, military information will not be released or disclosed to the alien without the specific approval of the Director of Intelligence, United States Air Force.

§ 805.36 Plant survey. (a) In addition to requirements concerning facility security clearances, the award of a contract involving classified matter will be subject to an appropriate survey of the plant, shop, laboratory, or place at which work under the contract will be performed to determine whether adequate facilities are available for the protection of classified matter that will be released to or developed by the contractor, so far as can be anticipated at the time of the survey. Commanders concerned will conduct such formal or informal surveys as they consider proper according to the security classification, nature, or volume of classified matter that will require physical protection. However, when practicable and time permits, a complete security survey will be conducted.

(b) When a security survey reveals inadequate facilities for the protection of the classified matter, the award of a contract involving classified matter will be withheld pending satisfactory completion of negotiations for the correction of the deficiencies.

§ 805.37 Subcontractors. The policies contained in §§ 805.31 to 805.38 pertaining to contractors are equally applicable to subcontractors.

§ 805.38 Nonapplicability. The provisions of the policy contained in §§ 805.31 to 805.38 do not apply to prospective bids or contracts involving Restricted Data as defined in the Atomic Energy Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 755; 42 U. S. C. 1801-1819), or to research, development, and production of cryptographic equipment.

INVESTIGATION AND CLEARANCE OF PRIVATE CONTRACTOR EMPLOYEES

§ 805.51 Objective. To minimize the security risk incident to the handling of military information by Department of the Air Force contractor employees, it is essential that the loyalty, integrity, and trustworthiness of such personnel as is specified in §§ 805.51 to 805.60 be established by investigation.

§ 805.52 Responsibility. (a) The Department of the Air Force is responsible for investigating and clearing Air Force contractor personnel in accordance with the provisions of §§ 805.51 to 805.60. A clearance granted as prescribed herein constitutes an administrative determination that the employment of such a person in the manner proposed, will not be inimical to the interests of the United States, and it will be evidenced by the issuance of an appropriate letter of consent. A letter of consent issued by activities of the Department of the Army or Navy, granting consent of the Secretary of the Army or Navy, should be accepted as a basis for the issuance of a letter to the same or another contractor for employment of the same person on Air Force contracts.

(b) Commanders concerned are responsible for taking appropriate action to prevent the disclosure of military information to persons referred to in §§ 805.51 to 805.60 until the prescribed clearances have been granted.

§ 805.53 Required investigations. Department of the Air Force contractor employees in the following categories will be investigated as indicated:

(a) For United States citizens whose duties or employment in connection with the performance of a contract will involve access to matter classified top secret, a background investigation will be conducted.

(b) For United States citizens whose duties or employment in connection with the performance of a contract will involve access to matter classified secret, a National Agency Check will be conducted. A background investigation will be conducted in those cases where derogatory information is developed, to prove or disprove the allegations.

(c) For aliens whose duties or employment in connection with the performance of a contract will involve access to any classified matter, a background investigation will be conducted.

(d) For contractor employees whose duties or employment in connection with the performance of a contract will involve access to confidential or restricted matter, investigation and clearance are not required, except as prescribed in paragraphs (c) and (e) of this section.

(e) Sections 805.51 to 805.60 are not intended to preclude investigation of contractor personnel not otherwise provided for herein, when there is any evidence that the continued employment of these persons constitutes a security risk.

§ 805.54 Forms. (a) Five copies of Department of Defense Form 48, "Personnel Security Questionnaire," will be completed by all United States citizens who are subject to investigation by reason of employment on Department of the Air Force contracts.

(b) Five copies of Department of Defense Form 49, "Alien Questionnaire," will be completed by all aliens who are subject to investigation by reason of employment on Department of the Air Force contracts; and in the case of contracts for furnishing or constructing aircraft, aircraft parts, aeronautical accessories, by all aliens who require access to the plans or specifications, or to the work under construction, or to participate in the contract trials, whether or not access to classified matter is involved.

§ 805.55 Scope of investigation. (a) For the purpose of §§ 805.51 to 805.60, a background investigation is a thorough and complete investigation in which pertinent facts having a bearing on the loyalty, integrity, and trustworthiness of the subject are inquired into, and will cover basically the period of the person's life during the period of ten years next preceding the date of the investigation which will include reference to local law enforcement files at the place of residence and employment of the applicant, including municipal, county, and State law enforcement files; schools and colleges attended by applicant; former employers of applicant; references given by applicant; any other appropriate source; and a National Agency Check.

(b) For the purpose of §§ 805.51 to 805.60, a National Agency Check is a check of the central records of the Federal Bureau of Investigation; the records of the Assistant Chief of Staff, G–2, General Staff, United States Army, Office of Naval Intelligence, Office of Special Investigations, United States Air Force, in those cases which indicate previous service or employment in the applicable military Department; and the records of such other agencies as may be pertinent to the purpose of the inquiry.

§ 805.56 Clearances. (a) Upon completion of required investigation as prescribed in § 805.53, commanding generals, major air commands concerned may grant personnel security clearances by issuance of a letter of consent of the Secretary of the Air Force to the contractor involved. In the case of United States citizens referred to in § 805.53 (a), and aliens referred to in § 805.53 (c), a letter of consent may be issued based on favorable results of a National Agency Check pending completion of the required background investigation, subject to revocation in the event derogatory information is subsequently developed. Such letters will not be issued when it appears that the proposed access to classified matter will be inimical to the security interests of the United States under the criteria prescribed in § 805.35 (a).

(b) Activities of the Department of the Air Force will not initially deny personnel security clearances of contractor employees. Whenever a denial appears justified, a copy of the report of investigation and any other evidence upon which the decision is predicated, with appropriate recommendations, will be forwarded to the Army-Navy-Air Force Personnel Security Board for decision.

(c) Appropriate letters of consent may be issued by commanding generals, major air commands concerned, to contractors involved, for alien employees requiring access to unclassified matter described in section 10 (j), act of July 2, 1926 (44 Stat. 787; 10 U. S. C. 310 (j)). No such consent will be granted unless, after full consideration of the evidence presented, it is determined that the employment of such person, in the manner proposed, will not be inimical to the interests of the United States. When a denial is indicated, the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section will govern.

§ 805.57 Waiver of clearance requirements. (a) Commanding generals, major air commands concerned are authorized to modify clearance requirements for Department of the Air Force contractor employees, except aliens, who require access to secret matter, pending completion of National Agency Checks, when considered necessary for the performance of contracts. Such action will not be taken, however, unless after full consideration of the evidence presented (Department of Defense Form 48, with personnel reports of contractors or other similar data, such as that obtainable from local sources) it is determined that such access will not be inimical to the security interests of the United States. In arriving at decisions to modify clearance requirements, the criteria referred to in § 805.56 (a) should be applied. Further, letters of consent should be issued when favorable action is taken pursuant to the provisions of this paragraph, subject to revocation in the event derogatory information is subsequently developed.

(b) In connection with the authority to modify clearance requirements as indicated in paragraph (a) of this section, it is not intended that contractors should be compelled to furnish personnel reports. However, when personnel reports or other similar data are not available, action to modify clearance requirements will not be taken.

§ 805.58 Revocation of clearance. When a letter of consent has been issued, it will not, except in an emergency, be revoked until authorization therefor has been obtained from the Army-Navy-Air Force Personnel Security Board. An emergency is defined as any situation in which failure to act until the above authorization has been obtained presents a serious threat to the security interests of the United States. In arriving at decisions to revoke letters of consent, the criteria referred to in § 805.56 (a) should be applied.

§ 805.59 Subcontractor employees. The policies contained in §§ 805.51 to 805.60 pertaining to contractor employees are applicable to employees of subcontractors.

§ 805.60 Nonapplicability. The provisions of the policy contained in §§ 805.51 to 805.60 do not apply to contracts involving Restricted Data as defined in the Atomic Energy Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 755; 42 U. S. C. 1801-1819), or to research, development, and production of cryptographic equipment.

(3) All deposits in the authorized areas shall be made under the supervision of inspectors appointed by the United States unless, in the opinion of the District Engineer, such supervision is not necessary or desirable. The cost of inspection shall be borne by the permittees.

(4) Any deposits made above the plane of 50 feet below mean low water shall be leveled to that plane by the contractor or responsible person at his own expense within the time specified by the District Engineer, and failure to do so shall constitute a violation of this section.

(5) The route to be followed between the dredging area and the dumping area may be designated by the District Engineer whenever he considers it necessary.

§ 205.50 Lake St. Clair, Mich.—(a) The dumping grounds. The waters of Lake St. Clair within a rectangular area east of Grosse Pointe, Michigan, between the Lake St. Clair Ship Channel and the International Boundary, bounded as follows: Beginning at a point, 900 feet southeasterly from the southeast channel line of the Ship Channel, bearing 53°30′ true, 13,500 feet, from Peach Island Range Front Light; thence 48° true, along a line parallel to and 900 feet southeasterly from the southeast channel line of the Ship Channel, 13,000 feet; thence 138° true, 6,500 feet; thence 228° true, 13,000 feet; and thence 318° true, 6,500 feet, to the point of beginning. The boundaries of the area are marked by a series of red-and-white and black-and-white buoys established and maintained by the United States Coast Guard.

(b) The regulations. (1) The dumping grounds shall be used only for the dumping of suitable nonfloatable, earthen materials, not easily transported by the currents, from dredging and related operations in the Lake St. Clair and the Detroit River.

(2) No materials shall be dumped until a permit therefor has been issued by the District Engineer, Detroit District, Corps of Engineers. Written application for such permit must be addressed to the District Engineer, 609 Federal Building, Detroit, Michigan.

(3) No dumping shall be commenced without at least 24 hours' prior notice thereof to the District Engineer.

(4) Materials shall be dumped only under the supervision of the District Engineer or his representative. The cost of inspection shall be borne by the party responsible for the dumping. Inspectors and others while engaged in this service shall be afforded satisfactory transportation to and from the dumping grounds, and provided with protection from the weather and, if necessary, satisfactory board and sleeping accommodations by the responsible party.

§ 205.55 Lake Erie, west end—(a) The dumping ground—(1) West of Detroit River Light. The waters of Lake Erie within a rectangular area east of Pointe Mouillee and west of the improved ship channel passing west of Detroit River Light, bounded as follows. Beginning at a point, 1,000 feet westerly from the west channel line of the ship channel, bearing 314° 40′ true, 2,450 feet, from Detroit River Light; thence 191° 40′ true, along a line parallel to and 1,000 feet westerly from the west channel line of the ship channel, 10,000 feet; thence 281° 40′ true, 4,000 feet; thence 11° 40′ true, 10,000 feet; and thence 101° 40′ true, 4,000 feet, to the point of beginning. The area will be marked by spar or float buoys installed by the District Engineer, Detroit District, Corps of Engineers.

(2) North of Toledo Harbor Light, Maumee Bay. The waters of Lake Erie within a rectangular area between the entrances to Monroe Harbor, Michigan, and Toledo Harbor, Ohio, bounded as follows: Beginning at a point bearing 358° 40′ true, 20,000 feet, from Toledo Harbor Light; thence 191° 45′ true, 10,000 feet, to a point bearing 346° 30′ true, 10,500 feet, from Toledo Harbor Light; thence 281° 45′ true, 8,000 feet; thence 11° 45′ true, 10,000 feet; and thence 101° 45′ true, 8,000 feet, to the point of beginning. The area will be marked by spar or float buoys installed by the District Engineer.

(b) The regulations. (1) The dumping grounds shall be used only for the dumping of suitable nonfloatable materials, not easily transported by the currents, from dredging and related operations in the Detroit River and vicinity and in Maumee Bay and River and vicinity.

(2) No materials shall be dumped until a permit therefor has been issued by the District Engineer. Written application for such permit must be addressed to the District Engineer, 609 Federal Building, Detroit, Michigan.

(3) No dumping shall be commenced without at least 24 hours' prior notice thereof to the District Engineer.

(4) Materials shall be dumped only under the supervision of the District Engineer or his representative. The cost of inspection shall be borne by the party responsible for the dumping. Inspectors and others while engaged in this service shall be afforded satisfactory transportation to and from the dumping grounds, and provided with protection from the weather and, if necessary, satisfactory board and sleeping accommodations by the responsible party.

TITLE 47—TELECOMMUNICATION

Chapter I—Federal Communications Commission

[Docket No. 9320]

PART 1—PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

INFORMAL APPLICATION FOR AUTHORITY TO USE APPARATUS FOR PRODUCTION OF PROGRAMS TO BE TRANSMITTED TO FOREIGN RADIO STATIONS

The Commission has before it a proposal to amend § 1.327 of its rules and regulations so as to permit applications under section 325 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, for authority to use apparatus for the production of programs to be transmitted to foreign radio stations to be made informally where the applicant is a licensee or permittee of a broadcast station and where the program to be transmitted or delivered to a foreign radio station has been, is being, or will be broadcast in the United States by said licensee or permittee. Notice of Proposed Rule Making with respect to this matter was released May 19, 1949, and was duly published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (14 F. R. 2764), which notice provided that persons desiring to file briefs or comments with respect to said proposal might do so on or before June 30, 1949. The Notice of Proposed Rule Making also proposed an amendment of § 0.143 of the Commission's Statement of Delegations of Authority delegating authority to act upon said informal applications to the Secretary upon securing approval of the Bureau of Law. The Commission also indicated that applicants for the authority required by section 325 (b) of the Communications Act would be expected to conform to the citizenship requirements of section 310 of the act. Comments with respect to the proposed rules were filed by Mutual Broadcasting System, Incorporated, and Western Ontario Broadcasting Company, Limited, licensee of Station CKLW, Windsor, Ontario, and oral argument was had before the Commission en banc on November 4, 1949.

No objection to the proposed new rules was raised. The Commission was urged, however, to extend the benefits of the proposed informal procedure to persons other than licensees and permittees of United States broadcast stations and particularly to the Mutual Broadcasting System, Incorporated. Where the applicant is already a licensee or permittee of a broadcast station the Commission has previously passed upon its qualifications to conduct broadcasting operations; and where the program to be transmitted to a foreign station is also broadcast by the United States station it is a portion of the operation of the United States station which is subject to over-all review by the Commission upon application for renewal of license. However, where the applicant is not a licensee or a permittee or where the program is not broadcast over a United States station the Commission has no other opportunity of reviewing the qualifications of the licensee or the nature of the programming to be engaged in except upon application for a permit under section 325 (b) of the act. Accordingly, we are of the opinion that in such cases formal application and Commission review thereof are necessary in order for the Commission properly to discharge its responsibilities under the Communications Act.

It was also urged upon the Commission that it should entertain applications for authority to transmit programs to foreign radio stations where the applicant does not meet the citizenship requirements of section 310 (a) of the Communications Act. In support of this argument it was pointed out that section 325 makes no reference to any other section of the act except section 309, and the latter section contains no reference to citizenship requirements and further that the long standing administrative interpretation of the act by the Commission has been to the contrary. Section 325 (c) provides that action upon applications for authority to transmit programs to foreign stations must be in accordance with the requirements of section 309. Section 309 provides in part that the Commission may grant applications for station licenses or for renewal or modification of station licenses provided it determines that the public interest, convenience or necessity will be served by the granting thereof. The standard of public interest, convenience and necessity must be interpreted and applied within the context of the entire Communications Act. Federal Radio Commission v. Nelson Bros. Bond & Mortgage Co., 289 U. S. 266; Federal Communications Commission v. Sanders Bros. Radio Station, 309 U. S. 470; National Broadcasting Company v. United States, 319 U. S. 190. In section 310 of the act the Congress has indicated that in its judgment the public interest, convenience and necessity requires that United States broadcasting be under the control of citizens only. Where a program is produced in the United States and broadcast over foreign stations that can be regularly received in the United States the practical effect is the same as though the program had been broadcast over a United States station. There is thus no basis for applying a different standard of the public interest to the above operation than to any other broadcast operation. Accordingly we are of the opinion that it was the intention of Congress that the permits required by section 325 (b) of the act be granted only to persons meeting the citizenship requirements set forth in section 310.

As noted above, the responsibility of the Commission under section 325 (b) of the act may appropriately be discharged by less formal procedures where the applicant for the permit required by section 325 (b) is already a licensee of this Commission and where the program which he proposes to deliver to the foreign radio station is also a program which he has broadcast or will broadcast over the United States station for which he holds a license. The adoption of these informal procedures will conduce to the orderly and expeditious dispatch of the Commission's business and relieve applicants in many situations from unnecessary burdens.

Since the proposed amendment to the Commission's rules relates to procedural matters only it may be made effective immediately.

Accordingly, it is ordered, This 21st day of July, 1950, that, effective immediately, § 1.327 of the Commission's rules and regulations is amended by the addition of the following proviso: "Provided, That licensees or permittees of broadcast stations need not file applications on FCC Form 308 in those cases where the programs to be transmitted or delivered to a foreign radio station has been, is being, or will be broadcast in the United States by said licensee or permittee, but may make informal application for the authority sought."

PART 1—PRACTICE AND PROCEDURE

PROCESSING OF STANDARD BROADCAST APPLICATIONS

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission, held at its offices, in Washington, D. C., on the 21st day of July, 1950:

The Commission, having under consideration § 1.373 of its rules and regulations and, specifically, that part of § 1.373 which provides for the engineering and other consideration of standard broadcast applications in two processing lines, depending upon the complexity of the engineering problems involved; and

It appearing, that the establishment of dual processing lines was an emergency measure designed for more efficient deployment of Commission personnel to meet a substantial increase in standard broadcast applications; and

It further appearing, that in view of a levelling off in standard broadcast activity, the emergency program is no longer necessary and can be abandoned, without loss of administrative efficiency, in favor of the more desirable practice of processing all applications in one order of procedure; and

It further appearing, that the consolidation of processing lines herein ordered is organizational and procedural in nature, and that the notice and procedures provided for in section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act are, therefore, inapplicable; and

It further appearing, that authority for the amendment ordered herein is contained in sections 4 (i) and (j) and 303 (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended;

It is ordered, That, effective immediately, § 1.373 of the Commission's rules and regulations is amended to read as set forth below.

(Sec. 4, 48 Stat. 1066; 47 U. S. C. 154. Sec. 303, 50 Stat. 191; 47 U. S. C. 303. Interprets or applies sec. 4, 48 Stat. 1068; 47 U. S. C. 154)

Released: July 21, 1950.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] T. J. SLOWIE,
Secretary.

§ 1.373 Procedure with respect to processing of standard broadcast applications. (a) When an application for the construction of a new broadcast station, or for a change in the facilities of an existing station, is received in the Commission it is immediately referred to the Broadcast License Branch which examines the application to determine whether it is sufficiently complete to permit the Commission to process it. If it is found to be sufficiently complete to be processed—even though it is incomplete in certain minor particulars—it is immediately given a file number and a letter is sent to the applicant requesting the correction of any minor defects that may have been disclosed by the examination. If the examination by the Broadcast License Branch discloses that the application is incomplete in major particulars which makes it impossible to process it, the Broadcast License Branch then with the advice and concurrence of the Offices of the General Counsel and the Chief Engineer returns the application to the applicant with a statement that it cannot be accepted. The reasons for its rejection are specified in the letter returning the application.

(b) There shall be only one processing line and all applications, subject to the exceptions noted in succeeding paragraphs of this section, will be processed in the order of filing with the Commission. Once an application has been given a file number it is referred to a member of the Office of the Chief Engineer to determine whether it is one which must obviously go to hearing. For example, if the application seeks to use 1240 kilocycles in a particular town and there is already pending an application for that same frequency in that same town, then the two obviously must be consolidated for hearing and steps are set in motion at this stage looking toward an order designating the two applications for hearing, the only question at this stage, however, only those cases which are obvious conflicts are sifted out and put into hearing. If an engineering study is necessary in order to determine whether the case must go to hearing, the application is not set for hearing at this stage but is put in line for processing by the Office of the Chief Engineer and is set for hearing after the engineering study is completed (provided that such a study discloses an engineering conflict requiring a hearing). In view of this, it is to the advantage of an applicant who knows that his case does present a conflict requiring a hearing promptly to point that fact out to the Commission—preferably at the time the application is filed—so that it will be immediately recognized as a hearing case. This will result in getting the application immediately into line awaiting the assignment of a date on the hearing calendar instead of having the case remain in line awaiting processing by the Office of the Chief Engineer with the result that some weeks or months later it will be recognized as a hearing case and then put in the hearing line.

(c) (1) Where the application is for modification of a construction permit filed because of conditions imposed by the Commission at the time of the original grant, such as conditions with respect to the approval of transmitter site and antenna system, it will be referred to the Civil Aeronautics Administration upon its receipt and will be acted on by the Commission as soon as approval by the Civil Aeronautics Administration is received without reference to the processing line.

(2) Where the application is for minor changes in the construction permit, such as specification of new equipment or very slight changes in the directional antenna pattern, effort will be made to handle these cases promptly upon their receipt without placing them in the processing line.

(3) Where an application for modification of a construction permit involves major changes in the original proposal requiring engineering study and such application is required by the terms of the original grant, such applications will be placed at the head of the construction permit processing line. However, wherever major changes in the original proposal are initiated by the applicant, these applications will be placed in the processing line in accordance with the file number of the original application for the construction permit which is sought to be modified.

(d) Applications take their places on the processing line in proper order according to file number. The oldest (lowest file number) is at the front of the line and the newest (highest file number) is at the back of the line. Cases are drawn by engineers in order of file number. Thus, the file number strictly determines the order in which the staff's work is begun on a particular application. There is one exception to this. The Aural Broadcast Division of the Office of the Chief Engineer is authorized to group together for study cases which involve interference conflicts where it appears that by making a simultaneous study of such conflicting applications rather than individual studies of separate applications, a substantial amount of the staff's time can be saved. Further, such cases would ordinarily require simultaneous consideration by the Commission and preparation of simultaneous reports is, therefore, necessary.

(e) It takes longer to process some applications than it does others. Also it frequently occurs that when the processing of an application is begun it is discovered that additional information is needed and the staff's work cannot be completed until further word is received from the applicant. Thus, there will be cases where the processing of a particular application may be completed and ready for Commission action prior to another application even though the processing of the latter application began at an earlier date. However, every effort is made, once the processing of an application has begun, to carry its processing through to completion at the earliest possible date in the light of the circumstances involved in the particular case. The Offices of the General Counsel and Chief Accountant, by keeping track of the cases which will be reached next in the processing line, are in position to plan their work so that they will be writing reports on the same applications that are being studied by the Office of the Chief Engineer.

(f) If, as a result of the study by the Offices of the General Counsel, Chief Engineer and Chief Accountant and by the Commission it appears that the application is satisfactory in all respects, it can be granted without a hearing. If, on the other hand, the complete study by the staff and the Commission indicates that a hearing is required, then the application will be designated for hearing.

(g) Frequently, when two cases are designated for hearing because they are mutually exclusive, one of the applicants amends and removes the conflict. Where this occurs the appropriate procedure is to petition for leave to amend and remove from the hearing docket. Such motions will be considered promptly and if it appears that the conflict which caused the case originally to be set for hearing has been removed and there is no other obvious conflict, the two cases will be removed from the hearing docket and placed back in their proper position (as determined by the file numbers) in the processing line. Petitions for amendment, removal from the hearing docket, and grant will not be entertained insofar as they request a grant. The Examiner, or Motions Commissioner if an Examiner has not yet been designated, in acting on such petitions, will dismiss the request for a grant. In such a case the matter will simply be put back in its proper place in line.

(h) An application will continue to be carried under the same file number unless major amendment is made which really involves the substitution of a different application. Amendments simply changing the frequency and/or power or changing from full time to daytime only will be accepted without changing the file number.

(i) Sometimes it occurs that when an application is reached for processing it is necessary for the staff or the Commission itself to address a letter to the applicant asking further information. If the application cannot be processed until the information requested is received, then the application is placed in the pending file to await the applicant's response. Also it sometimes occurs that a particular category of cases is placed in the pending file by Commission action. In such cases the Commission makes a public announcement of its policy and notifies the individual applicant as to why his application is being placed in the pending file.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 21st day of July 1950.

The Commission having under consideration Appendix A to Part 2 of its rules and regulations: and

It appearing, that the proposed change is not substantive and does not in any way affect the requirements of any of the Commission's rules and regulations; that said change consists of the addition of information with reference to an Agreement between the United States and certain countries of the British Commonwealth regarding the establishment of new telegraph ceiling rates as well as general conditions governing the retention of existing radiotelegraph circuits and the establishment of new or additional circuits between the respective countries; and of the addition of information with reference to an Agreement between the United States and Ecuador on the subject of the international exchange of messages between the two countries on behalf of third parties by operators of amateur radio stations; and

It further appearing that because of the informational nature of the proposed change, notice and public procedure thereon as prescribed by sec. 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act is unnecessary, and that this order may be made effective immediately for the same reasons.

It is ordered, That effective immediately, Appendix A to Part 2 of the Commission's rules and regulations is amended as set forth below.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Production and Marketing Administration

[7 CFR, Part 52]

UNITED STATES STANDARDS FOR GRADES OF CANNED CRANBERRY SAUCE [1]

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given that the United States Department of Agriculture is considering the issuance, as herein proposed, of United States Standards for Grades of Canned Cranberry Sauce, pursuant to the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1621 et seq.) and Pub. Law 585, 81st Cong., approved June 29, 1950. These standards, if made effective, will be the first issue by the Department of grade standards for this product.

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments for consideration in connection with the proposed standards should file the same, in duplicate, with the Chief, Processed Products Standardization and Inspection Division, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than January 1, 1951.

The proposed standards are as follows:

§ 52.282 Canned cranberry sauce. Canned cranberry sauce is the jellied or semi-jellied product prepared from clean, sound, matured or fairly well-matured cranberries; sugar, and water. Pectin may be added but only in a quantity which reasonably compensates for deficiency, if any, of the natural pectin content of cranberries. The mixture is concentrated and sufficiently processed by heat to assure preservation of the product in hermetically sealed containers. The soluble solids of the finished product is not less than 38 percent and not more than 45 percent.

(a) Styles of canned cranberry sauce. (1) Style I—Strained (typical of a jellied product prepared from strained cranberries)

(2) Style II—Whole (typical of a semi-jellied product prepared from whole or partially whole cranberries)

(b) Grades of canned cranberry sauce. (1) "U. S. Grade A" or "U. S. Fancy" is the quality of canned cranberry sauce that possesses a good color; that possesses a good consistency and good texture; that is practically free from defects; that possesses a good flavor and odor; and that scores not less than 85 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(2) "U. S. Grade C" or "U. S. Standard" is the quality of canned cranberry sauce that possesses a fairly good color; that possesses a fairly good consistency and a fairly good texture; that is fairly free from defects; that possesses a fairly good flavor and odor; and that scores not less than 70 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(3) "U. S. Grade D" or "Substandard" is the quality of canned cranberry sauce that fails to meet the requirements of U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard.

(c) Recommended fill of container. The recommended fill of container is not incorporated in the grades of the finished product since fill of container, as such, is not a factor of quality for the purposes of these grades. It is recommended that each container be filled as full as practicable with cranberry sauce and that the product occupy not less than 90 percent of the volume of the container.

(d) Ascertaining the grade. The grade of canned cranberry sauce may be ascertained by considering, in conjunction with the requirements of the respective grade, the respective ratings for the factors of color, consistency and texture, absence of defects, and flavor and odor. The relative importance of each factor which is scored is expressed numerically on the scale of 100. The maximum number of points that may be given such factors are:

Factors:	Points
(1) Color	20
(2) Consistency and texture	40
(3) Absence of defects	20
(4) Flavor and odor	20
Total score	100

(e) Ascertaining the rating for the factors which are scored. The essential variations within each factor which is scored are so described that the value may be ascertained for each factor and expressed numerically. The numerical range within each factor which is scored is inclusive (for example, "17 to 20 points" means 17, 18, 19, or 20 points).

(1) Color. (i) Canned cranberry sauce that possesses a good color may be given a score of 17 to 20 points. "Good color" means the bright dark red color typical of canned cranberries which color is free from any dullness.

(ii) If the canned cranberry sauce possesses a fairly good color, a score of 14 to 16 points may be given. Canned cranberry sauce that falls into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good color" means the red color typical of canned cranberries, which color may be slightly dull or may indicate slight evidence of oxidation but is not off color.

(iii) Canned cranberry sauce that fails to meet the requirements of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 13 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(2) Consistency and texture. (i) Canned cranberry sauce that possesses a good consistency and good texture may be given a score of 34 to 40 points. "Good consistency and good texture" has the following meanings with respect to the following styles of canned cranberry sauce:

Strained. The gel is tender to slightly firm and there may be evidence of a reasonable separation of free liquid.

Whole. The skin particles and the semi-jellied portions are reasonably tender and the fruit, seed, and skin particles are dispersed reasonably uniformly throughout the product.

(ii) If the canned cranberry sauce possesses a fairly good consistency and a fairly good texture, a score of 28 to 33 points may be given. Canned cranberry sauce that falls into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good consistency and fairly good texture" has the following meanings with respect to the following styles of canned cranberry sauce:

Strained. The gel may lack firmness or may be stiff but is not tough or rubbery and there may be evidence of separation of free liquid which is not excessive.

Whole. The skin particles and the semi-jellied portions are fairly tender and the fruit, seed, and skin particles are dispersed fairly uniformly throughout the product and there may be evidence of separation of free liquid which is not excessive.

(iii) Canned cranberry sauce that fails to meet the requirements of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 27 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(3) Absence of defects. The factor of absence of defects refers to the degree of freedom from foreign material and objectionable material and from harmless extraneous particles in Style I, Strained; and from defective cranberries and foreign berries and particles thereof, fine stems, foreign material and objectionable material, and other defects in Style II, Whole.

(i) Canned cranberry sauce that is practically free from defects may be given a score of 17 to 20 points. "Practically free from defects" has the following meanings with respect to the following styles of cranberry sauce:

Strained. The product is free from foreign material and objectionable material, is free from any harmless extraneous particles that exceed the area of a circle $^3/_{16}$ inch in diameter; and is practically free from harmless extraneous particles that are the equivalent in area of a circle $^3/_{16}$ inch or less in diameter.

Whole. There may be present for each 12 ounces of net weight not more than 3 defective cranberries or foreign berries and not more than 4 fine stems ¾ inch or more in length; the product is free from foreign material and objectionable material and is practically free from other defects which affect materially the appearance or edibility of the product.

(ii) If the canned cranberry sauce is fairly free from defects, a score of 14 to 16 points may be given. Canned cranberry sauce that falls into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly free from defects" has the following meanings with respect to the following styles of cranberry sauce:

Strained. The product is free from foreign material and objectionable material; is practically free from harmless extraneous particles that exceed the area of a circle 3/16 inch in diameter; and is fairly free from harmless extraneous particles that are the equivalent in area of a circle 3/16 inch or less in diameter.

Whole. There may be present for each 12 ounces of net weight not more than 6 fine stems ¾ inches or more in length; the product is free from foreign material and objectionable material and is fairly free from other defects which affect materially the appearance or edibility of the product.

(iii) Canned cranberry sauce that fails to meet the requirements of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 13 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(4) Flavor and odor. (i) Canned cranberry sauce that possesses a good flavor and odor may be given a score of 17 to 20 points. "Good flavor and odor" means that the product possesses a good, characteristic, slightly tart flavor typical of cooked cranberries and that the product is free from any trace of a caramelized flavor, abnormal flavor, and abnormal odor.

(ii) If the canned cranberry sauce possesses a fairly good flavor and odor, a score of 14 to 16 points may be given. Canned cranberry sauce that falls into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good flavor and odor" means that the product possesses a normal flavor typical of cooked cranberries and that the product is free from objectionable flavors and objectionable odors of any kind.

(iii) Canned cranberry sauce that fails to meet the requirements of subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 13 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(f) Explanation of terms. (1) "Soluble solids" content is determined by the refractometer without correction for water-insoluble solids.

(g) Tolerances for certification of officially drawn samples. (1) When certifying samples that have been officially drawn and which represent a specific lot of canned cranberry sauce, the grade for such lot will be determined by averaging the total scores of the containers comprising the sample, if:

(i) Not more than one-sixth of such containers fails to meet all the requirements of the grade indicated by the average of such total scores, and, with respect to such containers which fail to meet the requirements of the indicated grade by reason of a limiting rule, the average score of all containers in the sample for the factor, subject to such limiting rule, is within the range for the grade indicated;

(ii) None of the containers comprising the sample falls more than 4 points below the minimum score for the grade indicated by the average of the total scores; and

(iii) All containers comprising the sample meet all applicable standards of quality promulgated under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act and in effect at the time of the aforesaid certification.

UNITED STATES STANDARDS FOR APPLES

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given that the United States Department of Agriculture is considering the issuance of United States Standards for Apples under the authority contained in Pub. Law 585, 81st Cong., approved June 29, 1950, to supersede United States Standards for Apples (S. R. A.-P. M. A. 154) issued October 1937 and reissued October 1947. The standards are proposed to become effective during October 1950.

All persons who desire to submit written data views or arguments for consideration in connection with the proposed standards should file the same with M. W. Baker, Assistant Director, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, South Building, Washington 25, D. C., not later than 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., on the thirtieth day after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposed standards are as follows:

§ 51.104 Standards for apples—(a) General. (1) When the numerical count is marked on the container, percentages shall be calculated on the basis of count.

(2) When the minimum diameter or minimum and maximum diameters are marked on the container, percentages shall be calculated on the basis of weight.

(3) When the apples are in bulk, percentages shall be calculated on the basis of weight.

(b) Grades—(1) U. S. Fancy. U. S. Fancy consists of apples of one variety which are mature but not overripe, carefully hand-picked, clean, well formed, free from decay, internal browning, internal breakdown, scald, freezing injury, broken skins and bruises (except those incident to proper handling and packing), and visible water core. The apples shall also be free from injury caused by russeting, sunburn or sprayburn, limb rubs, hail, drought spots, scars, disease, insects, or mechanical or other means. Each apple of this grade shall have the amount of color specified hereinafter for the variety. (See Color requirements, Tolerances and Condition after storage or transit.)

(2) U. S. No. 1. U. S. No. 1 consists of apples of one variety which are mature but not overripe, carefully hand-picked, clean, fairly well formed, free from decay, internal browning, internal breakdown, scald, freezing injury, broken skins and bruises (except those incident to proper handling and packing), and visible water core. The apples shall also be free from damage caused by russeting, sunburn or sprayburn, limb rubs, hail, drought spots, scars, disease, insects, or mechanical or other means. Each apple of this grade shall have the amount of color specified hereinafter for the variety. (See Color requirements, Tolerances and Condition after storage or transit.)

(3) U. S. Commercial. U. S. Commercial consists of apples of one variety which meet the requirements of U. S. No. 1 grade except as to color. This grade is provided for apples which are mature but which do not have sufficient color to meet the specifications of U. S. No. 1 grade. (See Tolerances and Condition after storage or transit.)

(4) U. S. No. 1 Early. U. S. No. 1 Early consists of apples of one variety which meet the requirements of U. S. No. 1 grade except as to color and maturity. Apples of this grade may have no red color and need not be mature. This grade is provided for early varieties only, such as Oldenburg (Duchess of Oldenburg), Gravenstein, Lowland Raspberry (Liveland Raspberry), Red June, Summer Hagloe, Twenty Ounce, Wealthy, Williams, Bailey Sweet, Bietigheimer, and other varieties which ripened at the same period and which are often used for cooking rather than for eating out of hand. (See Tolerances and Condition after storage or transit.)

(5) U. S. Utility. U. S. Utility consists of apples of one variety which are mature but not overripe, carefully hand-picked, not seriously deformed, free from decay, internal browning, internal breakdown, scald and freezing injury. The apples shall also be free from serious damage caused by dirt or other foreign matter, broken skins, bruises, russeting, sunburn, spray burn, limb rubs, hail, drought spots, scars, visible water core, disease, insects, or mechanical or other means. (See Tolerances and Condition after storage or transit.)

(6) U. S. Utility Early. U. S. Utility Early consists of apples of one variety which meet the requirements of U. S. Utility grade except as to maturity. Apples of this grade need not be mature. This grade is provided for early varieties only, such as Oldenburg (Duchess of Oldenburg), Gravenstein, Lowland Raspberry (Liveland Raspberry), Red June, Summer Hagloe, Twenty Ounce, Wealthy, Williams, Bailey Sweet, Bietigheimer, and other varieties which ripen at the same period and which are often used for cooking rather than for eating out of hand. (See Tolerances and Condition after storage or transit.)

(7) Combination grades. Combinations of the above grades may also be used as follows:

Combination U. S. Fancy and U. S. No. 1.
Combination U. S. No. 1 and U. S Commercial.
Combination U S. No. 1 and U. S. Utility.

(i) Combinations other than these are not provided for in connection with the United States apple grades. When combination grades are packed, at least 50 percent of the apples in any lot shall meet the requirements of the higher grade in the combination. (See Color requirements, Tolerances and Condition after storage or transit.)

(8) U. S. Hail grade. U. S. Hail grade consists of apples which meet the requirements of U. S. No. 1 grade except that hail marks where the skin has not been broken and well healed hail marks where the skin has been broken shall be permitted, provided the apples are fairly well formed. (See Color requirements, Tolerances and Condition after storage or transit.)

(9) Color requirements. In addition to the requirements specified for the above grades, each apple of these grades shall have the percentage of color specified for the variety in the table appearing in this subparagraph. For the solid red varieties the percentage stated refers to the area of the surface which must be covered with a good shade of solid red characteristic of the variety, except that an apple having color of a lighter shade of solid red or striped red than that considered as good shade of red characteristic of the variety may be admitted to a grade, provided it has sufficient additional area covered so that the apple has as good an appearance as one with the minimum percentage of good red characteristic of the variety required for the grade. For the striped red varieties the percentage stated refers to the area of the surface in which the stripes of good shade of red characteristic of the variety shall predominate over the stripes of lighter red, green, or yellow. However, an apple having color of a lighter shade than that considered as good shade of red characteristic of the variety may be admitted to a grade: Provided, That it has sufficient additional area covered so that the apple has as good an appearance and is one with the minimum percentage of stripes of good red characteristic of the variety required for the grade. Faded brown stripes shall not be considered as color except in the case of the Gray Baldwin variety.

(c) Unclassified. Unclassified consists of apples which are not graded in conformity with any of the foregoing grades. The term "unclassified" is not a grade within the meaning of these standards but is provided as a designation to show that no definite grade has been applied to the lot.

(d) Tolerances. In order to allow for variations incident to proper grading and handling in each of the foregoing grades the following tolerances are provided as specified:

(1) U. S. Fancy, U. S. No. 1, U. S. Commercial, U. S. No. 1 Early, Combination grades, and U. S. Hail grade. Not more than a total of 10 percent of the apples in any lot may fail to meet the requirements of the grade, but not more than 5 percent shall be allowed for apples affected by decay or internal breakdown, or which are seriously damaged by insects, including not more than 1 percent for apples affected by decay or internal breakdown.

(i) When applying the foregoing tolerances to the combination grades no part of any tolerance shall be allowed to reduce, for the lot as a whole, the 50 percent of apples of the higher grade required in the combination, but individual containers may have not less than 40 percent of the higher grade.

(2) U. S. Utility and U. S. Utility Early grades. Not more than a total of 10 percent of the apples in any lot may fail to meet the requirements of the grade, including not more than 1 percent for apples affected by decay or internal breakdown.

(e) Application of tolerances to individual packages. (1) The contents of individual packages in the lot, based on sample inspection, are subject to the following limitations, provided the averages for the entire lot are within the tolerances specified for the grade:

(2) For a tolerance of 10 percent or more, individual packages in any lot may contain not more than one and one-half times the tolerance specified, except that when the package contains 15 specimens or less, individual packages may contain not more than double the tolerance specified.

(3) For a tolerance of less than 10 percent, individual packages in any lot may contain not more than double the tolerance specified, provided at least one specimen which does not meet the requirements shall be allowed in any one package.

(f) Condition after storage or transit. (1) Decay, scald, or any other deteriorations which may have developed on apples after they have been in storage or transit shall be considered as affecting condition and not the grade.

(g) Size requirements. (1) The numerical count or the minimum diameter of the apples packed in a closed container shall be indicated on the container.

(2) When the numerical count is marked on the container the minimum diameter of the largest apple shall be not more than one-fourth inch larger than the minimum diameter of the smallest apple.

(3) When the numerical count is not shown the minimum diameter shall be plainly stamped, stenciled, or otherwise marked on the container in terms of whole inches, whole and half inches, whole and quarter inches, or whole and eighth inches, as 2½ inches minimum, 2¼ inches minimum, or 2⅝ inches minimum, in accordance with the facts. It is suggested that both minimum and maximum diameters be marked on the container, as 2¼ to 2¾ inches, or 2½ to 2¾ inches, as such marking is especially desirable for apples marketed in the export trade.

(4) The measurement for minimum diameter shall be the largest diameter of the apple taken at right angles to a line from the stem end to the blossom end. The measurement for maximum diameter shall be the smallest dimension of the apple determined by passing the apple through a round opening.

(5) In order to allow for variations incident to proper sizing, not more than a total of 15 percent of the apples in any lot may fail to meet the size requirements, including not more than 5 percent for apples which have a smaller diameter than the specified minimum diameter.

(h) Packing requirements. (1) Each package shall be packed so that the apples in the shown face shall be reasonably representative in size, color, and quality of the contents of the package.

(2) Boxes. Apples packed in the standard northwestern apple boxes shall be arranged in the containers according to the approved and recognized methods with the stems pointing toward the ends of the boxes, except when jumbled, and all packages shall be well filled but the contents shall not show excessive or unnecessary bruising because of overfilled packages. Apples packed in the standard northwestern apple boxes shall show a total bulge (top and bottom) of not less than three-fourths inch. Each wrapped apple shall be completely enclosed by its individual wrapper.

(3) Baskets. Apples packed in round-stave bushel baskets or tubs shall be ring faced and tightly packed with sufficient bulge to prevent any appreciable movement of the apples within the containers when lidded.

(4) Barrels. Apples in barrels shall be tightly packed.

(5) In order to allow for variations incident to proper packing not more than 5 percent of the containers in any lot may not meet these requirements.

(i) Suggestions for marking containers. (1) In order to conserve space, abbreviations may be used for marking United States grade names on containers. The following abbreviations are suggested where it is not desired to use the full grade name:

(i) U. S. Fcy. for U. S. Fancy.
(ii) U. S. No. 1 for U. S. Number 1.
(iii) U. S. Com. for U. S. Commercial.
(iv) U. S. Util. for U. S. Utility.

(v) Combination grades may be designated by abbreviations of the grades preceded by the abbreviation "Comb." as "Comb. U. S. Fcy.-U. S. No. 1."

(j) Standards for export, as applied to condition factors: (1) The apples in any lot shall be generally tightly packed when in barrels or baskets and either generally fairly tight or tightly packed when in boxes.

(2) Not more than 5 percent of the apples in any container shall be further advanced in maturity than firm ripe.

(3) Not more than a total of 5 percent of the apples in any container shall be damaged by bitter pit, Jonathan spot, scald, internal breakdown water core, freezing, decay, or other such condition factors, except that—

(i) Not more than 2 percent shall be allowed for apples affected by decay.

(ii) Not more than 2 percent shall be allowed for damage by internal breakdown.

(iii) The apples shall be free from scald unless they are properly packed in oiled paper or have been especially treated with oil to prevent scald. When so packed or treated, not more than 2 percent of slight scald shall be permitted.

(4) Any lot of apples shall be considered as meeting the standards for export if the entire lot averages within the requirements specified, Provided, That no sample from the containers in any lot is found to exceed double the percentages specified.

(k) Definitions. (1) "Mature" means that the apples have reached the stage of growth which will insure the proper completion of the ripening process. Before a mature apple becomes overripe it will show varying degrees of firmness, depending upon the stage of the ripening process. The following terms are used for describing these different stages of firmness of apples:

(i) "Hard" means apples with tenacious flesh and starchy flavor. Apples at this stage are suitable for storage and long distance shipment.

(ii) "Firm" means apples with tenacious flesh but which are becoming crisp with a slight starchy flavor, except the Delicious variety. Apples at this stage are also suitable for storage and long distance shipment.

(iii) "Firm ripe" means apples with crisp flesh except that the flesh of the apples of the Gano, Ben Davis, and Rome Beauty varieties may be slightly mealy. Apples at this stage may be shipped long distances but should be moved into consumption within a short period of time.

(iv) "Ripe" means apples with mealy flesh and soon to become soft for the variety. Apples at this stage should be moved immediately into consumption.

(2) "Overripe" means apples which are dead ripe, with flesh very mealy or soft, and past commercial utility.

(3) "Carefully hand-picked" means that the apples do not show evidence of rough handling or of having been on the ground.

(4) "Clean" means that the apples are free from excessive dirt, dust, spray residue and other foreign material.

(5) "Well formed" means that the apple has the normal shape characteristic of the variety, except that the shape may be slightly irregular, provided, it does not detract from the general appearance of the apple.

(6) "Injury" means any injury or defect which more than slightly affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality of the apples.

(i) Russeting in the stem basin or calyx cavity which cannot be seen when the apple is placed stem end or calyx end down on a flat surface, shall not be considered in determining whether or not an apple is injured by russeting, except that rough or bark-like russeting in the stem basin or calyx cavity shall be considered as injury when the appearance of the apple is materially affected. The following types and amounts of russeting outside of the stem basin or calyx cavity, shall be considered as injury:

(a) Smooth net-like russeting, when an aggregate area of more than 15 percent of the surface is covered, and the color of the russeting shows no very pronounced contrast with the background color of the apple, or lesser amounts of more conspicuous net-like russeting when the appearance is affected to a greater extent than the above amount permitted.

(b) Smooth, solid russeting, when an aggregate area of more than 5 percent of the surface is covered, and the pattern and color of the russeting shows no very pronounced contrast with the background color of the apple, or lesser amounts of more conspicuous solid russeting when the appearance is affected to a greater extent than the above amount permitted.

(c) Slightly rough russeting which covers an aggregate area of more than one-fourth inch in diameter.[1]

(d) Rough russeting shall be considered as injury, unless it is well within the stem basin or calyx cavity and is not readily apparent.

(ii) Any one of the following defects, or any combination thereof, the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one defect shall be considered as injury:

(a) Sunburn or sprayburn which has caused blistering or cracking of the skin, or when the normal color of more than 5 percent of the surface of the apple is materially changed, unless the injury can be classed as russeting.

(b) Light colored limb rubs or other similar marks which affect a total area of more than one-fourth inch in diameter, or dark brown or black limb rubs which affects a total area of more than one-eighth inch in diameter.[1]

(c) Hail marks, drought spots or other similar depressions or scars where there is appreciable discoloration other than russeting, or when the indentations are not superficial, or when an individual indentation exceeds one-eighth inch in diameter, or the total affected area exceeds one-fourth inch in diameter.[1]

(d) Disease: (1) Scab spots which affect a total area of more than one-eighth inch in diameter.[1]

(2) Cedar rust infection which affects a total area of more than one-eighth inch in diameter.[1]

(3) Sooty blotch or fly speck which is thinly scattered over more than one-tenth of the surface, or dark, heavily concentrated spots which affect an area of more than one-fourth inch in diameter.[1]

(e) Insects: Any sting or stings which affect a total area of more than one-eighth inch in diameter including any

[1] The area refers to that of a circle of the specified diameter.

encircling discolored rings; or worm holes.[1]

(7) "Fairly well formed" means that the apple may be slightly abnormal in shape but not to an extent which detracts materially from its appearance.

(8) "Damage" means any injury or defect which materially affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality of the apples.

(i) Russeting in the stem basin or calyx cavity which cannot be seen when the apple is placed stem end or calyx end down on a flat surface, shall not be considered in determining whether or not an apple is damaged by russeting, except that excessively rough or bark-like russeting in the stem basin or calyx cavity shall be considered as damage when the appearance of the apple is materially affected. The following types and amounts of russeting outside of the stem basin or calyx cavity, shall be considered as damage:

(a) Russeting which is excessively rough on Roxbury Russet and other similar varieties.

(b) Smooth net-like russeting, when an aggregate area of more than 25 percent of the surface is covered, and the color of the russeting shows no very pronounced contrast with the background color of the apple, or lesser amounts of more conspicuous net-like russeting when the appearance is affected to a greater extent than the above amount permitted.

(c) Smooth solid russeting, when an aggregate area of more than 10 percent of the surface is covered, and the pattern and color of the russeting shows no very pronounced contrast with the background color of the apple, or lesser amounts of more conspicuous solid russeting when the appearance is affected to a greater extent than the above amount permitted.

(d) Slightly rough russeting which covers an aggregate area of more than one-half inch in diameter.[1]

(e) Rough russeting which exceeds one-fourth inch in diameter, unless it is well within the stem basin or calyx cavity and is not readily apparent.[1]

(ii) Any one of the following defects, or any combination thereof, the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one defect, shall be considered as damage:

(a) Sunburn or spray burn which has caused blistering or cracking of the skin, or when the discolored area does not blend into the normal color of the fruit unless the injury can be classed as russeting.

(b) Dark brown or black limb rubs which affect a total area of more than one-half inch in diameter, or light brown limb rubs which affect a total area of more than 1 inch in diameter.[1]

(c) Hail marks, drought spots, or other similar depressions or scars which are not superficial, or when such injury affects a total area of more than one-half inch in diameter.[1]

(d) Disease: (1) Scab spots which affect a total area of more than one-fourth inch in diameter.[1]

UNITED STATES CONSUMER STANDARDS FOR APPLES

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given that the United States Department of Agriculture is considering the issuance of United States Consumer Standards for Apples under the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1621, et seq.).

All persons who desire to submit written data, views or arguments for consideration in connection with the proposed standards should file the same with M. W. Baker, Assistant Director, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, South Building, Washington 25, D. C., not later than 5:30 p. m., e. s. t., on the 30th day after the publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposed standards are as follows:

§ 51.105 Consumer standards for apples—(a) Grades. (1) U. S. Grade AA. U. S. Grade AA consists of apples of one variety which are mature but not overripe, carefully hand-picked, clean, well formed, free from decay, internal browning, internal breakdown, scald, freezing injury, broken skins and bruises (except those incident to proper handling and packing), and visible water core. The apples shall also be free from injury caused by russeting, sunburn or sprayburn, limb rubs, hail, drought spots, scars, disease, insects, or mechanical or other means. Each apple of this grade shall have the amount of color specified hereinafter for the variety and apples on the shown face shall be reasonably representative in size and quality of the contents of the container. (See Color requirements.)

(i) Incident to proper grading and handling, not more than a total of 5 percent, by count, of the apples in any lot may fail to meet the requirements of this grade, but not more than 2 percent shall be allowed for apples affected by decay or internal breakdown or which are seriously damaged by insects, including not more than 1 percent for apples affected by decay or internal breakdown.

(2) U. S. Grade A. U. S. Grade A consists of apples of one variety which are mature but not overripe, carefully hand-picked, clean, fairly well formed, free from decay, internal browning, internal breakdown, scald, freezing injury, broken skins and bruises (except those incident to proper handling and packing), and visible water core. The apples shall also be free from damage caused by russeting, sunburn or sprayburn, limb rubs, hail, drought spots, scars, disease, insects, or mechanical or other means. Each apple of this grade shall have the amount of color specified hereinafter for the variety and apples on the shown face shall be reasonably representative in size and quality of the contents of the container. (See Color requirements.)

(i) Incident to proper grading and handling, not more than a total of 5 percent, by count, of the apples in any lot may fail to meet the requirements of this grade, but not more than 2 percent shall be allowed for apples affected by decay or internal breakdown or which are seriously damaged by insects, including not more than 1 percent for apples affected by decay or internal breakdown.

(3) U. S. Grade B. U. S. Grade B consists of apples which meet the requirements of U. S. Grade A except for color. Each apple of this grade shall have the amount of color specified hereinafter for the variety. (See Color requirements.)

(4) Color requirements. In addition to the requirements specified for the above grades, each apple of these grades shall have the percentage of color specified for the variety in the table appearing in this subparagraph. For the solid red varieties the percentages stated refer to the area of the surface which must be covered with a good shade of solid red characteristic of the variety, except that an apple having color of a lighter shade of solid red or striped red than that considered as good shade of red characteristic of the variety may be admitted to a grade, provided it has sufficient additional area covered so that the apple has as good an appearance as one with the minimum percentage of good red characteristic of the variety required for the grade. For the striped red varieties the percentages stated refer to the area of the surface in which the stripes of good shade of red characteristic of the variety shall predominate over the stripes of lighter red, green, or yellow. However, an apple having color of a lighter shade than that considered as good shade of red characteristic of the variety may be admitted to a grade: Provided, That it has sufficient additional area covered so that the apple has as good an appearance as one with the minimum percentage of stripes of good red characteristic of the variety required for the grade. Faded brown stripes shall not be considered as color except in the case of the Gray Baldwin variety.

(b) Off-Grade apples. Apples which fail to meet the requirements of any of the foregoing grades shall be Off-Grade apples.

(c) Size requirements. (1) The size of the apples in any type of container may be specified by giving the numerical count, minimum diameter, or range of diameters. When the numerical count is not shown the minimum diameter may be specified in terms of whole inches, whole and half inches, whole and quarter inches, or whole and eighth inches, as 2½ inches minimum, 2¼ inches minimum, or 2⅜ inches minimum in accordance with the facts. Both the minimum and the maximum diameters may be marked on the container, as 2¼ to 2¾ inches, or 2½ to 3 inches.

(2) The measurement for minimum diameter shall be the largest diameter of the apple taken at right angles to a line from the stem end to the blossom end. The measurement for maximum diameter shall be the smallest dimension of the apple determined by passing the apple through a round opening.

(3) Incident to proper sizing, not more than 5 percent of the apples in any lot may fail to meet the size requirements: Provided, That when the maximum and minimum diameters are both stated, not more than a total of 5 percent of the apples in any lot may be larger than the specified maximum diameter and not more than a total of 5 percent of the apples in any lot may be smaller than the specified diameter.

(d) Definitions. (1) "Mature" means that the apples have reached the stage of growth which will insure the proper completion of the ripening process. Before a mature apple becomes overripe it will show varying degrees of firmness, depending upon the stage of the ripening process. The following terms are used for describing these different stages of firmness of apples:

(i) "Hard" means apples with tenacious flesh and starchy flavor. Apples at this stage are suitable for storage and long distance shipment.

(ii) "Firm" means apples with tenacious flesh but which are becoming crisp with a slight starchy flavor, except the Delicious variety. Apples at this stage are also suitable for storage and long distance shipment.

(iii) "Firm ripe" means apples with crisp flesh except that the flesh of the apples of the Gano, Ben Davis, and Rome Beauty varieties may be slightly mealy. Apples at this stage may be shipped long distances but should be moved into consumption within a short period of time.

(iv) "Ripe" means apples with mealy flesh and soon to become soft for the variety. Apples at this stage should be moved immediately into consumption.

(2) "Overripe" means apples which are dead ripe, with flesh very mealy or soft, and past commercial utility.

(3) "Carefully hand-picked" means that the apples do not show evidence of rough handling or of having been on the ground.

(4) "Clean" means that the apples are free from excessive dirt, dust, spray residue and other foreign material.

(5) "Well formed" means that the apple has the normal shape characteristic of the variety, except that the shape may be slightly irregular, provided it does not detract from the general appearance of the apple.

(6) "Injury" means any injury or defect which more than slightly affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality of the apples.

(i) Russeting in the stem basin or calyx cavity which cannot be seen when the apple is placed stem end or calyx end down on a flat surface, shall not be considered in determining whether or not an apple is injured by russeting, except that rough or barklike russeting in the stem basin or calyx cavity shall be considered as injury when the appearance of the apple is materially affected. The following types and amounts of russeting outside of the stem basin or calyx cavity, shall be considered as injury:

(a) Smooth net-like russeting, when an aggregate area of more than 15 percent of the surface is covered, and the color of the russeting shows no very pronounced contrast with the background color of the apple, or lesser amounts of more conspicuous net-like russeting when the appearance is affected to a greater extent than the above amount permitted.

(b) Smooth, solid russeting, when an aggregate area of more than 5 percent of the surface is covered, and the pattern and color of the russeting shows no very pronounced contrast with the background color of the apple, or lesser amounts of more conspicuous solid russeting when the appearance is affected to a greater extent than the above amount permitted.

(c) Slightly rough russeting which covers an aggregate area of more than one-fourth inch in diameter.[1]

(d) Rough russeting shall be considered as injury, unless it is well within the stem basin or calyx cavity and is not readily apparent.

(ii) Any one of the following defects, or any combination thereof, the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one defect shall be considered as injury:

(a) Sunburn or sprayburn which has caused blistering or cracking of the skin, or when the normal color of more than 5 percent of the surface of the apple is materially changed unless the injury can be classed as russeting.

(b) Light colored limb rubs or other similar marks which affect a total area of more than one-fourth inch in diameter, or dark brown or black limb rubs which affect a total area of more than one-eighth inch in diameter.[1]

(c) Hail marks, drought spots or other similar depressions or scars where there is appreciable discoloration other than russeting, or when the indentations are not superficial, or when an individual indentation exceeds one-eighth inch in diameter, or the total affected area exceeds one-fourth inch in diameter.[1]

(d) Disease: (1) Scab spots which affect a total area of more than one-eighth inch in diameter.[1]

(2) Cedar rust infection which affects a total area of more than one-eighth inch in diameter.[1]

(3) Sooty blotch or fly speck in thinly scattered over more than one-tenth of the surface, or dark, heavily concentrated spots which affect an area of more than one-fourth inch in diameter.[1]

(e) Insects: Any sting or stings which affect a total area of more than one-eighth inch in diameter including any encircling discolored rings; or worm holes.[1]

(7) "Fairly well formed" means that the apple may be slightly abnormal in shape but not to an extent which detracts materially from its appearance.

(8) "Damage" means any injury or defect which materially affects the appearance, or the edible or shipping quality of the apples.

(i) Russeting in the stem basin or calyx cavity which cannot be seen when the apple is placed stem end or calyx end down on a flat surface, shall not be considered in determining whether or not an apple is damaged by russeting, except that excessively rough or barklike russeting in the stem basin or calyx cavity shall be considered as damage when the appearance of the apple is materially affected. The following types and amounts of russeting outside of the stem basin or calyx cavity, shall be considered as damage:

(a) Russeting which is excessively rough on Roxbury Russet and other similar varieties.

(b) Smooth net-like russeting, when an aggregate area of more than 25 percent of the surface is covered, and the color of the russeting shows no very pronounced contrast with the background color of the apple, or lesser amounts of more conspicuous net-like russeting when the appearance is affected to a greater extent than the above amount permitted.

(c) Smooth solid russeting, when an aggregate area of more than 10 percent of the surface is covered, and the pattern and color of the russeting shows no very pronounced contrast with the background color of the apple, or lesser amounts of more conspicuous solid russeting when the appearance is affected to a greater extent than the above amount permitted.

(d) Slightly rough russeting which covers an aggregate area of more than one-half inch in diameter.[1]

(e) Rough russeting which exceeds one-fourth inch in diameter, unless it is well within the stem basin or calyx cavity and is not readily apparent.[1]

(ii) Any one of the following defects, or any combination thereof, the seriousness of which exceeds the maximum allowed for any one defect, shall be considered as damage:

(a) Sunburn or spray burn which has caused blistering or cracking of the skin, or when the discolored area does not blend into the normal color of the fruit unless the injury can be classed as russeting.

(b) Dark brown or black limb rubs which affect a total area of more than one-half inch in diameter, or light brown limb rubs which affect a total area of more than 1 inch in diameter.[1]

(c) Hail marks, drought spots, or other similar depressions or scars which are not superficial, or when such injury affects a total area of more than one-half inch in diameter.[1]

(d) Disease: (1) Scab spots which affect a total area of more than one-fourth inch in diameter.[1]

(2) Cedar rust infection which affects a total area of more than one-fourth inch in diameter.[1]

(3) Sooty blotch or fly speck which is thinly scattered over more than one-tenth of the surface, or dark, heavily concentrated spots which affect an area of more than one-half inch in diameter.[1]

e. Nothing in this paragraph shall be construed as validating any acquisition or lease of properties or rights which was made before the date of this circular and which was contrary to then existing laws or regulations of the Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers or otherwise invalid at the time made.

X. Currencies and exchange controls—27. General. Pursuant to the Foreign Exchange and Foreign Trade Control Law of 1949 all persons in Japan are classified as exchange residents or exchange non-residents. Persons domiciled or engaged in business activities or gainfully employed within Japan are regarded by the Japanese Government as exchange residents. Branch offices of foreign firms within Japan are exchange residents whether or not they have a separate legal status. Persons sojourning in Japan, but domiciled outside of Japan, whose sources of income are located exclusively outside of Japan are exchange non-residents. In unusual instances and upon application to the Ministry of Finance, persons who receive yen income in Japan may be permitted to retain a status as an exchange non-resident. Applications may be made to the Ministry of Finance for clarification of residential status.

28. Foreign currencies. Transactions in foreign currencies in Japan are prohibited under the laws of Japan except for their sale to foreign exchange banks or authorized money changers. Except as otherwise authorized, exchange residents are required to sell all foreign currencies or foreign exchange receipts to the Japanese Government for yen and may purchase foreign exchange for yen at foreign exchange banks for approved purposes. Exchange non-residents entering Japan are required to register all holdings of foreign currencies and foreign currency instruments with the Customs Service at the time of entry or with Foreign Exchange Banks or appropriate office of the Ministry of Finance if subsequently received. Exchange non-residents who have entered Japan prior to enforcement of regulations requiring registration are required to effect such registration prior to August 1, 1950, or to dispose of such holdings in accordance with the provisions of the Foreign Exchange and Foreign Trade Control Law. Registration may be effected at any customs unit, foreign exchange bank, or appropriate office of the Ministry of Finance. Conversion of registered foreign currencies and exchange instruments into yen will be recorded in accordance with Japanese law. Except as authorized by Japanese law, exchange non-residents leaving Japan will be permitted to carry out of Japan only foreign currencies and foreign currency instruments which were registered and not subsequently converted into Japanese currency.

29. Yen currency. a. The importation or exportation of yen currency is subject to specific license of the Ministry of Finance. Yen currency carried by persons entering or leaving Japan without license to import or export will be taken up by the customs service against receipt and held in safekeeping in the Bank of Japan until such license is obtained or will be disposed of in accordance with Japanese law.

b. Yen currency may be purchased in Japan at the official bank buying rate from foreign exchange banks, money changers or other authorized agencies with acceptable foreign currencies or financial instruments expressed in acceptable currencies.

30. Banking facilities. Foreign currency bank accounts other than those held for Occupation agencies and personnel and other authorized agencies are not permitted. Non-Japanese nationals may maintain yen bank accounts. In addition, exchange non-residents and such exchange residents as can demonstrate a need therefor will be licensed by the Japanese Government to hold special convertible accounts in foreign exchange banks into which foreign currencies, exchange instruments and transfers from other convertible accounts may be deposited and which may be converted to the currencies of deposit at will. Such accounts will be held under conditions and limitations established by the Japanese Government.

31. Military currencies. a. Military payment certificates, a military currency instrument expressed in United States dollars, are issued as a means of payment for and restricted in use of Occupation Force personnel and agencies. Acceptance, use or possession thereof by persons, firms, or agencies not a part of or accredited to the Occupation Forces is prohibited except when specifically authorized by the Commander-in-Chief, Far East.

b. British Armed Forces Special Vouchers, a currency instrument expressed in United Kingdom pounds, are issued as a means of payment for and restricted in use to persons and agencies specifically authorized by the General Officer Commanding British Commonwealth Occupation Force. Acceptance, use, or possession thereof by persons, firms, or agencies not so authorized is prohibited.

XI. Miscellaneous—32. Firearms and other weapons. a. Subject to the provisions of current customs regulations governing the importation of firearms into Japan, possession and retention in Japan by non-Occupation personnel of sporting rifles, shotguns, and ammunition therefor is permitted; provided, such rifles and shotguns:

(2) Are used only for hunting, trapshooting or skeetshooting, and

(3) Are retained in the residence of the registered owner at all other times.

b. The possession and retention in Japan by non-Occupation personnel of firearms and ammunition except as noted in paragraph 32 (a) is prohibited unless specifically authorized by the Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers.

c. Those non-Occupation personnel who on the effective date of this circular have in their possession firearms and ammunition other than those excepted in paragraph 32 (a) and who do not have specific written authority from the Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers to possess and retain same will, within 30 days after the effective date of this circular, surrender such firearms and ammunition against a written receipt to the nearest Provost Marshal or, in outlying areas, to the nearest military unit commander. Firearms and ammunition so surrendered will be returned to the receipt holder upon his departure from Japan. Subsequent to the effective date of this circular, non-Occupation personnel are prohibited from acquiring in Japan firearms and ammunition other than those excepted in paragraph 32 (a), unless specifically authorized in each case by the Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers.

d. Non-Occupation personnel shall not at any time carry concealed on or about their person any deadly or dangerous weapon.

e. All non-Occupation personnel are required to comply with hunting regulations issued by the Commanding General, Eighth Army, or by his subordinate commanders in their respective areas, and all non-Japanese nationals will comply with the hunting regulations prescribed by or under the provisions of Japanese law.

f. Non-Japanese nationals, other than non-Occupation personnel, will comply with all Japanese laws governing the possession, use, and registration of firearms and other weapons.

33. Off limits areas. The following areas and installations are "off limits" to all non-Japanese nationals unless employed therein or pursuant to military authority.

a. Jails, prisons, stockades, and temporary inclosures for confinement of prisoners.

b. Telephone exchanges, railroad yards, water, gas and electric utility installations, dump areas containing confiscated war materials and supplies, fish hatcheries, fisheries, experimental stations, game preserves, and like installations.

c. Any building, house, business establishment or area which has been placed "off limit" by the local Occupation Force commander in the area by an appropriate public notice specifying its application to both occupation and non-occupation personnel.

34. Illegal sales. Except as specifically authorized by the Supreme Commander for the Allied Powers or the Japanese Government non-Japanese nationals and foreign-controlled firms are prohibited from selling to any person in Japan goods or merchandise either purchased in Japan with foreign exchange or by transfer of funds between convertible accounts established as set forth in paragraph 30, or imported with foreign exchange obtained or furnished by the importer without Japanese Government exchange allocation, unless payment for such goods or merchandise is made and received either in foreign exchange or by transfer of fund between convertible accounts; and are further prohibited from disposing of such goods or merchandise by sale or barter for any consideration, or by gift, with knowledge or reasonable cause to believe that the same will subsequently be sold for any other monetary consideration than a transfer of foreign exchange or a transfer of funds between convertible accounts: Provided, however, Such persons may make casual sales, not in course of business for any consideration, of used items, excluding motor vehicles, notwithstanding purchase or import as above described, provided such items are durable or semi-durable in quality and have been owned in Japan by the vendor not less than six months prior to such casual sale. The provisions of this paragraph shall not be construed as imposing restrictions upon the sales or purchases of goods or merchandise purchased or imported with a Japanese Government foreign exchange allocation.

XII. Penalties. 35. a. Violators of the terms and provisions of this circular or other laws or regulations shall be tried and punished as directed by competent authority.

b. Violations of the terms and provisions of this circular or of any license or authority issued thereunder or of other laws or regulations shall constitute grounds for deportation or revocation of license or authority or both.

The sheets of the four supplementary rate schedules (which Panhandle proposes to cancel) constitute Panhandle's interruptible Rate Schedule Rd-2 and supplement agreements on file with the [1] Michigan Consolidated Gas Company and the City of Detroit have protested such cancellations and have requested that the Commission suspend the cancellations.

Commission as rate schedules covering the sale and delivery of natural gas to Michigan Consolidated Gas Company (two rate schedules), the East Ohio Gas Company and Texas Gas Transmission Corporation. The notices of cancellation have been tentatively designated in the files of the Commission as follows:

The Rd–2 schedule is available to any utility in the States of Indiana, Ohio and Michigan, which purchases gas from Panhandle under its Gd–1, or firm service, schedule.

[Docket No. G–1441]

INDIANA GAS & WATER CO., INC.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

JULY 26, 1950.

Take notice that on July 12, 1950, Indiana Gas & Water Company, Inc. (Applicant), an Indiana corporation with its principal place of business at Indianapolis, Indiana, filed an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, authorizing the acquisition and operation by the Applicant of the following described natural gas facilities comprising the gas systems of Eastern Indiana Gas Company (Eastern Indiana), Summit Gas and Water Company, Inc. (Summit) and Knightstown Natural Gas Company, Inc. (Knightstown), as an alternative to a request for an order disclaiming jurisdiction over the proposed acquisition and operation by the Applicant of the facilities comprising the systems of the named companies:

(1) Plant, property and equipment comprising the gas utility system of Eastern Indiana used in serving the communities of Rushville, Sexton, Circleville, Mays, Spiceland, Lewisville, Dunreith, Raleigh, Straughn, Dublin, Mt. Auburn, Pershing, Milton, Cambridge City, McCordsville, Ingalls and Fortville, and adjacent rural areas in Rush, Henry, Madison, Hamilton, Wayne and Hancock Counties in the State of Indiana.

(2) Plant, property and equipment comprising the gas utility system of Summit used in serving the communities of Oakville, Springport and Mt. Summit and adjacent rural areas in Henry and Delaware Counties in the State of Indiana.

(3) Plant, property and equipment comprising the gas utility system of Knightstown used in serving the community of Knightstown and adjacent rural areas in Hancock, Henry and Rush Counties in the State of Indiana.

Applicant states that the operation of its pipeline from Muncie to New Castle, Indiana, does not constitute interstate transportation or sale of natural gas within the meaning of the Natural Gas Act, and that the operations of Eastern Indiana, Summit, and Knightstown do not constitute the interstate transportation or sale of natural gas within the meaning of the Natural Gas Act. Applicant further states that its operations after the proposed acquisition will be essentially the same as those now conducted except that the service rendered through the Muncie-New Castle line will be expanded so as to permit additional volumes of gas purchased from Panhandle to be delivered through the facilities acquired in order to provide adequate service to the three companies hereinbefore named.

The application recites that Applicant will connect its facilities with those of Eastern Indiana, Summit, and Knightstown upon the consummation of the proposed acquisition and that the acquisition will make available to the areas served by those companies an adequate supply of natural gas.

The cost of the facilities to be acquired by Applicant are stated to be: $245,000 for Eastern Indiana, $5,000 for Summit and $50,000 for Knightstown, which will be paid for in cash from funds on hand.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) on or before the 14th day of August, 1950. The application is on file with the Commission for public inspection.

JULY 26, 1950.

Take notice that on July 19, 1950, MidSouth Gas Company (Applicant) an Arkansas Corporation with its principal place of business in Little Rock, Arkansas, filed an application for a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, authorizing the construction and operation of the following described facilities:

A proposed transmission and distribution system consisting of some 240 miles of line, corresponding to approximately 668 miles of three inch equivalent, to be used for the transportation, distribution and sale of natural gas to numerous communities in the counties of Greene, Poinsett, Crittenden, St. Francis, Lee, Phillips, Monroe, Woodruff, and Cross, Arkansas. Such system is to be supplied by connections in its northern and southern portions with the lines of Mississippi River Fuel Corporation at Biggers, Arkansas, and Texas Gas Transmission Corporation at Helena, Arkansas, respectively.

Applicant proposes to start construction as soon as practicable after the issuance of the Commission's order herein, and desires to begin natural gas service to the communities involved starting on or about November 1, 1950, with the City of Helena.

Applicant states that it does not have, nor does it presently contemplate having, with respect to these proposed facilities, any major main line industrial customers, or sales to, or interchanges with, other natural-gas companies, and that its retail sales are subject to regulation by the communities involved and/or by the Arkansas Public Service Commission. It says that its only other contemplated service is the transportation of natural gas for Arkansas Power and Light Company for use as boiler fuel in its new steam generating plant near Palestine, Arkansas.

The overall capital cost of the facilities proposed here together with the proposed acquisition of the existing gas facilities of Arkansas Power and Light Company (the subject of a separate application in Docket No. G–1444, filed July 19, 1950) and Arkansas Utility Company (a propane air system in Helena, Phillips County, Arkansas, serving annually some 39,000 M. c. f. through approximately 677 meters) is estimated at $10,665,500. The Applicant proposes financing the cost of this construction and acquisition through the sale of bonds and common stock, such sales to coincide generally with a plan of construction contemplated to occupy the years 1950–53, inclusive.

The application is on file with the Commission for public inspection. Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) before the 14th day of August, 1950.

Acting Secretary.

FEDERAL REGISTER

VOLUME 15 NUMBER 149

Washington, Thursday, August 3, 1950

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter VII—Production and Marketing Administration (Agricultural Adjustment), Department of Agriculture

PART 728—WHEAT

STATE ACREAGE ALLOTMENTS FOR THE 1951 CROP OF WHEAT

Sec.
728.105 Basis and purpose.
728.106 1951 State acreage allotments for wheat.

AUTHORITY: §§ 728.105 and 728.106 issued under sec. 375, 52 Stat. 66; 7 U. S. C. 1375. Interpret or apply sec. 334, 52 Stat. 53, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 1334.

§ 728.105 Basis and purpose. The purpose of this proclamation is to apportion among the several States the national acreage allotment for the 1951 crop of wheat proclaimed on July 14, 1950, and published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (15 F. R. 4543) in accordance with the provisions of section 334 (a) of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended. Section 334 (a) of the act provides that the 1951 national acreage allotment for wheat shall be apportioned among the several States on the basis of the acreage seeded for the production of wheat during the ten calendar years 1940 to 1949 (plus, in applicable years, the acreage diverted from wheat under agricultural adjustment and conservation programs), with adjustments for abnormal weather conditions and for trends in acreage during such period. Public Law 12, 79th Congress, 59 Stat. 9, provides that in establishing acreage allotments under the act for farms for which 1942 wheat acreage allotments were determined, provision may be made so as to consider as wheat the acreages of war crops, designated by the Secretary of Agriculture, which were produced in lieu of wheat during the years 1945, 1946, and 1947.

In accordance with section 301 (c) of the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, the findings and determination made by the Secretary in § 728.106 have been made on the basis of the latest available statistics of the Federal Government.

Prior to the apportionment of the national acreage allotment for the 1951 crop of wheat among the several States, public notice of the proposed action was given (15 F. R. 2686) in accordance with the Administrative Procedure Act. The views and recommendations received from wheat growers and other interested persons have been duly considered within the limits permitted by the Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended.

(1) The said order, as amended and as hereby further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply and demand for milk in the said marketing area and the minimum prices specified in the order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(3) The said order, as amended, and as hereby further amended, regulates the handling of milk in the same manner as and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

(b) Additional findings. It is necessary, in the public interest, to make this order amending the order, as amended, effective on and after the 1st day of August 1950, in order to reflect current marketing conditions. Any further delay beyond this time, in the effective date of this order amending the order, as amended, will seriously threaten the supply of milk and impair the orderly marketing of milk in the Columbus, Ohio, marketing area. The provisions of the said order are well known to handlers, the public hearing having been held January 19–20, 1950, and the decision having been executed by the Secretary on July 27, 1950. Therefore, reasonable time, under the circumstances, has been afforded persons affected to prepare for its effective date. In view of the foregoing, it is hereby found and determined that good cause exists for making this order amending the order, as amended, effective on and after the 1st day of August 1950, and that it would be impracticable, unnecessary, and contrary to the public interest to delay the effective date of this amendment for 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (sec. 4 (c) Administrative Procedure Act, Public Law 404, 79th Congress, 60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.)

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that handlers (excluding cooperative associations of producers who are not engaged in processing distributing, or shipping the milk covered by this order, as amended) of more than 50 percent of the volume of milk covered by the aforesaid order, as amended and as hereby further amended, which is marketed within the Columbus, Ohio, marketing area, refused or failed to sign the marketing agreement regulating the handling of milk in the said marketing area; and it is hereby further determined that:

(1) The refusal or failure of such handlers to sign said marketing agreement tends to prevent the effectuation of the declared policy of the act;

(2) The issuance of this order, further amending the said order, as amended, is the only practical means, pursuant to the declared policy of the act, of advancing the interests of producers of milk which is produced for sale in the said marketing area; and

(3) The issuance of this order, further amending the said order, as amended, is approved or favored by at least two-thirds of the producers who participated in a referendum on the question of its approval and who, during May 1950 (said month having been determined to be a representative period), were engaged in the production of milk for sale in the said marketing area.

ORDER RELATIVE TO HANDLING

It is therefore ordered, That on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of milk in the Columbus, Ohio, marketing area shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order, as amended, and as hereby further amended; and the aforesaid order, as amended, is hereby further amended as follows:

In either case the market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler promptly upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

CLASSIFICATION

§ 974.40 Skim milk and butterfat to be classified. Skim milk and butterfat contained in (a) all milk, skim milk, cream, and milk products (except in the case of milk products disposed of in the form in which received) received during the month by a handler at a fluid milk plant, and (b) all producer milk received during the month in the manner described in § 974.6 (b), shall be classified by the market administrator in the classes set forth in § 974.41.

§ 974.41 Classes of utilization. Subject to the conditions set forth in §§ 974.42, 974.43 and 974.44, the classes of utilization shall be:

(a) Class I milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat (1) disposed of (except that which has been dumped or disposed of for livestock feeding) as milk, skim milk, buttermilk, or flavored milk or flavored milk drinks; and (2) not specifically accounted for under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph or as Class II milk or Class III milk.

(b) Class II milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat (1) disposed of in fluid form for consumption as sweet or sour cream, frozen cream, or any mixture of cream or milk (or skim milk), including eggnog, containing more than 6 percent of butterfat; (2) used to produce aerated products containing milk, cream, or any combination thereof (such as "Reddi-Wip," "Instant Whip," etc.), condensed milk and condensed skim milk (except evaporated milk or skim milk in hermetically sealed cans), ice cream, ice cream mix, ice cream novelties, ice sherbets, or imitation ice cream; and (3) used to produce cottage cheese.

(c) Class III milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat specifically accounted for as (1) having been used to produce any milk product other than as specified in paragraphs (a) (1) and (b) of this section; (2) having been dumped or disposed of for livestock feeding; (3) actual plant shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk received but not to exceed 2 percent of such receipts of skim milk and butterfat, respectively; and (4) actual plant shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat in other source milk received: Provided, That if producer milk is utilized as milk, skim milk, or cream in conjunction with other source milk, the shrinkage allocated to each shall be computed pro rata according to the proportions of the volume of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received from each source to their total: And provided also, That producer milk transferred by a handler to any plant of another handler without first having been received for purposes of weighing and testing in the transferring handler's fluid milk plant shall be included in the receipts at the plant of the second handler for the purpose of computing his plant shrinkage and shall be excluded from the receipts at the fluid milk plant of the transferring handler in computing his plant shrinkage.

§ 974.42 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (a) In establishing the classification of skim milk and butterfat as required in §§ 974.41 and 974.43, the burden rests upon the first handler who receives such skim milk or butterfat to prove to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should not be classified as Class I milk.

(b) Any skim milk or butterfat classified in one class shall be reclassified if found by the market administrator to have been used or disposed of (whether in original or other form) by such handler or by any other person in another class in accordance with such use or disposition.

§ 974.43 Transfers. (a) Subject to the conditions set forth in § 974.42 and paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section, skim milk and butterfat when transferred by a handler from a fluid milk plant to any other milk distributing or milk manufacturing plant in the form of milk, skim milk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, or buttermilk, shall be classified as follows:

(1) According to the utilization as mutually indicated in writing by both handlers if transferred to another fluid milk plant, except one as referred to in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph;

(2) As Class I milk if transferred to the fluid milk plant of a handler who receives no milk from producers or associations of producers other than such handler's own farm production; or

(3) As Class I milk if transferred to any such plant not a fluid milk plant: Provided, That if the transferring handler on or before the 5th day after the end of the month during which such transfer is made furnishes to the market administrator a statement signed also by the receiver that such skim milk and butterfat was used as Class II milk or Class III milk, and that such utilization may be audited at the receiving plant, such skim milk and butterfat shall be classified accordingly.

(b) Subject to the conditions set forth in § 974.42 and in paragraphs (c) and (d) of this section, skim milk and butterfat when transferred by a handler from a fluid milk plant to any other milk distributing or milk manufacturing plant in the form of cream shall be classified as follows:

(1) According to the utilization as mutually indicated by both handlers if transferred to another fluid milk plant, except one as referred to in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph;

(2) As Class II milk if transferred to the fluid milk plant of a handler who receives no milk from producers or from an association of producers other than such handler's own farm production; or

(3) As Class II milk if transferred to any such plant not a fluid milk plant: Provided, That if the transferring handler on or before the 5th day after the end of the delivery period during which such transfer is made furnishes to the market administrator a statement signed also by the receiver that such skim milk and butterfat was used as Class I milk or Class III milk, and that such utilization may be audited at the receiving plant, such skim milk and butterfat shall be classified accordingly.

(c) The utilization of all transfers made pursuant to paragraphs (a) (1) and (2) and (b) (1) and (2) of this section shall be subject to verification by the market administrator.

(d) No statement made relative to transfers as provided for in this section shall operate to deter the prior subtraction of other source milk pursuant to § 974.45 (b) or the prior subtraction of skim milk or butterfat pursuant to § 974.45 (c), or the pro rata subtraction of skim milk or butterfat pursuant to § 974.45 (e). Any quantity reported for allocation to a particular class but not eligible therefor because of § 974.45 (b) (c) or (e), shall be classified by the market administrator as Class I milk, pending his verification.

§ 974.44 Classification of skim milk and butterfat for each handler. For each month the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for other obvious errors the monthly report submitted by each handler and compute separately the respective amounts of skim milk and butterfat in Class I milk, Class II milk and Class III milk, as follows:

(a) Determine the handler's total receipts by adding together the total pounds of milk, skim milk, and cream received, and the pounds of skim milk and butterfat used to produce all other milk products received (except milk products disposed of in the form in which received without further processing in his fluid milk plant) regardless of source;

(b) Determine the total pounds of butterfat contained in the total receipts computed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section;

(c) Determine the total pounds of skim milk contained in the total receipts computed pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section by subtracting therefrom the total pounds of butterfat computed pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section;

(d) Determine the total pounds of butterfat in Class I milk by: (1) Computing the aggregate amount of butterfat included in each of the several items of Class I milk; and (2) adding all other butterfat not specifically accounted for under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph or in Class II milk or Class III milk;

(e) Determine the total pounds of skim milk in Class I milk by: (1) Computing the aggregate amount of skim milk and butterfat included in each of the several items of Class I milk; (2) subtracting the result obtained in paragraph (d) (1) of this section; and (3) adding all other skim milk not specifically accounted for under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph or in Class II milk or Class III milk;

(f) Determine the total pounds of butterfat in Class II milk by computing the aggregate amount of butterfat included in each of the several items of Class II milk;

(g) Determine the total pounds of skim milk in Class II milk by: (1) Computing the aggregate amount of skim milk and butterfat included in (or, in the case of products other than cream or eggnog, used to produce) each of the several items of Class II milk; and (2) subtracting the result obtained in paragraph (f) of this section;

(h) Determine the total pounds of butterfat in Class III milk by: (1) Computing the aggregate amount of butterfat used to produce each of the several items of Class III milk; and (2) adding actual plant shrinkage of butterfat referred to in paragraph (c) (2) and (4) of § 974.41; and

(i) Determine the total pounds of skim milk in Class III milk by: (1) Computing the aggregate amount of skim milk and butterfat (in whatever form) used to produce each of the several items of Class III milk; (2) subtracting the result obtained in paragraph (h) (1) of this section; and (3) adding the actual plant shrinkage of skim milk referred to in paragraph (c) (3) and (4) of § 974.41.

§ 974.45 Classification of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk for each handler. For each month the market administrator shall compute separately the respective amounts of skim milk and butterfat of producer milk in Class I milk, Class II milk and Class III milk for each handler by making the following computations in the order specified:

(a) Subtracting from Class III milk (other than butterfat used in buttermaking) the actual plant shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, allowed pursuant to paragraph (c) (3) and (4) of § 974.41;

(b) Subtracting from the remaining pounds of skim milk and butterfat, in series beginning with the lowest-priced uses, the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received as other source milk, except that received under an emergency permit in writing issued by the appropriate health authorities in the marketing area;

(c) Subtracting from the remaining pounds of skim milk and butterfat, in series beginning with the lowest-priced uses, the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received from any other handler who received no milk from producers or from an association of producers other than such handler's own farm production;

(d) Adding to the remaining Class III milk the amount subtracted pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section;

(e) Subtracting pro rata from the remaining pounds of skim milk and butterfat in such class, the skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received as other source milk under an emergency permit in writing issued by the appropriate health authorities in the marketing area;

(f) Subtracting from the remaining pounds of skim milk and butterfat in each class (not including plant shrinkage on producer milk in Class III milk), the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, received from other handlers (except those referred to in paragraph (c) of this section) and stated by the transferring handler and receiver to have been used in such class, to the extent of the amounts of skim milk and butterfat remaining in such class after making the computation pursuant to paragraph (e) of this section: Provided, That skim milk or butterfat allocated by such statements to Class II milk or Class III milk, in excess of amounts subtracted above pursuant to this paragraph shall be subtracted from Class I milk; and

(g) If the total amount of skim milk or butterfat in all classes after the computation made above pursuant to this paragraph, is greater than the skim milk or butterfat in producer milk, decrease the lowest-priced available class, or classes, by such excess.

§ 974.50 Basic formula prices. The basic formula price per hundredweight of milk for the month shall be the higher of the prices as computed by the market administrator for such month pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

(a) Compute the arithmetical average of the basic (or field) prices per hundredweight reported to have been paid, or to be paid, for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the month at the following places for which prices are reported to the market administrator or to the Department of Agriculture by the companies listed below:

(b) Compute the price per hundredweight by adding together the amounts resulting under subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph:

(1) From the arithmetical average of the daily wholesale prices per pound (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter for the month, as reported by the Department of Agriculture for the Chicago market, subtract 3.5 cents, add 20 percent, and then multiply the resulting amount by 3.5, and

(2) From the arithmetical average of the weighted averages of the carlot prices per pound of spray and roller process nonfat dry milk solids in barrels for human consumption, f. o. b. Chicago area manufacturing plants, as published for the month by the Department of Agriculture, deduct 4 cents, multiply by 8.2.

§ 974.51 Class I milk prices. Subject to the provisions of § 974.54, the respective minimum prices per hundredweight to be paid by each handler for skim milk and butterfat in producer milk received at his fluid milk plant and classified as Class I milk shall be as follows, as computed by the market administrator:

(a) Add to the basic formula price the following amount for the month indicated: April, May, June and July, $0.75; and all others $1.00: Provided, That the price of Class I milk for any of the months of October through December, inclusive, shall not be lower than the arithmetical average of the prices computed for such class pursuant to this paragraph (prior to the provisos) for the two months immediately preceding; and the price of Class I milk for any of the months of April through June, inclusive, shall not be higher than the arithmetical average of the prices computed for such class pursuant to this paragraph (prior to this proviso) for the two months immediately preceding: Provided further, That for the months of August, September, October and November 1950, there shall be added to the price of Class I milk so computed 10 cents: And provided also, That for the months of December 1950 and January 1951, there shall be added to the price of Class I milk so computed 10 cents if the total receipts of milk from producers by all handlers during the period May 1 through August 31, 1950, inclusive, are less than 114% of the gross combined volume of Class I milk and Class II milk of all handlers during such period.

(b) Add together the amounts determined in paragraph (b) (1) and (2) of § 974.50 and divide the sum into the amount determined in subparagraph (1) of such paragraph.

(c) Multiply the price determined in paragraph (a) of this section by the percentage determined in paragraph (b) of this section and then divide by 0.035. The resulting amount shall be the Class I butterfat price per hundredweight.

(d) From the price determined in paragraph (a) of this section subtract the amount determined in paragraph (c) of this section times 0.035 and divide the remainder by 0.965. The resulting amount shall be the Class I skim milk price per hundredweight: Provided, That in no event shall the price of skim milk or butterfat in Class I milk be lower, respectively than the skim milk and butterfat price in Class II milk.

§ 974.52 Class II milk prices. Subject to the provisions of § 974.54, the respective minimum prices per hundredweight to be paid by each handler for skim milk and butterfat in producer milk received at his fluid milk plant and classified as Class II milk shall be as follows, as computed by the market administrator:

(a) Add to the basic formula price the following amount for the month indicated: April, May, June, and July, $0.35; and all others, $0.60: Provided, That for the months of August, September, October, and November, 1950, there shall be added to the price of Class II milk so computed 10 cents: And provided also, That for the months of December 1950 and January 1951, there shall be added to the price of Class II milk so computed 10 cents if the total receipts of milk from producers by all handlers during the period May 1 through August 31, 1950, inclusive, are less than 114 percent of the gross combined volume of Class I milk and Class II milk of all handlers during such period.

(b) Multiply the price computed in paragraph (a) of this section by the percentage computed in paragraph (b) of § 974.51 and then divide by 0.035. The resulting amount shall be the Class II butterfat price per hundredweight: Provided, That in no event shall the price of butterfat pursuant to this subparagraph be less than the price computed pursuant to paragraph (b) of § 974.53 prior to the proviso therein.

(c) Subtract from the price computed in paragraph (a) of this section the amount computed in paragraph (b) of this section times 0.035 and divide the remainder by 0.965. The resulting amount shall be the Class II skim milk price per hundredweight.

§ 974.53 Class III milk prices. The respective minimum prices per hundredweight to be paid by each handler for skim milk and butterfat in producer milk received at his fluid milk plant and classified as Class III milk shall be as follows, as computed by the market administrator:

(a) The price per hundredweight of such skim milk shall be computed as follows: From the arithmetical average of the weighted average of the carlot prices per pound of spray and roller process nonfat dry milk solids in barrels for human consumption, f. o. b. manufacturing plants in the Chicago area, as published for the month by the Department of Agriculture, subtract 5.5 cents, and multiply the result by 8.5.

(b) The price per hundredweight of butterfat shall be computed as follows: Multiply the arithmetical average of the daily wholesale prices per pound of 92-score butter in the Chicago market as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the month by 120: Provided, That the price per hundredweight of butterfat made into butter shall be such price per hundredweight less $5.00.

§ 974.54 Prices of Class I milk and Class II milk disposed of outside the marketing area. The price to be paid by a handler for Class I milk or Class II milk disposed of outside the marketing area shall be the same as the price applicable within the Columbus, Ohio, marketing area: Provided, That Class I milk or Class II milk disposed of in another fluid milk marketing area covered by a Federal milk marketing agreement or order, issued pursuant to the act, shall be the price applicable within the Columbus, Ohio, marketing area, pursuant to this section, or the price applicable for milk of similar use or disposition in the other marketing area, whichever is higher.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICE

§ 974.60 Computation of value of milk for each handler. Subject to the location adjustment provided in § 974.61, the value of producer milk received by each handler during each month shall be a sum of money computed by the market administrator by multiplying by the respective class prices for skim milk and butterfat, the skim milk and butterfat according to classification pursuant to § 974.45, and adding together the resulting amounts: Provided, That if such handler, after subtracting all receipts other than producer milk has disposed of skim milk or butterfat in excess of the skim milk or butterfat received in producer milk, there shall be added a further amount equal to the value of such skim milk or butterfat in the class from which subtracted pursuant to § 974.45 (g): Provided further, That if in the verification of the reports or payments of such handler for any previous month, the market administrator discovers errors which result in payments due the producer-settlement fund or the handler, there shall be added, or subtracted, as the case may be, the amount necessary to correct such errors: Provided further, That such handler shall be credited at the difference between the applicable class prices for skim milk and butterfat and the Class II prices for skim milk and butterfat, respectively, with respect to milk or skim milk disposed of in bulk fluid form during April, May, June, or July, to a manufacturer of soup, candy, or bakery products for use in such manufacturing operations: And provided also, That such handler shall be credited with the difference between the Class II and Class III prices for skim milk received in producer milk in excess of skim milk classified as Class I milk or Class II milk (other than that used to produce condensed skim milk) in any of the months of April, May, June and July which is disposed of in any such month in the form of condensed skim milk to a person whose supply of milk is not produced under permits or specified in § 974.7.

§ 974.61 Location adjustment to handlers. With respect to the actual weight of whole milk which is moved directly to the marketing area from a fluid milk plant located more than 40 miles from the Ohio State Capitol, Columbus, by shortest highway distance as determined by the market administrator, there shall be deducted 17 cents per hundredweight in the computation of the value of producer milk received by the handler operating such plant.

§ 974.62 Notification of handlers. On or before the 10th day after the end of each month, the market administrator shall notify each handler of (a) the amount and value of his milk in each class as computed pursuant to §§ 974.45 and 974.60, respectively, and the totals of such amounts and values, including any adjustments thereto; (b) the uniform price computed pursuant to § 974.63; (c) the amount due each handler from the producer-settlement fund or the amount to be paid by such handler to the producer-settlement fund, as the case may be; and (d) the total amounts to be paid by such handler pursuant to §§ 974.70, 974.73, 974.77 and 974.78.

§ 974.63 Computation of uniform price. For each month, the market administrator shall compute a uniform price per hundredweight for producer milk by:

(a) Combining into one total the values computed pursuant to § 974.60 for all handlers except those who did not make the payments required pursuant to § 974.73 for the previous delivery period;

(b) Adding an amount representing not less than one-half the unobligated balance in the producer-settlement fund;

(c) Adding the aggregate of the values of all allowable location adjustments computed pursuant to § 974.71;

(d) Subtracting, if the weighted average butterfat test of all pooled milk is greater than 3.5 percent, or adding, if the weighted average butterfat test of such milk is less than 3.5 percent, an amount computed by multiplying the total pounds of butterfat represented by the difference of such weighted average butterfat test from 3.5 percent by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 974.76 times 10.

(e) Dividing by the hundredweight of producer milk pooled; and

(f) Subtracting not less than 4 cents nor more than 5 cents. The result shall be known as the "uniform price" per hundredweight for producer milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content.

PAYMENTS

§ 974.70 Time and method of payment. On or before the 15th day after the end of each month, each handler shall make payment to each producer for milk received during the month at not less than the uniform price per hundredweight, subject to the location adjustment pursuant to § 974.71 and the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 974.76: Provided, That payment may be made to a cooperative association qualified under § 974.79 with respect to milk received from any producer who has given such association authorization by contract or other written instrument to collect the proceeds from the sale of his milk and any payment made pursuant to this proviso shall be made on or before the 10th day after the end of each month: And provided further, That if by such date such handler has not received full payment for such month pursuant to § 974.74, he shall not be deemed to be in violation of this section if he reduces uniformly for all producers his payments per hundredweight by a total amount not in excess of the reduction in payment from the market administrator; however, the handler shall make such balance of payment uniformly to those producers to whom it is due on or before the date for making payments pursuant to this paragraph next following that on which such balance of payment is received from the market administrator.

§ 974.71 Location adjustment to producers. In making payments pursuant to § 974.70 a handler may deduct, with respect to producer milk received at a fluid milk plant located more than 40 miles from the Ohio State Capitol, Columbus, by shortest highway distance as determined by the market administrator not more than 17 cents per hundredweight.

§ 974.72 Producer-settlement fund. The market administrator shall establish and maintain a separate fund known as the "producer-settlement fund" into which he shall deposit all payments made by handlers pursuant to § 974.73 and out of which he shall make all payments to handlers pursuant to § 974.74: Provided, That the market administrator shall offset any such payment due any handler against payments due from such handler.

§ 974.73 Payments to the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 12th day after the end of each month each handler shall pay to the market administrator the amount by which the total value computed for him pursuant to § 974.60 for such month is greater than the sum required to be paid by such handler pursuant to § 974.70.

§ 974.74 Payments out of the producer-settlement fund. On or before the 14th day after the end of each month, the market administrator shall pay to each handler the amount by which the sum required to be paid producers by such handler pursuant to § 974.70 is greater than the total value computed for him pursuant to § 974.60 for such month: Provided, That if the balance in the producer-settlement fund is insufficient to make all payments pursuant to this paragraph, the market administrator shall reduce uniformly such payments and shall complete such payments as soon as the necessary funds are available.

§ 974.75 Adjustment of errors. Whenever audit by the market administrator of the payment required to be made by a handler to a producer pursuant to § 974.70 discloses payment of less than is required, the handler shall make up such payment not later than the time for making payments pursuant to § 974.70 next following such disclosure.

§ 974.76 Butterfat differential. For each month the market administrator shall compute (to the nearest one-tenth cent) a butterfat differential by subtracting from the weighted average price per hundredweight of all butterfat from producer milk in Class II milk and Class III milk the weighted average price per hundredweight of all skim milk from producer milk in Class II milk and Class III milk and dividing the remainder by 1,000.

§ 974.77 Expense of administration. As his pro rata share of the expense incurred pursuant to § 974.22 (c) each handler shall pay the market administrator on or before the 12th day after the end of each delivery period 2 cents per hundredweight, or such lesser amount as the Secretary from time to time may prescribe, with respect to all receipts of skim milk and butterfat (except receipts from other handlers) in (a) producer milk and (b) other source milk at a fluid milk plant.

§ 974.78 Marketing services. Except as set forth in § 974.79, each handler for each delivery period shall deduct 5 cents per hundredweight or such amount not to exceed 5 cents as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe, from the payments made to each producer pursuant to § 974.70, and shall pay such deductions to the market administrator on or before the 12th day after the end of such delivery period. Such moneys shall be used by the market administrator to check weights, samples, and tests of producer milk received by handlers and to provide producers with market information, such services to be performed by the market administrator or by an agent engaged by and responsible to him.

§ 974.79 Cooperative associations. In the case of producers for whom a cooperative association which, as determined by the Secretary, has its entire activities under the control of its members and meets the standards set forth in the act of Congress of February 18, 1922, as amended, known as the "Capper-Volstead Act," is actually performing, as determined by the Secretary, the services set forth in § 974.73, each handler shall make, in lieu of the deductions specified in § 974.78, such deductions from the payments to be made to such producers as may be authorized by the membership agreement or marketing contract between such cooperative association and such producers and, on or before the 12th day after the end of each delivery period, pay over such deductions to the cooperative association rendering such services.

This part shall terminate, in any event, whenever the provisions of the act authorizing it cease to be in effect.

§ 974.82 Continuing power and duty of the market administrator. If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this part, there are any obligations arising under this part, the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any handler, by the market administrator, or by any other person, the power and duty to perform such further acts shall continue notwithstanding such suspension or termination: Provided, That any such acts required to be performed by the market administrator shall, if the Secretary so directs, be performed by such other person, persons, or agency as the Secretary may designate.

(a) The market administrator, or such other person as the Secretary may designate, shall (1) continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary, (2) from time to time account for all receipts and disbursements, and, when so directed by the Secretary, deliver all funds or property on hand, together with the books and records of the market administrator, or such person to such person as the Secretary may direct, and (3) if so directed by the Secretary, execute such assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person full title to all funds, property, and claims vested in the market administrator or such person pursuant to this part.

(b) Upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this part the market administrator, or such person as the Secretary may designate shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office and dispose of all funds and property then in his possession or under his control, together with claims for any funds which are unpaid or owing at the time of such suspension or termination. Any funds collected pursuant to the provisions of this part, over and above the amounts necessary to meet outstanding obligations and the expenses necessarily incurred by the market administrator or such person in liquidating and distributing such funds, shall be distributed to the contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

(a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this part shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator receives the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

Such notice and hearing are not required by any other statute.

This amendment shall become effective immediately.

Notice and public procedure are not necessary prerequisites to the promulgation of this order, and I so find, since it was drawn in collaboration with interested members of the affected industries and since it would be against public interest to delay extending the effective date of certification of procaine penicillin tablets from 12 to 18 months, procaine penicillin from 18 to 24 months, procaine penicillin in oil from 18 to 24 months, procaine penicillin for inhalation therapy from 12 to 18 months, and buffered procaine penicillin powder from 12 to 18 months and to provide for deletion of the requirement that a circular containing directions for use by the medical profession be packaged with penicillin tablets and buffered penicillin powder, unless such drugs are labeled solely for veterinary use.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION

[47 CFR, Part 3]

[Docket No. 9649]

BROADCASTS BY CANDIDATES FOR PUBLIC OFFICE

PUBLIC NOTICE REGARDING PROPOSED RULE MAKING

In its Notice of Proposed Rule Making (FCC 50–591, Docket No. 9649) the Commission proposed to add a new section, to be designated § 3.590, to Subpart C of Part 3 of its rules and regulations, which governs noncommercial educational FM broadcast stations. The proposed new section, pertaining to broadcasts by candidates for public office, will be substantially in the same language as the present §§ 3.190, 3.290 and 3.690, which concern, respectively, standard broadcast stations, FM broadcast stations, and television broadcast stations. The proposed rules were set forth in the Appendix attached thereto.

The notice also provided that "Any interested person who is of the opinion that the proposed section should not be adopted, or should not be adopted in the form set forth, may file with the Commission on or before June 19, 1950, a written statement or brief setting forth his comments. Persons desiring to support the amendment may also file comments by the same date."

Pursuant to the notice Westinghouse Radio Stations, Inc., filed comments and a petition for rule making in Docket No. 9649.

In its comments Westinghouse points out that the proposal to add a new § 3.590, Broadcasts by Candidates for Public Office, contains sub-paragraph (a), Definitions, and states: "A 'legally qualified candidate' means any person who has publicly announced that he is a candidate for nomination • • •". Westinghouse believes that this definition should be enlarged so that the rules also apply,

• • • to any individuals specifically authorized by the candidate to speak for him or authorized by the appropriate campaign or finance committee acting under general authorization from the candidate.

Westinghouse states that the foregoing enlargement of the proposed rule "would be in conformity with the law and would remove some of the existing uncertainty • • •." Specifically, Westinghouse states that section 315 of the Communications Act, on which the proposed rule is based, should not be given a narrow interpretation, limiting its application to the candidate personally. Westinghouse points out that section 315 of the act provides that if "any licensee shall permit any • • • candidate • • • to use a broadcasting station • • • such licensee shall have no power of censorship over the material broadcast • • •" (italics supplied), and contends that it "is the candidacy to be promoted, the elected office sought to be won, which is the test, and not the identity of the speaker." It points, further, to the fact that the interpretation of section 315 which it advocates was adopted by the Federal District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, in the recent case of Felix v. Westinghouse Radio Stations, Inc., 89 F. Supp. 740 (1950).

Therefore, Westinghouse has petitioned the Commission:

(a) To stay further proceedings at this docket number 9649.

(b) To issue proposed Rule Making Proceedings to enlarge §§ 3.190, 3.290 and 3.690 in accordance with the foregoing comments, and consolidate therein this proposal for a new section to be designated 3.590.

(c) To take such further action as may be necessary to clarify the rules applicable to broadcasts by candidates for public office.

The Commission realizes that the Westinghouse petition raises issues which could not have been contemplated by a reading of the Commission's Notice of Proposed Rule Making in the above-entitled proceeding. However, a similar suggestion for the institution of rule-making has been received from the law firm of Wolf, Block, Schorr and Solis-Cohen of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, and it is believed that the matter may warrant serious consideration by the Commission either in connection with the present proceeding or in a separate rule-making proceeding. The Commission believes, however, that an opportunity should be made available to other interested persons to comment on the issues raised in the instant petition before the Commission takes any action upon it. The Commission, therefore, intends to withhold action at this time with respect to the proposed rules to allow all persons wishing to do so to file written statements setting forth their views on the matters raised in the Westinghouse petition. Such comments, briefs or arguments should be filed with the Commission on or before the 21st day of August 1950.

Fifteen copies of each brief or written statement should be filed in accordance with § 1.764 of the Commission's rules and regulations.

Adopted: July 21, 1950.

Released: July 21, 1950.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] T. J. SLOWIE,
Secretary.

NOTICES

DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

Office of Industry and Commerce

[Case No. 90]

THEODORE E. KEDROS

ORDER SUSPENDING LICENSE PRIVILEGES

This proceeding was begun on June 13, 1950, by the mailing of a charging letter to the above-named respondent, wherein the Office of Industry and Commerce charged respondent, together with certain others against whom enforcement proceedings are still pending, with having violated the Export Control Act of 1949 (63 Stat. 7) and the regulations issued thereunder. It was alleged that, acting as agent for such other respondents who reside and are engaged in business in Trieste, respondent during 1948 and 1949 placed with certain suppliers in this country various orders for shipment of truck tires and tubes to Trieste; caused such suppliers to make twelve specified applications for, and in nine cases to obtain, export licenses for such shipments on the basis of representations that the ultimate destination was Trieste; and further caused shipments to be made under such licenses and pursuant to bills of lading describing the shipments as being made to Trieste "in transit". It was alleged, finally, that respondent, in procuring said action to be taken, knew or should have known that the true and intended destination was not Trieste but that such tires and tubes would be (as they were in fact) transshipped from Trieste to Yugoslavia.

It appears that respondent, after receiving the above-mentioned charging letter, submitted to the Enforcement Section, with the advice of counsel and through such counsel, a statement denying that, prior to shipment, he had actual knowledge that such tires and tubes were to be transshipped from Trieste and that he acted as agent for the Trieste respondents but admitting for purposes of this proceeding that the other charges against him were true, waiving his right to an oral hearing, and consenting that an order be issued revoking his outstanding export licenses and denying to him and associated persons and enterprises for the duration of export control the privilege of making shipment to any destination of any article on the Positive List.

It further appears that the investigation reports, written statements of witnesses, and other evidentiary material in the possession of the Enforcement Section, together with the above-mentioned proposal for a consent order, have been submitted to and reviewed by the Compliance Commissioner; that he has found that such evidence, while not establishing actual knowledge of intended transshipment to Yugoslavia on the part of respondent, does support the charge that he knew or should have known that some transshipment beyond Trieste was contemplated and, consequently, that he caused and participated in the making of false representations to the Government to the effect that Trieste was the ultimate destination of the tires and tubes; that the Compliance Commissioner has further found that the terms and conditions of the proposed order as consented to by respondent are fair and reasonable if coupled with a provision allowing him, at any time after the expiration of six months, to apply for modification or termination of such order; and that the Compliance Commissioner has recommended that such proposal, as so qualified, be approved and such order issued.

The findings and recommendations of the Compliance Commissioner have been carefully considered, together with the evidentiary material placed before him, and it appears that such findings are in accordance with the evidence and that such recommendations are fair and reasonable and should be adopted.

Now, therefore, it is ordered, As follows:

(1) All outstanding export licenses issued to or held by respondent are hereby revoked and shall be forthwith returned to the Office of Industry and Commerce for cancellation.

(2) Respondent is hereby denied, for the duration of export control, the privilege of obtaining or using or participating directly or indirectly in the obtaining or using of export licenses for shipment of any commodity on the Positive List as promulgated by the Office of Industry and Commerce, as such list may be constituted at the time of any proposed shipment, to any destination under either validated or general license.

(3) Such denial of export license privileges shall extend not only to respondent personally but also to any person, trade name, firm, corporation or other business organization with which he may now or hereafter be related by ownership or control or with which he may hold a position of responsibility in the conduct of export trade.

(4) Respondent may, nevertheless, at any time after six months from the date of this order, make application for its modification or termination.

Issued this 28th day of July 1950.

[SEAL] RAYMOND S. HOOVER,
Issuance Officer.

Approved:

JOHN F. HAVENER,
Assistant Director.

REPUBLIC SERVICE CORP. ET AL.

ORDER CONCERNING EXTENSION PERIOD PERMITTED TO BECOME EFFECTIVE

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 28th day of July A. D. 1950.

In the matter of Republic Service Corporation, Greencastle Light, Heat, Fuel and Power Company, Mercersburg, Lehmasters and Markes Electric Company, Fulton Electric Light, Heat & Power Company, File No. 70-2408.

Republic Service Corporation ("Republic"), a registered holding company, and three of its wholly-owned public utility subsidiary companies, Greencastle Light, Heat, Fuel and Power Company ("Greencastle"), Mercersburg, Lehmasters and Markes Electric Company ("Mercersburg"), and Fulton Electric Light, Heat & Power Company ("Fulton"), having filed a joint application-declaration, and amendments thereto, regarding among other things, the merger of the above named subsidiary companies of Republic, the issuance and sale of First Mortgage Bonds and Serial Notes by the surviving company, and the retirement of Republic's outstanding indebtedness; and

Republic having requested as a part of its declaration that in the event the foregoing proposed transactions are not consummated on or before July 1, 1950, the Commission enter an order permitting the extension, for a period of thirty days, of its unsecured promissory note outstanding in the principal amount of $150,000 due July 1, 1950, presently held by the Provident Trust Company of Philadelphia; and

The Commission on June 30, 1950, after appropriate notice, having issued an order permitting Republic to extend its outstanding unsecured promissory note in the amount of $150,000 due July 1, 1950, for a period of thirty days; and

Republic having filed an amendment to its declaration requesting an extention of its said unsecured promissory note for an additional period of thirty days, due to the delay in obtaining the necessary order from the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission approving the merger of the subsidiaries and the other transactions incident thereto; and

It appearing to the Commission that such temporary extension of Republic's note is necessary under the circumstances, that no adverse findings under section 7 (d) are required and the Commission deeming it appropriate in the public interest that this order be permitted to become effective forthwith;

It is ordered, Pursuant to the applicable provisions of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 that said declaration, as amended, with respect to the extension for a period of thirty days of Republic's unsecured promissory note in the principal amount of $150,000 due August 1, 1950, be, and the same hereby is, permitted to become effective forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions prescribed in Rule U-24.

LAURENCE STEELE COSTELLE

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER REVOKING REGISTRATION

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 27th day of July A. D. 1950.

This is a proceeding under section 15 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("the act") to determine whether the broker-dealer registration of Laurence Steele Costelle should be revoked.[1]

The proceeding was instituted by a notice and order for hearing dated June 21, 1950, which, in brief, alleges that registrant violated section 17 (a) of the act and Rule X-17A-5 adopted thereunder in that he did not file with us the required reports of his financial condition during the calendar years 1943 through 1949.

A copy of the notice and order was sent by registered mail to registrant's last known address at 44 Wall Street, New York City, New York, on June 22, 1950, but was returned to us by the Post Office Department bearing the notation, "Not at address given." Registrant did not appear at the hearing scheduled for July 17, 1950.[2]

The registration of registrant as a broker-dealer became effective January 17, 1936, and has not been withdrawn, canceled, suspended, or revoked.

On November 28, 1942, we promulgated Rule X-17A-5 under section 17 (a) of the act. That rule provides, among other things, that commencing January 1, 1943, every registered broker and dealer must file with this Commission during each calendar year a report of his financial condition. Promulgation of the rule was announced by publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, by release to the public press, and by distribution to the mailing list.

Registrant did not file the required reports in any year from 1943 through 1949. By its failure to file such reports, we find that registrant willfully violated section 17 (a) of the act and Rule X-17A-5. Under the circumstances of this case proof of actual knowledge of the rule is not necessary for a finding of willfulness, for any ignorance that he may have had of its requirements would appear to have been the result of deliberate indifference to the obligations imposed upon registrant in his status as a registered dealer. His conduct, in failing to claim registered mail and in placing himself out of reach of communications we might find necessary to address to him, amounted to such a disregard of the duty, inherent in his licensed status, to keep informed of the legal requirements attaching to that status, as to make his violations willful within the meaning of that term as used in section 15 (b) of the act.[3]

We find that, because of his willful violations, it is necessary in the public interest to revoke registrant's registration as a broker and dealer. However, in view of the fact that the record does not show whether registrant actually received personal notice of the hearings herein, in view of the nature of the violations, and to avoid any possible prejudice to him, our order shall provide that the revocation of registrant's registration be without prejudice to his right to move to reopen these proceedings and seek to set aside the revocation upon a proper showing.[4]

Accordingly it is ordered, That the registration of Laurence Steele Costelle be, and it hereby is, revoked without prejudice to the right of Laurence Steele Costelle to move to reopen these proceedings and set aside said revocation upon a proper showing.

By the Commission.

Registrant did not appear at the hearing scheduled for July 17, 1950.[2]

The registration of registrant as a broker-dealer became effective June 18, 1937, and has not been withdrawn, canceled, suspended, or revoked.

On November 28, 1942, we promulgated Rule X-17A-5 under section 17 (a) of the act. That rule provides, among other things, that commencing January 1, 1943, every registered broker and dealer must file with this Commission during each calendar year a report of his financial condition. On November 28, 1942, we promulgated Rule X-17A-5 under section 17 (a) of the act. That rule provides, among other things, that commencing January 1, 1943, every registered broker and dealer must file with this Commission during each calendar year a report of his financial condition. Promulgation of the rule was announced by publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, by release to the public press, and by distribution to the mailing list.

Registrant did not file the required reports in any year from 1943 through 1949. By its failure to file such reports, we find that registrant willfully violated section 17 (a) of the act and Rule X-17A-5. Under the circumstances of this case proof of actual knowledge of the rule is not necessary for a finding of willfulness, for any ignorance that he may have had of its requirements would appear to have been the result of deliberate indifference to the obligations imposed upon registrant in his status as a registered dealer. His conduct, in failing to claim registered mail and in placing himself out of reach of communications we might find necessary to address to him, amounted to such a disregard of the duty, inherent in his licensed status, to keep informed of the legal requirements attaching to that status, as to make his violations willful within the meaning of that term as used in section 15 (b) of the act.[3]

We find that, because of his willful violations, it is necessary in the public interest to revoke registrant's registration as a broker and dealer. However, in view of the fact that the record does now show whether registrant actually received personal notice of the hearings herein, in view of the nature of the violations, and to avoid any possible prejudice to him, our order shall provide that the revocation of registrant's registration be without prejudice to his right to move to reopen these proceedings and seek to set aside the revocation upon a proper showing.[4]

Accordingly it is ordered, That the registration of Arthur V. Curry be, and it hereby is, revoked without prejudice to the right of Arthur V. Curry to move to reopen these proceedings and set aside said revocation upon a proper showing.

By the Commission.

SIDNEY ASCHER

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER REVOKING REGISTRATION

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 27th day of July A. D. 1950.

This is a proceeding under section 15 (b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("the act") to determine whether the broker-dealer registration of Sidney Ascher should be revoked.[1]

The proceeding was instituted by a notice and order for hearing dated June 21, 1950, which, in brief, alleges that registrant violated section 17 (a) of the act and Rule X-17A-5 adopted thereunder in that he did not file with us the required reports of his financial condition during the calendar years 1943 through 1949.

A copy of the notice and order was sent by registered mail to registrant's last known address at 302 East 38th Street, New York, New York, on June 22, 1950, but was returned to us by the Post Office Department bearing the notation, "Not at address given." Registrant did not appear at the hearing scheduled for July 17, 1950.[2]

The registration of registrant as a broker-dealer became effective May 6, 1939, and has not been withdrawn, canceled, suspended, or revoked.

On November 28, 1942, we promulgated Rule X-17A-5 under section 17 (a) of the act. That rule provides, among other things, that commencing January 1, 1943, every registered broker and dealer must file with this Commission during each calendar year a report of his financial condition. Promulgation of the rule was announced by publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, by release to the public press, and by distribution to the mailing list.

Registrant did not file the required reports in any year from 1943 through 1949. By its failure to file such reports, we find that registrant willfully violated section 17 (a) of the act and Rule X-17A-5. Under the circumstances of this case proof of actual knowledge of the rule is not necessary for a finding of willfulness, for any ignorance that he may have had of its requirements would appear to have been the result of deliberate indifference to the obligations imposed upon registrant in his status as a registered dealer. His conduct, in failing to claim registered mail and in placing himself out of reach of communications we might find necessary to address to him, amounted to such a disregard of the duty, inherent in his licensed status, to keep informed of the legal requirements attaching to that status as to make his violations willful within the meaning of that term as used in section 15 (b) of the act.[3]

We find that, because of his willful violations, it is necessary in the public interest to revoke registrant's registration as a broker and dealer. However, in view of the fact that the record does not show whether registrant actually received personal notice of the hearings herein, in view of the nature of the violations, and to avoid any possible prejudice to him, our order shall provide that the revocation of registrant's registration be without prejudice to his right to move to reopen these proceedings and seek to set aside the revocation upon a proper showing.[4]

Accordingly it is ordered, That the registration of Sidney Ascher be, and it hereby is, revoked without prejudice to the right of Sidney Ascher to move to reopen these proceedings and set aside said revocation upon a proper showing.

QUEENS BOROUGH GAS AND ELECTRIC CO.

NOTICE OF FILING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 28th day of July A. D. 1950.

Notice is hereby given that a declaration has been filed with this Commission pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 by Queens Borough Gas and Electric Company ("Queens"), a subsidiary of Long Island Lighting Company ("Long Island"), a registered holding company. Declarant has designated section 7 (e) of the act as applicable to the proposed transaction.

Notice is further given that any interested person may, not later than August 31, 1950, at 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., request the Commission in writing that a hearing be held on such matter, stating the reasons for such request, the nature of his interest and the issues of fact or law raised by said declaration which he desires to controvert, or may request that he be notified if the Commission should order a hearing thereon. Any such request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. At any time after August 31, 1950, said declaration, as filed or as amended, may be permitted to become effective as provided in Rule U-23 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act, or the Commission may exempt such transaction as provided in Rules U-20 (a) and U-100 thereof.

All interested persons are referred to said declaration which is on file in the office of this Commission for a statement of the transaction therein proposed, which is summarized as follows:

Queens has outstanding in the hands of the public $799,000 principal amount of 5 percent General Mortgage Bonds due 1952, $1,362,000 principal amount of 3½ percent Refunding Mortgage Bonds due 1961, and $10,350,000 principal amount of 4 percent Refunding Mortgage Bonds due 1961, all of which are secured by mortgages on the properties presently owned by Queens. Queens also has outstanding in the hands of the public $3,393,000 principal amount of unsecured Debentures due 1952. Under the terms of the indenture pursuant to which the Debentures were issued, no mortgage or like encumbrance (except the mortgages securing the General Mortgage Bonds due 1952 and the Refunding Mortgage Bonds due 1961) may be placed or permitted to exist upon any of the properties owned by Queens unless all of the Debentures issued under the Debenture indenture are first secured by a mortgage.

A plan of consolidation and recapitalization for Long Island, Queens, and Nassau & Suffolk Light Company ("Nassau"), a subsidiary of Queens, filed pursuant to section 11 (e) of the act, has been approved by this Commission, ordered enforced by the United States District Court for the Eastern District of New York, and affirmed by the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit. A petition for certiorari to review such affirmance has been filed with the United States Supreme Court. Upon consolidation, the lien of the mortgage securing certain bonds of Long Island would attach to the properties owned by Queens.

Accordingly, in order to satisfy the terms of the indenture pursuant to which the Queens' Debentures were issued, that company proposes, immediately prior to the consolidation of Long Island, Queens and Nassau, to secure the Debentures by placing its properties under a mortgage (subject to the liens of the mortgages securing the 5 percent Mortgage Bonds due 1952 and the Refunding Mortgage Bonds due 1961).

Declarant states that the transaction is subject to the jurisdiction of the Public Service Commission of the State of New York.

Declarant requests that the Commission enter its order as soon as practicable.

By the Commission.

AUTHORITY: §§ 909.0 to 909.161 issued under the authority of sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. and Sup., 608c.

§ 909.0 Findings and determinations—(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 62 Stat. 1247; 63 Stat. 282, 1051; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR 900.1 et seq.) a public hearing was held at Sacramento, California, on March 14 through March 18, 1950, upon a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed marketing order regulating the handling of almonds grown in California. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing, and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) This order, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) This order will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activities specified in the proposals upon which the hearing was held;

(3) There are no differences in the production and marketing of said commodity in the production area covered by this order which make necessary different terms applicable to different parts of such area;

(4) The production area, as set forth in this order, is the smallest regional production area which is practicable, consistently with carrying out the declared policy of the act; and

(5) The handling, as defined herein, of almonds grown in California is either in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, or directly burdens, obstructs, or affects such commerce.

(b) Additional findings. It is necessary to have this program in effect for the coming crop year, and almonds of the 1950 crop will be ready for harvest about the middle of August. The control board must, after this program is put into effect, be selected, qualified, meet, and submit to the Secretary of Agriculture its estimations and recommendation with respect to the salable and surplus percentages for said crop year. In addition, the Secretary of Agriculture must consider such estimations and recommendation, as well as any other available pertinent data in his possession, in that regard and issue an appropriate order fixing such percentages. The completion of such actions by the indicated time will necessitate the prompt beginning of such actions. The nature and provisions of this regulation are well known to the handlers of almonds, since the public hearing was held in March 1950, and the recommended and final decisions were published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on June 9, 1950 (15 F. R. 3623) and July 6, 1950 (15 F. R. 4272), respectively. All known interested parties have received copies of the regulatory provisions. It is hereby found and determined, in view of these facts and circumstances, that good cause exists for making this order effective on the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, and that it would be contrary to the public interest to delay the effective date of this order for 30 days after its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (see section 4 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act, 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.).

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that:

(1) A marketing agreement regulating the handling of almonds grown in California upon which the aforesaid public hearing was held, has been executed by handlers (excluding cooperative associations of producers who are not engaged in processing, distributing, or shipping almonds covered by this order) who handled not less than 50 percent of the volume of such almonds covered by this order; and

(2) The issuance of this order is favored or approved by at least two-thirds of the producers who participated in a referendum on the question of its approval and who, during the determined representative period (July 1, 1949, through June 30, 1950), produced almonds in California for market, such producers having also produced at least two-thirds of the volume of almonds represented in such referendum.

Order relative to handling. It is therefore, ordered that, on and after the effective time hereof, the handling of almonds grown in California shall be in conformity to, and in compliance with, the terms and conditions of said order, which are as follows:

ALMOND CONTROL BOARD

§ 909.40 Establishment. A control board of ten members, with an alternate member for each such member, is hereby established.

§ 909.41 Membership representation. Two members and an alternate for each member shall be selected from nominees submitted by each of the following groups designated in paragraphs (a) through (d) of this section, or from among other qualified persons belonging to such groups; and one member and an alternate member shall be selected from nominees submitted by each of the following groups designated in paragraphs (e) and (f) of this section, or from among other qualified persons belonging to such groups:

(a) The cooperative handlers;
(b) All handlers, other than cooperative handlers;
(c) Those growers who market their almonds through cooperative handlers;
(d) Those growers who market their almonds through other than cooperative handlers;
(e) The group of cooperative handlers or the group of handlers other than cooperative handlers whichever during that part of the then current crop year through March 31 received for their own accounts more than 50 percent of the almonds delivered by growers: Provided, That the group in this category for the selection of original members shall be the group of cooperative handlers; and
(f) Those growers whose almonds were marketed during that period of the then current crop year through March 31, through the handler group specified in paragraph (e) of this section.

§ 909.42 Selection of original members. The original members and their respective alternates shall hold office for a term ending with the second Monday in June, 1951, and until their successors shall be selected and shall qualify, and shall be selected by the Secretary from each of the six groups specified in § 909.41. The nominating procedure prescribed in § 909.43 (a) shall not be followed for the selection of the initial control board.

§ 909.43 Successor members—(a) Nominations. Nominations for successor members and alternate members for each of the six groups specified in § 909.41 shall be made by that group. The nominations for each such group shall be submitted on the basis of ballots, which shall be mailed by the control board, in the case of each such group, to all members of which it has a record, and the board shall also make such ballots available upon request. Every such ballot shall contain the names of the then incumbent members and alternate members of the board representing the particular group, listed separately, and it shall also contain blank spaces for use by voters in writing in the names of any persons other than those listed for whom they might desire to vote. In addition, the ballots for use by growers who market their almonds through other than cooperative handlers shall contain the name of any other person who has been proposed as a nominee for the particular position in a petition, signed by at least 15 of such growers, which had been submitted to the board. Previous announcements of every such balloting, regardless of whether by handlers or by growers, will be made by press releases through the United States Department of Agriculture to the newspapers and other publications having general circulation in the almond producing areas in California, furnishing pertinent information with respect to such balloting. The control board shall furnish, along with each ballot, all information needed for voting purposes.

In cases of voting by handlers (regardless of whether cooperative or other than cooperative), the vote of each handler shall be weighted by the volume of the tonnage of almonds (computed to the nearest whole ton in the case of fractions), in terms of edible kernel weight, recorded by the control board as having been received by the particular handler for his own account during the period through March 31 of the crop year in which the nominations are made. Each handler shall cast his vote as to his respective choices for the number of member positions to be filled and for the number of alternate member positions to be filled. The nominees for the respective member positions shall be the persons receiving, in order, the highest number of the votes cast by all handlers in the group for those positions for that group which are to be filled. Likewise, the nominees for the respective alternate member positions shall be the persons receiving, in order, the highest number of votes cast by all handlers in the group for those positions which are to be filled. The handler group which is determined to be eligible for additional representation on the board as the group which received more than 50 percent of the almonds delivered by growers through March 31 of the crop year in which the nominations are made, which group is referred to and described in paragraph (e) of § 909.41, shall nominate the persons to represent it in that group in the same manner as it nominates its other representatives. Similar provisions shall be applicable to voting by growers who market their almonds through cooperative handlers, except that nominations on their behalf shall be submitted by the appropriate cooperative handler on the basis of a ballot cast by it for the growers who are members of, or under contract with, such cooperative handler, and such ballot shall be weighted by the number of growers who are members of, or under contract with, such cooperative handler.

In cases of voting by growers who market their almonds through other than cooperative handlers, each grower shall have only one vote, and every vote shall have equal weight. The nominees for the respective member positions for that group shall be the persons receiving, in order, the highest number of the votes cast by all such growers for those positions. Likewise, the nominees for the respective alternate member positions for such group shall be the persons receiving, in order, the highest number of the votes cast by all such growers for those positions. In the event such group should be determined to be eligible for additional representation on the board as the group of growers whose almonds were marketed through March 31 of the crop year in which the nominations are made through the handler group which received more than 50 percent of the almonds delivered by all growers to all handlers during that period, which grower group entitled to additional representation is referred to and described in paragraph (f) of § 909.41, it should nominate the persons to represent it in that group in the same manner as it nominates its other representative on the board.

Nominations received in the foregoing manner by the control board shall be reported to the Secretary on or before May 20 of each crop year, together with a certificate of all necessary tonnage data and other information deemed by the board to be pertinent or requested by the Secretary. If such nominations of any group are not submitted as hereinbefore provided to the Secretary on or before May 20 of any year the Secretary may select representatives of that group, without nomination.

(b) Selection. The successors of the original members and their respective alternates shall be selected annually by the Secretary for a term of one year beginning with the first Tuesday after the second Monday in June, and shall serve until their respective successors shall be selected and shall qualify.

§ 909.44 Qualification. Any person selected as a member or alternate of the control board, shall qualify by filing a written acceptance of his appointment with the Secretary or his designated representative. Any member or alternate who, at the time of his selection, was a member of or employed by a member of the group which nominated him shall, upon ceasing to be such member or employee, become disqualified to serve further and his position on the control board shall be deemed vacant.

§ 909.45 Alternates. An alternate for a member of the control board shall act in the place and stead of such member (a) in his absence, or (b) in the event of his death, removal, resignation or disqualification, until a successor for his unexpired term has been selected and has qualified.

§ 909.46 Vacancy. To fill any vacancy occasioned by the death, removal, resignation or disqualification of any member or alternate of the control board, a successor for his unexpired term shall be selected as soon as practicable in the manner provided in § 909.43, so far as applicable.

§ 909.47 Expenses. The members of the control board shall serve without compensation, but shall be allowed their necessary expenses.

§ 909.48 Powers. The control board shall have the following powers:

(a) To administer the provisions hereof in accordance with its terms;

(b) To make rules and regulations to effectuate the terms and provisions hereof;

(c) To receive, investigate and report to the Secretary complaints of violations hereof; and

(d) To recommend to the Secretary amendments hereto.

§ 909.49 Duties. The control board shall have, among other things, the following duties:

(a) To act as intermediary between the Secretary and any handler or grower;

(b) To keep minute books and records which will clearly reflect all of its acts and transactions, and such minute books and records shall be subject to examination by the Secretary at any time;

(c) To investigate the growing, shipping, and marketing conditions with respect to almonds and to assemble data in connection therewith;

(d) To furnish to the Secretary such available information as may be deemed pertinent or as he may request;

(e) To appoint such employees as it may deem necessary and to determine the salaries, define the duties and fix the bonds of such employees; and

(f) To cause the books of the control board to be audited by one or more competent certified public accountants at least once for each crop year, and at such other times as the control board may deem necessary or as the Secretary may request; and the report of each such audit shall show, among other things, the receipt and expenditure of funds pursuant hereto; and to file with the Secretary three copies of all audit reports made.

§ 909.50 Procedure—(a) Organization and rules. The members of the control board shall select a chairman from their membership. The board shall select such other officers and adopt such rules for the conduct of its business as it may deem advisable. The board shall give to the Secretary or his designated agent and representatives the same notice of meetings of the control board as is given to members of the board.

(b) Quorum. All decisions of the control board, except where otherwise specifically provided, shall be by a majority vote of the members present. The presence of six members shall be required to constitute a quorum.

(c) Permissive method of voting. The control board may vote by mail or telegram upon due notice to all members including in the notice to each a statement of a reasonable time in which a vote by mail or telegram must be received for counting: Provided, That voting by mail or telegram shall not be permitted at any assembled meeting of the board. When any proposition is submitted for voting by mail or telegram, one dissenting vote shall prevent its adoption by that method.

(d) Right of the Secretary. The members of the control board (including successors or alternates), and any agent or employee appointed or employed by the control board, shall be subject to removal or suspension by the Secretary at any time. Each and every order, regulation, decision, determination, or other act of the control board shall be subject to the continuing right of the Secretary to disapprove of the same at any time, and, upon such disapproval, shall be deemed null and void except as to acts done in reliance thereon or in compliance therewith.

SURPLUS CONTROL

§ 909.60 General. In order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, no handler shall handle almonds except in accordance with the terms and conditions of this part.

§ 909.61 Withholding surplus. When a surplus percentage has been fixed for any crop year, as hereinafter provided, no handler shall handle almonds except on condition that he comply with the requirements in respect to withholding surplus almonds and the prescribed disposition thereof.

§ 909.62 Method of establishing salable and surplus percentages. Whenever the Secretary finds from the recommendations and supporting information supplied by the control board or from any other available information, that to designate the percentages of almonds during such crop year which shall be salable almonds and surplus almonds, would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall designate such percentages. The salable and surplus percentages shall each be applied to the edible kernel weight of almonds received by a handler for his own account during the crop year, as provided in § 909.65. In fixing such salable and surplus percentages the Secretary shall give consideration to the ratio of the estimated trade demand, minus the estimated handler carryover, to the estimated production of almonds, all expressed in terms of edible kernel weight, the recommendations submitted to him by the control board, and such other data as he deems appropriate. The total of the salable and surplus percentages fixed each crop year shall equal 100 percent.

§ 909.63 Increase of salable percentage. The Secretary may, on request of the control board made at any time prior to May 15 of any crop year (or if the control board shall fail to so request, upon the request within like time of two or more handlers who have handled during the immediately preceding crop year at least 15 percent of the total tonnage, in terms of edible kernel weight, handled by all handlers during such crop year), and after findings of facts based upon such revised and current information as may be pertinent that the almonds available for handling will not be sufficient to supply the trade demand, increase the salable percentage to conform with such new relation as may be found to exist between trade demand and available supply.

§ 909.64 Board estimates and recommendations. To aid the Secretary in fixing the salable and surplus percentages, the board shall furnish to the Secretary, not later than August 1 of each crop year (except, for the initial crop year hereunder, such submission shall be made not later than 15 days after the effective date hereof), the following estimates, expressed in terms of edible kernel weight, and recommendation, each of which shall be adopted by the affirmative vote of at least six members:

(a) Its estimate of the quantity of almonds to be produced during such year;

(b) Its estimate of handler carryover as of July 1, regardless of the crop year in which the almonds were produced;

(c) Its estimate of the total trade demand taking into consideration economic conditions and the anticipated market price, within the limitations of the act; and

(d) Its recommendation as to the salable and surplus percentages to be fixed.

The board shall also furnish to the Secretary a complete report of the proceedings of the board meeting at which the recommended salable and surplus percentages to be fixed by the Secretary were adopted. If, for any reason, the board fails to make these estimates or to recommend to the Secretary salable and surplus percentages as required hereby, reports representing the respective views of each member with respect to such matters shall be submitted to the Secretary and the Secretary may act on the basis of such reports or such other information as may be available to him.

§ 909.65 Surplus obligation—(a) Requirement for withholding. Except as otherwise provided in §§ 909.66 and 909.68, every handler shall withhold from handling a quantity of almonds having an edible kernel weight equal to the surplus percentage of the edible kernel weight of all almonds such handler receives for his own account during the crop year: Provided, That this provision shall not apply to any lot of almonds for which the surplus obligation has been met by a previous holder and the handler receiving such almonds makes a report thereof to the control board accompanied by a certification from the previous holder that the surplus obligation for such almonds has been met. Such almonds so withheld shall be set aside and thereafter kept for the account of the control board and, from the date of withholding, and at all times thereafter, shall be kept by the handler available for inspection by the control board or its agents. Such almonds shall be stored in such manner as to maintain them in the same condition as when certified as surplus, except for loss through fire, acts of God, acts of war, riot or other conditions beyond the handler's control. Upon demand of the control board they shall be delivered to the board f. o. b. handler's warehouse or point of storage, except that the control board shall not make such demand upon a handler prior to April 1, with respect to surplus almonds for which the handler has filed a bond, as provided for in § 909.66, which bond is in force and effect. All such surplus almonds so withheld by the handler shall be, at the time of withholding, placed by the handler at his expense in suitable containers which may be prescribed by the control board and following inspection shall be identified by appropriate seals or stamps and tags to be furnished by the board and to be affixed to the containers by the handlers under the direction and supervision of the control board. In the event adequate records are not available at any time to show all almonds received by a handler during a crop year, or any part thereof, the surplus obligation of such handler in respect to almonds handled by him shall be a quantity of almonds having an edible kernel weight equal to the withholding percentage of the edible kernel weight of all the almonds theretofore handled by such handler during the crop year. Such withholding percentage shall be the ratio, measured as a percentage, of the surplus percentage to the salable percentage. The quantity of almonds hereby required to be withheld shall constitute, and may be referred to as, the "surplus" or "surplus obligation" of a handler. The almonds handled by any handler in accordance with the provisions of this part shall be deemed to be that handler's quota fixed by the Secretary within the meaning of section 8 (a) (5) of the act.

(b) Grade requirement for surplus. Lots of almonds to be eligible for certification as surplus must meet the following requirements, and only edible kernel weight in such lots shall be credited as surplus: (1) They shall be dry and properly cured; (2) unshelled almonds shall not be affected by adhering hulls (where more than ten percent of the surface is affected) on more than five percent by count; shall contain no more than two percent by weight of loose shells, hulls and other foreign material; and not more than ten percent by count of the kernels shall be inedible; and (3) shelled almonds shall not contain, in the aggregate, more than five percent by weight of loose hulls, shells, other foreign material, inedible kernels, and material of any kind which will pass through a round opening one-eighth inch in diameter. The requirements of this paragraph may be revised or amended by the Secretary upon the recommendation of the control board.

§ 909.66 Postponement of surplus obligation upon filing bond—(a) Privilege. Compliance by any handler with the requirements of § 909.65 as to the time when surplus almonds shall be withheld shall be deferred to any date desired by the handler but not later than March 31 of the crop year, upon the voluntary execution and delivery by such handler to the control board, before he handles any almonds of such crop year, of a written undertaking that on or prior to such date he will have fully satisfied his surplus obligation required by said § 909.65.

(b) Bond requirement. Such undertaking shall be secured by a bond or bonds to be filed with and acceptable to the control board, and with a surety or sureties acceptable to the control board, in the amount or amounts stated below conditioned upon full compliance with such undertaking. Such bond or bonds shall, at all times during their effective period, be in such amounts that the aggregate thereof shall be no less than the total bonding value of the handler's deferred surplus obligation. The bonding value shall be the total deferred surplus obligation of the handler in pounds multiplied by the bonding rate established pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section. The cost of such bond or bonds shall be borne by the handler filing the same.

(c) Bonding rate. Said bonding rate shall be based upon the then current season's domestic price per pound for shelled almonds generally known in the trade as "Nonpareil Medium" and shall be computed at 90 percent of the weighted average domestic price f. o. b. shipping point for the then current crop year at which such pack was sold during the first 15 days following announcement of opening prices, by any handler or handlers who during the preceding crop year handled 51 percent of the almonds handled by all handlers. Such handler or handlers shall be selected in order of volume handled in the preceding crop year, using the minimum number of handlers to represent a volume of 51 percent of the total volume handled. If the price from two or more handlers is involved for the designated pack, the price so computed shall be averaged on the basis of the quantity of such designated pack handled during the preceding crop year by each such handler. Handlers whose prices are to be used as aforesaid shall furnish the board with information necessary to compute the bonding rate. Until the bonding rate is fixed for the first crop year ending June 30, 1951, the bonding rate shall be 38.5 cents per pound.

(d) Description of Nonpareil Medium. "Nonpareil Medium" is the shelled product of a major variety of almonds produced in California known as Nonpareil. It has the following specifications: fairly uniformly graded kernels of the Nonpareil variety generally counting 22 to 24, 23 to 25, or 24 to 26 kernels to an ounce, consisting of whole unchipped almond kernels (whole kernels having chips not exceeding one-eighth inch in diameter or cuts and scratches one-sixteenth inch wide by three-eighths inch long shall not be classified as chipped kernels) with not more than ten percent by count of whole kernels having larger chips or cuts and scratches than above defined, not more than five percent by weight of double (twin) kernels, not more than one-half of one percent of broken kernels or pieces (less than seven-eighths of a whole kernel), and less than one percent by weight of inedible kernels, all of which are well dried, clean, and free (less than one-tenth of one percent) from pieces of shell, hull, or other foreign material.

(e) Replacement by control board. Any sums collected through default of a handler on his bond shall be used by the control board to purchase from handlers, as provided herein, a quantity of almonds not to exceed the total quantity represented by the sums collected. Purchases shall be made from the salable percentages with respect to which the surplus obligation has been met. If a larger quantity is offered than can be purchased the purchases shall be made in such pack or packs as the board considers most desirable to acquire for purposes of surplus disposal, at the lowest prices at which such pack or packs are offered. The purchases shall be made from the various handlers as nearly as practicable in proportion to the quantity of their respective offerings (at the same price) of the pack or packs to be purchased.

(f) Disposition of excess funds. Any unexpended sums, which have been collected by the control board through default of a handler on his bond, remaining in possession of the control board at the end of a crop year shall be used to reimburse the board for its expense, including administrative and other costs, incurred in the collection of such sums and in the purchase of almonds as provided in paragraph (e) of this section. Any balance remaining after reimbursement of such expenses shall be distributed as follows: In case purchases have been made of a poundage equal to that on which the default occurred, distribution shall be made only to the defaulting handler and in case the board is unable to purchase a poundage of almonds as large as that on which the default occurred, distribution shall be made among all handlers, other than the defaulting handler, in proportion to the ratio of each such handler's surplus obligation to the total surplus obligation of all such handlers for the crop year in which the default occurred. A handler who has defaulted on his bond shall be credited on his surplus obligation with that quantity of almonds represented by the sums collected on account of such default.

§ 909.67 Payment to handlers for services rendered. The control board may pay handlers for necessary services rendered by handlers in connection with almonds eventually disposed of as surplus including but not limited to storing, shelling, sorting, bleaching, grading, packaging, fumigating, and other services, in accordance with the schedule of payments specified in Appendix 1 (§§ 909.151 to 909.154, inclusive), or such amended or additional schedules as may be established by the Secretary which may be based upon the recommendation of the control board.

§ 909.68 Inter-handler transfer of surplus. For the purpose of meeting his surplus obligation, any handler may, upon notice to, and under the supervision and direction of the control board, acquire from another handler almonds with respect to which the surplus has not been withheld and any surplus obligation of the seller with respect to any almonds so transferred shall be waived, and shall be transferred to the buying handler. If any such sales were made of almonds on which the surplus obligation has been met, the seller's surplus obligation shall be reduced accordingly when the purchaser has had such almonds or a like quantity of almonds certified to the control board as surplus.

§ 909.69 Termination. (a) The Secretary may, at any time, terminate the provisions hereof by giving at least one day's notice by means of a press release or in any manner which he may determine.

(b) The Secretary shall terminate or suspend the operation of any or all provisions hereof whenever he finds that such provision obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(c) The Secretary shall conduct a referendum, or otherwise ascertain the views of producers, during the month of July 1951, and during the month of July of each third year thereafter, to determine whether the continuance of this part is favored by producers. He shall terminate this part at the end of the crop year if he finds that it is not favored by producers who, during a representative period determined by him, have been engaged in the production of almonds for market.

(d) The Secretary may terminate this part at the end of any crop year if he finds that it does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(e) The provisions hereof shall, in any event, terminate whenever the provisions of the act authorizing them cease to be in effect.

§ 909.70 Proceedings after termination. Upon the termination of the provisions hereof, the members of the control board then functioning shall continue as joint trustees for the purpose of liquidating the affairs of the control board. They shall continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary, shall from time to time account for all receipts and disbursements, and deliver all property on hand together with all books and records of the control board and of the joint trustees to such person as the Secretary may direct, and shall, upon the request of the Secretary, execute such assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person full title and right to all of the funds, property, and claims vested in the control board or joint trustees pursuant hereto.

§ 909.71 Effect of termination or amendment. Unless otherwise expressly provided by the Secretary, the termination hereof or of any provision hereof shall not affect any action taken hereunder or any right or obligation which is in existence on the date of such termination.

§ 909.72 Agents. The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any person, including any officer or employee of the United States Department of Agriculture, to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions hereof.

§ 909.73 Derogation. Nothing contained herein is, or shall be construed to be, in derogation or in modification of the rights of the Secretary or of the United States to exercise any powers granted by the act or otherwise, or in accordance with such powers, to act in the premises whenever such action is deemed advisable.

§ 909.74 Personal liability. No member or alternate of the control board, or any employee or agent thereof, shall be held personally responsible, either individually or jointly with others, in any way whatsoever to any handler or to any person for errors in judgment, mistakes, or other acts, either of commission or omission, as such member, alternate, employee, or agent, except for acts of dishonesty.

§ 909.75 Separability. If any provision hereof is declared invalid, the remainder of the provisions hereof shall not be affected thereby.

§ 909.76 Duration of immunities. The benefits, privileges, and immunities conferred upon any person by virtue of the provisions hereof shall cease upon the termination hereof, except with respect to acts done under and during the existence of the provisions hereof.

SCHEDULE OF PAYMENTS

§ 909.151 Payments. Payments for services rendered by handlers in connection with almonds eventually disposed of as surplus shall be made in accordance with the following schedule:

Item	Rate
Storing, per ton per month	$2.00
Shelling, per pound	.0175
Sorting, per pound	.0125
Bleaching, per pound	.0125
Grading, per pound	.0125
Packaging, per pound	.0125
Fumigating, per pound	.0125

§ 909.152 Other services. Payments for services rendered by handlers in connection with almonds eventually disposed of as surplus, which services are not listed in the schedule of payments specified in § 909.151, shall be made in accordance with such amended or additional schedules as may be established by the Secretary which may be based upon the recommendation of the control board.

§ 909.153 Claims. Claims for payments for services rendered by handlers in connection with almonds eventually disposed of as surplus shall be made to the control board on such forms and in such manner as the control board may prescribe.

§ 909.154 Verification of claims. Payments for services rendered by handlers in connection with almonds eventually disposed of as surplus shall be made only upon verification of claims therefor by the control board.

[F. R. Doc. 50-6911; Filed, Aug. 3, 1950; 8:48 a. m.]

§ 909.69 Assistance of control board in accounting for surplus. The control board, on written request, may assist handlers in accounting for their surplus obligations and may aid any handler in acquiring almonds to meet any deficiency in a handler's surplus.

§ 909.70 Application of salable and surplus percentages after end of crop year. The salable and surplus percentages established for any crop year shall continue in effect with respect to all almonds for which the surplus obligation has not been previously met, which are received for his own account or handled by any handler after the end of such crop year and before salable and surplus percentages are established for the succeeding crop year. After such percentages are established for the new crop year, the withholding requirements for all such almonds theretofore received for his own account or handled during that crop year shall be adjusted to the newly established percentages.

§ 909.71 Application of bonding rate after end of crop year. The bonding rate established for any crop year shall continue in effect with respect to any bond or bonds executed and delivered pursuant to § 909.66 before the bonding rate for the new crop year is established. After such bonding rate is established for the new crop year, the new rate shall be applicable and any bond or bonds theretofore given for that crop year shall be adjusted to the new rate.

§ 909.72 Exchange of surplus almonds. Any handler who has withheld surplus almonds pursuant to the requirements of § 909.65 and has had the same certified as surplus almonds may exchange therefor, to the extent that such almonds have not been disposed of, an equal quantity, by edible kernel weight, of other almonds. Any such exchange shall be made under the supervision and direction of the control board with appropriate inspection and certification of the almonds involved.

§ 909.73 Adjustment upon increase of salable percentage. Upon any increase in the salable percentage and corresponding decrease in the surplus percentage, the surplus obligation of each handler for the entire crop year to the effective date of such action shall be recomputed in accordance with such revised salable and surplus percentages. From the surplus almonds that may have been withheld by him and not yet disposed of, any handler authorized to act and acting as agent of the board in disposing of surplus pursuant to § 909.102 shall be permitted to select, under the supervision and direction of the control board, the particular surplus almonds to be restored to his salable percentage, and such restoration shall be deemed to fulfil the obligation of the board with respect to such increase.

In the case of handlers who have not been authorized to dispose of their own surpluses, and handlers who have terminated their agencies to dispose of their own surpluses, prior to an increase in the salable percentage, insofar as practicable each such handler shall be permitted to select almonds from his own surplus to be restored to his salable quantity. In the event there are not sufficient surplus almonds held by the board at the time the salable percentage is increased, to make full restoration as represented by the increase in the salable percentage, to all such handlers, the restoration to the salable quantities of the respective handlers shall be pro rata on the basis of edible kernel weight poundage of surplus contributed by said handlers during the crop year to the date of increase of the salable percentage. However, in case a handler who has been authorized to act as agent in disposing of his surplus, has terminated such agency as of April 1, and the salable percentage is increased after such termination, the restoration to said handler's salable quantity shall not exceed the quantity of surplus turned back to the board by him at the expiration of his agency, plus any surplus which he may have contributed after termination of his agency. Such restoration to the salable quantity shall be deemed to fulfil the obligation of the board with respect to the increase in the salable percentage.

RECORDING RECEIPTS, INSPECTION, AND CERTIFICATION

§ 909.80 Record of receipts. For the purpose of establishing the surplus obligation and furnishing statistical information to the control board necessary for the conduct of its operations, each handler, on receiving almonds for his own account, shall issue to the person from whom so received a receipt therefor. At least two duplicates thereof shall be made at the time of issuance, one of which shall be retained by the handler as a part of his records and the other submitted to the control board as hereinafter provided. Such receipts shall be serially numbered and shall accurately show for each lot received, the identity of the handler, the name and address of the person from whom received, the number of containers in the lot, the variety, whether shelled or unshelled, and the settlement weight for each such variety. The character and amount of all adjustments deducted from the gross weight shall be shown with the gross weight on the receipt issued by the handler.

§ 909.81 Report of receipts. Each handler receiving almonds for his own account shall tabulate such receipts by varieties and shall submit reports thereof to the control board in such form and at such intervals as the board may prescribe for all receipts issued by him. Such reports shall be accompanied by duplicate copies of the receipts issued pursuant to the provisions of § 909.80 for all almonds included in such report. The control board, after checking such reports in such manner as it deems desirable, shall determine in the manner specified in § 909.82 the edible kernel weight of the almonds so received.

§ 909.82 Determination of edible kernel weight—(a) Almonds for which settlement is made on kernel weight. All lots of almonds, whether shelled or unshelled, for which settlement is made on the basis of kernel weight shall be included in the total edible kernel weight for any handler at the settlement weight.

(b) Unshelled, known varieties. Any unshelled almonds of known varieties for which settlement is made on the basis of unshelled weight shall be included in the total edible kernel weight for any handler at the settlement weight of such unshelled almonds of each known variety multiplied by the varietal shelling ratio applicable to such variety. Such varietal shelling ratios shall be those shown in Appendix 2 (§ 909.161). Such Appendix 2 may be revised or amended by the Secretary on recommendation of the control board and when so revised or amended in any crop year, unless otherwise directed by the Secretary, shall be applied to all almonds of known varieties received during that crop year.

(c) Unshelled, mixed, and unknown varieties. All lots of unshelled almonds for which settlement is made on the basis of unshelled weight, consisting of mixed varieties or of varieties which are unknown or not shown on the handler's reports or on the receipts issued by the handler, shall be included in the total edible kernel weight for any handler at the actual weight of the unshelled almonds multiplied by a shelling ratio of 55 percent unless the handler, at the time of the receipt of any such lot obtains at his own expense an inspection of such lot by an inspection agency. In the event of such an inspection, the edible kernel weight of such lot of almonds as shown by such inspection shall be used. When such an inspection is made, a copy of the inspection report shall be attached to the copy of the grower receipt for such lot submitted by the handler to the control board as part of his report specified in § 909.81.

§ 909.83 Redetermination of edible kernel weight. The control board, on the basis of reports by handlers as required in §§ 909.111 through 909.115 together with its records of almonds certified as surplus, shall redetermine the edible kernel weight of all almonds received by the respective handlers for their own accounts during the respective crop year (and on which surplus has not been contributed by a previous handler) through each of the following dates: December 31, March 31, and June 30. In determining the edible kernel weight of salable unshelled almonds on which delivery has been effected as reported under provisions of § 909.112 or in the carryover as reported under provisions of § 909.111 the shelling ratios specified in § 909.82 shall be used. The weight of salable shelled almonds on which delivery has been effected, the weight of kernels used by the handler for manufactured products, and the weight of shelled almonds in the carryover shall be used in determining the edible kernel weight of shelled almonds. The edible kernel weight of certified surplus as determined at time of certification shall be used with respect to such surplus. If upon the foregoing computations of the total edible kernel weight of almonds received by a handler for his own account during a portion of the crop year or the entire crop year based on such reports made by the handler and such verification thereof as the board or the Secretary makes as provided in § 909.114 the edible kernel weight is found to differ from that determined in the manner specified in § 909.82 appropriate adjustments shall be made in the recorded total edible kernel weight of almonds received by such handler for his own account, and such revised total, after taking into consideration any almonds which have contributed to surplus in the hands of a previous holder, shall be the basis for the determination of such handler's revised surplus obligation. The determination of the board based on the handlers' reports, the examination of their records, and the board's records of certified surplus shall be final. Such examination or audit of handlers' records as the board makes shall be at the board's expense and under uniform procedure.

DISPOSITION OF SURPLUS

§ 909.100 Prohibition on the handling of surplus. Except as provided in §§ 909.101 and 909.102 surplus almonds withheld pursuant to the requirements of § 909.65 shall not be handled by any person.

§ 909.101 Conditions governing disposition of surplus—(a) General. The control board shall have power and authority to sell or dispose of any and all surplus almonds withheld upon the best terms and at the highest return obtainable consistent with the ultimate complete disposition of surplus, subject to all conditions of this section.

(b) Disposition of surplus for export. Sales of surplus almonds for export to destinations outside the continental United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Canal Zone shall be made only on execution of an agreement to prevent sale within or reimportation into the United States; and in case of export to Canada or Mexico, such almonds shall be sold only on the basis of a delivered price, duty paid.

(c) Exclusion from domestic normal trade channels. No surplus almonds shall be sold in the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, and the Canal Zone other than to governmental agencies or to charitable institutions for charitable purposes, except for diversion into almond oil, almond butter, poultry or animal feed, or into other channels which the control board finds are noncompetitive with existing normal markets for almonds, and with proper safeguards in each case to prevent such almonds thereafter entering the channels of trade in such normal markets.

(d) Time restriction on disposition. The control board shall not dispose of, or authorize the disposition of, more than 50 percent of the surplus almonds prior to May 15 of any crop year unless disposition in excess of 50 percent is made pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section or unless the salable percentage is increased pursuant to § 909.63.

(e) Disposition after August 1. Any surplus almonds remaining unsold as of August 1 shall be disposed of by the board as soon as practicable through the most readily available outlets within the limitations of paragraph (c) of this section.

§ 909.102 Disposition by handler. Upon request of a handler, made prior to the delivery by him of any surplus to the board in any crop year, the board shall authorize such handler to act as agent of the board, upon such reasonable terms and conditions as the board may specify and subject to the conditions of § 909.101 in disposing of the surplus contributed by such handler for that crop year. Any handler who is authorized to dispose of his surplus may, through arrangement with another handler, dispose of such surplus through such other handler. In the latter instance, the second handler shall also be subject to the conditions of § 909.101. It shall be the obligation of any handler authorized to dispose of such surplus to effect disposition thereof in accordance with all applicable requirements and conditions. The proceeds of such disposition shall be retained by the handler making the disposition, except that, in case he disposes of the surplus of another handler, the proceeds from that disposition shall be divided between the two handlers on the basis of a mutual agreement. Such authorization shall expire as of August 1 of the next crop year, and any surplus then remaining undisposed of by the handler shall be returned to the board. Any handler who has been authorized to act as agent of the board in disposing of his surplus may terminate such agency as of April 1 of the particular crop year by giving written notice to the board to that effect not later than the previous March 20, in which event such handler shall return to the board, for disposition by it, all surplus almonds remaining in his possession. In case a handler does not terminate his agency as of April 1, he shall be required to continue to serve as such agent until August 1 of the next crop year. The board shall not terminate such an agency prior to August 1 unless the agent violates the terms and conditions specified by the board or other provisions of the order. During the period of such agency the board, as principal, shall not dispose of the surplus contributed by said agent.

§ 909.103 Disposition of proceeds from sales of surplus—(a) Pools. Surplus from almonds received by handlers for their own accounts during any crop year, other than surplus disposed of by handlers as agents of the board as authorized in § 909.102, shall be disposed of by the control board in three pools as follows: Pool No. 1—surplus delivered to the board during a crop year up to April 1 and disposed of during that period; Pool No. 2—surplus delivered to the board from April 1 to July 31, inclusive, and disposed of during that period, including, in addition to deliveries by handlers not acting as agents, deliveries by handlers who terminate their agencies as of April 1, and also any surplus from Pool No. 1 which was not disposed of prior to April 1, but which is disposed of prior to August 1; and Pool No. 3—all surplus held unsold by the board on August 1, including, in addition to any surplus turned over to it by handlers whose agencies expired on August 1, any surplus from Pool No. 1 and Pool No. 2 which was not disposed of by the board prior to August 1.

(b) Expenses. Direct expenses incurred by the control board in the maintenance and disposition of surplus almonds in each respective pool shall be charged against the proceeds of sales of the almonds in that pool.

(c) Distribution to handlers. Net proceeds from the disposition of surplus almonds in each of the three pools shall be distributed by the board to each handler having an interest in that pool in proportion to his relative contribution thereto in terms of edible kernel weight. In the case of a carryover from one pool to another pool, the board shall allocate the interests of the appropriate handlers therein on the basis of their respective total deliveries of almonds, in terms of edible kernel weight, to the board during the pool period in connection with which such carryover first originated.

REPORTS, BOOKS, AND RECORDS

§ 909.111 Reports of handler carryover. On or before January 15, April 15, and July 15 of each crop year every handler shall file with the control board a written report, under oath, of his carryover of all almonds by variety, showing whether unshelled or shelled and the number and type of containers and weight as of December 31, March 31, and June 30, respectively.

§ 909.112 Reports of almonds sold and delivered. On or before January 15, April 15, and July 15 of each crop year every handler shall file with the control board a written report, under oath, of all his sales of almonds by variety, showing whether unshelled or shelled and whether salable or surplus, and the weight on which delivery has been effected during the crop year, as of December 31, March 31, and June 30, respectively, including therein any manufactured products (whether or not sold) at their equivalent in terms of raw shelled almonds.

§ 909.113 Other reports. Upon the request of the control board, made with the approval of the Secretary, every handler shall furnish to the control board in such manner and at such times as it prescribes (in addition to such other reports as are specifically provided for in this part) such other information as will enable the control board to perform its duties and exercise its powers hereunder.

§ 909.114 Verification of reports. For the purpose of checking and verifying reports made by handlers to it, the Secretary or the control board through its duly authorized agents shall have access to the handler's premises wherever almonds may be held by such handler, and at any time shall be permitted to inspect any almonds so held by such handler and any and all records of the handler with respect to the holding or disposition of all almonds which may be held or which may have been disposed of by such handler. Every handler shall furnish all labor necessary to facilitate such inspections as the control board or the Secretary may make of such handler's holdings of any almonds.

§ 909.115 Confidential information. All reports and records furnished or submitted by handlers to the board which include data or information constituting a trade secret or disclosing of the trade position, financial condition, or business operations of the particular handler from whom received shall be received by and at all times kept in the custody and under the control of one or more employees of the board, who shall disclose such information to no person except the Secretary. Notwithstanding the above provisions of this paragraph, information may be disclosed to the board when necessary to enable the board to carry out its functions hereunder.

EXPENSES AND ASSESSMENTS

§ 909.120 Expenses. The control board is authorized to incur such expenses as the Secretary may find are reasonable and likely to be incurred by it during each crop year, for the maintenance and functioning of the control board and for such purposes as the Secretary may, pursuant to the provisions hereof, determine to be appropriate. The recommendation of the control board as to the expenses for each such year, together with all data supporting such recommendation, shall be submitted to the Secretary on or before August 1 of the crop year in connection with which such recommendation is made: Provided, That if the program is not made effective early enough to permit making such recommendation prior to August 1 of the initial crop year such recommendation shall be submitted within 15 days after the effective date of this program. The funds to cover such expenses shall be acquired by levying assessments as hereinafter provided.

§ 909.121 Assessments—(a) Requirement for payment. Each handler shall pay to the control board on demand by the board, from time to time, the sum of two-tenths of a cent for each pound of edible almond kernels received by him for his own account (except as to receipts from other handlers on which assessments had been paid) after the effective date hereof. In the event adequate records are not available at any time to show all almonds received by a handler during a crop year, or any part thereof, and his surplus obligation is determined under the alternate provision of § 909.65 (a), the assessment herein specified shall be based upon such handler's total salable and surplus almonds measured by edible kernel weight. Upon redetermination of edible kernel weight of almonds received by handlers for their own account as provided in § 909.83, such redetermined edible kernel weight for each handler shall be the basis upon which he shall pay assessments at the aforesaid rate. At any time during or after a crop year, the Secretary may increase the rate of assessment to apply to all such almonds during such crop year to secure sufficient funds to cover the expenses authorized by § 909.120 or by any later finding by the Secretary relative to the expenses of the control board, and such additional assessments shall be paid to the control board by each handler on demand.

(b) Refunds. Any money collected as assessments during any crop year and not expended in connection with the respective crop year's operations hereunder may be used and shall be refunded by the control board in accordance with the provisions hereof. Such excess funds may be used by the control board during the period of four months subsequent to such crop year in paying the expenses of the control board incurred in connection with the new crop year. The control board shall, however, from funds on hand, including assessments collected during the new crop year, distribute or make available, within five months after the beginning of the new crop year, the aforesaid excess to each handler from whom an assessment was collected, as aforesaid, in the proportion that the amount of the assessment paid by the respective handler bears to the total amount of assessments paid by all handlers during said crop year.

(c) Disposition of funds upon termination. Any money collected from assessments hereunder and remaining unexpended in possession of the control board upon the termination hereof shall be distributed in such manner as the Secretary may direct.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

AUTHORITY: §§ 940.0 to 940.95 issued under sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. and Sup., 608c.

§ 940.0 Findings and determinations. The findings and determinations hereinafter set forth are supplementary and in addition to the findings and determinations previously made in connection with the issuance of the aforesaid order; and all of said previous findings and determinations are hereby ratified and affirmed except insofar as such findings and determinations may be in conflict with the findings and determinations set forth herein. (For original findings relative to issuance of Order No. 40, see F. R. Doc. 39-2965; 4 F. R. 3599.)

(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the rules of practice and procedure effective thereunder (7 CFR, Part 900), a public hearing was held at Palisade, Colorado, beginning on March 8, 1950, upon proposed amendments to the marketing agreement and Order No. 40, effective August 15, 1939, regulating the handling of peaches grown in the County of Mesa in the State of Colorado. Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) The said order as hereby amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(2) The said order as hereby amended regulates the handling of peaches grown in the County of Mesa in the State of Colorado in the same manner as, and is applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in, the marketing agreement upon which hearings have been held; and

(3) There are no differences in the production and marketing of peaches grown in the production area covered by said order as hereby amended that make necessary different terms and provisions applicable to different parts of such area.

(b) Additional findings. It is hereby found and determined, on the basis hereinafter indicated, that good cause exists for making the provisions of this part effective not later than the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER; and that it would be contrary to the public interest to postpone such effective date until 30 days after publication (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.). It is necessary, in the public interest, to make this part effective upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, so as to facilitate, promote, and maintain orderly marketing of the peaches covered hereunder. Shipments of early varieties of Mesa County peaches will begin to be made in a limited way early in August and in volume soon thereafter. It is necessary, therefore, to make this part effective promptly so that regulations may be formulated and issued prior to the commencement of volume shipments. Thus, the benefits of the program will be available to producers and handlers throughout the marketing season of the 1950 crop. The provisions of this part are well known to handlers, the public hearing on the amendments having been held in Palisade, Colorado, beginning on March 8, 1950, and the recommended decision and final decision having been published on May 11 (15 F. R. 2804, 3038), and June 9, 1950 (15 F. R. 3647, 3811), respectively. Handlers and producers have received copies of the text of the amendatory order; and compliance with the provisions of this part will not require any advance preparation on the part of persons subject thereto that cannot be completed prior to such effective date.

(c) Determinations. It is hereby determined that: (1) The agreement, amending the marketing agreement regulating the handling of peaches grown in the County of Mesa in the State of Colorado, upon which the aforesaid public hearing was held, has been signed by handlers (excluding cooperative associations of producers who were not engaged in processing, distributing, or shipping the peaches covered by this order) who, during the period May 1, 1949, through April 30, 1950, shipped not less than 50 percent of the volume of peaches covered by said order as hereby amended;

(2) The aforesaid agreement, amending the said marketing agreement, has been executed by handlers who were signatory parties to said marketing agreement and who, during the preceding fiscal year, shipped not less than sixty-seven (67) percent of the peaches grown in the County of Mesa in the State of Colorado, shipped by all signatory handlers to said marketing agreement during such fiscal year;

(3) The issuance of this part, amending the aforesaid order, is favored or approved by at least two-thirds of the producers who participated in a referendum on the question of its approval and who, during the determined representative period (May 1, 1949, through April 30, 1950), have been engaged within the County of Mesa in the State of Colorado in the production of peaches for market; and

(4) The issuance of this part, amending the aforesaid order, is favored or approved by producers who, during said representative period, have produced for market at least two-thirds of the volume of such peaches produced for market within the County of Mesa in the State of Colorado.

It is, therefore, ordered, That, on and after the effective date hereof, the handling of peaches grown in the County of Mesa in the State of Colorado as is in the current of commerce between the State of Colorado and any point outside thereof shall be in conformity to, and in compliance with, the terms and conditions of the aforesaid order as hereby amended; and such order is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 940.21 Selection of initial members. The initial members of the Administrative Committee and their respective alternates shall be selected by the Secretary as soon as possible after the effective date hereof. In selecting the initial members and their respective alternates, the Secretary shall make his selections upon the basis of the representation provided for in §§ 940.22 and 940.23. The Secretary may consider such nominations or suggestions, if any, submitted by producers and handlers, which nominations or suggestions may be by virtue of elections conducted by groups of producers and groups of handlers prior to, or immediately subsequent to, the effective date of this part.

§ 940.22 Nomination and selection of successors to initial producer members. (a) Nominations of producer members and their respective alternates, subsequent to the initial members and alternates, shall be made at a meeting of producers in each of the districts, at such times (on or before February 1 of each year) and places as the Administrative Committee shall designate. At each of such meetings, the producers eligible to participate therein shall select a chairman and a secretary therefor. In the election of nominees for producer member and for alternate for such member, each producer shall be entitled to vote in accordance with the provisions of paragraph (b) of this section. The chairman of each meeting shall announce at such meeting the name of each person for whom votes have been cast, whether as member or as alternate, and the number of votes cast for each such person, and the chairman or the secretary of the meeting shall forthwith transmit such information to the Secretary.

(b) Only producers shall participate in the nominations of producer members and their alternates, and a producer may participate only in the elections held in the district in which he produces peaches. No producer shall participate in the election of producer members and their alternates in more than one district in any one fiscal year. In any such election, each producer shall be entitled to cast but one vote on behalf of himself, his agents, partners, and representatives for each nominee to be elected. Cumulative or proxy voting shall not be allowed.

(c) The producers in each district shall elect two nominees for producer member and two nominees for alternate from such district, and the Secretary shall select one producer member and his respective alternate for such district from among the nominees elected by the producers in such district.

§ 940.23 Nomination and selection of successors to initial handler members. (a) Handler members and their respective alternates, subsequent to the initial members and alternates, shall be nominated and selected as follows:

(1) Six nominees for handler members and six nominees for alternates shall be elected by the members of cooperative associations, and the Secretary shall select three handler members and their respective alternates from among such nominees. Any cooperative association shipping 50 percent, or more, of the total volume of peaches shipped by all handlers during the fiscal year in which an election of nominees is being held shall be entitled to elect four of the six nominees for handler members and four of the six nominees for alternates, and the Secretary shall select two of the handler members and their respective alternates from among the nominees elected by such cooperative association: Provided, That if such election is being held between March 1 and October 15 of any year, such percentage of the total volume of peaches shipped shall be based upon the total volume of peaches shipped by all handlers during the fiscal year immediately next preceding that in which such election is being held; and

(b) Nominations of handler members and their respective alternates, subsequent to the initial members and alternates, to be elected by members of cooperative associations shall be made at a meeting or meetings of the members of such cooperative associations at such times (on or before February 1 of each year) and places as the Administrative Committee shall designate. Cumulative voting shall be permissible, but proxy voting shall not be allowed. The chairman of each meeting shall announce at such meeting the name of each person for whom votes have been cast, whether as member or as alternate, and the number of votes cast for each such person, and the chairman or the secretary of such meeting shall forthwith transmit such information to the Secretary.

(c) Nominations for a handler member and his alternate, subsequent to the initial member and alternate, to be elected by handlers other than cooperative associations and members of such associations, shall be made at a meeting of such handlers at such time (on or before February 1 of each year) and place as the Administrative Committee shall designate. At each such meeting, the handlers eligible to participate therein shall select a chairman and a secretary therefor. In the election of nominees for such member and alternate, each such handler shall be entitled to cast but one vote on behalf of himself, his agents, partners, affiliates, subsidiaries, and representatives, which vote shall be weighted by the volume of peaches shipped by such handler during the fiscal year in which such election is being held: Provided, That if such election is being held between March 1 and October 15 of any year, such vote shall be weighted by the volume of peaches shipped by such handler during the fiscal year immediately next preceding that in which such election is being held. Proxy voting shall not be allowed. The chairman of the meeting shall announce at such meeting the name of each person for whom votes have been cast, whether as member or as alternate, and the number of votes cast for each such person, and the chairman or the secretary of the meeting shall forthwith transmit such information to the Secretary.

§ 940.28 Alternate members of Administrative Committee. An alternate for a member shall act in the place and stead of such member during such member's absence, or, in the event of the death, removal, resignation, or disqualification of such member, until a successor for such member is selected and has qualified.

§ 940.29 Vacancies. To fill any vacancy occasioned by the failure to qualify of any person selected as a member or as an alternate for a member of the Administrative Committee, or, in the event of the death, removal, resignation, or disqualification of any member or of any alternate, nomination and selection to fill such vacancy shall be made in the manner set forth in §§ 940.20 to 940.35. If nominations to fill such vacancy are not made or the names of such nominees are not submitted to the Secretary within 20 days after such vacancy occurs, the Secretary may fill such vacancy without regard to nomination.

§ 940.30 Compensation and expenses. The members and the alternates for members of the Administrative Committee shall serve without compensation, but they may be reimbursed, at a rate of not to exceed $5 per meeting, for expenses incurred by them in the performance of their duties and in the exercise of their powers.

(c) To receive, investigate, and report to the Secretary complaints of violations of this part; and

(d) To recommend to the Secretary amendments to this part.

§ 940.32 Duties. The duties of the Administrative Committee shall be as follows:

(e) To furnish to the Secretary such available information as the Secretary requests;

(f) To perform such duties as may be assigned to it from time to time by the Secretary in connection with the administration of section 32 of the act to amend the Agricultural Adjustment Act, and for other purposes, Public Act No. 320, 74th Congress (49 Stat. 774), August 24, 1935, as amended;

(g) To cause the books of the Administrative Committee to be audited by one or more competent accountants at least once each fiscal year and at such other times as the committee may deem necessary or as the Secretary may request, and to file with the Secretary copies of any and all audit reports;

(h) To appoint such employees as it may deem necessary, and to determine the salaries and define the duties of such employees;

(i) To give the Secretary the same notice of meetings of the Administrative Committee as is given to the members of the committee; and

(j) To select a chairman of the Administrative Committee and, from time to time, such other officers as it may deem advisable.

§ 940.33 Procedure. A quorum shall consist of six members of the Administrative Committee, or alternates then serving in the place and stead of any members, in attendance at a meeting, and all decisions of the committee shall be made by not less than six affirmative votes.

§ 940.34 Rights of the Secretary. The members of the Administrative Committee, including successors and alternates, and any agent or employee appointed or employed by the committee shall be subject to removal or suspension by the Secretary for cause at any time. Each and every regulation, decision, determination, or other act of the committee shall be subject to the continuing right of the Secretary to disapprove of the same at any time and, upon such disapproval, shall be deemed null and void except as to acts done in reliance thereon or in compliance therewith prior to such disapproval by the Secretary.

§ 940.35 Funds and other property. (a) All funds received by the Administrative Committee pursuant to any of the provisions of this part shall be used solely for the purposes herein specified, and the Secretary may require the committee and its members to account for all receipts and disbursements.

(b) Upon the death, resignation, removal, or expiration of the term of office of any member of the Administrative Committee, all books, records, funds, and other property in his possession shall be delivered to his successor in office or to the committee, and such assignments and other instruments shall be executed as may be necessary to vest in his successor or in the committee full title to all the books, records, funds, and other property in the possession or under the control of such member pursuant to this part.

EXPENSES AND ASSESSMENTS

§ 940.40 Expenses. The Administrative Committee is authorized to incur such expenses as the Secretary finds are reasonable and likely to be incurred by such committee for its maintenance and functioning hereunder during the then current fiscal year. The committee shall prepare, and submit to the Secretary, a proposed budget of expenses and a proposed rate of assessment for the then current fiscal year. The funds to cover such expenses shall be acquired by the levying of assessments as provided in § 940.41.

§ 940.41 Assessments. Each handler shall pay to the Administrative Committee, upon demand, such handler's pro rata share of the aforesaid expenses. Each handler's pro rata share shall be based upon a rate of assessment fixed by the Secretary and shall be that proportion of such expenses which the total quantity of peaches shipped during a fiscal year by such handler as the first handler thereof is of the total quantity of peaches shipped by all handlers as the first handlers thereof, during the same fiscal year. The rate of assessment may be increased, from time to time during any fiscal year, by the Secretary in order to cover any later finding by the Secretary of the estimated or actual expenses of the committee for said fiscal year. Each such increase shall be applicable to all assessable peaches shipped during such fiscal year.

§ 940.42 Handler accounts. At the end of each fiscal year the Administrative Committee shall credit each handler with any amount paid by such handler in excess of his pro rata share of the expenses or shall debit such handler with the amount by which his pro rata share exceeds the amount paid by him. Any such debits shall become due and payable upon demand of the Committee.

§ 940.43 Suit to enforce collection. The Administrative Committee may, with the approval of the Secretary, maintain a suit in its own name or in the names of its members for the collection of any handler's pro rata share of expenses.

REGULATION OF SHIPMENTS

§ 940.50 Regulation of shipments. Whenever the Administrative Committee deems it advisable to regulate, during any period or periods, the shipment of peaches by grades or sizes, or both, or by minimum standards of quality or maturity, or both, it shall so recommend to the Secretary.

§ 940.51 Recommendation of the Administrative Committee. (a) At the time of submitting each such recommendation for the regulation by grades or sizes, or both, the committee shall furnish to the Secretary, in addition to all pertinent data and information on which it acted in making such recommendation, such other data and information as the Secretary may request. The committee shall promptly give adequate notice to handlers and producers of each such recommendation.

(b) At the time of submitting each such recommendation for the regulation by minimum standards of quality or maturity, or both, the committee shall furnish to the Secretary, in addition to all pertinent data and information on which it acted in making such recommendation, such other data and information as the Secretary may request. Each such recommendation of the committee should, so far as it is practical, be in terms of such grades or sizes, or both, of peaches as would be in the public interest and tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

§ 940.52 Establishment of regulation.—(a) By grades and sizes. Whenever the Secretary finds, from any such recommendation and information or other available information, that to limit the shipment of the total quantity of peaches to particular grades or sizes, or both, would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall so limit the shipment of peaches during a specified period or periods. The Secretary shall promptly notify the committee of each such regulation; and the committee shall promptly give adequate notice thereof to handlers and producers.

(b) By minimum standards of quality and maturity. Whenever the Secretary finds, from any such recommendation and information or other available information, that to establish minimum standards of quality or maturity, or both, and to limit the shipment of peaches during any period or periods to those meeting such minimum standards would be in the public interest and would tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall establish such minimum standards, designate the period or periods, and so limit the shipment of such peaches. The Secretary shall promptly notify the committee of each such regulation; and the committee shall promptly give adequate notice thereof to handlers and producers.

§ 940.53 Exemptions and exemption certificates. (a) The Administrative Committee shall, subject to the approval of the Secretary, adopt procedural rules to govern the issuance of exemption certificates.

(b) In the event the Secretary issues a regulation pursuant to § 940.52, the committee shall determine what the percentage of peaches permitted to be shipped under such regulation is of the total quantity of peaches which would be shipped in the absence of such regulation; and the committee shall forthwith announce this percentage. An exemption certificate shall thereafter be issued by such committee to any producer who furnishes proof, satisfactory to such committee, that by reason of conditions beyond his control he will be prevented, because of the regulation issued, from shipping, or having shipped, a percentage of his crop of peaches equal to the percentage, determined as aforesaid. The certificate shall permit such producer to ship, or have shipped, a percentage of his crop of peaches equal to the aforesaid percentage.

(c) If any producer is dissatisfied with the action of the Administrative Committee taken with respect to his application for an exemption certificate, such producer may appeal to the Secretary. The Secretary may, upon any appeal made as aforesaid, modify or reverse the action of the committee. The authority of the Secretary to supervise and control the issuance of exemption certificates is unlimited and plenary; and any determination by the Secretary with respect to an exemption certificate shall be final and conclusive.

(d) The Administrative Committee shall, from time to time, submit to the Secretary reports stating in detail the number of exemption certificates issued, the quantity of peaches thus exempted, and such additional information as may be requested by the Secretary.

§ 940.54 Inspection and certification. Prior to making each shipment of peaches during any period in which the shipment of peaches is regulated pursuant to § 940.52, each handler shall, if the respective shipment has not theretofore been so inspected, have such shipment inspected by an authorized representative of the Federal-State Inspection Service, or such other inspection service as the Secretary may designate. Promptly thereafter, such handler shall submit, or cause to be submitted, to the Administrative Committee a copy of the inspection certificate issued with respect to such shipment.

§ 940.55 Modification, suspension, or termination. Whenever the Administrative Committee deems it advisable to recommend to the Secretary the modification, suspension, or termination of any or all of the regulations issued pursuant to § 940.52, it shall so recommend to the Secretary. If the Secretary finds, upon the basis of such recommendation or other available information, that to modify any such regulation will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall so modify such regulation. If the Secretary finds, upon the basis of such recommendation or other available information, that any such regulation obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, he shall suspend or terminate such regulation. The Secretary shall promptly notify the committee, and the committee shall promptly give adequate notice to handlers and producers, of each such modification, suspension, and termination. In like manner and upon the same basis the Secretary may terminate any such modification or suspension.

REPORTS AND LIABILITY

§ 940.65 Reports. Upon the request of the Administrative Committee, made with the approval of the Secretary, each handler shall furnish the Committee, in such manner and at such times as it prescribes, such information as will enable it to exercise its powers and to perform its duties under this part.

§ 940.66 Liability of Administrative Committee members. No member, alternate member, or employee of the Administrative Committee shall be held liable, either individually or jointly with others, in any way whatsoever, to any handler or to any other person for errors in judgment, mistakes, or other acts, either of commission or omission, as such member, alternate member, or employee, except for acts of dishonesty.

COMPLIANCE AND EXCEPTIONS

§ 940.70 Compliance. Except as otherwise specifically provided in this part, no person shall ship peaches, the shipment of which has been prohibited by the Secretary in accordance with the provisions of this part.

§ 940.71 Peaches not subject to regulation. Nothing contained herein shall be construed to authorize any limitation of the right of any person to ship (a) peaches for consumption by a charitable institution or for distribution for relief purposes or for distribution by a relief agency; (b) peaches for processing on a commercial scale; or (c) peaches to any one person during any one day if such peaches are not for resale and do not aggregate more than 19 bushels. The inspection and assessment provisions hereof shall not be applicable to peaches so shipped. The Administrative Committee may prescribe adequate safeguards to prevent peaches, shipped for such purposes, from entering commercial channels of trade contrary to the provisions hereof.

EFFECTIVE TIME AND TERMINATION

§ 940.80 Effective time. The provisions of this part shall become effective August 15, 1939, and shall continue in force until terminated in one of the ways specified in § 940.81.

§ 940.81 Termination. (a) The Secretary may at any time terminate the provisions of this part by giving at least 1 day's notice by means of a press release or in any other manner which he may determine.

(b) The Secretary may terminate or suspend the operation of any or all of the provisions of this part whenever he finds that such provision or provisions obstruct or do not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(c) The Secretary shall terminate the provisions of this part at the end of any current marketing period whenever he finds that such termination is favored by a majority of the producers of peaches who, during such current marketing period, have been engaged in the production of peaches for market: Provided, That such majority have, during such period, produced for market more than 50 percent of the total volume of peaches produced for market during such period, but such termination shall be effective only if notice thereof is given on or before February 1 of such current marketing period.

(d) The provisions of this part shall, in any event, terminate whenever the provisions of the act authorizing them cease to be in effect.

§ 940.82 Proceedings after termination. (a) Upon the termination of the provisions of this part, the members of the Administrative Committee then functioning shall, for the purpose of liquidating the affairs of the Committee, continue as joint trustees of all funds and property then in the possession or under the control of the committee, including claims for any funds unpaid or property not delivered at the time of such termination.

(b) The trustees shall continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary; shall, from time to time, account for all receipts and disbursements, or deliver all funds and property on hand, together with all books and records of the Administrative Committee and the joint trustees, to such person as the Secretary may direct; and shall, upon the request of the Secretary, execute such assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person full title to all of the funds and claims vested in the committee or the joint trustees pursuant hereto.

(c) Any funds collected for expenses pursuant to the provisions of this part, and held by such joint trustees or such other person, over and above amounts necessary to meet outstanding obligations and the expenses incurred necessarily by the joint trustees or such other person in the performance of their duties under this part, shall, as soon as practicable after the termination hereof, be returned to the handlers pro rata in proportion to their contributions made pursuant to the provisions of this part.

(d) Any person to whom funds, property, or claims have been delivered by the Administrative Committee or its members upon direction of the Secretary, as provided in this section, shall be subject to the same obligations and duties with respect to said funds, property, or claims as are imposed upon the members of the committee or upon the joint trustees.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 940.90 Agents. The Secretary may, by a designation in writing, name any person, including any officer or employee of the Government, or name any bureau or division in the United States Department of Agriculture, to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this part.

§ 940.91 Duration of immunities. The benefits, privileges, and immunities conferred upon any person by virtue of this part shall cease upon the termination hereof, except with respect to acts done under and during the existence of this part.

§ 940.92 Separability. If any provision of this part is declared invalid or the applicability thereof to any person, circumstance, or thing is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this part or the applicability thereof to any other person, circumstance, or thing shall not be affected thereby.

§ 940.93 Derogation. Nothing contained in this part is or shall be construed to be in derogation or in modification of the rights of the Secretary or of the United States to exercise any powers granted by the Act or otherwise, or, in accordance with such powers, to act in the premises whenever such action is deemed advisable.

§ 940.94 Amendments. Amendments to this part may be proposed, from time to time, by the Administrative Committee or by the Secretary.

§ 940.95 Effect of termination or amendment. Unless otherwise expressly provided by the Secretary, the termination of this part or of any regulation issued pursuant thereto, or the issuance of any amendment to either thereof, shall not (a) affect or waive any right, duty, obligation, or liability which shall have arisen or which may thereafter arise in connection with any provision of this part or any regulation issued hereunder, or (b) release or extinguish any violation of this part or of any regulation issued hereunder, or (c) affect or impair any rights or remedies of the Secretary or of any other person with respect to any such violation.

PART 984—HANDLING OF WALNUTS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA, OREGON, AND WASHINGTON

DETERMINATION RELATIVE TO INCREASE IN BUDGET OF EXPENSES OF WALNUT CONTROL BOARD FOR MARKETING YEAR BEGINNING AUGUST 1, 1949

Notice was published in the July 13, 1950, issue of the FEDERAL REGISTER (15 F. R. 4445) that consideration was being given to the approval of an increase in the budget of expenses for the Walnut Control Board, established pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 105 and Order No. 84 (7 CFR 984.1 et seq.), regulating the handling of walnuts grown in California, Oregon, and Washington, effective under the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.).

In said notice, opportunity was afforded interested persons to submit to the Director, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., written data, views, or arguments for consideration prior to the final approval by the Secretary of this proposed increase in the budget of the Walnut Control Board. No such written data, views or arguments were submitted, and the time for filing them has now expired.

After further consideration of all relevant matters, including the proposal which was submitted by the Walnut Control Board, it is concluded that this proposed increase in the budget of expenses of the Walnut Control Board should be approved. Therefore, it is hereby ordered, that 7 CFR 984.301 be amended to read as follows:

§ 984.301 Budget of expenses of the Walnut Control Board for the marketing year beginning August 1, 1949. Expenses in the amount of $68,080 are reasonable and are likely to be incurred by the Walnut Control Board for its maintenance and functioning, and for such other purposes as the Secretary may, pursuant to the provisions of the marketing agreement and order, determine to be appropriate, for the marketing year beginning August 1, 1949, and the incurring of expenses not in excess of that amount for the said marketing year is approved.

It is hereby further found that it is necessary to make this increase effective not later than the date of the publication of this document in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The end of said marketing year is July 31, 1950, which is less than 30 days distant, and all expenses will need to be incurred before that time. Such expenses will also need to be paid promptly. It has not been practicable to determine heretofore the exact amount of increase which would be needed. No advance preparation for this regulation is required. Therefore, good cause exists for not delaying the effective date of this regulation beyond the date of its publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER (see section 4 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.).

Done at Washington, D. C., this 1st day of August 1950, to be effective on and after 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., on the date of the publication of this document in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Secretary of Agriculture.

TITLE 14—CIVIL AVIATION

Chapter I—Civil Aeronautics Board

[Regs., Serial No. SR-350]

PART 42—IRREGULAR AIR CARRIER AND OFF-ROUTE RULES

AUTHORIZATION FOR SCHEDULED AIR TRANSPORTATION OF CARGO

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 31st day of July 1950.

Special Civil Air Regulation SR-334 currently authorizes air carriers appropriately authorized by the Board to engage in scheduled cargo-only service to conduct such operations under the provisions of Part 42 of the Civil Air Regulations. That authorization expires August 1, 1950. At the time the Board promulgated that regulation it pointed out that that was only a temporary measure pending the development of adequate certification and operation rules for scheduled air transportation of cargo. It was anticipated that such rules would be developed prior to August 1, 1950. However, that project is one in which the Board's Bureau of Safety Regulation is still engaged. Pending a determination in this matter it is considered desirable to continue the authorization currently in effect.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this regulation, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented. Since it imposes no additional burden on any person, this regulation may be made effective without prior notice.

In consideration of the foregoing the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby makes and promulgates the following Special Civil Air Regulation effective August 1, 1950:

Any air carrier authorized by the Board, pursuant to Title IV of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, to engage in scheduled air transportation of cargo may conduct such transportation under the air carrier certification and operation rules prescribed in Part 42 of the Civil Air Regulations.

This regulation shall supersede Special Civil Air Regulation Serial Number SR-334 and shall terminate August 1, 1951, unless sooner terminated or rescinded by the Board.

(Sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interprets or applies secs. 601, 604, 52 Stat. 1007, 1010; 49 U. S. C. 551, 554)

Acting Secretary.

PART 40—AIR CARRIER OPERATING CERTIFICATION

PART 61—SCHEDULED AIR CARRIER RULES

ISSUANCE OF LOCAL AREA AIR CARRIER OPERATING CERTIFICATES FOR AIRCRAFT UNDER 12,500 POUNDS TAKE-OFF WEIGHT

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 31st day of July 1950.

Special Civil Air Regulation SR-333 authorizes the Administrator to issue temporary air carrier operating certificates of one-year duration called Air Carrier Operating Certificates for Local Areas, to scheduled air carriers holding temporary certificates of public convenience and necessity authorizing the use of aircraft under 12,500 pounds maximum certificated take-off weight in accordance with such certification and operating standards as may be established by the Administrator. At the time the Board adopted SR-333 it was intended that appropriate certification and operation standards for such carriers would be developed prior to August 1, 1950. However, while the Board's Bureau of Safety Regulation has been actively engaged in this project, it is not anticipated that this project will be completed prior to August 1, 1950. In view of that and in view of the fact that we believe that it is desirable to differentiate clearly between certificates issued to air carriers using conventional multi-engine aircraft and those using aircraft under 12,500 pounds maximum certificated take-off weight, we consider it necessary to extend the authority granted in SR-333 until August 1, 1951, or until such earlier date as the general rules regarding the certification and operation of such air carriers are adopted, and to authorize the Administrator to extend the duration of certificates issued under SR-333 for another one-year period.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this regulation, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

Since this regulation imposes no additional burden on any person, it may be made effective on less than 30 days' notice.

In consideration of the foregoing, the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby makes and promulgates a Special Civil Air Regulation, effective August 1, 1950, to read as follows:

The Administrator is hereby authorized to issue temporary air carrier operating certificates of one-year duration to scheduled air carriers holding temporary certificates of public convenience and necessity, authorizing the use of aircraft under 12,500 pounds maximum certificated take-off weight, in accordance with such certification and operating standards as may be established by the Administrator and to extend for a like period the duration of certificates heretofore issued under the authority of Special Civil Air Regulation SR-333: Provided, That all such certificates so issued or extended shall expire at such earlier date as may be directed in any general rule issued by the Board regulating this subject matter.

This regulation shall terminate August 1, 1951, unless sooner superseded or rescinded.

(Sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interprets or applies secs. 601, 604, 52 Stat. 1007, 1010; 49 U. S. C. 551, 554)

By the Civil Aeronautics Board.

Acting Secretary.

TITLE 17—COMMODITY AND SECURITIES EXCHANGES

Chapter II—Securities and Exchange Commission

PART 230—GENERAL RULES AND REGULATIONS, SECURITIES ACT OF 1933

SPECIAL EXEMPTION

The Securities and Exchange Commission today announced the adoption of amendments to § 230.240 (Rule 240) under Regulation A–M. That regulation, adopted pursuant to section 3 (b) of the Securities Act of 1933, exempts certain offerings of assessable mining securities from registration under the act.

The purpose of the amendments is to remove the restriction which prevents issuers from commencing more than one offering under the regulation per year. However, the regulation as amended continues to limit the aggregate of unregistered offerings and assessments received to not more than $100,000 in each yearly period. The amendments eliminate paragraph (c) of Rule 240, change the manner of computation of successive yearly periods under paragraph (b) of the rule, and by amendment of paragraph (f) of the rule, require the reporting to the Commission of assessments received by an issuer.

The deletion of paragraph (c) eliminates the restriction under which an issuer could not commence more than one offering under the regulation in any period of one year and, subject to the provisions of the regulation, thereby permits more than one exempted offering in a yearly period.

The amendment changes the manner of determining the successive yearly periods during which offerings of unregistered securities and assessments received are limited in the aggregate of $100,000. The date for commencing such periods will be established by the issuer's first prospectus filed under the Regulation on or after August 1, 1950.

An issuer which has filed a prospectus under the Regulation prior to August 1, 1950, will not be affected by the amendment as to computation of yearly periods unless it files a subsequent prospectus on or after August 1, 1950. The date of such subsequent filing will then determine the measurement of the yearly periods following such filing and a subsequent filing thereafter will not operate to change the computation of the yearly periods.

Under amended paragraph (b), the total of securities offered (other than those registered under the act) and all assessments received by the issuer within any yearly period, as computed for such issuer on the basis of the filing date of its first prospectus on or after August 1, 1950, will be counted to determine the availability of an exemption for further offerings under the regulation during the time remaining before expiration of such yearly period.

The text of the Commission's action is as follows:

The Securities and Exchange Commission, acting pursuant to authority conferred upon it by the Securities Act of 1933, particularly sections 3 (b) and 19 (a) thereof, and finding such action necessary and appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors, and necessary for the execution of the functions vested in it by the said act, hereby takes the following action:

Paragraphs (b), (c) and (f) of § 230.240 (Rule 240) are amended to read as follows:

§ 230.240 For assessable shares of stock of mining corporations. • • •

(b) The sum of the following shall not exceed $100,000 in each successive yearly period commencing with the filing date of the first prospectus required by paragraph (e) of this section which is filed on or after August 1, 1950:

(1) The aggregate offering price of the issuer's securities offered to the public, other than securities registered under the act and other than securities the offering of which has been withdrawn by amending the prospectus, and filing copies of such amended prospectus pursuant to paragraph (f) of this section; and,

(2) The aggregate amount by the issuer as a result of all assessments.

• • • • •

(f) Three copies of the prospectus required under paragraph (e) of this section shall be filed with the regional office of the Commission for the region in which the issuer's principal place of business is located, at least ten days prior to its use. Such copies shall be accompanied by a letter of transmittal showing the amounts referred to in paragraphs (a) (2), (a) (3), (b) (1) and (b) (2) of this section.

The Commission finds that the foregoing amendments will apply only in a limited number of cases and that notice and procedure pursuant to sections 4 (a) and (b) of the Administrative Procedure Act are not necessary. The Commission also finds that the amendment recognizes an exemption and relieves a previous restriction and may, therefore, be made effective immediately.

The foregoing action shall be effective August 1, 1950.

(Sec. 19, 48 Stat. 85 as amended; 15 U. S. C. 77s)

By the Commission.

AUGUST 1, 1950.

Resolved that in conformity with the provisions of Public Law No. 576 of the 81st Congress, approved June 27, 1950, the rules and regulations for Insurance of Accounts (24 CFR, Subchapter D, Chapter I of Subtitle B) are hereby amended, effective June 27, 1950, in the following particulars:

1. Section 162.11 (24 CFR) is repealed.

2. Part 165—Termination of Insurance (24 CFR, Part 165) is amended to read as follows:

Sec.
165.1 Effective date of termination.
165.2 Voluntary termination.
165.3 Termination by the corporation.
165.4 Notice to insured members.
165.5 Cessation of existence; mergers and consolidations.
165.6 Cessation of existence; other cases.
165.7 Surrender of insurance certificate.

AUTHORITY: §§ 165.1 to 165.6 issued under sec. 402, 48 Stat. 1256, as amended, Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1947, 12 F. R. 4981, 3 CFR, 1947 Supp., 61 Stat. 954; 12 U. S. C. 1725, 5 U. S. C. 133y–16. Interpret or apply secs. 404, 407, 48 Stat. 1258, as amended, 1260, sec. 10, Pub. Law No. 576, 81st Cong.; 12 U. S. C. and Sup., 1727, 1730.

§ 165.1 Effective date of termination. The effective date of termination of the insured status of an institution under the provisions of §§ 165.2 and 165.3 shall be the date of the written notice provided for therein.

§ 165.2 Voluntary termination. Any insured institution other than a Federal savings and loan association may terminate its status as an insured institution by written notice to the Corporation. Evidence of legal and valid action to effect termination of its insurance must be submitted by the insured institution to the Corporation with such notice.

§ 165.3 Termination by the corporation. Termination by the Corporation of the insured status of any insured institution for violation of its duty as an insured institution shall be by written notice to such institution. No such notice shall be given by the Corporation to any insured institution until such insured institution shall have been afforded a reasonable opportunity to be heard upon an order to show cause, which order shall state the grounds upon which the proposed termination is based. A violation of any provision of Title IV of the National Housing Act, as amended, any rule or regulation made thereunder, or of any agreement with the Corporation whether made pursuant to section 403 of such act (48 Stat. 1257, 49 Stat. 298; 12 U. S. C. 1726) or otherwise shall constitute a violation by an insured institution of its duty as such.

§ 165.4 Notice to insured members. Upon any termination of the status of any institution as an insured institution, such institution shall submit to the Corporation, within 60 days from the date of such termination, satisfactory evidence of the giving of notice of termination of insurance of accounts to its insured members, as provided by law, together with a copy of the notice given. In the event of the failure of any such institution to submit such evidence within the 60-day period or in the event the Corporation determines the form of notice given by such institution is unsatisfactory, the Corporation may give such notice to the insured members of the institution of the termination of its status as an insured institution as the Corporation determines appropriate.

§ 165.5 Cessation of existence; mergers and consolidations. Subject to the provisions of § 163.16 of this subchapter the termination of the existence of an insured institution by merger or consolidation shall terminate, as of the effective date of such merger or consolidation, the insured status of such insured institution and all rights of its insured members to insurance by this Corporation and its liability for insurance premiums, except premiums still unpaid (including current annual premium) shall cease as of such date.

§ 165.6 Cessation of existence; other cases. In connection with any other case of cessation of existence of an insured institution, by lapse of charter, dissolution, voluntary liquidation, or otherwise than by reason of a default, the insured status of the insured institution, all rights of its insured members to insurance by this Corporation and its liabiliy for insurance premiums, except premiums still unpaid (including current annual premium) shall cease, as of the date of the distribution of its final liquidating dividend.

§ 165.7 Surrender of insurance certificate. Upon termination of insurance of any insured institution under this part, the certificate of insurance shall be surrendered to the Corporation for cancellation.

3. Section 167.2 (24 CFR 167.2) is amended by adding the following sentence at the end thereof: "This section shall not apply to hearings upon action taken by the Corporation to terminate the status of an insured institution as such, under the provisions of section 407 of the National Housing Act, as amended (48 Stat. 1260, Pub. Law No. 576, 81st Cong., approved June 27, 1950; 12 U. S. C. 1730)." so that the section shall read as follows:

§ 167.2 Hearings. Any person who has made an application or petition to the Board pursuant to any provision of Parts 162, 163, 164, or 165 of this subchapter may request a hearing thereon: Provided, Such application or petition has been denied or disapproved by the Board. At any time after the filing of any such application or petition and before consideration thereof by the Board, any interested person may request a hearing upon such application or petition. The Board may order a hearing in connection with the consideration of any matter arising under any provision of the rules and regulations in this subchapter, and, subject to § 167.1, under Title IV of the National Housing Act, as amended, whether or not any request therefor has been made by any person. The Board may deny any request for, or dispense with any hearing for which this section provides when, in its judgment, no need therefor exists. This section shall not apply to hearings upon action taken by the Corporation to terminate the status of an insured institution as such, under the provisions of section 407 of the National Housing Act, as amended (48 Stat. 1260, Pub. Law No. 576, 81st Cong., approved June 27, 1950; 12 U. S. C. 1730).

Resolved further, that these amendments being required by reason of amendments to Title IV of the National Housing Act, as amended, which were effected by an act of Congress approved June 27, 1950 (Pub. Law No. 576, 81st Cong.) changing the procedure governing termination of insurance of accounts, the Home Loan Bank Board hereby finds that they may be adopted under the provisions of § 108.11 of the General regulations of the Home Loan Bank Board (24 CFR 108.11) and that deferment of the effective date would be ineffective.

(Sec. 402, 48 Stat. 1256, as amended, Reorg. Plan No. 3 of 1947, 12 F. R. 4981, 3 CFR, 1947 Supp., 61 Stat. 954; 12 U. S. C. 1725, 5 U. S. C. 133y–16. Interprets or applies secs. 403, 407, 48 Stat. 1257, as amended, 1260; 12 U. S. C. 1726, 1727, 1730)

26 U. S. C. 2883 TRANSFER OF SPIRITS AT REGISTERED DISTILLERIES.

* * * * *

(c) Transfer of rum for denaturation. Rum of not less than one hundred and fifty degrees of proof may be transferred by pipeline for denaturation from receiving cisterns in the cistern room of any distillery to a denaturing bonded warehouse on the distillery premises or to storage tanks situated in the internal revenue bonded warehouse located on the distillery premises, or from such storage tanks to a denaturing bonded warehouse on the distillery premises.

* * * * *

26 U. S. C. 2901 LOSS ALLOWANCES.

(a) Extent. No tax shall be collected in respect of distilled spirits lost or destroyed while in bond, except that such tax shall be collected—

(1) Theft. In the case of loss by theft unless the Commissioner shall find that the theft occurred without connivance, collusion, fraud, or negligence on the part of the distiller, warehouseman, owner, consignor, consignee, bailee, or carrier, or the employees of any of them; and

(2) Voluntary destruction. In the case of voluntary destruction unless the distilled spirits were unfit for use for beverage purposes and the distiller, warehouseman, or other person responsible for the tax, obtained the written permission of the Commissioner for such destruction in each case.

(b) Proof of loss. In any case in which spirits are lost or destroyed, whether by theft or otherwise, the Commissioner may require the distiller or warehouseman or other person responsible for the tax to file a claim for relief from the tax and submit proof as to the cause of such loss. In every case where it appears that the loss was by theft, the burden shall be upon the distiller or warehouseman or other person responsible for the tax to establish to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that such loss did not occur as the result of connivance, collusion, fraud, or negligence on the part of the distiller, warehouseman, owner, consignor, consignee, bailee, or carrier, or the employees of any of them.

(c) Refund of tax. When, in any case where the tax would not be collectible by virtue of subsection (a), but such tax has been paid, the Commissioner shall refund such tax. Nothing in section 2901 as hereby amended, or as heretofore amended, shall be construed to authorize refund of the tax where the loss occurred after the tax was paid.

(d) Insurance coverage. The abatement or refund of taxes provided for by subsection (a) and (c) in the case of loss of distilled spirits by theft shall only be allowed to the extent that the claimant is not indemnified against or recompensed for such loss.

(e) Transfer of duties. For transfer of powers and duties of Commissioner and his agents, see section 3170.

26 U. S. C. 3070 WITHDRAWAL FROM BOND TAX FREE.

(a) For industrial use. Domestic alcohol of such degree of proof as may be prescribed by the Commissioner, and approved by the Secretary, may be withdrawn from bond without the payment of internal revenue tax, for use in the arts and industries, and for fuel, light, and power, provided said alcohol shall have been mixed in the presence and under the direction of an authorized Government officer, after withdrawal from the distillery warehouse, with methyl alcohol or other denaturing material or materials, or admixture of the same, suitable to the use for which the alcohol is withdrawn, but which destroys its character as a beverage and renders it unfit for liquid medicinal purposes; such denaturing to be done upon the application of any registered distillery in denaturing bonded warehouses specially designated or set apart for denaturing purposes only, and under conditions prescribed by the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary.

The character and quantity of the said denaturing material and the conditions upon which said alcohol may be withdrawn free of tax shall be prescribed by the Commissioner, who shall, with the approval of the Secretary, make all necessary regulations for carrying into effect the provisions of this subsection.

Distillers, manufacturers, dealers and all other persons furnishing, handling or using alcohol withdrawn from bond under the provisions of this section shall keep such books and records, execute such bonds and render such returns as the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, may by regulation require. Such books and records shall be open at all times to the inspection of any internal revenue officer or agent.

(b) For use in manufacture of chemicals. Notwithstanding anything contained in subsection (a), domestic alcohol when suitably denatured may be withdrawn from bond without the payment of internal revenue tax and used in the manufacture of ether and chloroform and other definite chemical substances where said alcohol is changed into some other chemical substance and does not appear in the finished product as alcohol. Rum of not less than one hundred and fifty degrees proof may be withdrawn, for denaturation only, in accordance with the provisions of subsection (a).

26 U. S. C. 3072 UNLAWFUL USE OR CONCEALMENT OF DENATURED ALCOHOL.

Any person who withdraws alcohol free of tax under the provisions of section 3070 (a) and regulations made in pursuance thereof, and who removes or conceals same, or is concerned in removing, depositing or concealing same for the purpose of preventing the same from being denatured under governmental supervision, and any person who uses alcohol withdrawn from bond under the provisions of said section for manufacturing any beverage or liquid medicinal preparation, or knowingly sells any beverage or liquid medicinal preparation made in whole or in part from such alcohol, or knowingly violates any of the provisions of section 3070 (a) or 3073, or (except as provided in section 3073) who shall recover or attempt to recover by redistillation or by any other process or means, any alcohol rendered unfit for beverage or liquid medicinal purposes under the provisions of section 3070 (a), or who knowingly uses, sells, conceals, or otherwise disposes of alcohol so recovered or redistilled, shall on conviction of each offense be fined not more than $5,000, or be imprisoned not more than five years, or both, and shall, in addition, forfeit to the United States all personal property used in connection with his business, together with the buildings and lots or parcels of ground constituting the premises on which said unlawful acts are performed or permitted to be performed.

(a) Regulations. Manufacturers employing processes in which alcohol, used free of tax under the provisions of section 3070 (a), is expressed or evaporated from the articles manufactured, shall be permitted to recover such alcohol and to have such alcohol restored to a condition suitable solely for reuse in manufacturing processes under such regulations as the Commissioner, with the approval of the Secretary, shall prescribe.

26 U. S. C. 3111 TAXABILITY OF DENATURED ALCOHOL OR ARTICLES PRODUCED, TRANSFERRED, USED, OR SOLD IN VIOLATION OF LAW OR REGULATIONS.

Any person who shall produce, withdraw, sell, transport, or use denatured alcohol, denatured rum, or articles in violation of laws or regulations now or hereafter in force pertaining thereto, and all such denatured alcohol, denatured rum, or articles shall be subject to all provisions of law pertaining to alcohol that is not denatured, including those requiring the payment of tax thereon; and the person so producing, withdrawing, selling, transporting, or using the denatured alcohol, denatured rum, or articles shall be required to pay such tax.

26 U. S. C. 3114 ALCOHOL PERMITS.

(c) Inaccurate description of denatured articles. Whenever the Commissioner has reason to believe that denatured alcohol, denatured rum, or articles do not correspond with the descriptions and limitations as to such alcohol, rum, or articles provided by law and regulations, he shall cause an analysis of said alcohol, rum, or articles to be made, and if upon such analysis the Commissioner shall find that said alcohol, rum, or articles do not so correspond, he shall give not less than fifteen days' notice in writing to the person who is the manufacturer thereof to show cause why said alcohol, rum, or articles should not be dealt with as other distilled spirits, such notice to be served personally or by registered mail, as the Commissioner may determine, and shall specify the time when, the place where, and the name of the agent or official before whom such person is required to appear.

If the manufacturer of said alcohol, rum, or articles fails to show to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that the alcohol, rum, or articles manufactured by him correspond to the descriptions and limitations as to such alcohol, rum, or articles provided by law and regulations, his permit to manufacture and sell the same shall be revoked. The manufacturer may by appropriate proceeding in a court of equity have the action of the Commissioner reviewed, and the court may affirm, modify, or reverse the finding of the Commissioner as the facts and law of the case may warrant, and during the pendency of such proceedings may restrain the manufacture, sale, or other disposition of such alcohol, rum, or articles.

26 U. S. C. 3170 TRANSFER AND DELEGATION OF POWERS.

The Secretary is authorized to confer and impose upon the Commissioner and any of his assistants, agents, or employees, and upon any other officer, employee, or agent of the Treasury Department, any of the rights, privileges, power, duties, and protection conferred or imposed upon the Secretary, or any officer or employee of the Treasury Department, by any law now or hereafter in force relating to the taxation, exportation, transportation, manufacture, possession, or use of, or traffic in, distilled spirits, wine, fermented liquors, or denatured alcohol.

(b) Retroactivity of regulations or rulings. The Secretary, or the Commissioner with the approval of the Secretary, may prescribe the extent, if any, to which any ruling, regulation, or Treasury Decision, relating to the internal revenue laws, shall be applied without retroactive effect.

(a) Penalties. Any person who willfully makes and subscribes any return, statement, or other document, which contains or is verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury, and which he does not believe to be true and correct as to every material matter, shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction thereof, shall be fined not more than $2,000 or imprisoned not more than five years, or both.

(b) Signature presumed correct. The fact that an individual's name is signed to a return, statement, or other document filed shall be prima facie evidence for all purposes that the return, statement, or other document was actually signed by him.

(c) Verification in lieu of oath. The Commissioner, under regulations prescribed by him with the approval of the Secretary, may require that any return, statement, or other document required to be filed under any provision of the internal revenue laws shall contain or be verified by a written declaration that it is made under the penalties of perjury, and such declaration shall be in lieu of any oath otherwise required.

Subpart L—Control, Custody, and Supervision

§ 187.125 Control of warehouse. Every distillery denaturing bonded warehouse shall be under the control of the supervisor of the district in which such warehouse is located.

§ 187.126 Custody of warehouse. Each distillery denaturing bonded warehouse shall be in the joint custody of the storekeeper-gauger and of the proprietor, and shall at no time be unlocked or opened or remain open when rum or denatured rum is present therein, except in the presence of the storekeeper-gauger. The keys to all Government locks shall remain at all times in the custody of the storekeeper-gauger or of the district supervisor or other officer designated by him. The storekeeper-gauger having custody of such keys will not permit any other person, except the district supervisor or other authorized officer, to secure possession of them.

§ 187.127 Admittance of proprietor. The proprietor shall upon request at reasonable times have admittance, in the presence of the storekeeper-gauger, to the warehouse. The warehouse shall not be opened on Sunday or at night, except in cases of emergency, and then only with the approval of the district supervisor: Provided, That where the rum is in imminent danger of loss by fire, flood, or other casualty, and it is impracticable to first obtain authorization from the district supervisor for the opening of the warehouse, the storekeeper-gauger may, upon the request of the proprietor, open the warehouse for the purpose of preventing loss of the rum, but a report thereof must be made immediately, by telephone or telegraph where possible, to the district supervisor: And provided further, That where the rum is in imminent danger of loss by fire, and it is impracticable to first communicate with the district supervisor or the storekeeper-gauger, city and State fire officers may break open the warehouse for the purpose of preventing loss of the rum, but a similar report thereof must be made immediately to the district supervisor.

§ 187.128 Storekeeper-gauger to supervise operations. The distillery denaturing bonded warehouse will be operated under the supervision of the storekeeper-gauger assigned to the distillery or the internal revenue bonded warehouse: Provided, That where operations at the distillery or the internal revenue bonded warehouse are such that the officer or officers assigned thereto cannot adequately supervise the operations at the denaturing bonded warehouse, the district supervisor will assign one or more officers to the denaturing bonded warehouse in order that the required supervision may be maintained.

The storekeeper-gauger will apply Government locks and seals wherever the same are required.

Subpart M—Transfer of Rum to Warehouse

§ 187.135 Methods of transfer. Rum of not less than 150 degrees of proof may be transferred for denaturation to a distillery denaturing bonded warehouse located on the distillery premises:

(a) By pipeline direct from the distillery receiving cisterns through weighing tanks to storage or mixing tanks in the denaturing bonded warehouse;

(b) By pipeline from the distillery receiving cisterns through weighing tanks to storage tanks in an internal revenue bonded warehouse on the distillery premises and from such warehouse storage tanks through weighing tanks to storage or mixing tanks in the denaturing bonded warehouse; or

(c) In original packages, from an internal revenue bonded warehouse on the distillery premises, if such rum was produced at the distillery on the same premises.

(53 Stat. 335, as amended; 26 U. S. C. 2883)

§ 187.136 Application, Form 573. When the proprietor desires to transfer rum of not less than 150 degrees of proof to the denaturing bonded warehouse for denaturation, he will file application therefor with the storekeeper-gauger in charge on Form 573, in triplicate. Where the rum is to be transferred by pipeline, the applicant shall specify on Form 573 the maximum number of tax gallons to be so transferred.

§ 187.137 Sufficiency of bond. Where the bond covering operation of a denaturing bonded warehouse is given in less than the maximum penal sum of $100,000, the district supervisor will inform the storekeeper-gauger in charge of the penal sum of the bond, and the storekeeper-gauger will see that the quantity of rum transferred to the denaturing bonded warehouse is within the limits of the bond.

§ 187.138 Report of gauge, Form 1520; packages. If the rum described in the application, Form 573, is in packages, Form 1520 will be prepared by the proprietor, pursuant to Regulations 10 (26 CFR Part 185). The storekeeper-gauger will verify by reference to his records, the entries in the headings thereof and the details of the entry gauge transcribed thereto. A careful gauge will be made of all packages, except that rum in original packages may be transferred to the denaturing bonded warehouse on the original gauge, if such transfer is made within 30 days of the date of the original entry for deposit. The storekeeper-gauger will enter on Form 1520 the weights and proofs found on gauge and will return the form to the proprietor for completion. Upon completion, the Form 1520 will be returned to the storekeeper-gauger for verification and signature. Where packages of rum are transferred to the denaturing bonded warehouse on the original gauge, the proprietor will copy the details of such gauge on Form 1520. When rum for denaturation is transferred in packages, a careful inspection of such packages will be made prior to transfer, and where evidence of tampering or unusual loss is found, the provisions of Regulations 10 (26 CFR Part 185), relative to losses of distilled spirits in bond will be followed.

§ 187.139 Report of gauge, Form 1520; pipeline transfers. Where the rum described in the application, Form 573, is to be transferred from distillery receiving cisterns or warehouse storage tanks, it will be run into a weighing or gauging tank and carefully gauged. Where no weighing or gauging tank is provided in the distillery or internal revenue bonded warehouse, the rum may be gauged in a weighing tank in the denaturing bonded warehouse, in which case the rum shall be run directly from the receiving cistern or storage tank to a weighing tank in the denaturing bonded warehouse. The storekeeper-gauger will prepare Form 1520, in triplicate, and enter the details of the gauge thereon.

§ 187.140 Transfer of rum. Upon completion of the gauge and Form 1520, the storekeeper-gauger will permit the rum to be transferred to the denaturing bonded warehouse. If the rum is in packages the proprietor will, under the supervision of the storekeeper-gauger and before removal of the rum to the denaturing bonded warehouse, stencil upon the head of each package, in letters and figures large enough to be easily read, the words, "For Denaturation," followed by the date of removal to the denaturing bonded warehouse.

§ 187.141 Supervision of transfers. The transfer of rum from the distillery or internal revenue bonded warehouse to the denaturing bonded warehouse will be made under the supervision of the storekeeper-gauger. Where rum is so transferred by pipeline, the storekeeper-gauger supervising the deposit of the rum in a storage, weighing, or mixing tank in the denaturing bonded warehouse will see that the outlet and all other openings of such tank, except the inlet, are closed and locked and that the valves in the pipeline are so adjusted by the proprietor as to control the flow of rum into the tank before the outlet of the distillery receiving cistern or weighing tank, or the warehouse storage or gauging tank from which the rum is to be transferred is unlocked. When the rum has been deposited in the tank in the denaturing bonded warehouse the inlet of such tank and the outlets of the pipeline and the distillery receiving cistern or weighing tank, or warehouse storage or gauging tank will be immediately closed by the proprietor and locked by the storekeeper-gauger. The valves on the pipelines, and the openings of tanks containing rum or specially denatured rum, shall be kept closed and locked at all times, except when required to be open for the transfer of rum or specially denatured rum or for other necessary purposes. Whenever rum or specially denatured rum is to be transferred into or out of tanks the storekeeper-gauger will open and close the locks, but it shall be the duty of the proprietor to manipulate the stopcocks or valves controlling the flow of the rum. The storekeeper-gauger will not permit the transfer of rum from the distillery cistern room or the internal revenue bonded warehouse to the denaturing bonded warehouse by pipeline unless the use of such pipeline has been approved in accordance with the provisions of this part.

§ 187.142 Disposition of Forms 573 and 1520. Upon the transfer of the rum, the storekeeper-gauger will execute his certificate of gauge and transfer on each copy of Form 573, retain one copy of Form 573, with Form 1520 attached, deliver one copy of each to the proprietor and forward one copy of each to the district supervisor.

Subpart N—Formula for Denaturation of Rum

§ 187.155 Special Formula No. 4. The following formula is prescribed for the denaturation of rum:

SPECIAL FORMULA No. 4

To every 100 gallons of rum of not less than 150 degrees of proof add 1 gallon of the following solution: 5 gallons of an aqueous solution containing 40 percent nicotine; 3.6 ounces of methylene blue; water to make 100 gallons.

The denaturing solution must conform to the following analytical requirements:

Determination of nicotine. It must contain not less than 1.88 percent of nicotine when tested by the following process: 20 c. c. of the solution are measured into a 500 c. c. Kjeldahl flask provided with a suitable bulb tube, 10 c. c. of N/10 alkali added, the liquid made up to 50 c. c., and distilled in a current of steam until the distillate is no longer alkaline (about 500 c. c.). The distillate is then titrated with N/10 H_2SO_4, using rosolic acid or methyl red as an indicator. Not less than 25.2 c. c. should be required for the neutralization.

To determine the intensity of color. Of the denaturing solutions, 1 c. c. is diluted with 100 c. c. of water and 50 c. c. of this solution are compared in a 50 c. c. Nessler tube with 50 c. c. of a solution containing 5 grams of $CuSO_4.5H_2O$, C. P., in 100 c. c. of water.

Caution. It has been found that the above modified denaturing material when kept in closely stoppered containers loses its color, but when agitated in the presence of air the color returns. Therefore, officers should see that this material is thoroughly agitated in the presence of air, before being added to the rum to be denatured.

If the officer is in doubt, a standard color sample will be sent on request.

SUBPART O—DENATURING MATERIALS

§ 187.160 Storage of denaturants. Authorized denaturants may be brought on the denaturing bonded warehouse premises in any desired quantity if ample storage facilities have been provided, but the same must be immediately placed in the denaturing material storeroom or the denaturing material tanks. Denaturants which are used in small quantities may be stored in the original packages, in the denaturing material storeroom. All other denaturants must be deposited in the appropriate tanks or other approved receptacles. Each tank or other receptacle in which denaturants are stored, either within or without the denaturing material storeroom, must have plainly marked thereon the kind of denaturant contained therein.

§ 187.161 Taking samples of denaturants. Except as provided in § 187.169, the storekeeper-gauger in charge will take a 1-pint sample from each package or tank or other approved receptacle of mingled denaturants received or prepared, and will forward the same to the chemist authorized by the Commissioner to analyze such denaturants. Where a lot comprising a number of packages of the mingled denaturants is received or prepared, samples of equal quantities shall be taken from each package and mingled, and the 1-pint sample to be forwarded to the authorized chemist taken from such mixture. The sample to be submitted to the authorized chemist shall be taken from the denaturing solution of 100 gallons specified in the prescribed formula.

§ 187.162 Container to be sealed. After taking the sample the storekeeper-gauger will securely close and seal the tank or package from which it was obtained, and no part of the contents of such tank or package may be used until the sample has been officially tested and approved, and report on Form 1472 of such test is received by the storekeeper-gauger in charge of the plant.

§ 187.163 Packaging samples of denaturants. Samples of denaturants to be submitted by the storekeeper-gauger to the authorized chemist for analysis must be placed in heavy glass bottles or other suitable containers to be provided by the proprietor of the denaturing bonded warehouse, and such bottles or containers must be securely closed and a label (Form 1469) affixed thereto showing the name of the substance, serial number of the denaturing material tank or a description of the container from which the sample was taken, date it was taken, and the name of the officer forwarding it to the chemist. All samples of denaturants submitted for analysis must be sealed with wax by use of the seal furnished for such purpose or by a paper seal signed by the storekeeper-gauger. The authorized chemist shall not examine samples of denaturants brought to him unless they bear the seal of the Government officer.

§ 187.164 Shipment of samples to authorized chemist. The samples of denaturants, after being securely packed and sealed, shall be sent to the most convenient authorized chemist for examination and report. District supervisors will furnish proprietors of denaturing bonded warehouses and storekeeper-gaugers with the names and addresses of authorized chemists. All expenses in connection with the forwarding and testing of samples must be borne by the proprietor. A report of each sample submitted by the storekeeper-gauger for analysis shall be prepared by him on Form 1472, in triplicate, and forwarded to the authorized chemist.

§ 187.165 Report of analysis by the chemist. Upon completion of the analysis of the denaturants, the authorized chemist shall make a report of his analysis on the Form 1472, in triplicate, received from the storekeeper-gauger, note his approval or disapproval of the samples thereon, and sign the same. One copy of the Form 1472 shall be returned to the storekeeper-gauger in charge of the denaturing bonded warehouse, one copy shall be forwarded to the district supervisor of the district in which the warehouse is located, and the remaining copy shall be transmitted to the Commissioner.

§ 187.166 Retention of samples. The authorized chemist must retain all samples of rum denaturants for a period of 30 days so that they will be available for reference.

§ 187.167 Approval of denaturants. If the sample is approved the contents of the tank or package from which the same was taken shall, upon receipt of the chemist's report, become an approved denaturant and the storekeeper-gauger shall at once remove the seals from such tank or package and permit the denaturant to be used.

§ 187.168 Treatment of disapproved denaturant. Where a sample of denaturant does not conform to the prescribed specifications, the storekeeper-gauger shall, upon receipt of the chemist's report of disapproval, permit the proprietor, if he so desires, to treat or manipulate the proposed denaturant so as to render it suitable for use. Where the denaturant is so treated or manipulated, another sample must be submitted for approval. If the proprietor does not desire to further treat the denaturant, the storekeeper-gauger shall require him immediately to remove the denaturant from the premises.

§ 187.169 Supplying denaturant to other proprietors. Proprietors of distillery denaturing bonded warehouses will be permitted to supply approved denaturant, i. e., denaturing solution which has been tested and approved by the authorized chemist, to proprietors of other distillery denaturing bonded warehouses: Provided, That such denaturant is furnished in containers properly marked and sealed, with a certificate attached by the storekeeper-gauger in charge at the denaturing bonded warehouse making shipment or delivery of the denaturant. Such denaturant need not be further analyzed at the receiving denaturing bonded warehouse.

SUBPART P—DENATURATION OF RUM

§ 187.180 General. Only rum of not less than 150 degrees of proof may be denatured and the denaturation thereof must be done at a distillery denaturing bonded warehouse and in strict conformity with the prescribed formula. No rum may be denatured except in the immediate presence of the storekeeper-gauger assigned to supervise the operation of the denaturing bonded warehouse.

§ 187.181 Notice, Form 576. Whenever the proprietor of a denaturing bonded warehouse desires to manufacture denatured rum, he shall give notice to the storekeeper-gauger in charge on Form 576, in triplicate, furnishing all the information indicated by the headings of the various columns and lines on the form, and the instructions printed thereon or issued in respect thereto and as required by this part.

§ 187.182 Denaturation. Upon receipt of Form 576, properly executed, the storekeeper-gauger will see that the exact quantity of rum and the proper quantity of approved denaturants are conveyed directly to the mixing tank and that the same are thoroughly agitated and mixed therein before being drawn off for shipment or storage.

§ 187.183 Measuring rum and denaturants. All denaturants before being used must be carefully measured or weighed by the proprietor under the supervision of the storekeeper-gauger in previously tested receptacles or by scales provided by the proprietor; and all rum to be used, unless dumped from packages gauged within the preceding 30 days or received by pipeline and run directly into mixing tanks, must be carefully proofed and measured or weighed by the proprietor under the supervision of the storekeeper-gauger. The proprietor will provide accurate hydrometers and thermometers for his own use in determining the proof of the rum, and will not use the Government owned instruments.

§ 187.184 Responsibility of proprietor. The proprietor will be held strictly accountable for any errors in the quantities of denaturants added. It is important that his determinations shall be absolutely correct. He must know that the measuring or weighing devices used by him are accurate.

§ 187.185 Responsibility of storekeeper-gauger. The storekeeper-gauger in charge must frequently apply, or cause to be applied, such tests to the measuring or weighing devices as will satisfy him that they are accurate. The accuracy of scales used for weighing packages will be determined by means of the test weights provided in accordance with § 187.62. Weighing tank scales shall be tested and their accuracy determined in accordance with the procedure prescribed in Regulations 4 (26 CFR Part 183). If the storekeeper-gauger finds the measures or scales to be inaccurate he shall refuse to permit their use until the proprietor has provided accurate measures or scales.

SUBPART Q—TRANSFER OF DENATURED RUM TO STORAGE OR SHIPPING CONTAINERS

§ 187.195 Kinds of containers. Unless temporarily retained under Government lock in the mixing tank, denatured rum must, when the manufacture thereof is completed, be transferred to properly equipped denatured rum tanks and stored therein under Government lock, or drawn into packages or other portable containers for immediate shipment or storage in the specially denatured rum storeroom, or transferred to tank cars for immediate shipment.

§ 187.196 Application to gauge, Form 577. When the proprietor desires to draw denatured rum into packages or other portable containers, or into tank cars for shipment he shall file application on Form 577, in triplicate, with the storekeeper-gauger in charge for the gauging of such denatured rum. The denatured rum then will be drawn into packages or other portable containers, or run into a weighing tank, as the case may be, and gauged by the proprietor under supervision of the storekeeper-gauger. Upon completion of the gauge, the storekeeper-gauger will execute his report on Form 577, retain one copy of the form, deliver one copy to the proprietor, and forward one copy to the district supervisor.

SUBPART R—MARKING CONTAINERS OF SPECIALLY DENATURED RUM

MARKING PACKAGES

§ 187.200 Serial number. All packages containing specially denatured rum filled at a distillery denaturing bonded warehouse shall be numbered serially beginning with number 1 for the first package filled: Provided, That the series in current use at existing denaturing bonded warehouses will be continued. Where there is a change in the individual or corporate name, or in the trade name or style, or in the proprietorship of the business, the series in use at the time of such change will be continued.

(53 Stat. 307; 26 U. S. C. 2808)

§ 187.201 Other required marks. In addition to the serial number, there shall be placed upon the Government head of each package of specially denatured rum the name of the proprietor, registered number and location (city or town and State) of the denaturing bonded warehouse, the words, "Specially Denatured Rum," formula number, apparent proof, contents in wine gallons, and the date filled. Such marks and brands shall be plainly and durably marked or stenciled upon the package in a color contrasting with that of the surface upon which placed. The words "Specially Denatured Rum" shall be placed upon the package in conspicuous letters of not less than 1 inch in height, each letter being of the same size and color: Provided, That in the case of packages containing less than 5 wine gallons the words "Specially Denatured Rum" may be in letters of less than 1 inch in height, but must be as prominently displayed as is consistent with the size of the package. The required marks shall be placed upon the package by the proprietor, under the supervision of the storekeeper-gauger.

§ 187.202 Additional marks. There may be shown upon the Government heads of packages of denatured rum, in letters no more conspicuous or larger than those used in placing the required marks thereon, the brand name and a statement indicating the character of the product, but such additional marks shall not be so placed upon the Government head of the package as to unduly detract from the required marks thereon.

MARKING TANK CARS

§ 187.203 Manner of marking. Each tank car used for shipping specially denatured rum must have legibly marked or painted thereon its number, capacity in wine gallons, and the name or symbol of the owner. Tank cars into which specially denatured rum is transferred for shipment must also be constructed and labeled in accordance with Subpart V of this part.

SUBPART S—FURNISHING SAMPLES OF DENATURED RUM

§ 187.210 To whom samples may be furnished. The proprietor of a distillery denaturing bonded warehouse may furnish samples of specially denatured rum to prospective applicants for permits to use specially denatured rum, who need not necessarily be then engaged in business; to applicants for permits to use specially denatured rum; and to holders of such permits, for experimental purposes and for use in preparing samples of products for submission to the Commissioner for analysis. Preparations made with samples of specially denatured rum may not be sold, unless Form 1479–A, giving the quantitative formula, and a sample of the preparation are submitted to and approved by the Commissioner, and permit on Form 1481 to use specially denatured rum in the manufacture of such preparation is procured from the district supervisor.

§ 187.211 Application, Form 1512. Application for the withdrawal of samples of specially denatured rum shall be made to the district supervisor on Form 1512, and proprietors of denaturing bonded warehouses may furnish samples of specially denatured rum only pursuant to Form 1512, duly approved by the district supervisor, except that where the quantity involved in any case does not exceed 8 fluid ounces application to or approval by the district supervisor will not be required, but the commercial records of the vendor must show each such transaction.

§ 187.213 Labeling and sealing samples. All samples of specially denatured rum furnished by the proprietor of a denaturing bonded warehouse shall be sealed, and labeled to show the name and address of the proprietor, the formula number and, where furnished pursuant to Form 1512, the serial number of such form.

§ 187.214 Record of samples. All samples of specially denatured rum furnished by the proprietor pursuant to permits on Form 1512 shall be entered by the storekeeper-gauger on Form 575 in the same manner as other shipments of such denatured rum. The storekeeper-gauger will enter the serial number of the permit, Form 1512, in the appropriate column on Form 575, and, where Form 1512 bears the serial number of the applicant's basic permit in addition to its own serial number, the storekeeper-gauger will enter the serial numbers of both permits on Form 575. Where samples of 8 fluid ounces or less are furnished, entry thereof will be made on the proprietor's commercial records, as provided in § 187.211.

SUBPART T—DISPOSITION OF SPECIALLY DENATURED RUM

§ 187.225 To permittees. Except as otherwise provided in this part, the proprietor of a distillery denaturing bonded warehouse or a dealer in specially denatured rum may sell or dispose of specially denatured rum only to the person to whom a permit has been issued, in accordance with the provisions of Regulations 3 (26 CFR Part 182) authorizing the procurement thereof. Specially denatured rum may not be shipped on permits authorizing the procurement of specially denatured alcohol.

§ 187.226 Permit authority for shipment. The proprietor of a denaturing bonded warehouse or a dealer in specially denatured rum may ship or deliver specially denatured rum to qualified permittees in accordance with this part and Regulations 3 (26 CFR Part 182).

§ 187.227 Withdrawal permits, Form 1477 or Form 1485. When permits on Form 1477 or Form 1485, authorizing the procurement of specially denatured rum by bonded dealers or users, respectively, are issued by the district supervisor pursuant to application therefor, the district supervisor will forward the permit by mail to the permittee. When a dealer or user desires to procure specially denatured rum, he will forward the withdrawal permit to the proprietor or dealer named therein from whom he desires to procure the specially denatured rum. Upon shipment, the proprietor or dealer will enter the shipment on the withdrawal permit and return it to the permittee, unless the proprietor or dealer has been authorized by the permittee to retain the permit for the purpose of making future shipments. No specially denatured rum may be shipped by a vendor named in the withdrawal permit until such permit is in his possession, and specially denatured rum may not be furnished in excess of the quantity set forth in the withdrawal permit.

§ 187.228 Cancellation of withdrawal permit. The person upon whose application, a permit on Form 1477 or Form 1485 has been issued, may at any time file request for the cancellation of such permit and the issuance of a new permit naming a new vendor or vendors. The district supervisor shall, upon receipt of such request, notify the proprietor of the denaturing bonded warehouse holding the permit to be superseded that the same has been canceled and that no more shipments or deliveries may be made to the vendee under such permit. The proprietor shall immediately forward the canceled permit to the district supervisor. Upon expiration of a withdrawal permit, it shall be returned to the district supervisor for cancellation. Where the withdrawal permit is in the possession of a vendor on the date of expiration, such vendor shall return it to the permittee for surrender to the district supervisor. Should a basic permit, Form 1476 (held by a dealer in specially denatured rum to whom withdrawal permit, Form 1477, was issued), or a basic permit, Form 1481 (held by a person to whom withdrawal permit, Form 1485, was issued), be terminated, surrendered, or revoked, each proprietor or dealer named as vendor in withdrawal permits, Forms 1477 or 1485, shall, upon notice from the district supervisor, make no further shipments thereunder, and if such withdrawal permit is in his possession, he shall return it to the district supervisor for cancellation.

§ 187.229 Release of specially denatured rum for shipment. When the proprietor desires to ship specially denatured rum pursuant to withdrawal permit on Form 1477 or Form 1485, he shall present such permit to the storekeeper-gauger for examination. If the officer finds that the permit authorizes the proposed shipment, he will permit shipment of the specially denatured rum.

SUBPART U—EXPORTATION OF SPECIALLY DENATURED RUM

§ 187.240 Application, Form 1545. Where the proprietor of a denaturing bonded warehouse desires to export specially denatured rum, he shall file application on Form 1545, in triplicate, with the district supervisor for a permit to export the same. The application, properly modified to cover the exportation of specially denatured rum by the proprietor of a denaturing bonded warehouse, must contain all of the information indicated by the lines on the form and the instructions printed thereon or issued in respect thereto and as required by this part. Form 1545 must be sworn to by an officer authorized to administer oaths: Provided, That if the form officially prescribed for such application contains therein a provision for verification by a written declaration that such application is made under the penalties of perjury, such application shall be verified by the execution of such declaration, and such declaration so executed shall be in lieu of the oath required herein for verification.

§ 187.241 Consent of surety, Form 1533. Before an application for a permit to export specially denatured rum may be approved, the proprietor must file with the district supervisor consent of surety, Form 1533, in triplicate, extending the terms of his denaturing warehouse bond, Form 572, to cover the exportation of such rum. The extension of the terms of the bond, if intended to cover the exportation of specially denatured rum from time to time shall be in the following form:

> The obligors hereby agree to extend the terms of said bond to cover all liability that may be incurred for and on account of all specially denatured rum hereafter withdrawn by the principal for exportation, for which satisfactory evidence of exportation and landing at a foreign port, or of loss on land or at sea, without fault or negligence on the part of the principal or his agents, is not furnished as provided by law or regulations now or hereafter in force.

The consent of surety may, if desired, be limited to cover the exportation of a specific lot of specially denatured rum, instead of being furnished in a continuing form, as provided in this section.

§ 187.242 Permit to export. If the application is properly prepared and the required consent of surety has been filed, and the bond, if given in less than the maximum penal sum, is sufficient to cover the tax on the specially denatured rum to be exported, plus the tax on the quantity of rum, either denatured or undenatured, on hand or unaccounted for, and if there is nothing to indicate that such rum will be used for any unlawful purpose, and proper certificates of clearance and landing have been filed for previous shipments, as required by this subpart, the district supervisor will approve the application, which thereupon becomes a permit. The district supervisor will then forward all copies of Form 1545 to the storekeeper-gauger in charge of the warehouse.

§ 187.243 Consignment to collector of customs. Upon receipt of the approved application and permit, Form 1545, by the storekeeper-gauger, and the marking of the packages as provided in this section and Subpart R of this part, the applicant may withdraw the specially denatured rum specified on the form and consign the same to the collector of customs at the port of export for exportation under his supervision. The applicant shall procure two copies of the bill of lading covering the shipment and submit them to the storekeeper-gauger, who will immediately forward one copy of Form 1545 with a copy of the bill of lading attached to the collector of customs and one copy of such form and bill of lading to the district supervisor, and will deliver the remaining copy of Form 1545 to the applicant. The storekeeper-gauger will, upon release of the specially denatured rum for shipment, make appropriate entry on Form 575 of the withdrawal thereof. The proprietor shall plainly and legibly stencil on the Government head of each package of specially denatured rum, before the same is released for exportation, the words "For Export," in addition to the marks required by Subpart R of this part.

§ 187.244 Export entry; certificate of exportation, etc. When the specially denatured rum arrives at the port of export, the exporter or his agent shall file immediately with the collector of customs an export entry and two copies of the export bill of lading; and when the vessel, railroad car, motor truck, or other conveyance on which the specially denatured rum is laden for exportation has cleared the port of export, the collector of customs shall execute the certificate of exportation on the copy of Form 1545 sent to him, and return the same with one copy of the bill of lading to the district supervisor.

§ 187.245 Evidence of foreign landing. The proprietor shall, within 30 days after the date of shipment of such specially denatured rum where exportation is made to Canada or Mexico, and within 90 days after the date of shipment where exportation is made to any other foreign country or possession, secure and forward to the district supervisor a certificate showing that the shipment was duly landed at the foreign port. The landing certificate shall be executed by a customs officer of the foreign country or possession to which the specially denatured rum is exported, unless it is shown that such country or possession has no customs administration, in which event the certificate shall be signed by the consignee or by the vessel's agent at the place of landing and sworn to before a notary public or other officer authorized to administer oaths, and having an official seal. Failure by the proprietor to produce within the specified time satisfactory evidence of the landing of the shipment of specially denatured rum at a foreign port, or of loss of the same on land or at sea after shipment, as provided in § 187.246, shall be sufficient grounds for refusal by the district supervisor to issue to the proprietor any further permits to export specially denatured rum, pending the filing of the required evidence of clearance and foreign landing, or of loss on land or at sea, of shipments previously made, or the assessment of tax or the enforcement of liability against the bond.

§ 187.246 Proof of loss after clearance. When the proprietor is unable to furnish proof of landing at a foreign port in consequence of loss on land or at sea after shipment, he shall file with the district supervisor issuing the permit, Form 1545, a statement setting forth fully the cause and extent of the loss and all the pertinent facts and circumstances surrounding the same. Such statement must be accompanied by affidavits from two or more creditable and disinterested persons as to the loss. If the specially denatured rum was insured, the proprietor shall also file certificates by officers of the insurance company, or board of underwriters, that the insurance has been paid and that, to the best of their knowledge and belief, the specially denatured rum was destroyed on land or at sea after shipment. When obtainable, affidavits must be furnished by the master and mate of the vessel, conductor in charge of the railroad car, or operator of the motor truck or other conveyance, as the case may be, detailing the cause and extent of the loss and all pertinent facts and circumstances surrounding the same. Such proofs shall be furnished the district supervisor within the time provided in § 187.245 for furnishing proof of foreign landing, or within such further time as the district supervisor or Commissioner may deem reasonable.

§ 187.247 Losses in transit to port of export. Allowance for losses of specially denatured rum in transit from the denaturing bonded warehouse to the port of export will be made in accordance with provisions of Subpart W of this part.

§ 187.248 Shipment to American Territories and possessions. The provisions of this subpart and the forms prescribed by it, shall be applicable to the shipment of specially denatured rum to Puerto Rico, Guam, American Samoa, the Virgin Islands, and the Panama Canal Zone. The shipment of specially denatured rum to or from Hawaii and Alaska shall be in accordance with the provisions of this part governing shipments entirely within the continental limits of the United States.

§ 187.260 Tank trucks. Deliveries of specially denatured rum by tank wagons or tank trucks are not permitted.

§ 187.261 Packages. Deliveries of specially denatured rum may be made in packages of any desired size to persons authorized to receive the same. The packages must be marked in accordance with the provisions of Subpart R of this part.

§ 187.262 Tank cars. Deliveries of specially denatured rum may also be made in railroad tank cars to persons authorized to receive the same: Provided, That deliveries may be made in tank cars only where the premises of the consignor and consignee are equipped with suitable railroad siding facilities. Railroad tank cars must be marked as provided in Subpart R of this part, and must be so constructed that all openings which would afford access to the contents may be closed and securely fastened and sealed. The tank car will be so closed and sealed by the proprietor under the supervision of the storekeeper-gauger immediately after it has been filled. The tank car will be sealed with railroad or other appropriate seals furnished by the proprietor.

§ 187.263 Tank car label. The proprietor of the denaturing bonded warehouse shall affix to each tank car of specially denatured rum a label showing the name of the proprietor, registered number and location (city or town and State) of the denaturing bonded warehouse, the name and location of the consignee, the quantity in wine gallons, the formula number, and the date withdrawn for shipment. The label will be in substantially the following form:

Withdrawn May 17, 1949

The label shall be securely affixed to the route board of the car and shall be obliterated when the car is emptied.

§ 187.264 Deliveries by proprietor. The proprietor of a denaturing bonded warehouse shall make deliveries of specially denatured rum from his premises only in vehicles operated or controlled by him, or by a railroad or steamship company, or express company operating on a railroad or steamship line, or by a trucking company holding permit to transport specially denatured or tax-free alcohol. Where the specially denatured rum is delivered in vehicles operated or controlled by the proprietor, delivery must be made within 24 hours and the proprietor shall be responsible on his bond for the delivery of the specially denatured rum to the premises of the consignee. Where shipments of specially denatured rum are made by railroad, steamship or express company, or by a trucking company holding permit to transport specially denatured or tax-free alcohol, as provided in this section, the proprietor shall be responsible on his bond for delivery of the specially denatured rum to such carrier.

§ 187.265 Report of shipment, Form 597. Whenever specially denatured rum is shipped from the premises of a distillery denaturing bonded warehouse, the proprietor shall, at the time shipment is made, prepare a report thereof on Form 597 and immediately deliver the same to the storekeeper-gauger in charge. The report will be furnished in duplicate, except that one copy only need be furnished where the consignor and consignee are located in the same district. The proprietor will date the form and furnish all the information indicated by the headings of the various columns and lines in Part I. Where shipments are made in railroad tank cars, or consist of barrels or drums in carload lots, the name of the railroad; the number of the car, and the routing of the shipment shall be reported on Form 597. The consignor shall not change the routing without giving immediate notice of such action to the supervisor of his district.

§ 187.266 Disposition of Form 597. The storekeeper-gauger will, upon receipt of Form 597, check the same with the withdrawal permit and, if found to agree, will enter the shipment on Form 575 and date and initial Part II of each copy of Form 597. Where the consignee is located in another district the storekeeper-gauger will, on the same day he receives Form 597, forward one copy thereof to the supervisor of such district and one copy to the supervisor of the district from which the shipment is made. The supervisor of the district in which the consignee is located will check the copy of Form 597 sent to him with the monthly report of the consignee, execute Part III of the form, and forward the same to the supervisor of the district in which the consignor is located. The supervisor of the latter district will check the copy of Form 597 received from the supervisor of the other district with the storekeeper-gauger's report on Form 575, and will date and initial Part II of Form 597. Where the consignor and consignee are located in the same district the storekeeper-gauger will, on the same day he receives Form 597, forward the same to the supervisor of the district. The district supervisor will check the shipment with the consignee's monthly report and the storekeeper-gauger's report on Form 575, and will date and initial Part II and execute Part III of Form 597.

§ 187.267 Investigation by district supervisor. Where report of receipt of the specially denatured rum shipped is not received in due course, or where any material or unexplained difference exists between the quantity shipped and the quantity received, or where there is reasonable ground to suspect that the specially denatured rum has been or will be used for purposes other than those authorized by law and regulations, the district supervisor shall cause an investigation to be made.

§ 187.268 Memorandum of receipt, Form 1453–A. Proprietors of denaturing bonded warehouses will, when shipping specially denatured rum to the United States or any governmental agency thereof, prepare one copy of Form 1453–A, properly modified, and forward it to the Government officer to whom the specially denatured rum is consigned. Upon receipt of the shipment, the Government officer will execute the certificate of receipt on the form and forward it to the district supervisor whose address appears at the bottom of the form.

§ 187.269 Deliveries by bonded dealer. A dealer in specially denatured rum shall make deliveries in accordance with the applicable provisions of this subpart.

SUBPART W—LOSSES

LOSSES IN DENATURATION

§ 187.280 Determined monthly. Losses occurring by evaporation or other unavoidable causes in the process of denaturation at a distillery denaturing bonded warehouse must be determined and reported monthly. The extent of the losses for each month shall be established by comparison of the quantity in proof gallons of rum used for denaturation with the quantity in proof gallons of denatured rum produced.

§ 187.281 Losses allowable without claim. Where the loss occurring in the process of denaturation during any calendar month does not exceed 1 percent of the quantity of rum used for denaturation during the month, claim for allowance of such loss will not be required, provided there are no circumstances indicating that the rum, or any part thereof, was used for purposes other than denaturation, or was unlawfully removed from the denaturing bonded warehouse. The allowance of 1 percent on account of losses in the process of denaturation will not be cumulative. Losses for each month must be determined separately.

§ 187.282 Losses requiring claim. Where the loss occurring in the process of denaturation is in excess of 1 percent, calculated in accordance with the provisions of § 187.281, claim under oath for allowance of the total losses during the month will be filed by the proprietor with the district supervisor, in accordance with the provisions of § 187.291.

§ 187.283 Illegal diversion or removal. The distilled spirits tax must be paid on all rum diverted to illegal uses on the premises of the denaturing bonded warehouse or in the course of transfer thereto, and on all rum removed from the denaturing bonded warehouse contrary to law, whether or not the total losses, including the rum diverted or unlawfully removed, exceed 1 percent of the aggregate quantity used for denaturation.

LOSSES OF RUM BY THEFT, UNAUTHORIZED VOLUNTARY DESTRUCTION, OR CASUALTY

§ 187.284 Procedure applicable. The procedure prescribed by Regulations 10 (26 CFR Part 185), relating to losses of rum by theft, unauthorized voluntary destruction, or casualty, shall apply to such losses in a distillery denaturing bonded warehouse.

LOSSES OF SPECIALLY DENATURED RUM AT DENATURING BONDED WAREHOUSE

§ 187.285 Determined monthly. The quantity of specially denatured rum lost at a denaturing bonded warehouse must be determined and reported monthly. The extent of the losses for each month shall be established by comparison of the quantity shown by actual inventory with the quantity carried in the storekeeper-gauger's report, Form 575, as remaining in storage at the end of the month. For the purpose of such comparison the gauge at the time of the filling of packages of specially denatured rum may be taken. The actual quantity in tanks must be ascertained.

§ 187.286 Losses allowable without claim. Where the loss of specially denatured rum does not exceed 1 percent of the aggregate quantity of specially denatured rum shipped from the denaturing bonded warehouse during any calendar month, claim for allowance of such loss will not be required, provided there are no circumstances indicating that the specially denatured rum, or any part thereof, was diverted to illegal use. The allowance of 1 percent on account of losses of specially denatured rum at a denaturing bonded warehouse will not be cumulative. Losses for each month must be determined separately by inventory of specially denatured rum on hand at the end of the month.

§ 187.287 Losses requiring claim. Where the loss of specially denatured rum exceeds 1 percent of the quantity shipped from the denaturing bonded warehouse during the month, claim under oath for allowance of the total losses during the month will be filed by the proprietor with the district supervisor in accordance with the provisions of § 187.291.

§ 187.288 Illegal diversion or removal. The distilled spirits tax must be paid on all specially denatured rum diverted to illegal uses, and on all such rum removed from the denaturing bonded warehouse contrary to law, whether or not the total losses of specially denatured rum at the denaturing bonded warehouse, including specially denatured rum diverted or unlawfully removed, exceed 1 percent of the aggregate quantity shipped from the denaturing bonded warehouse. No person shall sell denatured rum for use, or for sale for use, for beverage purposes; nor shall any person sell any denatured rum under circumstances from which it might reasonably appear that it is the intention of the purchaser to procure the same for sale or use for beverage purposes.

§ 187.289 Losses allowable without claim. Where the loss of specially denatured rum from any package or tank car in transit from the denaturing bonded warehouse for export, or in the course of delivery in trucks owned or controlled by the proprietor, does not exceed 1 percent of the quantity contained therein at the time of shipment, claim for allowance of such loss while in transit will not be required, provided there are no circumstances indicating that the specially denatured rum, or any part thereof, was diverted to illegal use.

§ 187.290 Losses requiring claim. Where the loss of specially denatured rum from any package or tank car in transit from the denaturing bonded warehouse for export or in the course of delivery in trucks owned or controlled by the proprietor exceeds 1 percent of the quantity contained therein at the time of shipment, claim under oath for allowance of the total quantity lost shall be filed with the district supervisor by the proprietor of the denaturing bonded warehouse. The claim will be prepared and filed in accordance with the provisions of § 187.291. Claims covering losses in transit of specially denatured rum shipped to manufacturers and dealers by railroad or steamship companies, or by express companies operating on railroad or steamship lines, or by trucking companies holding permit to transport specially denatured or tax-free alcohol, will be filed by such manufacturers and dealers in accordance with Regulations 3 (26 CFR part 182)

(e) In the case of losses in the process of denaturation, (1) the quantity in proof gallons of rum used for denaturation during the month; (2) the quantity in proof gallons of denatured rum produced during the month; (3) whether the loss occurred as the result of any negligence, connivance, collusion, or fraud on the part of the proprietor or any of his agents; and (4) whether the proprietor is indemnified or recompensed in any manner for the loss. If the proprietor is indemnified or recompensed for the loss, the amount and nature of such indemnity or recompense must be shown;

(f) In the case of losses of specially denatured rum at a denaturing bonded warehouse, (1) the quantity shown by actual inventory to be on hand at the end of the month; (2) the quantity carried in the warehouse records as remaining on hand at the end of the month; (3) whether the loss occurred as the result of any negligence, connivance, collusion, or fraud on the part of the proprietor or any of his agents; and (4) whether the proprietor is indemnified or recompensed in any manner for the loss. § 187.292 Supporting statements. Claims for losses must be supported by affidavits of persons having personal knowledge of the loss.

§ 187.293 Filing of claims. The claims must be filed with the supervisor of the district in which the denaturing bonded warehouse is located. Claims for allowance of losses of specially denatured rum while in transit should be filed promptly.

§ 187.294 Report of losses. Losses of rum in process of denaturation or specially denatured rum by theft, accidental fire, or other casualty must be reported to the district supervisor by the proprietor of the denaturing bonded warehouse immediately after the losses are discovered. Where such losses are ascertained while an officer is on duty, the officer will immediately make a full report of the loss to the district supervisor. The officer's report should set out the nature, cause, and extent of the loss in sufficient detail to bring out all the material facts and circumstances surrounding the loss. The condition of each package or other container from which loss has been sustained and the quantity lost therefrom should be reported by the officer.

§ 187.295 Investigation. Where large losses from theft, casualty, or other cause are reported, the district supervisor will immediately make such investigation and require such evidence to be submitted as he may deem necessary, and will advise the Commissioner of his findings and recommendation relative to the allowance or disallowance of the loss.

§ 187.296 Examination of claim. When a claim for allowance of loss is received by the district supervisor, he will carefully examine same to see that all required information has been furnished and will cause such investigation to be made or require such additional evidence to be submitted as he may deem necessary. Upon completion of the investigation, if any, the district supervisor will forward one complete copy of the claim and accompanying papers, together with any pertinent reports and documentary evidence, to the Commissioner with his recommendation in respect to allowance or disallowance of the claim.

§ 187.298 Failure to file claim. Where loss has been sustained in such a quantity as to require the filing of a claim, and claim for allowance of the loss is not made as provided in §§ 187.291 to 187.293, the district supervisor will report the tax to the Commissioner for assessment, in accordance with prescribed assessment procedure.

SUBPART X—PROPRIETOR'S RECORD AND REPORT OF DENATURANTS

Daily entries shall be made on Record 129 as indicated by the headings of the various columns and lines on the form and the instructions printed thereon or issued in respect thereto, and as required by this part, before the close of the business day next succeeding the day on which the transactions occur. Where the making of the entries is deferred to the next business day, as authorized by this section, appropriate memoranda shall be kept for the purpose of making the entries correctly. A monthly summary of the denaturants received and used or removed shall be made on such record at the end of the month. Record 129 shall be bound by the proprietor as a permanent record and kept available for inspection by Government officers.

Record 129 must be sworn to before an officer authorized to administer oaths: Provided, That if the form officially prescribed for such report contains therein a provision for verification by a written declaration that such report is made under penalties of perjury, such report shall be verified by the execution of such declaration, and such declaration so executed shall be in lieu of the oath required herein for verification. The district supervisor will, after audit and not later than the last day of the month succeeding that for which the report is rendered, forward one copy of the report to the Commissioner and will retain the remaining copy.

Daily entries shall be made on Form 575 as indicated by the headings of the various columns and lines on the form, and the instructions printed thereon or issued in respect thereto, and as required by this part. A monthly summary of rum received and used, denaturants received and used, and denatured rum produced and disposed of, will be made on such form at the end of the month. Form 575 will be kept by the storekeeper-gauger in bound form as a permanent record, available for inspection by Government officers.

§ 187.326 Monthly report. The storekeeper-gauger shall render a monthly report on Form 575, in duplicate, to the district supervisor on or before the 5th day of the succeeding month. SUBPART Z—RETURN OF SPECIALLY DENATURED RUM

§ 187.335 Entry on Form 575. Where specially denatured rum is for any reason returned to the denaturing bonded warehouse by a bonded dealer or manufacturer or by the carrier, as provided in Regulations 3 (26 CFR Part 182), the storekeeper-gauger will make a memorandum entry of the same in red ink on Part 1 of Form 575, but will not include the quantity thereof in the totals of the rum receipts recorded on such part. The total quantity of specially denatured rum returned during the month will, however, be entered on line 5 of the summary of Part 6, and when such denatured rum is again shipped entry thereof will be made in the same manner as other shipments.

SUBPART AA—OPERATION UNDER A NEW INDIVIDUAL OR CORPORATE NAME, OR UNDER DIFFERENT TRADE NAMES OR STYLES

§ 187.340 Qualification required. Whenever the proprietor of a denaturing bonded warehouse desires to change the individual or corporate name, or to operate under a trade name or style not previously approved, he must comply with § 187.95 and secure approval of such change in the manner prescribed in §§ 187.100 and 187.110, prior to the commencement of operations. Thereafter, whenever he desires to again operate under such approved trade name or style he must comply with § 187.95 and secure approval of the change in the manner prescribed in § 187.100, prior to commencement of operations thereunder.

§ 187.341 Records. Separate records on Record 129 will not be required for operations under a new individual or corporate name, or under each trade name or style, but the proprietor must note on each record the individual or corporate name or the trade names or styles under which operations were conducted during the month, and the dates of operation under each. The storekeeper-gauger will make similar notations on Form 575 whenever changes in the individual or corporate name or in trade names or styles occur.

SUBPART BB—CHANGE OF PROPRIETORSHIP

§ 187.350 Completion of operations required. When a succession or actual change in the proprietorship of a distillery denaturing bonded warehouse takes place other than a change brought about by operation of law, as by the appointment of an administrator, executor, assignee, receiver, trustee, or other fiduciary, the business of denaturing rum must be completely finished by the person or persons who have been carrying on the business, and all specially denatured rum removed from the premises before the business shall be undertaken or begun by the succeeding proprietor, unless by agreement between the outgoing proprietor and the successor it shall be arranged to transfer from the former to the latter at the time the transfer of proprietorship becomes effective, all rum and specially denatured rum then on hand: Provided, That in each case the application and other qualifying documents of the successor, prescribed by Subpart H of this part, have been approved by the district supervisor, to take effect on the day next succeeding that at the close of which the transfer is made. Where a change of proprietorship has been brought about by operation of law, the administrator, executor, receiver, trustee, or other fiduciary may not commence or continue operations until the required qualifying documents have been filed and approved.

§ 187.351 Records and reports. Where there is a change in the proprietorship otherwise than by operation of law, the outgoing proprietor shall enter on his Record 129 all denaturants transferred to his successor, who shall in turn enter such items on his Record 129 as received from his predecessor. The storekeeper-gauger will likewise enter on Form 575 for the outgoing proprietor all rum and specially denatured rum transferred to the successor, and will take up on the Form 575 for the successor all such rum and specially denatured rum received from his predecessor. Where an administrator, executor, assignee, receiver, trustee, or other fiduciary succeeds to the business and qualifies to operate the same, he shall make proper notation on Record 129 of his succession, and the storekeeper-gauger will likewise make note of such succession on Form 575.

SUBPART CC—SAFEGUARDING OF GOVERNMENT PROPERTY

§ 187.360 Storage in Government cabinet. The keys to Government locks, and the seals and other Government property at a denaturing bonded warehouse, when not in use, will be kept in the Government cabinet under Government seal lock. The storekeeper-gauger must not leave the cabinet open except in his immediate presence, nor give the key thereof to anyone except another Government officer authorized to receive it. Where it is necessary to open the cabinet at various times during the day the lock will not be seal-closed until the close of business.

SUBPART DD—LOCKS AND SEALS

§ 187.365 General. The provisions of Regulations 4 (26 CFR Part 183), relative to locks and seals, are hereby extended, insofar as applicable, to denaturing bonded warehouses.

Aircraft and watercraft will be presumed to know the location of the danger zones by their principal landmarks, Monito Island at the center and Mona Island on the southeast edge of one area, and Desecheo Island at the center of the other area.

(b) The regulations. (1) The danger zones shall be open to navigation at all times except when aerial bombing and gunnery practice is being conducted. At such times no vessel or other craft shall enter or remain within the areas except with the specific permission of the enforcing agency.

PART 208—FLOOD CONTROL REGULATIONS

MEDICINE CREEK DAM AND RESERVOIR, MEDICINE CREEK, FRONTIER COUNTY, NEBR.

Pursuant to the applicable provisions of section 7 and 9 of the act of Congress approved December 22, 1944 (58 Stat. 890, 891; 33 U. S. C. 709), the following regulations are hereby prescribed to govern the use of storage capacity for flood-control purposes in the Medicine Creek Reservoir on Medicine Creek, Frontier County, Nebraska, and the operation of Medicine Creek Dam for flood-control purposes.

§ 208.35 Medicine Creek Dam and Reservoir, Medicine Creek, Frontier County, Nebraska. The Bureau of Reclamation, Department of the Interior, represented by its appropriate District Manager, hereinafter referred to as the District Manager, shall operate the Medicine Creek Dam and Reservoir in the interest of flood control as follows:

(a) The flood-control storage capacity of the reservoir, which initially amounts to 52,000 acre-feet between elevations 2366.1 and 2386.2, will be operated to restrict discharges to the capacity of the ungated flood-control notch except as necessary for irrigation requirements, unless otherwise directed by the District Engineer, Corps of Engineers, Department of the Army, in charge of the locality, hereinafter referred to as the District Engineer. Whenever necessary in the interests of flood control, the District Engineer will furnish instructions to the District Manager as to operation of the flood control storage through the outlet works (having a capacity of approximately 400 c. f. s. with water surface in the flood-control pool) to coordinate the operation of the Reservoir with other reservoirs in the Republican and Missouri River Basins. Oral instructions of the District Engineer to the District Manager shall be confirmed in writing under date of the day issued.

(b) The discharge characteristics of the ungated flood-control notch incorporated into the spillway structure (having an estimated capacity of 4,000 c. f. s. with reservoir level at elevation 2386.2) shall be maintained in accordance with the construction plans (Bureau of Reclamation Specifications No. 2023 as modified by Drawing 328-D-587, Revision dated 8-5-49).

(c) Proposed schedules of irrigation releases and storage changes, if available, and current operating data shall be provided to the District Engineer by the District Manager. These data shall be tabulated daily and furnished periodically as required, and shall include such items as: reservoir elevation, reservoir storage, inflow, discharge, and pertinent available hydrologic data.

(d) Whenever the reservoir level reaches or exceeds elevation 2366.1, or flood discharges appear imminent, the District Manager shall report at once to the District Engineer by telephone, telegraph or radio and, as requested thereafter until the reservoir level falls to elevation 2366.1 or below and flood discharges cease.

(e) Releases made in accordance with the regulations of this section are subject to the condition that releases shall not be made at rates or in a manner that would be inconsistent with requirements for protecting the dam and reservoir from major damage.

(f) All elevations stated in this section are at the Medicine Creek Dam and are referred to the datum in use at that location.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held in its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 26th day of July 1950:

The Commission having under consideration a proposal to amend § 3.501 of Subpart C (Rules Governing Non-Commercial Educational FM Broadcast Stations) of Part 3 (Radio Broadcast Services) of the Commission's rules in order to reserve frequency 89.1 Mc., Channel No. 206 in the New York City metropolitan area for the use of the United Nations;

It appearing, that notice of proposed rule making setting forth the above amendment was issued by the Commission on May 15, 1950, and was duly published in the FEDERAL REGISTER, which notice provided that interested parties might file statements or briefs with respect to the said amendment on or before June 19, 1950; and

It further appearing, That the time for filing comments has passed and that no comments have been submitted with respect to the proposed amendment; and

It further appearing, That authority for this action is contained in section 4 of 61 Stat. 759, and in sections 4 (i), 303 (c) and 303 (r) of the Communications Act, as amended;

It is ordered, That effective September 5, 1950, the following footnote be added to § 3.501 of Subpart C of Part 3 of the Commission's rules:

[1] The frequency 89.1 Mc., Channel No. 206 in the New York City metropolitan area is reserved for the use of the United Nations with the equivalent of an antenna height of 500 feet above average terrain and effective radiated power of 20 kw., and the Commission will make no assignments which would cause objectionable interference with such use.

PART 12—AMATEUR RADIO SERVICE

USE OF NARROW BAND FREQUENCY OR PHASE MODULATION EMISSION

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 26th day of July 1950;

The Commission having under consideration the matter of amending § 12.114 (b) of the rules governing Amateur Radio Service for the purpose of continuing beyond August 1, 1950, the present temporary authority for amateurs to use narrow band frequency or phase modulation emission for radiotelephone communication in the bands 3850 to 3900 kc.; 14200 to 14250 kc.; 28.5 to 29.0 Mc. and 51.0 to 52.5 Mc.; and

It appearing that, by order dated April 20, 1949, the Commission has heretofore promulgated a notice of proposed rule making (Docket 9295) which proposes, among other matters, to grant authority on a permanent basis for the use of such narrow band techniques for radiotelephone communication in the amateur frequency bands specified herein; and

It further appearing that, it is desirable that there be no interruption in this type of operation after July 31, 1950, the date when the present temporary authority for this type of operation expires, pending action on the above-mentioned notice of proposed rule making; that it is, therefore, desirable that § 12.114 (b) be amended effective not later than August 1, 1950, in order to extend beyond that date the authority for this type of operation, and, therefore, that the public notice and procedure provided for in section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act are impracticable and unnecessary; and for the same reasons and also because the extension of the mentioned authority will continue to relieve a restriction which would otherwise exist, such extension should be made effective not later than August 1, 1950; and

It further appearing that, authority to adopt the amendment in question is contained in sections 303 (b), (e), (f), (g), and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended;

It is ordered, That, effective August 1, 1950, § 12.114 (b) of the rules governing Amateur Radio Service is amended by changing the date "July 31, 1950" which appears therein to read "July 31, 1951".

[Docket No. 9596]

PLATTE VALLEY BROADCASTING CORP. (KNEB)

MEMORANDUM OPINION AND ORDER AMENDING ISSUES

In re application of Platte Valley Broadcasting Corporation (KNEB), Scottsbluff, Nebraska, for construction permit; Docket No. 9596, File No. BP-7035.

The Commission has before it a petition for modification or clarification of issues filed on May 19, 1950, by May Broadcasting Company, licensee of Station KMA, Shenandoah, Iowa, and opposition thereto filed on May 29, 1950, by Platte Valley Broadcasting Corporation.

The above-entitled application of Platte Valley Broadcasting Corporation for a construction permit to change the facilities of Station KNEB, Scottsbluff, Nebraska, from frequency 970 kilocycles, 1 kilowatt power, daytime only to frequency 960 kilocycles, 500 watts, 1 kilowatt-LS power, unlimited time and to install a directional antenna (DA-2) was designated for hearing by Commission Order of March 6, 1950. By this same order, the petition of May Broadcasting Company requesting that the said application be designated for hearing and that petitioner be made a party to the proceeding and be afforded an opportunity to furnish program data was granted.

The petition of May Broadcasting Company was based on that section of the Standards of Good Engineering Practice which provides that "when it is shown that primary service is rendered by" a station "beyond the normally protected contour, and when primary service to approximately 90 percent of the population (population served with adequate signal) of the area between the normally protected contour and the contour to which such station actually serves, is not supplied by any other station or stations carrying the same general program service, the contour to which protection may be afforded in such cases will be determined from the individual merits of the case under consideration." The petition and supporting engineering affidavit alleged that Station KMA renders primary nighttime service beyond its normally protected 2.5 mv/m contour and that the area between the normally protected contour and the contour to which it actually serves is not served by any other station carrying the same general program service.

As a result of the said petition, the order of March 6, 1950, granting the petition and designating the application of Platte Valley Broadcasting Company for hearing, contained, among others, the following issue:

To determine whether Station KMA, Shenandoah, Iowa, renders primary service to ninety percent of the population of the area between its normally protected contour and the contour to which it actually serves and, if so, to determine in what respects and to what extent, if any, the general program service supplied differs from the general program service of other stations serving this area.

The instant petition requests that this issue be modified to read as follows:

To determine whether Station KMA, Shenandoah, Iowa, renders primary service to 90 percent of the population of the area between its normally protected contour and the contour to which it actually serves in those sectors where interference could result from a grant of the KNEB application and if so, to determine in what respects and to what extent, if any, the general program service supplied by KMA differs from the general program service of other stations serving these interference areas.

As reason for requesting the clarification of the above stated issue, petitioner states the issue as presently worded could be construed as requiring KMA to show what program service it provides between its 1.76 and 2.5 mv/m contours to the east, to the west, to the north, and to the south, and what other signals and program services are available throughout that "donut shaped" area. It is also stated that "it seems obvious that the Commission's interest in this proceeding vis-à-vis KMA-KNEB is in determining where the interference falls, the extent of the interference, signals available to 90 percent or more of the population in those areas and the program service provided by KMA and other stations in those interference areas." As support for this belief petitioner sets forth the situation that where a station like KMA serves a large area, it not infrequently happens that the granting of a new application would cause a crescent or other shaped area of interference in one sector only in the existing station's interference-free primary service area. If that interference fell in an area where no other primary signal was available, thus creating a "white area" where none presently existed, the "public interest" considerations would be far different than if the interference fell in some other sector where several stations provided "the same general program service."

In its opposition to the instant petition, applicant contends that the petition is dilatory in nature and that the Commission has not heretofore been interested in aiding counsel's interpretation of any particular rule or regulation or of any paragraph of the Standards of Good Engineering Practice. Applicant further contends that the instant request is for modification of that paragraph of the Standards on which the intervention of May Broadcasting Company is based as issue 4 of the order of designation is a paraphrase of the paragraph in question. It is contended that the language of this paragraph is unequivocal and unambiguous.

With reference to applicant's contention that the instant pleading is dilatory, the pleading was timely filed under the Commission's rules and presents a valid question as to the interpretation to be given to the issue in question. With regard to applicant's contention of lack of interest on the part of the Commission in this matter, a resolution of the conflicting interpretations of this issue is necessary to permit an orderly proceeding on the application of Platte Valley Broadcasting Corporation.

Applicant's contention that the instant petition is in effect a request for modification of the Standards of Good Engineering Practice is not well taken. The pertinent section of the Standards states "the contour to which protection may be afforded in such cases will be determined from the individual merits of the case under consideration." The case under consideration in this proceeding is the application of Platte Valley Broadcasting Corporation and one of the matters to be determined is the contour to which protection may be afforded to Station KMA from the proposed operation of Station KNEB. The object of this proceeding is not to determine the protection which may be afforded Station KMA around the entire periphery of its service area. The Commission is of the opinion that such is not the intent of the section of the Standards in question and that such an interpretation would be unreasonable.

Issue 4 in this proceeding shifts the burden of proof with reference to interference claimed outside the normally protected contour from the applicant to the party intervenor and compels a specific showing by the intervenor of the general program service provided by all stations serving such area or areas. The Standards raise no presumption that primary service is rendered beyond normally protected contours. The burden of proving such service is rendered, is on the party claiming protection within the areas involved. Further, the party claiming protection within these areas has the burden of showing that less than approximately 90 percent of the population it serves outside its normally protected contour, but within the interference areas involved, does not receive the same general program service from any other station or stations.

If Station KMA is the only station providing a particular type of program service within such areas of interference, if any, such fact would be pertinent in making a determination of whether public interest, convenience, or necessity would be best served by a grant or by a denial of the application for increase in facilities of Station KNEB and in resolving whether or not a grant would tend to provide a fair, efficient and equitable distribution of radio service among the several States and communities as required under sections 307 (a) and 307 (b) of the Communications Act.[1] A showing of other services available within those sectors not involving interference from the proposed operation would not be pertinent to making such a determination.

Accordingly, it is ordered, This 26th day of July 1950, that the said petition for modification or clarification of issues is granted and the Commission's Order of March 6, 1950, designating the application of Platte Valley Broadcasting Corporation for hearing is amended to delete Issue 4 therefrom and to include as Issue 4 therein the following issue:

4. To determine whether Station KMA, Shenandoah, Iowa, renders primary service beyond its normally protected contour in any area or areas within which the operation of Station KNEB as proposed may involve interference and, if so, whether 90 percent of the population (population served with an adequate signal) in those areas are supplied with primary service by any other station or stations which carry the same general program service as station KMA.

[Project No. 2016]

CITY OF TACOMA, WASHINGTON

ORDER FIXING HEARING

JULY 28, 1950.

On December 28, 1948, the city of Tacoma, Washington, filed an application for a license under the Federal Power Act for a proposed hydroelectric development (Project No. 2016) to be located in and along the Cowlitz River in the vicinity of Mayfield and Mossyrock, Washington. The original application was revised and supplemented on June 20, 1949, and a revised Exhibit N to the application was filed on June 8, 1950.

Public notice of the filing of the application for license for Project No. 2016 has been given.

In a separate proceeding (Docket No. E-6156) the Commission found on March 8, 1949, that construction and operation of the project proposed by the City would affect lands or reservations of the United States; that the construction of either or both of the proposed reservoirs (Mayfield and Mossyrock) would materially affect the navigable capacity of the Cowlitz River below the site of the proposed project; and that the interest of interstate or foreign commerce would be affected by the construction and operation of either or both of the reservoirs proposed by the City of Tacoma. On the basis of these findings the Commission entered the following order on the same date: As provided in section 23 (b) of the Federal Power Act the City of Tacoma, before commencing construction of either of the proposed reservoirs, shall have received a license therefor under the provisions of the Federal Power Act.

Widespread public interest in the City of Tacoma's proposal to construct the project is indicated by the large number of communications urging approval or disapproval of the application. In addition, many requests for a public hearing have been received.

The Commission finds: It is in the public interest to hold a public hearing respecting the matters involved and the issues presented in this proceeding.

The Commission orders:

(A) Pursuant to the authority contained in and subject to the jurisdiction conferred upon the Commission by the Federal Power Act, particularly sections 4, 6, and 308 thereof, and the Commission's rules of practice and procedure (in force January 1, 1948, as amended and supplemented), a public hearing be held on the 3d day of October 1950, at 10:00 a. m., e. s. t., in the Hearing Room of the Commission, 12th Floor, 1800 Pennsylvania Avenue NW., Washington, D. C.

(B) As provided in Rule 30 (18 CFR 1.30) of the Commission's rules of practice and procedure, the officer hereafter designated to preside at the hearing shall certify the record of the hearing, including his report thereon, to the Commission for its decision and the presiding officer's report shall constitute a recommended decision.

Date of issuance: July 31, 1950.

By the Commission.

PAN HANDLE EASTERN PIPE LINE CO. ET AL.

ORDER MODIFYING AND AMENDING PREVIOUS ORDER

JULY 28, 1950.

In the matters of Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company, City of Port Huron, City of Marysville, City of St. Clair, Michigan, municipal corporations; Docket Nos. G-1116, G-1240, G-1317, G-1344, G-1417; Southeastern Michigan Gas Company, Docket No. G-1152; Michigan Consolidated Gas Company, complainant, Docket No. G-1415; v. Panhandle Eastern Pipe Line Company, defendant, Docket No. G-1379.

In an "Order Consolidating Proceedings, Fixing Date of Hearing and Prescribing Procedure" issued July 13, 1950, the Commission designated the order in which evidence should be presented with respect to the matters and issues involved in the various proceedings in the above-docketed matters which, by the aforesaid order, were consolidated for hearing.

The Commission stated in the order issued July 13, 1950, "that the presentation of evidence at the hearing in the consolidated proceedings should relate to the following issues and that such presentation should be in the order in which the issues are listed as follows:

"1. Whether the designed sales capacity of the Panhandle system of 550,000 Mcf. which is the total expected to be available during the latter part of 1950 will be adequate to satisfy all the requirements of customers dependent in whole or in part upon the Panhandle system for their supplies of natural gas.

"2. The just and reasonable service rules and regulations which should be made applicable to deliveries of natural gas from the Panhandle system in the event that the evidence discloses that the capacity of the Panhandle system is, or will be, inadequate to satisfy all the requirements of customers served from the system.

"3. (a) Whether the Commission should find it necessary or desirable in the public interest to grant the orders sought in Docket No. G-1152 and in Docket No. G-1415 or either of them, while the designed sales capacity of the Panhandle system approximates 550,000 Mcf. per day; and (b) the matters and issues presented in the proceedings in Docket Nos. G-1417 and G-1379.

"4. The form of tariff which should be applicable to volumes of gas delivered from the Panhandle system when the capacity of such system has been increased by additional natural gas supplies from the Trunkline Gas Supply Company project, i. e., whether Panhandle should be permitted to charge a "rolled-in-rate," demand and commodity in form, and with a minimum bill provision.

"5. The matters and issues presented by the application in Docket No. G-1344.

"6. What would be a fair, reasonable and equitable distribution among present and prospective customers of the volumes of natural gas which will be available upon completion of the Trunkline and Panhandle facilities authorized in Docket Nos. G-882 and G-1317.

"7. Whether Panhandle's present rates, charges, classifications, rules, regulations, practices and contracts are unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory or preferential, and if found to be unjust, unreasonable, unduly discriminatory or preferential, what would be the just and reasonable rates, charges, classifications, rules, regulations, practices and contracts to be determined and fixed by order.

"8. The just and reasonable rates, charges, classifications, rules, regulations, practices and contracts (or the principles to be followed in the determination of the foregoing), which should be made applicable to volumes of gas deliverable from the Panhandle system when the sales capacity has been increased by the supply of natural gas to be received from Trunkline Gas Supply Company.

"9. The status of outstanding authorizations issued by the Commission in Docket Nos. G–706 and G–876, and whether such authorizations should be modified, and if so, to what extent."

The Commission finds: Good cause exists for modifying and amending the order issued July 13, 1950, in the above docketed proceedings so as to provide for hearing with respect to the issues presented in the proceedings on the dates and in the order hereinafter specified.

The Commission orders:

(A) The order issued July 13, 1950, be and the same is hereby amended to provide as follows:

ARKANSAS POWER & LIGHT CO. ET AL.

NOTICE OF FILING, NOTICE OF AND ORDER FOR HEARING, AND ORDER OF CONSOLIDATION

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 28th day of July A. D. 1950.

In the matter of Arkansas Power & Light Company, Midsouth Gas Company, File No. 70–2441; In the matter of Equitable Securities Corporation, T. J. Raney & Sons, Womeldorff & Lindsey, File No. 31–574.

Notice is hereby given that Arkansas Power & Light Company ("Arkansas"), a utility subsidiary of Middle South Utilities, Inc. ("Middle South"), a registered holding company, has filed a declaration pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 regarding the sale of all of its gas distribution systems or properties and related facilities to Midsouth Gas Company ("Midsouth Gas") and has designated section 11 (b) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act and Rule U-44 of the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder as applicable to the proposed transactions:

Notice is further given that an application pursuant to sections 3 (a) (3) and 3 (a) (4) of the act for an exemption from all of the provisions of the act applicable to registered holding companies has been filed by Equitable Securities Corporation, T. J. Raney & Sons and Womeldorff & Lindsey (hereinafter collectively referred to as the Equitable Group). The Equitable Group propose to be the owners of the common stock of Midsouth Gas. The application for exemption is predicated on the contention that the acquisition of the common stock of Midsouth Gas is only a temporary one in connection with a bona fide arrangement for the distribution of such common stock.

All interested persons are referred to said declaration and to said application, which are on file in the office of this Commission, for a statement of the transactions therein proposed, which are summarized as follows:

Arkansas proposes to sell its existing gas properties for a cash cosideration of $1,825,000 which represents the depreciated book cost of such properties, plus or minus certain closing adjustments. In addition, Midsouth Gas undertakes to construct or acquire and operate a gas transmission line to deliver the gas fuel supply to a steam generating station of Arkansas presently under construction. Midsouth Gas further undertakes the construction and operation of facilities which will furnish natural gas service to communities heretofore not supplied with natural gas in the area of the proposed transmission line. The declaration of Arkansas states that proceeds from the proposed sale will be reinvested in the company's business.

The application of the Equitable Group states that the acquisition by Midsouth Gas of the Arkansas gas assets together with the initial working capital requirements will require $2,300,000, and that the contemplated additional requirements for construction and working capital of Midsouth Gas during the years 1950 and 1951 are estimated at $7,400,000.

The Equitable Group application sets forth that the initial requirements are proposed to be obtained from the sale of sufficient shares of common stock of Midsouth Gas to the Equitable Group to raise the net amount of $800,000 and the sale of $1,500,000 principal amount of 20 year, 3⅝ percent first mortgage bonds to institutional investors. It is further proposed that at the time of such initial financing, arrangements will be made for the sale to such institutional investors of an additional $5,400,000 principal amount of such bonds to be sold by Midsouth Gas during 1950 and 1951, the remainder of the funds to be obtained from the sale to the public in 1950 of sufficient shares of the common stock of Midsouth Gas to raise $2,000,000.

Equitable Securities Corporation presently owns all of the outstanding stock of Chattanooga Gas Company, and, pursuant to an order of the Commission dated December 30, 1949, was exempted from all of the provisions of the act. The application states that neither of the other members of the Equitable Group is an affiliate of any public utility company nor is a subsidiary of a company which is a public utility company.

The application further sets forth that it is the intention of the Equitable Group to effect an underwriting or distribution of the common stock of Midsouth Gas within one year after the issuance of an order for exemption, subject to such extension of time as the Commission may permit. It is stated that the applicants desire, subject to market conditions, to retain such securities only during the period of organization and initial operation of Midsouth Gas.

It appearing to the Commission that it is appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors and consumers that a hearing be held with respect to such matters and that said application and declaration should not be granted or permitted to become effective except pursuant to further order of this Commission; and

It further appearing to the Commission that the foregoing matters under File Nos. 70–2441 and 31–574 relate to and involve common questions of law and fact; that evidence offered in respect to each of such matters may have a bearing on the other; that a substantial savings in time, effort and expense will result if the hearings on said matters are consolidated so that they may be heard as one matter; and, so that evidence adduced with respect to each of said matters may stand as evidence in respect of all of said matters for all purposes:

It is ordered, That the hearing in the matter of Arkansas Power & Light Company, File No. 70–2441 be consolidated with the hearing in the matters of Equitable Securities Corporation, et al., File No. 31–574; the Commission reserving the right, if at any time, it may appear conducive to an orderly and economical disposition of said matters, to order a separate hearing concerning any one of such matters, to close the record with respect to any one or more of such matters, or to take separate action on any one or more of such matters prior to the closing of the record or any other matter.

It is further ordered, That a hearing on such matters under the applicable provisions of said act and rules and regulations of the Commission thereunder be held on August 9, 1950, at 10:00 a. m., e. d. s. t., at the offices of the Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. On such day the hearing room clerk in Room 193 will advise as to the room where such hearing will be held. Any person desiring to be heard or otherwise wishing to participate in this proceeding shall file with the Secretary of the Commission on or before August 7, 1950 a request relative thereto as provided in Rule XVII of the Commission's rules of practice.

It is further ordered, That William W. Swift, or any other officer or officers of this Commission designated by it for that purpose shall preside at such hearing. The officer or officers so designated to preside at such hearing are hereby authorized to exercise all powers granted to the Commission under section 18 (c) of the act and to a Hearing Officer under the Commission's rules of practice.

The Division of Public Utilities having advised the Commission that it has made a preliminary examination of the declaration and application and that upon the basis thereof the following matters and questions are presented for consideration, without prejudice to its specifying additional matters and questions upon further examination.

(1) Whether the sale of the gas properties of Arkansas, as now proposed or as hereinafter modified, meets the requirements of section 12 (d) of the act and the requirements of any other applicable provisions of the act and the rules and regulations thereunder.

(2) Whether the proposed disposition of Arkansas is necessary or appropriate to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the act.

(3) Whether the fees and expenses to be paid, directly or indirectly in connection with the proposed transactions are unreasonable.

(4) Whether the accounting treatment of the proposed transactions is in accordance with sound accounting principles.

(5) Whether the Equitable Group application for exemption meets the requirements of sections 3 (a) (3) and 3 (a) (4) of the act.

(6) Whether in the event that the requirements of sections 3 (a) (3) and 3 (a) (4) of the act are satisfied, the proposed exemption is detrimental to the public interest or the interest of investors or consumers, and whether in this connection the contemplated sale of bonds to institutional investors is adverse to the public interest or to the interest of investors or consumers.

(7) Whether the joint application by the Equitable Group for an exemption from all of the provisions of the act should be granted, and if granted, whether any conditions with respect to the applicability of any particular section of the act or with respect to notice of any proposed transaction should be imposed upon Midsouth Gas or all or any of the applicants herein.

(8) Whether the proposed acquisition by Midsouth Gas and the Equitable Group meets the applicable provisions of the act.

(9) Generally, whether the proposed transactions comply with all of the applicable provisions and requirements of the act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder and whether it is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and for the protection of investors or consumers and to prevent the circumvention of the provisions of the act and the rules and regulations to impose any conditions in connection with any of the proposed transactions.

It is further ordered, That at said hearing evidence shall be adduced with respect to the foregoing matters and questions.

It is further ordered, That the Secretary of the Commission shall serve by registered mail a copy of this order on the declarant and applicants herein, Middle South Utilities, Inc., the Arkansas Public Service Commission, the Federal Power Commission, and the Mayors of the cities of Helena, West Helena, Marianna, Forrest City, Brinkley, Wynne, West Memphis, Paragould, Searcy, Batesville, Newport, Jonesboro, and McGhee, in the state of Arkansas, and that notice to all other persons shall be given by publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER and by general release of the Commission distributed to the press and mailed to the names on the Commission's list for release issued under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935.

By the Commission.

INVESTORS DIVERSIFIED SERVICES, INC. ET AL.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C. on the 28th day of July A. D. 1950.

In the matter of Investors Diversified Services, Inc., Investors Selective Fund, Inc., Investors Stock Fund, Inc. and Investors Mutual, Inc., File No. 812-670.

Notice is hereby given that Investors Diversified Services, Inc. ("I. D. S."), Investors Selective Fund, Inc. ("Selective"), Investors Stock Fund, Inc. ("Stock") and Investors Mutual, Inc. ("Mutual"), have jointly filed an application pursuant to section 6 (c) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 ("act") for an order of exemption from the provisions of section 22 (d) of the act.

I. D. S. is a registered face amount certificate company under the act, was the organizer and promoter of each of the other applicants hereto, acts as principal underwriter in the distribution of their shares and as investment adviser for each of them. Selective, Stock and Mutual are affiliated companies of I. D. S.; are registered open-end investment companies under the act; and, through I. D. S. are offering to the public shares which are registered under the Securities Act of 1933, as amended. While each of the open-end companies is a separate company, the proposals made in the application are stated to be possible only because I. D. S. is the principal underwriter for each of the companies.

It is stated in the application that the practice of providing graduated scales for sales commissions is well established by custom and precedent and that the applicant companies themselves have followed this practice as is shown by the present sales commissions set forth in their registration statement and prospectuses; for example the present graduated gross sales commissions for Mutual and Stock are as follows:

Amount of application	Investment in underlying assets per $100	Loading charge per $100
To $24,950	$92.50	$7.50
$25,000 to $49,950	94.25	5.75
$50,000 to $99,950	95.50	4.50
$100,000 or more	96.00	4.00

The sales commission schedule for Investors Selective Fund, Inc., is slightly lower but is graduated on a basis consistent with the above.

The variations of the proposed public offering prices of shares of the applicant open-end companies as proposed, and for which an order of exemption from section 22 (d) of the act is requested, are as follows:

1. The public offering price of the shares of capital stock of the applicant open-end investment companies is to be computed by adding to the asset value of the shares of the respective company as of the date of sale, a sales commission graduated according to the amount of the sale, or the accumulation of sales to the same individual (to the extent that shares previously purchased are still registered in his name) in accordance with the following schedules:

SHARES OF INVESTORS SELECTIVE FUND, INC.

	Sales commission
	Percent of public offering price	Approximate percent of asset value
To $15,000	6½	6.95
$15,000 to $20,000	6	6.38
$20,000 to $25,000	5½	5.82
$25,000 to $30,000	5	5.26
$30,000 to $50,000	4½	4.71
$50,000 to $100,000	4	4.17
$100,000 to $200,000	3½	3.63
$200,000 to $400,000	3	3.09
$400,000 to $700,000	2½	2.56
$700,000 to $1,000,000	2	2.04
$1,000,000 and over	1½	1.52

SHARES OF INVESTORS MUTUAL, INC., AND INVESTORS STOCK FUND, INC.

	Sales commission
	Percent of public offering price	Approximate percent of asset value
To $15,000	7½	8.10
$15,000 to $20,000	7	7.52
$20,000 to $25,000	6½	6.95
$25,000 to $30,000	6	6.38
$30,000 to $40,000	5½	5.82
$40,000 to $50,000	5	5.26
$50,000 to $75,000	4½	4.71
$75,000 to $100,000	4	4.17
$100,000 to $200,000	3½	3.63
$200,000 to $400,000	3	3.09
$400,000 to $700,000	2½	2.56
$700,000 to $1,000,000	2	2.04
$1,000,000 and over	1½	1.52

The above graduated sales commissions will apply on initial purchases in the amounts stated, and also to any subsequent purchases where the aggregate investment of the same shareholder (to the extent that shares previously purchased are still registered in his name) exceeds $15,000.

2. That the graduated scale of commissions applicable, in the manner stated in the previous paragraph, will apply to purchases of a shareholder for shares representing a combination of any of the three funds, as well as to additions to aggregate holdings in each of the companies.

3. That the scale of sales commissions, shown in paragraph numbered 1 above, will be applicable to any investment by a single purchaser even though such purchase may be divided among several accounts if all of such accounts are those of husband and wife and their children under twenty-one years of age. It also is intended that individual or corporate trustees, guardians or other fiduciary custodians may have the benefit of the foregoing graduated scale of sales commissions for their fiduciary or guardianship accounts (including accounts in which they have cofiduciaries).

4. Since the principal underwriter may allow commissions or discounts to brokers, dealers or authorized sales representatives in an amount not in excess of the gross sales load such underwriter receives, it is proposed that any person authorized to sell shares of the funds may acquire shares for his own account at the public offering price less that commission or discount, but in no event at a price less than the asset value thereof.

5. That the underwriter may allow the officers, directors and employees of the applicants, the right to purchase shares of the applicant open-end investment companies for their own account at a discount (but at not less than the asset value per share), provided in each instance such shares are purchased for investment and not for resale.

Persons referred to in paragraphs 4 and 5, who purchase securities for their own account, will be required to furnish assurances that shares so acquired will not be resold except by regular redemption, and all persons referred to in those paragraphs are to receive the same discount.

Since the above proposals in the manner set forth may result in varying prices to members of the public of the shares of the open-end applicant companies and thus contravene the policy, purposes and provisions of section 22 (d) of the act, the applicants seek an order of exemption to the extent necessary to permit the offering of the shares of Selective Stock and Mutual on the basis proposed.

All interested persons are referred to said application which is on file in the Washington, D. C. office of the Commission for a more detailed statement of the matters of fact and law therein asserted.

Notice is further given that an order granting the application, in whole or in part and upon such conditions as the Commission may deem necessary or appropriate, may be issued by the Commission at any time on or after August 10, 1950, unless a hearing upon the application is ordered by the Commission as provided in Rule N-5 of the rules and regulations promulgated under the act. Any interested person may, not later than August 8, 1950, at 5:30 p. m., e. d. s. t., submit to the Commission in writing his views or any additional facts bearing upon this application or the desirability of a hearing thereon, or request in writing that the Commission order a hearing to be held thereon. Any such communication or request should be addressed: Secretary, Securities and Exchange Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C., and should state briefly the nature of the interest of the person submitting such information or requesting a hearing, the reasons for such request, and the issues of fact or law raised by the application which he desires to controvert.

By the Commission.

Chapter IX—Production and Marketing Administration (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Lemon Reg. 342]

PART 953—LEMONS GROWN IN CALIFORNIA AND ARIZONA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

§ 953.449 Lemon Regulation 342—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the marketing agreement, as amended, and Order No. 53, as amended (7 CFR Part 953; 14 F. R. 3612), regulating the handling of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the Lemon Administrative Committee, established under the said amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of the quantity of such lemons which may be handled, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) because the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient, and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective as hereinafter set forth. Shipments of lemons, grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona, are currently subject to regulation pursuant to said amended order; the recommendation and supporting information for regulation during the period specified herein was promptly submitted to the Department after an open meeting of the Lemon Administrative Committee on August 2, 1950; such meeting was held, after giving due notice thereof to consider recommendations for regulation, and interested persons were afforded an opportunity to submit their views at this meeting; the provisions of this section, including its effective time, are identical with the aforesaid recommendation of the committee, and information concerning such provisions and effective time has been disseminated among handlers of such lemons; it is necessary, in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, to make this section effective during the period hereinafter specified; and compliance with this section will not require any special preparation on the part of persons subject thereto which cannot be completed by the effective time thereof.

(b) Order. (1) The quantity of lemons grown in the State of California or in the State of Arizona which may be handled during the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., August 6, 1950, and ending at 12:01 a. m., P. s. t., August 13, 1950, is hereby fixed as follows:

(i) District 1: Unlimited movement;

(ii) District 2: 325 carloads;

PART 979—IRISH POTATOES GROWN IN EASTERN SOUTH DAKOTA

LIMITATION OF SHIPMENTS

§ 979.303 Limitation of shipments—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to Marketing Agreement No. 103 and Order No. 79 (7 CFR Part 979) regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in the Eastern South Dakota production area, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 61 Stat. 202, 707; 62 Stat. 1247; 63 Stat. 1051), and upon the basis of the recommendation and information submitted by the South Dakota Potato Committee, established under said marketing agreement and order and other available information, it is hereby found that such limitation of shipments of potatoes as hereinafter provided will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby found that it is impractical and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) in that: (i) shipments of potatoes from the production area will begin immediately following the effective date of this section; (ii) more orderly marketing in the public interest than would otherwise prevail will be prompted by regulating such shipments of potatoes on and after the effective date hereof in the manner herein set forth; (iii) compliance with this section will not require any preparation on the part of handlers which cannot be completed by the effective date hereof; (iv) the committee submitted its recommendation for regulation on the earliest date on which it had adequate information with respect to the supply and demand for potatoes and other relevant factors needed to formulate appropriate recommendations for regulation to effectuate the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended; the time intervening between such date and the date when this regulation must become effective to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient; good cause exists for not delaying the effective date hereof for 30 days after publication; and a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective date.

(b) Order. (1) During the period beginning 12:01 a. m., c. s. t., August 7, 1950, and ending 12:01 a. m., c. s. t., July 1, 1951, no handler shall ship table stock potatoes grown in the Eastern South Dakota production area unless such potatoes meet the requirements of U. S. No. 2 grade, or better grade, and are at least 1½ inches minimum diameter, as such grades and sizes are defined in the United States Standards for Potatoes (14 F. R. 1955, 2161).

(2) Terms used herein shall have the same meaning as when used in Order No. 79 (7 CFR 979.1 et seq.).

SUBPART A—SUBSTANTIVE PROVISIONS

§ 118.1 Definitions. (a) As used in this part, the term "transit alien" means an alien admitted to the United States temporarily to proceed in continuous transit through the United States under the provisions of section 3 (3) of the Immigration Act of 1924 (43 Stat. 154; 8 U. § 118.2 Period for which admitted. The period for which a transit alien may be admitted to the United States shall be whatever time is necessary for him to proceed in continuous transit through the United States: Provided:

(a) That such period shall not in any case exceed 29 days; and

(b) That such period shall terminate whenever the alien violates or fails to

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraph (a) of this section, any alien who is subject to being taken into custody under such paragraph but who is ready and willing to depart from the United States may, in the discretion of the district director having jurisdiction, be permitted to proceed promptly from the United States, his departure to be verified by an officer of the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 1st day of August 1950.

Part 24 currently makes provision for packing and repair of parachutes. Such provision is now made in Part 25 which has been adopted concurrently [1] with this amendment, after compliance with the usual notice and rule-making procedures.

PART 25—PARACHUTE RIGGER CERTIFICATES

REVISION OF PART

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 1st day of August 1950.

Currently effective Part 25 provides for the issuance of parachute technician certificates to persons meeting the prescribed qualifications for the performance of duties of parachute rigger, senior parachute rigger, and master of parachute maintenance. The part further provides for the issuance of parachute jumper and instructor ratings in addition to specifying the privileges and limitations of all such certificates and ratings.

This revision providing for the issuance of a parachute rigger certificate and a master parachute rigger certificate with appropriate parachute type ratings simplifies the requirements for the issuance of such certificates and ratings and clarifies the privileges and limitations of such certificates. The following are the types of parachutes for which ratings will be issued: Seat, back, chest, and special purpose.

This revision further provides that all parachute technician certificates issued prior to the effective date of this part shall expire on July 1, 1951, and that each holder thereof shall surrender such certificate to the Administrator who shall issue a new certificate in accordance with the provisions of this revised part. It is believed that all such holders will be able to qualify for such new certificates and ratings and that no such person will be denied a parachute rigger certificate merely because the requirements for the issuance thereof have been clarified and restated.

It will be noted that this part does not provide for the issuance of parachute jumper or parachute instructor ratings and that all such ratings in effect on the date of adoption of this part shall expire on July 1, 1951. With regard to parachute jumper ratings we do not consider it necessary in the interest of safetly to require parachute jumpers to be certificated, nor is the Board required under the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended, to establish standards for the certification of such individuals. The privilege of instructing others in the proper methods and procedures of constructing, maintaining, repairng, inspecting, and using parachutes is included among those granted the holder of a master parachute rigger certificate.

This part further provides for the issuance of a parachute rigger certificate to an individual who has obtained part or all of the required knowledge, skill, and experience while a member or civilian employee of the armed forces of the United States. Unlike the military competence provision in effect prior to the adoption of this revision, such knowledge, skill, and experience may be obtained while a member of the reserve forces of the United States, and application for a certificate on the basis of military competence may be made either during the time the applicant is a member of such reserve forces or within 12 months from the date of his honorable discharge therefrom.

It will be further noted that Part 54 is being amended concurrently [1] with the adoption of this part to conform the definitions included therein to those adopted in this part.

Interested persons have been afforded an opportunity to participate in the making of this revision, and due consideration has been given to all relevant matter presented.

In consideration of the foregoing the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby adopts revised Part 25 of the Civil Air Regulations (14 CFR Part 25) effective September 5, 1950, to read as follows:

Petitions and applications shall be filed upon forms prescribed by the Housing Expediter and pursuant to instructions stated on such forms and must be accompanied by affidavits or other documents setting forth all of the evidence upon which the petitioner or applicant relies in support of the facts alleged in his petition or application and by proof of service upon the other party or parties. A landlord's petition and tenant's application and all accompanying documents shall be filed in an original and one copy and shall be served upon the other party or parties in the manner prescribed by § 840.106, except as provided in paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) Notwithstanding any other provision of §§ 840.101 to 840.148, the Area Rent Director, in appropriate cases involving petitions for rental adjustments, may require the landlord to file additional copies of the petition for adjustment with the Area Rent Office and may dispense with the requirement that the petition and accompanying documents be served on the tenant prior to entry of an order thereon. If in such a case the petition is granted in whole or in part, the Area Rent Director shall serve copies of the petition and order on both the landlord and the tenant. Within 15 days after the issuance date of the order of increase the tenant may file with the Area Rent Office a written request for revocation or modification, together with facts and evidence supporting such request. The tenant must serve a copy of such request and accompanying documents on the landlord within 7 days after he has filed it with the Area Rent Office and the landlord shall be afforded a period of seven days from the date of such service within which to file a reply.

3. Paragraph (b) of § 840.110 is amended by adding a sentence to the proviso clause as follows: "This proviso shall not apply to proceedings under § 840.103 (b)." Said paragraph as amended will read as follows:

(b) An order entered by an Area Rent Director upon a petition or application for adjustment or other relief, or an order entered by an Area Rent Director on his initiative or upon remand of a proceeding to the Area Rent Director by the Housing Expediter pursuant to § 840.127 shall be effective and binding until changed by further order and shall be final subject only to appeal. Unless an appeal has been filed, an order entered by the Area Rent Director may be revoked or modified at any time: Provided, That due notice of the intention to revoke or modify was previously given to all persons affected by such order. This proviso shall not apply to proceedings under § 840.103 (b). A copy of an order entered by the Area Rent Director shall be served upon all parties to the proceedings.

4. Section 840.113 is amended by inserting "(a)" at the beginning of the first paragraph, by substituting a colon for the period at the end of said paragraph and by adding the clause "Provided, however, That in the case of an order entered pursuant to proceedings under § 840.103 (b) the tenant may file an appeal only from the order entered in the proceedings had upon the tenant's request for revocation or modification." Said first paragraph as amended will read as follows:

§ 840.113 Right to appeal. (a) Except as provided in § 840.109 (b), any landlord affected by any provision of a maximum rent regulation, or any landlord or tenant affected by an order issued by an Area Rent Director may file an appeal in the manner set forth below: Provided, however, That in the case of an order entered pursuant to proceedings under § 840.103 (b) the tenant may file an appeal only from the order entered in the proceedings had upon the tenant's request for revocation or modification.

(Sec. 204 (d), 61 Stat. 197, as amended; 50 U. S. C. App. Supp. 1894)

This amendment shall become effective as of August 2, 1950.

Issued this 2d day of August 1950.

TITLE 29—LABOR

Chapter V—Wage and Hour Division, Department of Labor

Subchapter B—Statements of General Policy or Interpretation Not Directly Related to Regulations

PART 789—GENERAL STATEMENT ON THE PROVISIONS OF SECTION 12 (a) AND SECTION 15 (a) (1) OF THE FAIR LABOR STANDARDS ACT, AS AMENDED, RELATING TO WRITTEN ASSURANCES

Sec.
789.0 Introductory statement.
789.1 Statutory provisions and legislative history.
789.2 "• • • in reliance on written assurance from the producer • • •".
789.3 "• • • goods were produced in compliance with" • • • the requirements referred to.
789.4 Scope and content of assurances of compliance.
789.5 "• • • acquired • • • in good faith • • • for value without notice • • •".

AUTHORITY: §§ 789.0 to 789.5 issued under 52 Stat. 1060, as amended; 29 U. S. C. and Sup., 201-219.

§ 789.0 Introductory statement. (a) Section 12 (a) and section 15 (a) (1) of the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, as amended [1] (hereinafter referred to as the act) contain certain prohibitions against putting into interstate or foreign commerce any goods ineligible for shipment (commonly called "hot goods"), in the production of which the child-labor or wage-hour standards of the act were not observed. These sections were amended by the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1949 [2] to provide, among other things, protection against these "hot goods" prohibitions with respect to purchasers "who acquired such goods for value without notice of such violation" if they did so "in good faith in reliance on" a specified "written assurance."

(b) These amendments to the act relating to purchasers in good faith and written assurances are for the protection of purchasers. The act does not provide that a purchaser must secure such an assurance or that a supplier must give it. The amendments confer no express authority for the Department of Labor to require the use of these assurances or to prescribe their form or content. Whether any particular written assurance affords the statutory protection to a purchaser who acquires his goods in good faith and for value without notice of an applicable violation, is left for determination by the courts. Opinions issued by the Department of Labor on this question are advisory only and represent simply the Department's best judgment as to what the courts may hold.

(c) The interpretations contained in this general statement are confined to the statutory protection accorded these purchasers in section 12 (a) and section 15 (a) (1) of the act. These interpretations, with respect to this protection of purchasers, indicate the construction of the law which the Secretary of Labor and the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division [3] believe to be correct and which will guide them in the performance of their administrative duties under the act unless and until they are otherwise directed by authoritative decisions of the courts or conclude, upon re-examination of an interpretation, that it is incorrect.

§ 789.1 Statutory provisions and legislative history. Section 12 (a) of the act provides, in part, that no producer, manufacturer or dealer shall ship or deliver for shipment in commerce any goods produced in an establishment situated in the United States in or about which within 30 days prior to the removal of such goods therefrom, any oppressive child labor has been employed. Section 12 (a) then provides an exception from this prohibition in the following language:

Provided, That any such shipment or delivery for shipment of such goods by a purchaser who acquired them in good faith in reliance on written assurance from the producer, manufacturer, or dealer that the goods were produced in compliance with the requirements of this section, and who acquired such goods for value without notice of any such violation, shall not be deemed prohibited by this subsection • • •.

Section 15 (a) (1) provides, in part, that it shall be unlawful for any person to transport, offer for transportation, ship, deliver, or sell with knowledge that shipment or delivery or sale thereof in commerce is intended, any goods in the production of which any employee was employed in violation of section 6 or 7 of the act or any regulation or order of the Administrator issued under section 14. Section 15 (a) (1) also provides the following exception with respect to this "hot goods" restriction:

• • • any such transportation, offer, shipment, delivery, or sale of such goods by a purchaser who acquired them in good faith in reliance on written assurance from the producer that the goods were produced in compliance with the requirements of the act, and who acquired such goods for value without notice of any such violation, shall not be deemed unlawful.

The most important portion of the legislative history of those provisions in sections 12 (a) and 15 (a) (1) which relate to the protection of purchasers is found in the following discussion of the amendment to section 15 (a) (1), contained in the Statement of the Managers on the part of the House appended to the Conference Report on the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1949: [4]

This provision protects an innocent purchaser from an unwitting violation and also protects him from having goods which he has purchased in good faith ordered to be withheld from shipment in commerce by a "hot goods" injunction. An affirmative duty is imposed upon him to assure himself that the goods in question were produced in compliance with the act, and he must have secured written assurance to that effect from the producer of the goods. The requirement that he must have made the purchase in good faith is comparable to similar requirements imposed on purchasers in other fields of law, and is to be subjected to the test of what a reasonable, prudent man, acting with due diligence, would have done in the circumstances. [Emphasis supplied.]

This discussion would appear to be generally applicable also to the similar provisions of the act contained in section 12 (a).

§ 789.2 "• • • in reliance on written assurance from the producer • • •." In order for a purchaser to be protected under these provisions of the act, he must acquire the goods "in reliance on written assurance • • •." The written assurance specified in section 15 (a) (1) is one from the "producer" and in section 12 (a) it is one from the "producer, manufacturer or dealer."

Since the acquisition of the goods by the purchaser must be "in reliance" upon such written assurance it is obvious that the act contemplates a written assurance given to the purchaser as a part of the transaction by which the goods are acquired, and on which he can rely at the time of their acquisition. Thus, where the purchaser does not receive a written assurance at the time he acquires particular goods, he cannot be said to have acquired the goods "in reliance on" the specified written assurance merely because the producer later furnishes an assurance that all goods which the purchaser has previously acquired from him were produced in compliance with the Fair Labor Standards Act.

The assurances described in the act are assurances in writing "from" the producer or "from" the producer, manufacturer, or dealer, as the case may be. It is therefore clear that the following procedures will not amount to "written assurance from the producer" within the meaning of the act:

(1) The purchaser stamps his purchase order with the statement that the order is valid only for goods produced in compliance with the requirements of the Fair Labor Standards Act. No written statement concerning the production of the goods is made to the purchaser by the producer. The producer ships the goods which the purchaser has ordered.

Law 393, 81st Cong., 1st Sess., 63 Stat. 910); and by Reorganization Plan No. 6 of 1950 (15 F. R. 3174), effective May 24, 1950.

(2) The purchaser stamps the above statement on his purchase order and in addition notifies the producer that shipment of the goods so ordered will be construed by the purchaser as a guarantee by the producer that the goods were produced in compliance with the act. The producer ships the goods to the purchaser.

In neither of these situations can the purchase order be deemed to contain a written assurance from the producer to the purchaser. A statement concerning the circumstances under which the order will be valid is sent to the producer, but no written instrument at all is given the purchaser by the producer. Although, in these situations, the shipment of the goods by the producer may establish a contractual relationship between the parties, the conditions of the statute are not satisfied because there is in neither situation any written assurance from the producer to the purchaser that the goods were produced in compliance with applicable provisions of the act referred to in sections 12 (a) and 15 (a) (1).

§ 789.3 "* * * goods were produced in compliance with" * * * the requirements referred to. It is apparent from the language of the statute and the statement appended to the Conference Report[4] that the written assurance referred to is one with respect to specific goods in being, assuring the purchaser that the "goods in question were produced in compliance" with the requirements referred to in sections 12 (a) and 15 (a) (1). A written statement made prior to production of the particular goods is not the type of assurance contemplated by the statute.

A so-called "general and continuing" assurance or "blanket guarantee" stating, for instance, that all goods to be shipped to the purchaser during a twelve-month period following a certain date "will be or were produced" in compliance with applicable provisions of the act would not afford the purchaser the statutory protection with respect to any production of such goods after the assurance is given. This type of assurance attempts to assure the purchaser concerning the future production of goods. With respect to any production of goods after the assurance is given, this "general and continuing" assurance would, at most, be an assurance that the goods will be produced in compliance with the act.

The definitions of the terms "goods" and "produced" in sections 3 (i) and 3 (j) of the act,[5] respectively, should be considered in interpreting the requirement that the written assurance must relate to goods which were produced in compliance with applicable provisions of the act. These definitions make it apparent, for instance, that the raw materials from which a machine has been made retain their identity as "goods" even though these raw materials have been converted into an entirely different finished product in which the raw materials are merely a part.

Since "goods," as defined in the act, "does not include goods after their delivery into the actual physical possession of the ultimate consumer thereof other than a producer, manufacturer, or processor thereof," the "hot goods" restrictions of section 12 (a) and section 15 (a) (1) do not apply to such ultimate consumers. There appears to be no need, therefore, for such consumers to secure these written assurances from their suppliers.

§ 789.4 Scope and content of assurance of compliance. A question frequently asked is whether a single written assurance of compliance will suffice for purposes both of section 12 (a), relating to child labor, and section 15 (a) (1), relating to wage and hour standards. A single assurance would appear to be sufficient, provided it is specific enough to meet all the conditions of the two sections. Although it is possible that the courts might find assurances referring generally to compliance "with the requirements of the act" adequate for all purposes, the safer course to pursue would be to phrase the assurance in terms of compliance with the specific sections of the act whose violation would bar the goods from interstate or foreign commerce.

The language of the statute gives support to this view. It will be noted that the written assurance referred to in section 15 (a) (1) is described as one of "compliance with the requirements of the act * * *," whereas the written assurance referred to in section 12 (a) is described as one of "compliance with this section." In view of the differences in wording of the two sections, a court might conclude that a general assurance of compliance with the act is not sufficient to include a specific assurance of compliance with section 12, on the theory that if Congress had intended an assurance of compliance with the act to be sufficient under the child-labor provisions, there would have been no reason for the use of the more specific language which it placed in section 12. Also, it is possible that a court might conclude that Congress intended, under section 15 (a) (1), that the assurance should refer specifically to the particular sections of the act mentioned therein, since unless there is some violation of one of those sections in the production of goods, a subsequent purchaser is not prohibited from putting them in commerce.

There is no prescribed form or language that must be followed in order for the written assurance of compliance to afford the desired protection. However, in view of the considerations mentioned above, the following is suggested as a guide for the type of language which would appear to provide the maximum degree of certainty that a purchaser who acquired the goods in good faith in reliance on the written assurance would receive the protection intended by the amendments:

> We hereby certify that these goods were produced in compliance with all applicable requirements of sections 6, 7, and 12 of the Fair Labor Standards Act, as amended, and of regulations and orders of the United States Department of Labor issued under section 14 thereof.

The question has also arisen as to what method should be used to give a purchaser a proper written assurance which would adequately identify the particular goods to which such assurance relates. Although other means of giving proper written assurances may be found to be more practical and convenient, it appears that one simple and feasible method of giving such assurance is for the producer to stamp or print the assurance on the invoice which covers the particular goods and which is given to the purchaser as a part of the transaction whereby the goods are acquired.

§ 789.5 "* * * * acquired * * * in good faith * * * for value without notice * * *." Section 12 (a) and section 15 (a) (1) of the act provide that a purchaser must acquire the goods in good faith in reliance on the specified written assurance in order to be accorded the statutory protection.

The legislative history of the amendments indicates that a purchaser's good faith is not to be determined merely from the actual state of his mind but that good faith also depends upon an objective test—that of what a "reasonable, prudent man, acting with due diligence, would have done in the circumstances." This good faith requirement is, in the words of the House Managers, "comparable to similar requirements imposed on purchasers in other fields of law." The final determination of what will amount to good faith can be made only upon the basis of the pertinent facts in each situation.

It is clear, however, that good faith, as used in the act, not only requires honesty of intention but also that a purchaser must not know, have reason to know, or have knowledge of circumstances which ought to put him on inquiry that the goods in question were produced in violation of any of the provisions of the act referred to in sections 12 (a) and 15 (a) (1).

These good faith provisions are reinforced by the requirement in sections 12 (a) and 15 (a) (1) that the purchaser must also acquire his goods "for value without notice" of an applicable violation of the act.

[5] Section 3 (i) defines "goods" to mean "goods (including ships and marine equipment), wares, products, commodities, merchandise, or articles or subjects of commerce of any character, or any part or ingredient thereof, but does not include goods after their delivery into the actual physical possession of the ultimate consumer thereof other than a producer, manufacturer, or processor thereof."

Section 3 (j) defines "produced" to mean "produced, manufactured, mined, handled, or in any other manner worked on in any State; and for the purposes of this act an employee shall be deemed to have been engaged in the production of goods if such employee was employed in producing, manufacturing, mining, handling, transporting, or in any other manner working on such goods, or in any closely related process or occupation directly essential to the production thereof, in any State."

To illustrate the application of the above principles, let us assume that a purchaser of goods for value acquires them in reliance upon a written assurance from the producer, manufacturer, or dealer that the particular goods were produced in compliance with all applicable requirements of the act, and that the form and content of the assurance is sufficient to meet the conditions of sections 12 and 15 (a) (1) of the act. If a reasonable, prudent man in the purchaser's position, acting with due diligence, would have no reason to question the truth of the assurance that the applicable requirements had been complied with, the purchaser's reliance on such written assurance would be considered to be in good faith and without notice of any violation, and the purchaser would be protected in the event that violations of the child-labor or the wage-hour standards of the act had actually occurred in the production of such goods by the vendor or by prior producers of the goods. In such circumstances, the purchaser's protection would not be contingent on his securing separate written assurances from the prior producers or on his assuring himself that his vendor had secured specific guarantees from them with respect to compliance.

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 27th day of July 1950.

Secretary of Labor.

At a session of the Interstate Commerce Commission, Division 3, held at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 2d day of August A. D. 1950.

It appearing, that there is a critical shortage of railroad freight cars; that shippers are appropriating such cars and shipping them almost empty to other points to complete loading; that such practice is wasteful and aggravates the car shortage, depleting and diminishing the use, control, supply, distribution and interchange of such cars; the Commission is of opinion that an emergency requiring immediate action exists in the States of Oregon and Washington. APPENDIX A

Section 200.7 is completely revised as follows:

§ 200.7 Leases for future or fractional interests—(a) General. The Secretary may issue leases for future or fractional interests in mineral deposits covered by the act, whenever in his judgment the public interest will be best served thereby. Where the United States owns only a future interest in the mineral deposits in part of the lands covered by an application and has present ownership, either total or fractional, in the mineral deposits in the remainder of the lands, separate leases will be issued, one for the future interests and the other for the presently owned interests. An application must conform to §§ 200.4 and 200.5.

(b) Applications for leases for future mineral interests, including future fractional interests. A future interest lease, whether the future interest of the United States is whole or fractional, will be issued only to an applicant who shows that he either owns all or substantially all the present mineral rights or holds a lease, operating agreement or other contract covering all or substantially all of those rights, providing for the development of the mineral deposits in the lands covered by his application. If the application is made by one claiming ownership of the present mineral interest, it shall also be accompanied by a certified abstract of title, going back to the title of the predecessor in interest of the United States who created such mineral interest, showing such ownership. If made by someone who holds the leasehold or operating rights to the present mineral interest, it shall, in addition to the abstract of title, also be accompanied by three certified copies of the lease, or other contract under which such rights were acquired from the owner of the present mineral interest. In lieu of an abstract a certificate of title may be furnished.

(c) Supplemental agreement as consideration for issuance of lease on future interest in oil and gas deposits. As part of the consideration for the issuance of a future interest oil and gas lease and as supplemental thereto, the applicant shall execute and file in triplicate Form 4–1155 "Supplemental agreement to lease of future interests in oil and gas deposits". Such agreement will be effective as of the date the lease issues. Such agreement will govern the relationship of the applicant and the United States between its effective date and the respective dates when each future interest covered thereby vests in the United States. Where the United States owns a fractional share of the present interest, together with the entire future interest, then, for the purpose of the supplemental agreement, the United States shall be deemed to own a future interest to be covered by the supplemental agreement only to the extent of the fractional share of the present interest not held by it. The lease when issued, shall be effective for the present interest held by the United States as of the date for which the lease issues. In such cases or where the United States owns only part of the future mineral interest the percentage of royalty specified in the agreement shall apply to the fractional future interest in that proportion. In lieu of a provision in the agreement for the payment of royalty by the future interest lease holder the applicant, if not the owner of the present mineral interest, may obtain and file with the Bureau of Land Management an instrument executed in duplicate by the present mineral owner conveying or assigning to the United States the royalty interest set forth in the agreement applicable to the particular term of years which will elapse before the United States becomes the owner of the mineral rights. If found acceptable, one original of such assignment will be returned to the applicant for recordation at his expense. In such case, the supplemental agreement should have endorsed on it by the applicant the statement that the assignment of such royalty interest to the United States is recognized by the holder of the agreement.

(d) Applications for fractional interest oil and gas leases, excepting future fractional interest. An application for a fractional interest lease should include a statement showing whether applicant owns the entire operating rights to the fractional mineral interest not owned by the United States in each tract covered by the application, and if not so owned, the extent of his ownership, the names of the parties who own the remainder of the operating rights to such fractional interests. Ordinarily, the issuance of a lease to an applicant, who upon such issuance would own less than a majority interest of the operating rights in any such tract, will not be regarded as in the public interest and such application will be rejected.

This agreement, made and entered into, in quadruplicate, by and between the United States of America, through the Bureau of Land Management, hereinafter called the lessor, and ---------- hereinafter called the lessee, witnesseth:

Whereas, an oil and gas lease with the above Serial Number covering certain future interests in oil and gas rights in the lands described therein is issued concurrently herewith as requested in an application filed by lessee,

Now, therefore, as part of the consideration for the issuance of said lease and as supplemental thereto, the lessee hereby agrees:

SECTION 1. Rights and obligations of lessee. (a) To pay to the United States an annual rental in advance at the rate of 25 cents an acre or fraction thereof for the lands subject to said lease, until said lease becomes effective as to the respective tracts therein described or until production is had on the leased lands. Such rental shall not be prorated for the year or years in which said lease becomes effective or the year production is had.

(b) To pay the United States a royalty, until said lease becomes effective as to the respective tracts therein described, on all oil and gas produced from or allocated to the respective tracts subject to said lease, in value or, at the option of lessor, in kind, delivered free of cost and in merchantable condition, at the applicable following per centums: When the interval from the date of receipt of said lease application to the date that ownership of the mineral estate will vest in the United States is:

	Percent
Not more than 5 years	5
More than 5 years, but not more than 10 years	4
More than 10 years, but not more than 15 years	3
More than 15 years	1

Where the United States owns only part of the future mineral interest in any tract covered by this agreement the percentage of royalty specified in the agreement shall apply to the fractional future interest in that tract in that proportion.

(c) To compensate the United States in full for any loss in royalty caused by drainage from the leased lands. The amount of such compensatory royalty shall be determined under instructions of the Secretary and shall be due and payable monthly on the last day of the calendar month next following the calendar month in which the drainage occurred.

(d) To furnish the Geological Survey all reports necessary to enable it to compute the royalty payable hereunder in accordance with the operating regulations (30 CFR 221).

(e) To make rental, royalty, or other payments to the lessor, to the order of the Treasurer of the United States, and unless otherwise directed by the Secretary of the Interior, such payments to be tendered to the Director of the Bureau of Land Management, Washington 25, D. C.

(f) To furnish and maintain a corporate surety bond conditioned upon compliance with the terms and conditions of this agreement, in the penal sum of $1,000 prior to discovery of oil or gas on the lands described in the lease and to substitute a like bond after discovery for not to exceed $5,000, if required by the Bureau of Land Management.

SEC. 2. Transfer of oil and gas rights. Not to make a transfer of the future interest lease and this supplemental agreement in whole or in part without a concurrent transfer to the same extent and to the same party of the rights to the present mineral interests which were the basis for the issuance of such future interest lease and agreement, nor will he make any transfer in whole or in part of the rights to the present mineral interests which were the basis for the issuance of the future interest lease and this agreement without a transfer of the future interest lease and this agreement to the same extent and to the same party. Within 30 days after the execution of any such transfer, three certified copies of the transfer of such agreement, future interest lease, and rights to the present mineral interest shall be furnished to the Bureau of Land Management for approval of the transfer as to the future interest lease and this agreement, together with the address of the transferee, if not shown, in the transfer, and a new bond unless there is submitted the consent to the transfer of the surety on the existing bond.

SEC. 3. Termination of operating rights. That, if lessee holds only leasehold or operating rights to the present mineral interests, his obligations under this agreement and the right to hold the future interest lease shall cease and terminate to the same extent that such rights to the present mineral interests are released, surrendered, canceled, or otherwise terminated prior to the expiration of the present mineral interests; and to furnish to the Bureau of Land Management within 30 days after such release, surrender, or cancellation has been executed, three certified copies thereof, together with the consent of the surety, if it is only a partial release, surrender, or cancellation, to remain bound as to the interests retained, or to give notice of such termination to the Bureau of Land Management within 30 days after it occurs.

SEC. 4. Forfeiture and default. That if lessee shall default in performance or observance of any of the terms, covenants, or stipulations hereof, and such default is continued for a period of 30 days after service of written notice thereof by the United States, this agreement may be canceled by the Director, Bureau of Land Management; but this provision shall not be construed to prevent the exercise by the United States of any legal or equitable right which it might otherwise have. A waiver of any particular cause of forfeiture shall not prevent the cancellation and forfeiture of this agreement for any other cause of forfeiture or for the same cause occurring at any other time.

SEC. 5. Heirs and successors in interest. That each obligation hereunder shall extend to and be binding upon, and every benefit hereof shall enure to the heirs, executors, administrators, successors or assigns of the respective parties hereto.

SEC. 6. Unlawful interest. That no Member of or Delegate to the Congress, or Resident Commissioner, after his election or appointment, or either before or after he has qualified, and during his continuance in office, and that no officer, agent, or employee of the Department of the Interior shall be admitted to any share or part of this agreement, or derive any benefit that may arise therefrom, and the provisions of section 3741 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and sections 431, 432, and 433, Title 18, United States Code, relating to contracts, enter into and form a part of this agreement so far as the same may be applicable.

UNITED STATES STANDARDS FOR GRADES OF CANNED LIMA BEANS [1]

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Notice is hereby given that the United States Department of Agriculture is considering the revision, as herein proposed, of the current United States Standards for Grades of Canned Lima Beans, pursuant to the authority contained in the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946 (60 Stat. 1087; 7 U. S. C. 1621, et seq.) and Public Law 585, 81st Congress, approved June 29, 1950. This revision, if made effective, will be the fourth issue by the Department of grade standards for this product.

All persons who desire to submit written data, views, or arguments for consideration in connection with the proposed revision should file the same, in duplicate, with the Chief, Processed Products Standardization and Inspection Division, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than 30 days after publication hereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposed revision is as follows:

§ 52.169 Canned lima beans. (a) "Canned lima beans" means canned lima beans as defined in the definitions and standards of identity for canned vegetables (21 CFR Cum. Supp. 52.990) issued pursuant to the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

(b) Types of canned lima beans. (1) Canned lima beans consist of either (i) the thin-seeded varietal types, such as the Henderson Bush varieties or (ii) the thick-seeded varietal types, such as the Fordhook variety.

(c) Grades of canned lima beans. (1) "U. S. Grade A" or "U. S. Fancy" is the quality of canned lima beans that possess similar varietal characteristics; that possess a normal flavor and odor; that possess a good color; that are practically free from defects, and are of such quality with respect to character, clearness of liquor, and the aforesaid factors as to score not less than 90 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(2) "U. S. Grade B" or "U. S. Extra Standard" is the quality of canned lima beans that possess similar varietal characteristics; that possess a normal flavor and odor; that possess a reasonably good color; that are reasonably free from defects, and are of such quality with respect to character, clearness of liquor, and the aforesaid factors as to score not less than 80 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(3) "U. S. Grade C" or "U. S. Standard" is the quality of canned lima beans that possess similar varietal characteristics; that possess a normal flavor and odor; that possess a fairly good color; that possess a fairly clear liquor; that are fairly free from defects; that possess a fairly good character, and score not less than 70 points when scored in accordance with the scoring system outlined in this section.

(4) "U. S. Grade D" or "Substandard" is the quality of canned lima beans that fail to meet the requirements of U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard.

(d) Recommended fill of container. The recommended fill of container is not incorporated in the grades of the finished product since fill of container, as such, is not a factor of quality for the purpose of these grades. It is recommended that each container be filled with lima beans as full as practicable without impairment of quality and that the product and packing medium occupy not less than 90 percent of the volume of the container.

(e) Recommended minimum drained weight. (1) The drained weight recommendations in Table No. I hereof are not incorporated in the grades of the finished product, since drained weight, as such, is not a factor of quality for the purpose of these grades.

(2) The drained weight of canned lima beans is determined by emptying the contents of the container upon a No. 8, sieve of proper diameter and allowing to drain for 2 minutes. A sieve 8 inches in diameter is used for the No. 2½ size can (401 x 411) and for containers of equal or smaller sizes; and a sieve 12 inches in diameter is used for containers larger than the No. 2½ size can.

TABLE NO. I

[Recommended minimum drained weights (in ounces) of lima beans]

Container size or designation:	Drained weight
8-ounce Tall	5½
No. 1 (Picnic)	7
No. 1 Tall	10¾
No. 300	9¾
No. 303	11
No. 2	13½
No. 10	72
No. 303 jar	11

(f) Sizes of lima beans in canned lima beans. The size of lima beans is not a factor of quality of canned lima beans for the purpose of these grades. The size of a lima bean is determined by measuring the greatest width through the center at right angles to the longitudinal axis of the bean. The designations of the various sizes of lima beans packed as canned beans are shown in table No. II of this section.

TABLE NO. II

[Sizes of lima beans in canned lima beans]

Word designation	Number designation	Size of lima beans (inches in width)
Tiny	No. 1	$^{39}/_{64}$ inch in width and smaller.
Small	No. 2	Over $^{39}/_{64}$ inch to and including $^{45}/_{64}$ inch in width.
Medium	No. 3	Over $^{45}/_{64}$ inch to and including $^{51}/_{64}$ inch in width.
Large	No. 4	Larger than $^{51}/_{64}$ inch in width.

(g) Ascertaining the grade. (1) The grade of canned lima beans is ascertained by considering in conjunction with the other requirements of the respective grade, the respective ratings of the factors of color, clearness of liquor, absence of defects, and character.

(2) The relative importance of each factor which is scored is expressed numerically on a scale of 100. The maximum number of points that may be given such factors is:

Factor:	Points
(i) Color	35
(ii) Clearness of liquor	10
(iii) Absence of defects	25
(iv) Character	30
Total score	100

(3) "Normal flavor and normal odor" means that the product is free from objectionable flavors and objectionable odors of any kind.

(h) Ascertaining the rating of the factors which are scored. The essential variations within each factor which is scored are so described that the value may be ascertained for such factors and expressed numerically. The numerical range within each factor which is scored is inclusive (for example, "8 to 10 points" means 8, 9, or 10 points).

(1) Color. (i) "Green" means that the individual lima bean, with respect to (a) thin-seeded types possesses as much or more green color than Plate 19, G–1, and, with respect to (b) thick-seeded types possesses as much or more green color than Plate 12, L–2, as illustrated in Maerz and Paul's Dictionary of Color.

(ii) "Pale green" means that the individual lima bean, with respect to (a) thin-seeded types possesses less green color than Plate 19, G–1 but possesses as much or more green color than Plate 11, G–1, and, with respect to (b) thick-seeded types possesses less green color than Plate 12, L–2, but possesses as much or more green color than Plate 11, L–3, as illustrated in Maerz and Paul's Dictionary of Color.

(iii) "White" means that the individual lima bean, with respect to (a) thin-seeded types possesses less green color than Plate 11, G–1, and, with respect to (b) thick-seeded types possesses less green color than Plate 11, L–3, as illustrated in Maerz and Paul's Dictionary of Color.

(iv) Canned lima beans that possess a good color may be given a score of 32 to 35 points. "Good color" means that the canned lima beans possess a bright, typical color, and with respect to thin-seeded types contain not less than 90 percent, by count, of green beans and not more than 10 percent, by count, may be pale green and white, of which not more than 1 percent, by count, may be white; and with respect to thick-seeded types contain not less than 90 percent, by count, of green lima beans and not more than 10 percent, by count, may be pale green and white, of which not more than 3 percent, by count, may be white beans.

(v) If the canned beans possess a reasonably good color a score of 29 to 31 points may be given. Canned lima beans that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Extra Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably good color" means that the canned lima beans possess a typical color and with respect to thin-seeded types contain not less than 50 percent, by count, of green beans and the remainder may be pale green and white, of which not more than 25 percent, by count, may be white beans; and with respect to thick-seeded types contain not less than 50 percent, by count, of green lima beans and the remainder may be pale green or white.

(vi) Canned lima beans that possess a fairly good color may be given a score of 26 to 28 points. Canned lima beans that score in this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good color" means that the canned lima beans possess a typical color and with respect to thin-seeded types may contain less than 50 percent, by count, of green beans or pale green beans or more than 25 percent, by count, of white beans; and with respect to thick-seeded types may contain less than 50 percent, by count, of green beans or pale green beans or more than 50 percent, by count, that may be white beans.

(vii) Canned lima beans that are definitely off color or fail to meet the requirements of subdivision (iv) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 25 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(2) Clearness of liquor. (i) Canned lima beans that possess a practically clear liquor may be given a score of 9 to 10 points. "Practically clear liquor" means that the liquor may be slightly cloudy and that not more than a small amount of sediment is present.

(ii) If the canned lima beans possess a reasonably clear liquor a score of 7 to 8 points may be given. "Reasonably clear liquor" means that the liquor may be somewhat cloudy and may contain a considerable amount of sediment.

(iii) Canned lima beans that possess a fairly clear liquor may be given a score of 5 to 6 points. "Fairly clear liquor" means that the liquor may be dull in color; and may be rather viscous, creamlike or starchy.

(iv) Canned lima beans that possess a liquor that is definitely off color for any reason or contain an excessive amount of sediment may be given a score of 0 to 4 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(3) Absence of defects. (i) The factor of absence of defects refers to the degree of freedom from extraneous vegetable matter, from loose skins and pieces of skins, loose cotyledons and pieces of cotyledons, mashed or broken beans and from beans that are blemished or seriously blemished by discoloration, pathological injury, insect injury or blemished by other means.

(a) "Extraneous vegetable matter" means pods or pieces of pods, leaves, stems, and other similar vegetable matter.

(b) "Mashed and broken" means broken or crushed so that the bean has lost its original conformation or is broken to the extent that a cotyledon or portion thereof has become separated from the bean.

(c) "Loose skin" means a whole skin which has become separated from the cotyledons or loose pieces of skin aggregating the equivalent of an average size whole skin.

(d) "Loose cotyledon" means a whole cotyledon which has become separated from the skin or loose pieces of a cotyledon aggregating the equivalent of an average size cotyledon.

(e) "Blemished" means blemished by discoloration, pathological injury, insect injury or blemished by other means to such an extent that the aggregate blemished area materially affects the appearance of the bean.

(f) "Seriously blemished" means blemished to such an extent that the aggregate blemished area seriously affects the appearance or eating quality of the bean.

(ii) Canned lima beans that are practically free from defects may be given a score of 22 to 25 points. "Practically free from defects" means that for each 12 ounces drained weight there may be present extraneous vegetable matter having an aggregate area of not more than $^{3}/_{16}$ square inch ($^{1}/_{2}$'' x $^{3}/_{8}$'') on one surface of the piece or pieces; not more than 5 percent, by count, of mashed and broken beans, loose skins, and loose cotyledons; and not more than 4 percent, by count, may be blemished or seriously blemished beans and of such 4 percent not more than ⅛ thereof or ½ percent, by count, may be seriously blemished.

(iii) If the canned lima beans are reasonably free from defects a score of 20 to 21 points may be given. Canned lima beans that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade B or U. S. Extra Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Reasonably free from defects" means that for each 12 ounces drained weight there may be present extraneous vegetable matter having an aggregate area of not more than ¼ square inch ($^{1}/_{2}$'' x $^{1}/_{2}$'') on one surface of the piece or pieces; not more than 10 percent, by count, of mashed and broken beans, loose skins, and loose cotyledons; and not more than 6 percent, by count, may be blemished or seriously blemished beans and of such 6 percent not more than ⅛ thereof or 1 percent, by count, may be seriously blemished.

(iv) Canned lima beans that are fairly free from defects may be given a score of 18 to 19 points. Canned lima beans that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly free from defects" means that for each 12 ounces drained weight there may be present extraneous vegetable matter having an aggregate area of not more than ½ square inch (1'' x $^{1}/_{2}$'') on one surface of the piece or pieces; not more than 15 percent, by count, of mashed and broken beans, loose skins, and loose cotyledons; and not more than 8 percent, by count, may be blemished or seriously blemished beans and of such 8 percent not more than ¼ thereof or 2 percent, by count, may be seriously blemished.

(v) Canned lima beans that fail to meet the requirements of subdivision (iv) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 17 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(4) Character. (i) The factor of character refers to the tenderness and maturity of the product.

(ii) Canned lima beans that possess a good character may be given a score of 27 to 30 points. "Good character" means that not less than 90 percent, by count, of the lima beans are in the early stages of maturity; and possess a tender texture; and the remainder are at least in the fairly early stage of maturity and possess a reasonably tender texture.

(iii) If the canned lima beans possess a reasonably good character a score of 24 to 26 points may be given. "Reasonably good character" means that not less than 50 percent, by count, of the lima beans are in the early stages of maturity; and possess a tender texture; and the remainder are at least in the fairly early stage of maturity or nearly mature and possess at least a fairly tender texture.

(iv) Canned lima beans that possess a fairly good character may be given a score of 21 to 23 points. Canned lima beans that fall into this classification shall not be graded above U. S. Grade C or U. S. Standard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule). "Fairly good character" means that the lima beans may be nearly mature and possess a fairly tender texture, may be firm and mealy but not hard, or may be soft but not mushy.

(v) Canned lima beans that fail to meet the requirements of subdivision (iv) of this subparagraph may be given a score of 0 to 20 points and shall not be graded above U. S. Grade D or Substandard, regardless of the total score for the product (this is a limiting rule).

(i) Tolerances for certification of officially drawn samples. (1) When certifying samples that have been officially drawn and which represent a specific lot of canned lima beans the grade of such lot will be determined by averaging the total scores of all containers, if

[1] The requirements of these standards shall not excuse failure to comply with the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act.

(i) Not more than one-sixth of the containers comprising the sample fails to meet all the requirements of the grade indicated by the average of such total scores, and with respect to such containers which fail to meet the requirements of the indicated grade by reason of a limiting rule, the average score of all containers in the sample for the factor, subject to such limiting rule, must be within the range for the grade indicated;

(ii) None of the containers comprising the sample falls more than 4 points below the minimum score for the grade indicated by the average of the total scores; and

(iii) All containers comprising the sample meet all applicable standards of quality promulgated under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act and in effect at the time of the aforesaid certification.

ORDER GRANTING APPLICATIONS

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 31st day of July A. D. 1950.

In the matter of Attleboro Steam and Electric Company, Central Massachusetts Electric Company, Gardner Electric Light Company, Worcester Suburban Electric Company, New England Power Company, Worcester County Electric Company, File No. 70-2440.

Attleboro Steam and Electric Company ("Attleboro"), Central Massachusetts Electric Company ("Central"), Gardner Electric Light Company ("Gardner"), Worcester Suburban Electric Company ("Worcester Suburban"), New England Power Company ("NEPCO"), and Worcester County Electric Company ("Worcester County"), all subsidiary companies of New England Electric System ("NEES"), a registered holding company, having filed separate applications pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, particularly section 6 (b) thereof, with respect to the following proposed transactions:

Applicant companies propose to issue, from time to time but not later than September 30, 1950, additional unsecured promissory notes, due May 31, 1951. Applicants' notes presently outstanding and proposed to be issued, together with the total amount of notes to be outstanding, are shown in the following table:

Name	Presently outstanding	Proposed to be issued	Total to be outstanding
Attleboro	$380,000	$60,000	$440,000
Central	900,000	100,000	1,000,000
Gardner	450,000	50,000	500,000
Worcester Suburban	2,050,000	50,000	2,100,000

The notes are to be issued pursuant to bank loan agreements, as amended, entered into by the applicant companies and certain other subsidiary companies of NEES, as described in Holding Company Act Release Nos. 8253 and 9527.

The applicant companies have agreed to reduce the amount of bank notes outstanding to the extent of any permanent financing, except indebtedness to NEES, and to reduce the amount of bank notes authorized by this Commission but not issued prior to such financing, to the extent of the excess of such financing over the amount of notes then outstanding. In addition, it is indicated that the amount of promissory notes authorized to be issued by NEPCO will be reduced by the amount received by NEES in the event it sells its investment in the common shares of its subsidiary, Fall River Electric Light Company.

The applicant companies state that the proceeds to be derived from said unsecured promissory notes will be used to replenish any depletion of working capital occasioned by the construction of property already in progress and to finance proposed construction through September 30, 1950.

Incidental services in connection with the notes proposed to be issued will be performed by New England Power Service Company, an affiliate service company, at the actual cost thereof. The total amount of expenses in connection with the proposed transactions are estimated to be $100 for each of the applicant companies, an aggregate of $600

The Department of Public Utilities of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts has approved the proposed issuance of notes by the applicant companies and, in addition, the Public Service Commission of the State of New Hampshire and the Vermont Public Service Commission have approved the notes proposed to be issued by NEPCO.

The applicant companies request that the Commission's order herein be and become effective upon issuance.

Said applications having been filed on July 19, 1950, and notice of said filing having been duly given in the form and manner prescribed by Rule U-23 promulgated pursuant to said act and the Commission not having received a request for hearing with respect to said applications within the period specified in said notice or otherwise, and not having ordered a hearing thereon; and

The Commission finding that the proposed transactions meet the exemption requirements of section 6 (b) of the act and the Commission deeming it appropriate that said applications be granted without the imposition of any terms and conditions other than those contained in Rule U-24 and the Commission also deeming it appropriate to grant said applicant companies' request that the order herein become effective forthwith upon its issuance:

It is ordered, Pursuant to said Rule U-23 and the applicable provisions of said act that said applications, be, and the same hereby are, granted forthwith, subject to the terms and conditions contained in Rule U-24.

SUPPLEMENTAL ORDER GRANTING APPLICATION

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 31st day of July A. D. 1950.

The Commission, by Order dated January 10, 1950, having approved a plan, as amended, providing for the liquidation and dissolution of The United Light and Railways Company ("Railways"), a registered holding company, and its registered holding company subsidiary, Continental Gas & Electric Corporation ("Continental"), pursuant to section 11 (e) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, which plan, inter alia, provides that the distribution by Railways to its common stockholders of the common stock of Iowa-Illinois Gas and Electric Company ("Iowa-Illinois") will be made by a depositary to be selected by Railways, after notice to the Commission of the method used in selecting such depositary and the fees to be paid; and that the rights of Railways' stockholders to receive such distribution of the stock of Iowa-Illinois shall expire on a date to be fixed by Railways with the approval of the Commission, after which date the unclaimed shares of stock will be sold and the net proceeds together with dividends received by the depositary upon the shares sold, shall be paid to the stockholders entitled thereto or held for their benefit until December 31, 1955, as provided in the amended plan; and

Railways having filed a supplemental application, designated Supplemental Application No. 9, stating that it requested bids from three New York and two Chicago banks, including Iowa-Illinois' New York and Chicago transfer agents, of the charges to be made for their services for acting as such depositary, that the bid of The First National Bank of Chicago, Iowa-Illinois transfer agent, will provide the necessary depositary service at the lowest cost, and that Railways proposes, subject to the approval of the Commission, to select The First National Bank of Chicago, Illinois, as such depositary and to pay it a fee of $4,900; and said supplemental application further stating that Railways proposes to fix December 1, 1951, as the date on which the rights of stockholders to receive the securities to be distributed shall expire; and applicant having requested that our order herein become effective upon its issuance; and

It appearing that the other fees and expenses, consisting of $2,100 to Bankers Trust Company, Railways' transfer agent, and $500 for miscellaneous, printing, mailing, mimeographing, etc., to be incurred in connection with the transaction are not unreasonable; and

The Commission finding that the selection of the depositary and the fixing of December 1, 1951, as the date on which the rights of stockholders to receive the securities of Iowa-Illinois to which they are entitled in the proposed distribution shall expire are in accordance with the plan, and that the standards of the applicable provisions of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder have been satisfied, and observing no basis for adverse findings with respect thereto, and deeming it appropriate in the public interest and in the interest of investors to grant said supplemental application and said request for acceleration of the effective date of this order:

It is ordered, That said supplemental application be, and it hereby is, granted, and that this order shall become effective upon its issuance.

PENNSYLVANIA INDUSTRIES, INC.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION, STATEMENT OF ISSUES, AND ORDER FOR HEARING

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission, held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 3d day of August A. D. 1950.

Notice is hereby given that Pennsylvania Industries, Inc. (hereinafter referred to as the Company, has filed an application pursuant to sections 6 (c) and 17 (b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 (hereinafter referred to as the act) for an order of the Commission exempting from section 17 of the act the transaction herein described.

The Company is a Delaware corporation and is a management investment company registered under the act. The Company is the beneficial owner of 15,500 shares of Prior Preferred Stock, First Series 5½ percent, and of 124,934 shares of the Common Stock of Pittsburgh Steel Company. These holdings represent 20.8 percent of the outstanding voting shares of Pittsburgh Steel Company. It is conceded in the application that Pittsburgh Steel Company is an affiliated person of the Company as defined in section 2 (a) (3) of the act.

J. H. Hillman, Jr., J. H. Hillman, III, J. H. Hillman & Sons Company, W. J. Rainey, Inc., Hecla Coal & Coke Company and Hillman Land Company are all controlled, directly or indirectly by J. H. Hillman, Jr., and are referred to in the application as the "Hillman Group", which group owns 36,236 shares, comprising 56.09 percent of the $6 Cumulative Preferred Stock and 21,-927.84 shares or 92.39 percent of the Common Stock, $25 Par Value, of the Company. The Hillman Group is therefore an affiliated person of the Company within the definition of section 2 (a) (3) of the act. This Group owns 1,520 shares of the Prior Preferred Stock, First Series, 5½ percent, 1,010 shares of Class A 5 percent Stock, 201 shares of Class B 7 percent Preferred Stock and 15,653 shares of Common Stock of Pittsburgh Steel Company, which represents in the aggregate approximately 2.7 percent of the outstanding voting shares of the Company.

Pittsburgh Steel Company has proposed a Plan of Capital Readjustment, dated June 26, 1950, whereby holders of shares of the Prior Preferred Stock, First Series, 5½ percent, and of Class A, 5 percent Preferred Stock of Pittsburgh Steel Company may, subject to certain limitations set forth in said Plan, exchange their present holdings on the following basis:

For each share of prior preferred stock, first series, 5½ percent: ½ share of prior preferred stock, first series, 5½ percent (identical stock) and 3½ shares of common stock.

For each share of class A, 5 percent preferred stock and dividend arrearages thereon, amounting to $50.625 per share: 6/10 of a share of prior preferred stock, first series, 5½ percent, and 4½ shares of common stock.

The Plan provides that the number of shares of Common Stock of Pittsburgh Steel Company to be made available for exchange under said Plan is limited to 450,000 shares (accordingly, if on July 28, 1950, more stock has been deposited for exchange than can be exchanged within the limit of the 450,000 shares of Common Stock made available, the acceptance of the shares theretofore deposited will be pro rated to the nearest full share so that only 450,000 shares of Common Stock of Pittsburgh Steel Company will be issued). The Plan further provides that any shares of Common Stock of Pittsburgh Steel Company remaining available for exchange after the close of business on July 28, 1950, will be used to complete exchanges of stock tendered for delivery after that date and shares so tendered will be exchanged upon receipt on a first-come, first-served basis, so long as the supply of Common Stock available for exchange lasts. No stock may in any event be deposited for exchange after the close of business on September 8, 1950, or after the close of business on such later date as may be fixed by future action by the Board of Directors.

The application requests exemption for a proposed transaction wherein the Company would exchange 7,750 shares of Prior Preferred Stock, First Series, 5½ percent of Pittsburgh Steel Company owned by it for 3,875 shares of Prior Preferred Stock, First Series, 5½ percent, and 27,125 shares of Common Stock. The Company asserts that participation in the voluntary capital readjustment plan to the extent of one-half of its holdings of Prior Preferred Stock will enable Pitsburgh Steel Company to eliminate dividend arrearages on its Class A, 5 percent Preferred Stock, amounting to $50.625 per share and to increase the market value of the shares of common stock held by the Company. It is further claimed that such exchange which will convert a portion of the Prior Preferred Stock, First Series, into Common Stock will result in acquisition of stock which has a much wider and more active market than the Prior Preferred.

The applicants specifically request an order of the Commission pursuant to section 17 (b) of the act exempting the proposed exchange as outlined above from the provisions of section 17 (a) of the act which makes it unlawful for an affiliated person of a registered investment company to purchase any security or property from such investment company and pursuant to section 6 (c) of the act to exempt in its entirety the transaction between the Company and Pittsburgh Steel Company.

For a more detailed statement of the matters of fact and law asserted all interested persons are referred to said application which is on file in the offices of the Commission at 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C.

The Division of Corporation Finance has advised the Commission that upon a preliminary examination of the application it deems the following issues to be raised without prejudice to the specification of additional issues upon further examination:

(1) Whether the terms of the proposed exchange, including the consideration to be given and received by the Company are reasonable and fair and do not involve overreaching on the part of any person concerned;

(2) Whether said proposed exchange is consistent with the policy of the Company as set forth in its registration statement and reports filed with the Commission and with the policy of the act;

(3) Whether the proposed exemption of the foregoing section from the provisions of section 17 (a) of the act is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and is consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of the act;

(4) Whether the proposed exemption of the above transaction in its entirety under section 6 (c) of the act is necessary or appropriate in the public interest and consistent with the protection of investors and the purposes fairly intended by the policy and provisions of the act.

It appearing to the Commission that a hearing upon the application is necessary and appropriate;

It is ordered, Pursuant to section 40 (a) of said act that a public hearing of the aforesaid application be held on August 15, 1950 at 10 a. m., e. d. t., in Room 193 of the offices of the Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C.

It is further ordered, That R. Townsend or any officer or officers of the Commission designated by it for that purpose shall preside at the hearing, and any officer or officers so designated to preside at such hearing is hereby authorized to exercise all of the powers granted to the Commission under sections 41 and 42 (b) of the Investment Company Act of 1940 and to hearing officers under the Commission's rules of practice.

Notice of such hearing is hereby given to the above-named Pennsylvania Industries, Inc., Pittsburgh Steel Company and to any other person or persons whose participation in such proceedings may be necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors. Any person desiring to be heard in said proceeding should file with the hearing officer or the Secretary of the Commission, on or before August 11, 1950, his application therefor as provided by Rule XVII of the rules of practice of the Commission, setting forth therein any of the above matters or issues he deems raised by the aforesaid application.

By the Commission.

DESIGNATION OF CERTAIN OFFICERS OF THE DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE TO ACT AS SECRETARY OF COMMERCE

By virtue of the authority vested in me by section 179 of the Revised Statutes of the United States (5 U. S. C. 6), and as President of the United States, I hereby authorize and direct (1) the Under Secretary of Commerce for Transportation to perform the duties of the Secretary of Commerce in case of the absence, sickness, resignation, or death of the Secretary of Commerce and of the Under Secretary of Commerce; (2) the Assistant Secretaries of Commerce, in the order of precedence as determined by the dates of their commissions, to perform the duties of the Secretary of Commerce in case of the absence, sickness, resignation, or death of the Secretary of Commerce, the Under Secretary of Commerce, and the Under Secretary of Commerce for Transportation; and (3) the Solicitor of Commerce to perform the duties of the Secretary of Commerce in case of the absence, sickness, resignation, or death of the Secretary of Commerce, the Under Secretary of Commerce, the Under Secretary of Commerce for Transportation, and the Assistant Secretaries of Commerce.

This order supersedes Executive Order No. 9885 of August 18, 1947, entitled "Designation of the Assistant Secretaries of Commerce and the Solicitor of Commerce to Act as Secretary of Commerce".

Chapter IX—Production and Marketing Administration (Marketing Agreements and Orders), Department of Agriculture

[Peach Order 2]

PART 940—PEACHES GROWN IN COUNTY OF MESA IN COLORADO

REGULATION BY GRADES AND SIZES

§ 940.302 Peach Order 2—(a) Findings. (1) Pursuant to the amended marketing agreement and Order No. 40, as amended (7 CFR Part 940; 15 F. R. 5001) regulating the handling of peaches grown in the County of Mesa in the State of Colorado, effective under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, and upon the basis of the recommendations of the Administrative Committee, established under the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order, and upon other available information, it is hereby found that the limitation of shipments of such peaches, as hereinafter provided, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(2) It is hereby further found that it is impracticable and contrary to the public interest to give preliminary notice, engage in public rule-making procedure, and postpone the effective date of this section until 30 days after publication thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (60 Stat. 237; 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) in that, as hereinafter set forth, the time intervening between the date when information upon which this section is based became available and the time when this section must become effective in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act is insufficient; a reasonable time is permitted, under the circumstances, for preparation for such effective time; and good cause exists for making the provisions hereof effective not later than August 9, 1950. A reasonable determination as to the supply of, and the demand for, such peaches must await the development of the crop and adequate information thereon was not available to the Administrative Committee until July 24, 1950; recommendation as to the need for, and the extent of, regulation of shipments of such peaches was made at the meeting of said committee on July 24, 1950, after consideration of all information then available relative to the supply and demand conditions for such peaches, at which time the recommendation and supporting information was submitted to the Department, and made available to growers and handlers; necessary supplemental information was not available to the Department until July 28, 1950; in order to effectuate the declared policy of the act, the regulation of peach shipments during the present fiscal year should, insofar as practicable, be applicable to all shipments of such peaches; and compliance with the provisions of this section will not require of handlers any preparation therefor which cannot be completed by the effective time hereof.

(b) Order. (1) During the period beginning at 12:01 a. m., m. s. t., August 9, 1950, and ending at 12:01 a. m., m. s. t., October 15, 1950, no handler shall ship:

(i) Any peaches that do not grade at least U. S. No. 2: Provided, That, with respect to ripe peaches, the requirements of such grade shall not include damage, other than serious damage, caused by bruises; or

(ii) Any peaches that are smaller than 2 inches in diameter: Provided, That any lot of peaches shall be deemed to be of a size not smaller than 2 inches in diameter (a) if not more than 10 percent, by count, of the peaches in such lot are smaller than 2 inches in diameter and if not more than 15 percent, by count, of the peaches contained in any individual container in such lot are smaller than 2 inches in diameter; or (b) if the peaches in such lot are shipped in peach boxes and the peaches are of a size not smaller than a size that will pack, in accordance with the specifications of a standard pack, a count of 78 peaches in a peach box, except that the tolerance for variations incident to proper packing, provided in such pack specifications, shall not permit a variation of more than 4 peaches in any such box.

(2) Definitions. As used in this section, "peaches," "handler," and "ship" shall have the same meaning as when used in the aforesaid amended marketing agreement and order; "U. S. No. 2," "diameter," "count," and "standard pack" shall have the same meaning as when used in the United States Standards for Peaches (7 CFR 51.312); and "peach box" shall mean a box of the following inside dimensions: 4½–5" x 11½" x 16⅛".

PART 113—DOCUMENTARY STAMP TAXES

EXEMPT TRANSFERS BETWEEN CORPORATIONS AND THEIR NOMINEES: ELIMINATION OF RETURNS OF BROKERS AND DEALERS IN STOCKS AND BONDS

In order to conform Regulations 71 (1941 Edition) (26 CFR Part 113), to the provisions of section 4 of Public Law 378 (81st Cong., 1st sess.), approved October 25, 1949, and in order to eliminate the requirement of filing a monthly return on Form 838 by brokers and by dealers in stocks and bonds, such regulations are amended as follows:

PARAGRAPH 1. Immediately preceding § 113.30 there is inserted the following:

PUBLIC LAW 378 (81ST CONG., 1ST SESS.), APPROVED OCTOBER 25, 1949

SEC. 4. TRANSFERS OF STOCK BETWEEN CORPORATION AND NOMINEE.

(a) Section 1802 (b) of the Internal Revenue Code (relating to stamp taxes on sales and transfers of stock) is hereby amended by striking out the period at the end of clause (2) and inserting in lieu thereof a semicolon, and by inserting after clause (2) the following new clause:

(3) From a corporation to a registered nominee of such corporation, or from one such nominee to another such nominee, if in either case the shares or certificates continue to be held by such nominee for the same purpose for which they would be held if retained by such corporation; or from such nominee to such corporation.

(b) In the case of the death before the date of the enactment of this act of a nominee of a corporation (whether or not such nominee was registered), the tax under section 1802 (b) of the Internal Revenue Code shall not be imposed upon any delivery or transfer of stock from the executor or administrator of such nominee to such corporation if such delivery or transfer is made on or before the date of the enactment of this act or within one year after such date.

PAR. 2. Section 113.35, as amended by Treasury Decision 5613, approved April 27, 1948, is further amended as follows:

(A) By changing the designations of paragraphs (g) and (h) to (h) and (i) respectively, by substituting "(g)" for "(f)" in the first sentence of the redesignated paragraph (i), and by changing "(h)" as it occurs in paragraphs (a) to (f) inclusive to "(i)".

(B) By inserting a new paragraph (g) as follows:

(g) Transfers between corporations and their nominees. The tax does not apply to the delivery or transfer of stock from a corporation to a registered nominee of such corporation, or from one such nominee to another such nominee, if in either case the shares or certificates continue to be held by such nominee for the same purpose for which they would be held if retained by such corporation; or from such nominee to such corporation. No exemption is granted unless the nominee is registered in the manner provided in § 113.153.

In the case of the death before October 25, 1949, of a nominee of a corporation (whether or not such nominee was registered), the tax shall not apply to the delivery or transfer of stock from the executor or administrator of such nominee to such corporation if such delivery or transfer is made on or before October 25, 1950.

The exemption specified in this paragraph shall not be granted in any case unless the delivery or transfer is accompanied by an exemption certificate, executed by the person making the exempt transfer, in substantially the form prescribed in paragraph (i).

PAR. 3. Section 113.153 is amended by deleting the third paragraph thereof and inserting in its place the following two paragraphs:

Any corporation may appoint some person to act as nominee in holding stock on its behalf.

The name of the person appointed as nominee of a broker, custodian or corporation shall be registered with the collector for the district in which the principal office of the broker, custodian or corporation is located. Substitution of a nominee may be effected by likewise registering the name of the successor nominee.

PAR. 4. Section 113.154 is amended by deleting from the third paragraph thereof the words "broker or custodian" wherever such words appear and inserting in lieu thereof the words "broker, custodian or corporation."

PAR. 5. Sections 113.39 and 113.69 are deleted.

(Sec. 3791, I. R. C. (53 Stat. 467; 26 U. S. C. 3791))

Because the purposes of this Treasury decision are merely to conform the regulations to the provisions of section 4 of Public Law 378 (81st Congress, 1st Session), exempting from stamp tax certain deliveries and transfers of stock, and to eliminate the filing of monthly returns by brokers or dealers in stocks or bonds, it is found that it is unnecessary to issue this Treasury decision under section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946, or subject to the effective date limitation of section 4 (c) of said act.

[SEAL] FRED S. MARTIN,
Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Approved: August 2, 1950.

GENERAL

§ 450.0 Introductory statement. This part discusses the meaning and scope of the child labor provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act, as amended[1] (hereinafter referred to as the act). The provisions of this part seek to protect the safety, health, well-being and opportunities for schooling of youthful workers and authorize the Secretary of Labor to issue legally binding orders or regulations in certain instances and under certain conditions. The child labor provisions are found in sections 3 (l), 11 (b), 12, 13 (c) and (d), 15 (a) (4), 16 (a), and 18 of the act. They are administered and enforced by the Secretary of Labor who had delegated[2] to the Wage and Hour Division the duty of making investigations to obtain compliance, and to the Bureau of Labor Standards the duty of developing standards for the issuance of regulations and orders relating to (a) hazardous occupations, (b) employment of 14- and 15-year-old children, and (c) age certificates.

[1] Pub. No. 718, 75th Cong., 3d sess. (52 Stat. 1060), as amended by the act of June 26, 1940 (Pub. Res. No. 88, 76th Cong., 3d sess.); by Reorganization Plan No. 2 (60 Stat. 1095), effective July 16, 1946; by the Portal-to-Portal Act of 1947, approved May 14, 1947 (61 Stat. 84); and by the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1949, approved October 26, 1949 (Pub. Law 393, 81st Cong., 1st sess.). Amendments provided by the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1949 are effective as of January 25, 1950. These amendments leave the existing law unchanged except as to provisions specifically amended and the addition of certain new provisions.

[2] General Order No. 42 issued by the Secretary on July 1, 1949.

The interpretations of the Secretary contained in this part indicate the construction of the law which will guide him in performing his duties until he is directed otherwise by authoritative rulings of the courts or until he shall subsequently decide that his prior interpretation is incorrect.

§ 450.1 General scope of statutory provisions. The most important of the child labor provisions are contained in sections 12 (a), 12 (c), and 3 (l) of the act. Section 12 (a) provides that no producer, manufacturer, or dealer shall ship or deliver for shipment in interstate or foreign commerce any goods produced in an establishment in or about which oppressive child labor was employed within 30 days before removal of the goods. The full text of this subsection is set forth in § 450.3 and its terms are discussed in §§ 450.4 to 450.10, inclusive. Section 12 (c) prohibits any employer from employing oppressive child labor in interstate or foreign commerce or in the production of goods for such commerce. The text and discussion of this provision appear in §§ 450.11 and 450.12. Section 3 (l) of the act, which defines the term "oppressive child labor," is set forth in § 450.16 and its provisions are discussed in §§ 450.17 to 450.20, inclusive. It will further be noted that the act provides various specific exemptions from the foregoing provisions which are set forth and discussed in §§ 450.21 to 450.25, inclusive.

§ 450.2 Comparison with wage and hours provisions. A comparison of the child labor provisions with the so-called wage and hours provisions contained in the act discloses some important distinctions which should be mentioned.

(a) The child labor provisions contain no requirements in regard to wages. The wage and hours provisions, on the other hand, provide for minimum rates of pay for straight time and overtime pay at a rate not less than one and one-half times the regular rate of pay for overtime hours worked. Except as provided in certain exemptions contained in the act, these rates are required to be paid all employees subject to the wage and hours provisions, regardless of their age or sex. The fact, therefore, that the employment of a particular child is prohibited by the child labor provisions or that certain shipments or deliveries may be proscribed on account of such employment, does not relieve the employer of the duties imposed by the wage and hours provisions to compensate the child in accordance with those requirements.

(b) There are important differences between the child labor provisions and the wage and hours provisions with respect to their general coverage. As pointed out in § 450.13, two separate and basically different coverage provisions are contained in section 12 relating to child labor. One of these provisions (section 12 (c)), which applies to the employment by an employer of oppressive child labor in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce, is similar to the wage and hours coverage provisions, which include employees engaged in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce. The other provision (section 12 (a)), however, differs fundamentally in its basic concepts of coverage from the wage and hours provisions, as will be explained in §§ 450.3 to 450.10.

(c) Another distinction is that the exemptions provided by the act from the minimum wage and/or overtime provisions are more numerous and differ from the exemptions granted from the child labor provisions. There are only four specific child labor exemptions of which only one applies to the minimum wage and overtime pay requirements as well. This is the exemption for employees engaged in the delivery of newspapers to the consumer.[3] With this exception, none of the specific exemptions from the minimum wage and/or overtime pay requirements applies to the child labor provisions. However, it should be noted that the exclusion of certain employers by section 3 (d)[4] of the act applies to the child labor provisions as well as the wage and hours provisions.

COVERAGE OF SECTION 12 (a)

§ 450.3 General. Section 12 (a) of the act provides as follows:

No producer, manufacturer, or dealer shall ship or deliver for shipment in commerce any goods produced in an establishment situated in the United States in or about which within thirty days prior to the removal of such goods therefrom any oppressive child labor has been employed: Provided, That any such shipment or delivery for shipment of such goods by a purchaser who acquired them in good faith in reliance on written assurance from the producer, manufacturer, or dealer that the goods were produced in compliance with the requirements of this section, and who acquired such goods for value without notice of any such violation, shall not be deemed prohibited by this subsection: And provided further, That a prosecution and conviction of a defendant for the shipment or delivery for shipment of any goods under the conditions herein prohibited shall be a bar to any further prosecution against the same defendant for shipments or deliveries for shipment of any such goods before the beginning of said prosecution.

In determining the applicability of this provision, consideration of the meaning of the terms used is necessary. These terms are discussed in §§ 450.4 to 450.10, inclusive.

§ 450.4 "Producer, manufacturer, or dealer". It will be observed that the prohibition of section 12 (a) with respect to certain shipments or deliveries for shipment is confined to those made by producers, manufacturers, and dealers. The terms "producer, manufacturer, or dealer" used in this provision are not expressly defined by the statute. However, in view of the definition of "produced" in section 3 (j), for purposes of this subsection a "producer" is considered to be one who engages in producing, manufacturing, handling or in any other manner working on goods in any State.[5] Since manufacturing is considered a specialized form of production, the word "manufacturer" does not have as broad an application as the word "producer." Manufacturing generally involves the transformation of raw materials or semifinished goods into new or different articles. A person may be considered a "manufacturer" even though his goods are made by hand, as is often true of products made by homeworkers. Moreover, it is immaterial whether manufacturing is his sole or main business. Thus, the term includes retailers who, in addition to retail selling, engage in such manufacturing activities as the making of slip-covers or curtains, the baking of bread, the making of candy, or the making of window frames. The word "dealer" refers to anyone who deals in goods (as defined in section 3 (i) of the act),[6] including persons engaged in buying, selling, trading, distributing, delivering, etc. It includes middlemen, factors, brokers, commission merchants, wholesalers, retailers and the like.

§ 450.5 "Ship or deliver for shipment in commerce." (a) Section 12 (a) forbids producers, manufacturers, and dealers to "ship or deliver from shipment in commerce" the goods referred to therein. A producer, manufacturer, or dealer may "ship" goods in commerce either by moving them himself in interstate or foreign commerce or by causing them to so move, as by delivery to a carrier.[7] Thus, a baker "ships" his bread in commerce whether he carries it in his own truck across State lines or sends it by contract or common carrier to his customers in other States. The word "ship" must be applied in its ordinary meaning. For example, it does not apply to the transmission of telegraphic messages.[8]

(b) To "deliver for shipment in commerce" means to surrender the custody of goods to another under such circumstances that the person surrendering the goods knows or has reason to believe that the goods will later be shipped in commerce.[9] Typical is the case of a

[4] Section 3 (d) defines "employer" to include "any person acting directly or indirectly in the interest of an employer in relation to an employee but shall not include the United States or any State or political subdivision of a State, or any labor organization (other than when acting as an employer), or anyone acting in the capacity of officer or agent of such labor organization."

[5] For a discussion of the definition of "produced" as it relates to section 12 (a), see § 450.7.

[6] See § 450.6.

[7] Section 3 (b) of the act defines "commerce" to mean "trade, commerce, transportation, transmission, or communication among the several States or between any State and any place outside thereof."

[9] Tobin v. Grant, N. D. Calif., 79 F. Sup. 975 which was a suit for injunction by the Secretary of Labor against a manufacturer of books and book covers employing oppressive child labor. The facts showed that the manufactured articles sold by defendant to purchasers in the same State had an ultimate out-of-State destination which was manifest to defendant. The court construed the words "deliver for shipment in commerce" as sufficiently broad to cover this situation even though the purchasers acquired title to the goods.

Detroit manufacturer who delivers his goods in Detroit to a distributor who, as the manufacturer is well aware, will ship the goods into another State. A delivery for shipment in commerce may also be made where raw materials are delivered by their producer to a manufacturer in the same State who converts them into new products which are later shipped across State lines. If the producer in such case is aware or has reason to believe that the finished products will ultimately be sent into another State, his delivery of the raw materials to the manufacturer is a delivery for shipment in commerce. Another example is a paper box manufacturer who ships a carton of boxes to a fresh fruit or vegetable packing shed within the same State, with knowledge or reason to believe that the boxes will there be filled with fruits or vegetables and shipped outside the State. In such case the box manufacturer has delivered the boxes for shipment in commerce.

§ 450.6 "Goods".[10] Section 12 (a) prohibits the shipment or delivery for shipment in commerce of "any goods" produced in an establishment which were removed within 30 days of the employment there of oppressive child labor. It should be noted that the statute does not base the prohibition of section 12 (a) upon the percentage of an establishment's output which is shipped in commerce.

The act furnishes its own definition of "goods" in section 3 (i), as follows:

> "Goods" means goods (including ships and marine equipment), wares, products, commodities, merchandise, or articles or subjects of commerce of any character, or any part or ingredient thereof, but does not include goods after their delivery into the actual physical possession of the ultimate consumer thereof other than a producer, manufacturer, or processor thereof.

The term includes such things as foodstuffs, clothing, machinery, printed materials, blueprints and also includes intangibles such as news, ideas, and intelligence. The statute expressly excludes goods after their delivery into the actual physical possession of an ultimate consumer other than a producer, manufacturer, or processor thereof. Accordingly, such a consumer may lawfully ship articles in his possession although they were incligible for shipment (commonly called "hot goods") before he received them.[11]

§ 450.7 "Produced". The word "produced" as used in the act is defined by section 3 (j) to mean:

> • • • produced, manufactured, mined, handled, or in any other manner worked on in any State; • • •[12]

(a) The prohibition of section 12 (a) cannot apply to a shipment of goods unless those goods (including any part or ingredient thereof) were actually "produced" in and removed from an establishment where oppressive child labor was employed. This provision is applicable even though the under-age employee does not engage in the production of the goods themselves if somewhere in the establishment in or about which he is employed goods are "produced" which are subsequently shipped or delivered for shipment in commerce. In contrast to this restrictive requirement of section 12 (a), it will be noted that the employees covered under the wage and hours provisions as engaged in the production of goods for commerce are not limited to those in or about establishments where such goods are being produced. If the requisite relationship [13] to production of such goods is present, an employee is covered for wage and hours purposes regardless of whether his work brings him in or near any establishment where the goods are produced.[14]

(b) Since the first word in the definition of "produced" repeats the term being defined, it seems clear that the first word must carry the meaning that it has in everyday language. Goods are commonly spoken of as "produced" if they have been brought into being as a result of the application of work. The words "manufactured" and "mined" in the definition refer to special forms of production. The former term is generally applied to the products of industry where existing raw materials are transformed into new or different articles by the use of industrial methods, either by the aid of machinery or by manual operations. Mining is a type of productive activity involving the taking of materials from the ground, such as coal from a coal mine, oil from oil wells, or stone from quarries. The statute also defines the term "produced" to mean "handled" or "in any other manner worked on." [15] These words relate not only to operations carried on in the course of manufacturing, mining, or production as commonly described, but include as well all kinds of operations which prepare goods for their entry into the stream of commerce, without regard to whether the goods are to be further processed or are so called "finished goods." [16] Accordingly, warehouses, fruit and vegetable packing sheds, distribution yards, grain elevators, etc., where goods are sorted, graded, stored, packed, labeled or otherwise handled or worked on in preparation for their shipment out of the State are producing establishments for purposes of section 12 (a).[17] However, the handling or working on goods, performed by employees of carriers which accomplishes the interstate transit or movement in commerce itself, does not constitute production under the act.[18]

§ 450.8 "Establishment situated in the United States".—(a) The statute does not expressly define "establishment." Accordingly, the term should be given a meaning which is not only consistent with its ordinary usage, but also designed to accomplish the general purposes of the act. As normally used in business and in Government, the word "establishment" refers to a distinct physical place of business. This is the meaning attributed to the term as it is used in section 13 (a) (2) of the act.[19] Since the establishments covered under section 12 (a) of the act are those in which goods are produced, the term "establishment" there refers to a physical place where goods are produced. Typical producing establishments are industrial plants, mines, quarries, and the like. The producing establishment, however, need not have a permanently fixed location as is the case with a factory or mine. A boat, for instance, where productive activities such as catching or canning fish are carried on, is considered a producing establishment for purposes of section 12 (a).

Frequently, questions arise as to what should be considered a single establishment. No hard and fast rule can be laid down which will fix the area of all establishments. Accordingly, a determination of the area contained in a single establishment must be based upon the facts of each individual situation. Facts which are particularly pertinent in this connection, however, are those which relate to the physical characteristics and the manner of operation and control of the business. Sometimes, an establishment may extend over an area of several square miles as is common with farms, logging enterprises, mines, and quarries. On the other hand, it may be confined to a few square feet. A typical illustration of this is a loft building that houses the workshops of hundreds of independent manufacturing firms. Each of the workshops is, for purposes of this subsection, a separate establishment.

Similar principles are applicable in determining whether several buildings located on the same premises constitute one establishment or more than one. For example, where several factory buildings are located on the same premises and owned and operated by the same person, they are generally to be considered as a single establishment. On the other hand, factory buildings located on the same premises, but owned and operated by different persons, will not ordinarily be treated as a single establishment. Where the several factories, however, are engaged in a joint productive enterprise, they may constitute a single establishment. This is the case, for example, where a large shipyard contains the plants of a number of subcontractors who are engaged in making parts or equipment for the boats that are built in the yard.

(b) The phrase "situated in the United States" is construed to include any of the 48 States or the District of Columbia or any Territory or possession of the United States.

§ 450.9 "In or about". Section 12 (a) excludes from the channels of interstate commerce goods produced in an establishment "in or about" which oppressive child labor has been employed. In a great many situations it is obviously easy to determine whether a minor is employed "in" an establishment. Thus, he is so employed where he performs his occupational duties on the premises of the producing establishment. Furthermore, a minor is also considered as employed in an establishment where he performs most of his duties off the premises but is regularly required to perform certain occupational duties in the establishment, such as loading or unloading a truck, checking in or out, or washing windows. This is true in such cases even though the minor is employed by someone other than the owner or operator of the particular establishment. On the other hand, a minor is not considered to be employed in an establishment other than his employer's merely because such establishment is visited by him for brief periods of time and for the sole purpose of picking up or delivering a message or other small article.

If, in the light of the preceding statements, the minor cannot be considered as employed in the establishment, he may, nevertheless, be employed "about" it if he performs his occupational duties sufficiently close in proximity to the actual place of production to fall within the commonly understood meaning of the term "about." This would be true in a situation where the foregoing proximity test is met and the occupation of the minor is directly related to the activities carried on in the producing establishment. In this connection, occupations are considered sufficiently related to the activities carried on in the producing establishment to meet the second test above at least where the requisite relationship to production of goods exists within the meaning of section 3 (j) of the act.[20] By way of example, a driver's helper employed to assist in the distribution of the products of a bottling company who regularly boards the delivery truck immediately outside the premises of the bottling plant is considered employed "in or about" such establishment, without regard to whether he ever enters the plant itself. On the other hand, employees working entirely within one establishment are not considered to be employed "in or about" a wholly different establishment occupying separate premises and operated by another employer. This would be true even though the two establishments are contiguous. But in other situations the distance between the producing establishment and the minor's place of employment may be a decisive factor. Thus, a minor employed in clearing rights-of-way for power lines many miles away from the power plant cannot well be said to be employed "in or about" such establishment. In view of the great variety of establishments and employments, however, no hard and fast rule can be laid down which will once and for all distinguish between employments that are "about" an establishment and those that are not. Therefore, each case must be determined on its own merits. In determining whether a particular employment is "about" an establishment, consideration of the following factors should prove helpful: (1) actual distance between the producing establishment and the minor's place of employment; (2) nature of the establishment; (3) ownership or control of the premises involved; (4) nature of the minor's activities in relation to the establishment's purpose; (5) identity of the minor's employer and the establishment's owner; (6) extent of control by the producing establishment's owner over the minor's employment.

§ 450.10 Removal "within 30 days." According to section 12 (a) goods produced in an establishment in or about which oppressive child labor has been employed are barred as "hot goods" from being shipped or delivered for shipment in commerce in the following two situations: First, if they were removed from the establishment while any oppressive child labor was still being employed in or about it; second, if they were removed from an establishment in or about which oppressive child labor was no longer employed but less than 30 days had then elapsed since any such employment of oppressive child labor came to an end. Once any goods have been removed from a producing establishment within the above-mentioned thirty-day period, they are barred at any time thereafter from being shipped or delivered for shipment in commerce so long as they remain "goods" for purposes of the act." Goods are considered removed from an establishment just as soon as they are taken away from the establishment as that term has been defined.[22] The statute does not require that this "removal" from the establishment be made for the purpose or in the course of a shipment or delivery for shipment in commerce. A "removal" within the meaning of the statute also takes place where the goods are removed from the establishment for some other purpose such as storage, the granting of a lien or other security interest, or further processing.

COVERAGE OF SECTION 12 (c)

§ 450.11 General. Section 12 (c) of the act provides are follows: "No employer shall employ any oppressive child labor in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce."

This provision, which was added by the Fair Labor Standards Amendments of 1949,[23] broadens child labor coverage to include employment in commerce. Moreover, it establishes a direct prohibition of the employment of oppressive child labor in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce. The legislative history pertaining to this provision leads to the conclusion that Congress intended its application to be generally consistent with that of wage and hours coverage provisions. The application of the provision depends on the existence of two necessary elements: (1) the employment of "oppressive child labor" [24] by some employer and (2) the employment of such oppressive child labor in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce.

§ 450.12 Employment [25] "in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce". (a) The term "employ" is broadly defined in section 3 (g) of the act to include "to suffer or permit to work." The act expressly provides that the term "employer" includes "any person acting directly or indirectly in the interest of an employer in relation to an employee." The nature of an employer-employee relationship is ordinarily to be determined not solely on the basis of the contractual relationship between the parties but also in the light of all the facts and circumstances. Moreover, the terms "employer" and "employ" as used in the act are broader than the common-law concept of employment and must be interpreted broadly in the light of the mischief to be corrected. Thus, neither the technical relationship between the parties nor the fact that the minor is unsupervised or receives no compensation is controlling in determining whether an employer-employee relationship exists for purposes of section 12 (c) of the act. However, these are matters which should be considered along with all other facts and circumstances surrounding the relationship of the parties in arriving at such determination. The words "suffer or permit to work" include those who suffer by a failure to hinder and those who permit by acquiescence in addition to those who employ by oral or written contract. A typical illustration of employment of oppressive child labor by suffering or permitting an under-aged minor to work is that of an employer who knows that his employee is utilizing the services of such a minor as a helper or substitute in performing his employer's work. If the employer acquiesces in the practice or fails to exercise his power to hinder it, he is himself suffering or permitting the helper to work and is, therefore, employing him, within the meaning of the act. Where employment does exist within the meaning of the act, it must, of course, be in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce in order for section 12 (c) to be applicable.

(b) As previously indicated, the scope of coverage of section 12 (c) of the act is, in general, coextensive with that of the wage and hours provisions. The basis for this conclusion is provided by the similarity in the language used in the respective provisions and by statements appearing in the legislative history concerning the intended effect of the addition of section 12 (c). Accordingly, it may be generally stated that employees considered to be within the scope of the phrases "in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce" for purposes of the wage and hours provisions are also included within the identical phrases used in section 12 (c). To avoid needless repetition, reference is herein made to the full discussion of principles relating to the general coverage of the wage and hours provisions contained in Part 776 (Interpretative Bulletin issued by the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division) of Chapter V of this title. In this connection, however, it should be borne in mind that lack of coverage under the wage and hours provisions or under section 12 (c) does not necessarily preclude the applicability of section 12 (a) of the act.[28]

JOINT AND SEPARATE APPLICABILITY OF SECTIONS 12 (A) AND 12 (C)

§ 450.13 General. It should be noted that section 12 (a) does not directly outlaw the employment of oppressive child labor. Instead, it prohibits the shipment or delivery for shipment in interstate or foreign commerce of goods produced in an establishment where oppressive child labor has been employed within 30 days before removal of the goods. Section 12 (c), on the other hand, is a direct prohibition against the employment of oppressive child labor in commerce, or in the production of goods for commerce. Moreover, the two subsections provide different methods for determining the employees who are covered thereby. Thus, subsection (a) may be said to apply to young workers on an "establishment" basis. If the standards for child labor are not observed in the employment of minors in or about an establishment where goods are produced and from which such goods are removed within the statutory 30-day period, it becomes unlawful for any producer, manufacturer, or dealer (other than an innocent purchaser who is in compliance with the requirements for a good faith defense as provided in the subsection) to ship or deliver those goods for shipment in commerce. It is not necessary for the minor himself to have been employed by the producer of such goods or in their production in order for the ban to apply. On the other hand, whether the employment of a particular minor below the applicable age standard will subject his employer to the prohibition of subsection (c) is dependent upon the minor himself being employed in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce, within the meaning of the act. If such a minor is so employed by his employer and is not specifically exempt from the child labor provisions then his employment under such circumstances constitutes a violation of section 12 (c) regardless of where he may be employed or what his employer may do. Moreover, a violation of section 12 (c) occurs under the foregoing circumstances without regard to whether there is a "removal" of goods or a shipment or delivery for shipment in commerce.

§ 450.14 Joint applicability. The child labor coverage provisions contained in sections 12 (a) and 12 (c) of the act may be jointly applicable in certain situations. For example, a manufacturer of women's dresses who ships them in interstate commerce, employs a minor under 16 years of age who gathers and bundles scraps of material in the cutting room of the plant. Since the employment of the minor under such circumstances constitutes oppressive child labor and involves the production of goods for commerce, the direct prohibition of section 12 (c) is applicable to the case. In addition, section 12 (a) also applies to the manufacturer if the dresses are removed from the establishment during the course of the minor's employment or within 30 days thereafter. To illustrate further, suppose that a transportation company employs a 17-year-old boy as helper on a truck used for hauling materials between railroads and the plants of its customers who are engaged in producing goods for shipment in commerce. The employment of the minor as helper on a truck is oppressive child labor because such occupation has been declared particularly hazardous by the Secretary for children between 16 and 18 years of age. Since his occupation involves the transportation of goods which are moving in interstate commerce, his employment in such occupation by the transportation company is, therefore, directly prohibited by the terms of section 12 (c). If the minor's duties in this case should, for example, include loading and unloading the truck at the establishments of the customers of his employer, then the provisions of section 12 (a) might be applicable with respect to such customers. This would be true where any goods which they produce and ship in commerce are removed from the producing establishment within 30 days after the minor's employment there.

§ 450.15 Separate applicability. There are situations where section 12 (c) does not apply because the minor himself is not considered employed in commerce or in the production of goods for commerce. This does not exclude the possibility of coverage under the provisions of section 12 (a), however. Thus, the employment of a minor by a local window-cleaning company to wash the windows of a factory producing goods for shipment in commerce is not subject to section 12 (c) because the work performed by the minor is not closely related and directly essential to production. However, the prohibition contained in section 12 (a) would apply in such a situation to shipments from the factory of goods removed within the statutory 30-day period provided, of course, the minor was below the applicable age minimum. In those cases where oppressive child labor is employed in commerce but not in or about a producing establishment, coverage exists under section 12 (c) but not under the provisions of section 12 (a). The employment of telegraph messengers under 16 years of age would normally involve this type of situation.[29] There may also be cases where oppressive child labor is employed in occupations closely related and directly essential to the production of goods in a separate establishment and therefore covered by section 12 (c) but due to the fact that none of the goods produced in the establishment where the minors work are ever shipped or delivered for shipment in commerce either in the same form or as a part or ingredient of other goods, coverage of section 12 (a) is lacking. An illustration of this type of situation would be the employment of a minor under the applicable age minimum in a plant engaged in the production of electricity which is sold and consumed exclusively within the same State and some of which is used by establishments in the production of goods for commerce.

OPPRESSIVE CHILD LABOR

"Oppressive child labor" means a condition of employment under which (1) any employee under the age of sixteen years is employed by an employer (other than a parent or a person standing in place of a parent employing his own child or a child in his custody under the age of sixteen years in an occupation other than manufacturing or mining or an occupation found by the Secretary of Labor to be particularly hazardous for the employment of children between the ages of sixteen and eighteen years or detrimental to their health or well-being) in any occupation, or (2) any employee between the ages of sixteen and eighteen years is employed by an employer in any occupation which the Secretary of Labor shall find and by order declare to be particularly hazardous for the employment of children between such ages or detrimental to their health or well-being, but oppressive child labor shall not be deemed to exist by virtue of the employment in any occupation of any person with respect to whom the employer shall have on file an unexpired certificate issued and held pursuant to regulations of the Secretary of Labor certifying that such person is above the oppressive child labor age. The Secretary of Labor shall provide by regulation or by order that the employment of employees between the ages of fourteen and sixteen years in occupations other than manufacturing and mining shall not be deemed to constitute oppressive child labor if and to the extent that the Secretary of Labor determines that such employment is confined to periods which will not interfere with their schooling and to conditions which will not interfere with their health and well-being.

It will be noted that the term includes generally the employment of young workers under the age of 16 years in any occupation. In addition, the term includes employment of minors 16 and 17 years of age by an employer in any occupation which the Secretary finds and declares to be particularly hazardous for the employment of children of such ages or detrimental to their health or well-being. Authority is also given the Secretary to issue orders or regulations permitting the employment of children 14 and 15 years of age in nonmanufacturing and nonmining occupations where he determines that such employment is confined to periods which will not interfere with their schooling and to conditions which will not interfere with their health and well-being. The subsection further provides for the issuance of age certificates pursuant to regulations of the Secretary which will protect an employer from unwitting employment of oppressive child labor.

§ 450.17 Sixteen-year minimum. The act sets a 16-year age minimum for employment in manufacturing or mining occupations. Furthermore, this age minimum is applicable to employment in all other occupations unless otherwise provided by regulation or order issued by the Secretary.

§ 450.18 Fourteen-year minimum. With respect to employment in occupations other than manufacturing and mining, the Secretary is authorized to issue regulations or orders lowering the age minimum to 14 years where he finds that such employment is confined to periods which will not interfere with the minors' schooling and to conditions which will not interfere with their health and well-being. Pursuant to this authority, the Secretary permits the employment of 14- and 15-year-old children in a limited number of occupations where the work is performed outside school hours and is confined to other specified limits. Under the provisions of Child Labor Regulation No. 3, as amended,[30] employment of minors in this age group is not permitted in the following occupations: (a) Manufacturing, mining, or processing occupations; (b) occupations requiring the performance of any duties in a work room or work place where goods are manufactured, mined or otherwise processed; (c) occupations involving the operation or tending of hoisting apparatus or of any power-driven machinery other than office machines; (d) public messenger service; (e) occupations declared to be particularly hazardous or detrimental to health or well-being by the Secretary; or (f) occupations (except office or sales work) in connection with (1) transportation of persons or property by rail, highway, air, water, pipeline, or other means; (2) warehousing and storage; (3) communications and public utilities; and (4) construction (including demolition and repair). The exception permitting office and sales work performed in connection with the occupations specified in (f) above does not apply if such work is performed on trains or any other media of transportation or at the actual site of construction operations. Employment of fourteen- and fifteen-year-olds in all occupations other than the foregoing is permitted by the Regulation, if the following conditions are observed: (1) employment only outside school hours and between the hours of 7 a. m. and 7 p. m.; (2) employment for not more than 3 hours a day nor more than 18 hours a week when school is in session; and, (3) employment for not more than 8 hours a day nor more than 40 hours a week when school is not in session. The employment of minors under 14 years of age is not permissible, under any circumstances if the employment is covered by the child labor provisions and not specifically exempt.

§ 450.19 Eighteen-year minimum. To protect young workers from hazardous employment, the act provides for a minimum age of 18 years in occupations found and declared by the Secretary to be particularly hazardous or detrimental to health or well-being for minors 16 and 17 years of age. Hazardous-occupations orders are the means through which occupations are declared to be particularly hazardous for minors. They are issued after public hearing and advice from committees composed of representatives of employers and employees of the industry and the public and in accordance with procedure established in Child Labor Regulation No. 5.[31] The effect of these orders is to raise the minimum age for employment to 18 years in the occupations covered. Seven orders[32] have thus far been issued under the act and are now in effect. In general, they cover:

No. 1. Occupations in or about plants manufacturing explosives or articles containing explosive components.

No. 2. Occupations of motor-vehicle driver and helper.

No. 3. Coal-mine occupations.

No. 4. Logging occupations and occupations in the operation of any sawmill, lath mill, shingle mill, or cooperage-stock mill.

No. 5. Occupations involved in the operation of power-driven woodworking machines.

No. 6. Occupations involving exposure to radioactive substances.

No. 7. Occupations involved in the operation of power-driven hoisting apparatus.

§ 450.20 Age certificates. To protect an employer from unwitting violation of the minimum age standards, it is provided in section 3 (l) (2) of the act that "oppressive child labor shall not be deemed to exist by virtue of the employment in any occupation of any person with respect to whom the employer shall have on file an unexpired certificate issued and held pursuant to regulations of the Secretary of Labor certifying that such person is above the oppressive child labor age." An age certificate is a statement of a minor's age issued under regulations of the Secretary (Child Labor Regulation No. 1),[33] based on the best available documentary evidence of age, and carrying the signatures of the minor and the issuing officer. Its purpose is to furnish an employer with reliable proof of the age of a minor employee in order that he may, as specifically provided by the act, protect himself against unintentional violation of the child labor provisions. Pursuant to the regulations of the Secretary, State employment or age certificates are accepted as proof of age in 44 States, the District of Columbia, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico, and Federal certificates of age in Idaho, Mississippi, South Carolina and Texas. If there is a possibility that the minor whom he intends to employ is below the applicable age minimum for the occupation in which he is to be employed, the employer should obtain an age certificate for him.

It should be noted that the age certificate furnishes protection to the employer as provided by the act only if it shows the minor to be above the minimum age applicable thereunder to the occupation in which he is employed. Thus, a State certificate which shows a minor's age to be above the minimum required by State law for the occupation in which he is employed does not protect his employer for purposes of the Fair Labor Standards Act unless the age shown on such certificate is also above the minimum provided under that act for such occupation.

EXEMPTIONS

§ 450.21 General. Specific exemptions from the child labor requirements of the act are provided for (a) employment of children in agriculture outside of school hours for the school district where they live while so employed; (b) employment of employees engaged in the delivery of newspapers to the consumer; (c) employment of children as actors or performers in motion pictures or in theatrical, radio, or television productions; and (d) employment by a parent or a person standing in a parent's place of his own child or a child in his custody under the age of sixteen years in any occupation other than the following: (1) Manufacturing, (2) mining, (3) an occupation found by the Secretary to be particularly hazardous for the employment of children between the ages of sixteen and eighteen years or detrimental to their health or well-being. In his interpretations of these provisions, the Secretary will be guided by

[28] See § 450.15.

[29] In Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U. S. 490, the court held section 12 (a) inapplicable to Western Union on the grounds that the company does not "produce" or "ship" goods within the meaning of that subsection.

the principle that such exemptions should be narrowly construed and their application limited to those employees who are plainly and unmistakably within their terms. Thus, the fact that a child's occupation involves the performance of work which is considered exempt from the child labor provisions will not relieve his employer from the requirements of section 12 (c) or the producer, manufacturer, or dealer from the requirements of section 12 (a) if, during the course of his employment, the child spends any part of his time doing work which is covered but not so exempt.

§ 450.22 Agriculture. Section 13 (c) of the act provides an exemption from the child labor provisions for "any employee employed in agriculture outside of school hours for the school district where such employee is living while he is so employed." This is the only exemption from the child labor provisions relating to agriculture or the products of agriculture. The various agricultural exemptions provided by sections 7 (b) (3), 7 (c), 13 (a) (6), 13 (a) (10) and 13 (b) (5) from all or part of the minimum wage and overtime pay requirements are not applicable to the child labor provisions. This exemption, it will be noted, is limited to periods outside of school hours in contrast to the complete exemption for employment in "agriculture" under the wage and hours provisions. Under the original act, the exemption became operative whenever the applicable State law did not require the minor to attend school. The legislative history clearly indicates that in amending this provision, Congress sought to establish a clearer and simpler test for permissive employment which could be applied without the necessity of exploring State legal requirements regarding school attendance in the particular State. It recognized that the original provision fell short of achieving the objective of permitting agricultural work only so long as it did not infringe upon the opportunity of children for education. By recasting the exemption on an "outside of school hours" basis, Congress intended to provide a test which could be more effectively applied toward carrying out this purpose.

The applicability of the exemption to employment in agriculture as defined in section 3 (f) [22] of the act depends in general upon whether such employment conflicts with school hours for the locality where the child lives. Since the phrase "school hours" is not defined in the act, it must be given the meaning that it has in ordinary speech. Moreover, it will be noted that the statute speaks of school hours "for the school district" rather than for the individual child. Thus, the provision does not depend for its application upon the individual student's requirements for attendance at school. For example, if an individual student is excused from his studies for a day or a part of a day by the superintendent or the school board, the exemption would not apply if school was in session then. "Outside of school hours" generally may be said to refer to such periods as before or after school hours, holidays, summer vacation, Sundays, or any other days on which the school for the district in which the minor lives does not assemble. Since "school hours for the school district" do not apply to minors who have graduated from high school, the entire year would be considered "outside of school hours" and, therefore, their employment in agriculture would be permitted at any time.

Attention is directed to the fact that by virtue of the parental exemption provided in section 3 (l) of the act, children under 16 years of age are permitted to work for their parents on their parents' farms at any time provided they are not employed in a manufacturing or mining occupation.

The orders (Part 422 of this title) declaring certain occupations to be particularly hazardous for the employment of minors between 16 and 18 years of age or detrimental to their health or well-being do not apply to employment in agriculture, pending study as to the hazardous or detrimental nature of occupations in agriculture.[23]

§ 450.23 Delivery of newspapers. Section 13 (d) of the act provides an exemption from the child labor as well as the wage and hours provisions for employees engaged in the delivery of newspapers to the consumer. This provision applies to carriers engaged in making deliveries to the homes of subscribers or other consumers of newspapers (including shopping news). It also includes employees engaged in the street sale or delivery of newspapers to the consumer. However, employees engaged in hauling newspapers to drop stations, distributing centers, newsstands, etc., do not come within the exemption because they do not deliver to the consumer.

§ 450.24 Actors and performers. Section 13 (c) of the act provides an exemption from the child labor provisions for "any child employed as an actor or performer in motion pictures or theatrical productions, or in radio or television productions." The term "performer" used in this provision is obviously more inclusive than the term "actor." In regulations issued pursuant to section 7 (d) (3) of the act, the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division has defined a "performer" on radio and television programs for purposes of that section.[24] The Secretary will follow this definition in determining whether a child is employed as a "• • • performer • • • in radio or television productions" for purposes of this exemption. Moreover, in many situations the definition will be helpful in determining whether a child qualifies as a "• • • performer in motion pictures or theatrical productions • • •" within the meaning of the exemption.

§ 450.25 Parental exemption. By the parenthetical phrase included in section 3 (l) (1) of the act, a parent or a person standing in place of a parent may employ his own child or a child in his custody under the age of 16 years in any occupation other than the following: (a) Manufacturing; (b) mining; (c) an occupation found by the Secretary to be particularly hazardous or detrimental to health or well-being for children between the ages of 16 and 18 years. This exemption may apply only in those cases where the child is exclusively employed by his parent or a person standing in his parents' place. Thus, where a child assists his father in performing work for the latter's employer and the child is considered to be employed both by his father and his father's employer, the parental exemption would not be applicable. The words "parent" or a person standing in place of a parent" include natural parents, or any other person, where the relationship between that person and a child is such that the person may be said to stand in place of a parent. For example, one who takes a child into his home and treats it as a member of his own family, educating and supporting the child as if it were his own, is generally said to stand to the child in place of a parent. It should further be noted that occupations found by the Secretary to be hazardous or detrimental to health or well-being for children between 16 and 18 years of age, as well as manufacturing and mining occupations, are specifically excluded from the scope of the exemption.

ENFORCEMENT

§ 450.26 General. Section 15 (a) (4) of the act makes any violation of the provisions of sections 12 (a) or 12 (c) unlawful. Any such unlawful act or practice may be enjoined by the United States District Courts under section 17 upon court action, filed by the Secretary pursuant to section 12 (b) and, if willful, will subject the offender to the criminal penalties provided in section 16 (a) of the act.[25]

§ 450.27 Good faith defense. A provision is contained in section 12 (a) of the act relieving any purchaser from liability thereunder who ships or delivers for shipment in commerce goods which he acquired in good faith in reliance on written assurance from the producer, manufacturer, or dealer that the goods were produced in compliance with section 12, and which he acquired for value without notice of any violation.[26]

§ 450.28 Relation to other laws. Section 18 provides, in part, that "no provision of this act relating to the employment of child labor shall justify noncompliance with any Federal or State law or municipal ordinance establishing a higher standard than the standard established under this act." The child labor requirements of the Fair Labor Standards Act, as amended, must be complied with as to the employment of minors within their general coverage and not excepted from their operation by special provision of the act itself regardless of any State, local, or other Federal law that may be applicable to the same employment. Furthermore, any administrative action pursuant to other laws, such as the issuance of a work permit to a minor or the referral by an employment agency of a minor to an employer does not necessarily relieve a person of liability under this act. Where such other legislation is applicable and does not contravene the requirements of the Fair Labor Standards Act, however, nothing in the act, the regulations or the interpretations announced by the Secretary should be taken to override or nullify the provisions of these laws. Although compliance with other applicable legislation does not constitute compliance with the act unless the requirements of the act are thereby met, compliance with the act, on the other hand, does not relieve any person of liability under other laws that establish higher child labor standards than those prescribed by or pursuant to the act. Moreover, such laws, if at all applicable, continue to apply to the employment of all minors who either are not within the general coverage of the child labor provisions of the act or who are specifically excepted from their requirements.

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 27th day of July 1950.

MAURICE J. TOBIN,
Secretary of Labor.

[22] "Agriculture" as defined in section 3 (f) includes "farming in all its branches and among other things includes the cultivation and tillage of the soil, dairying, the production, cultivation, growing, and harvesting of any agricultural or horticultural commodities (including commodities defined as agricultural commodities in section 15 (g) of the Agricultural Marketing Act, as amended), the raising of livestock, bees, fur-bearing animals, or poultry, and any practices (including any forestry, or lumbering operations) performed by a farmer or on a farm as an incident to or in conjunction with such farming operations, including preparation for market, delivery to storage or to market or to carriers for transportation to market."

[24] Section 550.2 (b) of this title provides:

(b) The term "performer" shall mean a person who performs a distinctive, personalized service as a part of an actual broadcast or telecast including an actor, singer, dancer, musician, comedian, or any person who entertains, affords amusement to, or occupies the interest of a radio or television audience by acting, singing, dancing, reading, narrating, performing feats of skill, or announcing, or describing or relating facts, events and other matters of interest, and who actively participates in such capacity in the actual presentation of a radio or television program. It shall not include such persons as script writers, stand-ins, or directors who are neither seen nor heard by the radio or television audience; nor shall it include persons who participate in the broadcast or telecast purely as technicians such as engineers, electricians and stage hands;

[25] Section 16 (a) provides:

Any person who willfully violates any of the provisions of section 15 shall upon conviction thereof be subject to a fine of not more than $10,000, or to imprisonment for not more than six months, or both. No person shall be imprisoned under this subsection except for an offense committed after the conviction of such person for a prior offense under this subsection.

TITLE 38—PENSIONS, BONUSES, AND VETERANS' RELIEF

Chapter I—Veterans' Administration

PART 21—VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION AND EDUCATION

SUBPART B—EDUCATION AND TRAINING

MISCELLANEOUS AMENDMENTS

1. Section 21.202 is amended to read as follows:

§ 21.202 Devotion of full time to training. (a) (1) Training under Veterans Regulation 1 (a), as amended (38 U. S. C. ch. 12), Part VII will be prescribed and provided only in such kind and amount that, except as provided in paragraph (b) (1) and (2) of this section, such training will require the veteran to devote full time to his course of vocational rehabilitation. This full-time requirement will be considered to have been met only when the kind and amount of material to be learned during the prescribed length of the course is such that the course necessarily will require the veteran to give it his undivided attention and effort and will require the veteran to devote to the pursuit of his ccurse approximately as much time per week (in the case of a school course this will include any normal time required for preparation outside the school) as is commonly applied to employment in the particular occupation for which the veteran is training: Provided, That under particular conditions specialized restorative training may be provided on a part-time basis as set forth in § 21.201 (d) (5).

(2) A school course which does not meet the requirements of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph will not be prescribed except where:

(i) The course is modified for the particular veteran so that it does meet the provisions of subparagraph (1) of this paragraph either by arranging for additional hours of instruction, with corresponding shortening of the duration of the course, or by supplementing the course with additional subject matter which is necessary or at least clearly contributes to rendering the trainee satisfactorily employable in the chosen occupation and/or

(ii) The school course is supplemented by providing part-time on-the-job training for the selected occupation, wherever practicable, in a training establishment where there is good promise of employment upon completion of the school course.

(b) Where restoration of a veteran's employability is determined to be practicable through the pursuit of a course of training but the assigned medical consultant determines that due to the limitations imposed by the veteran's disability the maximum time that should be devoted currently by the veteran to training is less than full time as contemplated in paragraph (a) of this section, the veteran may be placed in a reduced-time training program where:

(1) The assigned medical consultant determines that the amount of time which can be devoted currently by the veteran to training is as great as the veteran's disability ever will permit: Provided, That the prescribed course can be completed in 48 months of training or is authorized under § 21.206 (a) (1) (i) or (iii) to exceed 48 months, or

(2) The assigned medical consultant determines that the veteran is able to devote at least 4 hours per day 5 days per week to training exclusive of time if any required to travel to and from the place of training and that there is reasonable promise that during training the veteran's work tolerance will increase steadily to such extent that he will be able to pursue training on a full time basis and the chief, education and training section, determines that considering the determination of the assigned medical consultant there is reasonable assurance that the veteran will attain the selected employment objective within the statutory period of 48 months or within a period exceeding 48 months where authorized under § 21.206 (a) (1) (i) or (iii): Provided, That the individual training program will be so developed that it will require the veteran to devote to his training that amount of time which was determined by the assigned medical consultant to be the maximum time which the veteran currently can devote to training (in the case of a school course this will include any normal time required for preparation outside the school).

(c) In the case of each veteran inducted into reduced-time training under paragraph (b) (1) or (2) of this section, there will be prepared and placed in the veteran's training subfolder a statement showing under which of those two subparagraphs the veteran's induction into reduced-time training was authorized and giving the facts upon which the determination to place the veteran into training was made.

(d) Until a veteran inducted into training under paragraph (b) (2) of this section is pursuing training on a full time basis, at the end of each 90-day period (or at the end of each term or semester if the veteran is pursuing a school course conducted on a term or semester basis) the chief, education and training section:

(1) Will obtain medical determination as to the veteran's current work tolerance, and

(2) Will assure himself that all of the conditions set forth in paragraph (b) (2) of this section continue to be met, and

(3) Will effect prompt adjustment in the number of hours devoted by the veteran to training to conform with the current medical determination.

(e) A veteran inducted into training under paragraph (b) (2) of this section will be removed from training under that subparagraph at any time that the chief, education and training section, finds that one or more of the following conditions exist:

(1) The veteran's work tolerance as determined by the assigned medical consultant falls below the 4 hours per day 5 days per week stipulated in paragraph (b) (2) of this section, or

(2) The assigned medical consultant has determined that there is no longer reasonable promise that during training the veteran's work tolerance will increase to such extent that he will be able to pursue training on a full time basis, or

(3) The veteran will not attain the selected employment objective within 48 months or within a period exceeding 48 months where induction into training was authorized under § 21.206 (a) (1) (i) or (iii). In such a case, § 21.206 (a) (1) (ii) may not be resorted to for the purpose of continuing the veteran in training on a reduced time basis under paragraph (b) (2), of this section.

(f) Where, pursuant to the provisions of paragraph (e) of this section, a veteran is removed from training under paragraph (b) (2) of this section, the chief, education and training section:

(1) Will interrupt the veteran's training until such time as all of the conditions of paragraph (b) (2) of this section again are met or until such time as the veteran is able to pursue full time training, or

(2) Where the veteran fully meets the requirements of paragraph (b) (1) of this section, will place the veteran into training under that subparagraph, or

(3) Will make other appropriate disposition of the veteran's case.

2. A new § 21.240a is added as follows:

§ 21.240a Furnishing items susceptible of personal use. Musical instruments, cameras and their accessories, tennis rackets, golf clubs, fountain pens, desk sets, and similar items which are susceptible of use for personal purposes will not be furnished unless indispensable to particular major or minor unit courses prescribed by the education and training section as essential to accomplishing the selected employment objective, and such items are otherwise furnishable under §§ 21.230 through 21.240, as applicable. Such items will not be furnished for elective courses.

3. Section 21.241 is amended to read as follows:

§ 21.241 Furnishing special equipment. (a) Supplies over and above those required by the school or establishment to be owned personally by all students pursuing the same course or over and above those furnishable under § 21.237a but which, because of the character of the veteran's disability, are necessary to enable the veteran to undertake and/or pursue, or continue to pursue, successfully the course of vocational rehabilitation which has been prescribed by the education and training section, shall be considered to be special equipment and shall be referred to as such.

(b) Special equipment as defined in paragraph (a) of this section may be authorized and furnished to trainees under Part VII, Veterans Regulation 1 (a), as amended (38 U. S. C. ch. 12), subject to the prior approval of central office for only two categories of conditions and purpose as follows:

(1) Where the equipment is necessary to enable the veteran to pursue the prescribed course of training which because of his disability he could not otherwise pursue successfully. That is, the equipment will enable the veteran to do and accomplish those things which persons not disabled are able to do without special equipment but which the particular veteran because of his disability cannot do and therefore cannot pursue the prescribed course satisfactorily. Equipment in this category ordinarily will be items not necessary to persons not disabled but may include such items modified in design and construction as, for example, a work bench or a work seat especially designed and constructed to compensate the veteran's inability to move about freely.

(2) Where the equipment is necessary to a veteran for whom the education and training section has prescribed and authorized a course of training in the home in accordance with § 21.201 (g) to enable the veteran to learn essential operations in the prescribed course. Equipment in this category is of a kind which ordinarily is made available by the school or training establishment but is not available to a veteran training in the home because of his inability to travel to a school or training establishment due to the limitations imposed by his disability.

(c) Requests for approval to furnish special equipment under this section will be submitted to central office accompanied by a detailed statement of all facts which necessitate furnishing the special equipment, including at least the following:

(1) The name, C–number, and address of the veteran needing the special equipment.

(2) The veteran's employment objective and code.

(3) Length of prescribed course and percentage of course already completed.

(4) Type of course prescribed as per § 21.201 and the school or establishment at which the veteran is pursuing or is to pursue the prescribed course.

(5) Description and cost of each item needed and the category of condition and purpose under which it is requested, i. e., § 21.241 (b) (1) or § 21.241 (b) (2).

(6) Where authority is requested to furnish items under paragraph (b) (1) of this section, a statement of the particular conditions which prevent or interfere with the disabled veteran's entering or pursuing training and which constitute the need for the equipment, and a showing of how the requested articles will overcome those conditions, including sufficient facts to establish that the furnishing of the special equipment is necessary because of the nature of the disability and the demands of the training course and that the trainee has sufficient physical and mental ability to make adequate use of the requested equipment in the course of training.

(7) Where authority is requested to furnish items under paragraph (b) (2) of this section, a statement indicating on what basis it has been determined that the veteran is not able to travel to a school or training establishment due to the limitations imposed by his disability and demonstrating why and how the use of the special equipment is necessary to learn specified essential operations in the prescribed course; and itemized list of all supplies furnished or proposed to be furnished to the veteran under § 21.237a; and sufficient facts to establish that the trainee has sufficient physical and mental ability to make adequate use of the requested equipment in the course of training.

(8) Definite evidence that such equipment or its equivalent has not been furnished previously to the veteran by the Veterans' Administration or otherwise.

(9) Recommendation of the special rehabilitation procedures supervisor.

(d) When any item is furnished a veteran under the provisions of this section, a complete record of each such item will be placed in the veteran's claims folder, also in the training subfolder, as a basis for avoiding the furnishing, in the future, of items which have already been supplied. The record of each item will include identifying data such as name of article, type, model, serial number, size, name of manufacturer, etc.

(e) Special equipment not required for training purposes but necessary to overcome the handicap of blindness as contemplated in Public Law 309, 78th Congress, will be furnished under that law rather than under Part VII, Veterans Regulation 1 (a), as amended (38 U. S. C. ch. 12).

(f) Where need for training has been determined solely on the basis of the service-connected disability, and the objective and training facility have been so chosen that the non-service-connected disability will have no effect, or the least possible effect, upon training to overcome the handicap of the service-connected disability and if it then develops that the necessary training cannot be pursued because of the non-service-connected disability, but the effect of the non-service-connected disability assuredly will be overcome by furnishing an item of special equipment, such special equipment may be provided under and subject to conditions of this section.

(g) If for any reason the veteran fails to complete the prescribed course of training in the home for which special equipment has been furnished under paragraph (b) (2) of this section, the veteran will be deemed to be at fault under § 21.243 (a) with respect to such special equipment only, and he will be required to return such equipment to the Veterans' Administration or to pay the reasonable value thereof: Provided, however, That if the veteran has completed such part of the prescribed course of training that he is found to be employable and has been declared rehabilitated under § 21.281 he will not be deemed to be at fault and he will not be required to return such equipment to the Veterans' Administration or to pay the reasonable value thereof. The veteran will be advised accordingly. With respect to any special equipment furnished to the veteran under paragraph (b) (1) of this section, a separate finding will be made under § 21.243 of whether the veteran's failure was due to fault on his part.

4. Section 21.252 is amended to read as follows:

§ 21.252 Change of employment objective. (a) A veteran once inducted into training under Part VII, Veterans Regulation 1 (a), as amended (38 U. S. C. ch. 12), ordinarily will be expected to pursue his training program to completion without changing his employment objective insofar as it is possible for him to do so. Accordingly, a change of employment objective will not be approved except where it is clear that such a change is necessary because (1) continuance of the veteran in training for the present objective will result in failure to accomplish bona fide vocational rehabilitation for reasons not within the veteran's control or (2) although the veteran could continue successfully in training for the present employment objective, the proposed employment objective is more in keeping with the veteran's interests and aptitudes and will not require any greater period of time for completion than the present employment objective.

(b) A change of employment objective will not be approved where a veteran's disability rating has been reduced to less than a compensable degree. Nor will a veteran be permitted to commence training for a new employment objective after his disability rating has been so reduced.

5. In § 21.281 (a), subparagraph (2) is amended to read as follows:

§ 21.281 Status "rehabilitated." (a) • • •

(2) When a trainee while in training status or while properly in interrupted status as required by § 21.282 accepts employment in the same occupation for which he is being trained or in an occupation for which the training received under Part VII has contributed materially toward rehabilitation, and his earnings approximate those of the average trained worker in the occupation, and the employment is such kind that to pursue it full time would be not imcompatible with the trainee's disability—thus demonstrating attainment of satisfactory employment: Provided, That where such employment is not in the same occupation for which the veteran was being trained, his case will be referred to the advisement and guidance section for determination of whether the occupation in which the veteran is employed is compatible with the veteran's disability and aptitudes. If the findings of the advisement and guidance section are negative, the veteran will be placed in discontinued status.

• • • • •

6. In § 21.282, paragraph (e) is amended to read as follows:

§ 21.282 Status "interrupted". • • •

(e) The veteran has completed his course and has taken a required examination for license to practice the occupation for which he has been trained, and the results of the examination are not available on the day following completion of the examination.

PART 3—RADIO BROADCAST SERVICES

STANDARDS OF GOOD ENGINEERING PRACTICE CONCERNING STANDARD BROADCAST STATIONS

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 1st day of August 1950;

The Commission having under consideration the table of Average Sunrise and Sunset Times, section 26 of the Commission's Standards of Good Engineering Practice Concerning Standard Broadcast Stations (13 F. R. 3023), and particularly the times therein given for Youngstown, Ohio; and

It appearing, that the Commission on August 20, 1948, issued a public notice (Docket No. 9134; FCC 48-1994; 13 F. R. 5011) which explained the basis of calculation of the above table; and that the table gives the sunset time for the month of August for Youngstown, Ohio, as 5:15 p. m., e. s. t., but that the correct time should be 7:30 p. m., e. s. t.; and

It further appearing, that the public notice and procedure provided for by section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act is impracticable and unnecessary as a prerequisite to the correction of this error, since the correction is of a minor nature and is due to a typographical mistake and increases the over-all operating hours of the stations to which the time is applicable, and since it is desirable that this correction be effected prior to August 1, 1950; and that for the same reasons the correction may be made effective immediately; and

It further appearing, that authority for this correction is vested in the Commission by sections 4 (i), 303 (c), (f), and (r) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended;

It is ordered, That, effective immediately, the Commission's table of Average Sunrise and Sunset Times, section 26 of the Commission's Standards of Good Engineering Practice Concerning Standard Broadcast Stations, is amended to indicate a sunset time of 7:30 p. m., e. s. t., at Youngstown, Ohio, during the month of August.

It appearing, that fruit and vegetable containers, box shooks and other packing material are now moving in box cars from origins in the States of Washington, Oregon or California, to destinations in the State of California; that refrigerator cars are moving empty from the same points of origin to the same points of destination and that the substitution of refrigerator cars for such box cars will release the box cars for other and more essential transportation; in the opinion of the Commission an emergency exists requiring immediate action to prevent a shortage of equipment. It is ordered, that:

§ 95.660 Substitution of refrigerator cars for box cars, to transport fruit and vegetable containers and box shooks. (a) (1) Except as provided in paragraph (a) (2), common carriers by railroad subject to the Interstate Commerce Act transporting fruit and vegetable containers, box shooks or other packaging or packing materials, in carloads, from origins located in the States of Washington, Oregon or California, to destinations in the State of California may, at their option, furnish and transport not more than three (3) refrigerator cars in lieu of each box car ordered, subject to the carload minimum weight which would have applied if the shipment had been loaded in a box car.

(2) On shipments on which the carload minimum weight varies with the size of the car,

(i) Two (2) refrigerator cars may be furnished in lieu of one (1) box car ordered of a length of 40' 7", or less, subject to the carload minimum weight which would have applied if the shipment had been loaded in a box car of the size ordered.

(ii) Three (3) refrigerator cars may be furnished in lieu of one (1) box car ordered of a length of over 40' 7", but not over 50' 7", subject to the carload minimum weight which would have applied if the shipment had been loaded in a box car of the size ordered.

(b) Application. The provisions of this order shall apply to shipments moving in intrastate commerce as well as to those moving in interstate commerce.

(c) Effective date. This order shall become effective at 12:01 a. m., August 4, 1950.

(d) Expiration date. This order shall expire at 11:59 p. m., October 31, 1950, unless otherwise modified, changed, suspended or annulled by order of this Commission.

(e) Rules and regulations suspended. The operation of all rules and regulations insofar as they conflict with the provisions of this order is hereby suspended.

(f) Announcement of suspension. Each of such railroads, or its agent, shall publish, file, and post a supplement to each of its tariffs affected hereby, in substantial accordance with the provisions of Rule 9 (k) of the Commission's Tariff Circular No. 20 (§ 141.9 (k) of this chapter) announcing the suspension or any of the provisions therein.

It is further ordered, that this order and direction shall be served upon the Association of American Railroads, Car Service Division, as agent of the railroads subscribing to the car service and per diem agreement under the terms of that agreement; and that notice of this order be given to the general public by depositing a copy in the office of the Secretary of the Commission at Washington, D. C., and by filing it with the Director, Division of the Federal Register.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

[50 CFR, Part 6]

MIGRATORY BIRDS AND CERTAIN GAME MAMMALS

FURTHER AMENDED NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Pursuant to section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act, approved June 11, 1946 (60 Stat. 237), and the authority contained in section 3 of the Migratory Bird Treaty Act of July 3, 1918 (40 Stat. 755, 16 U. S. C. 704), as amended, notice was given on May 5, 1950 (15 F. R. 2804), that the Secretary of the Interior proposed to adopt amendments to the regulations under the aforesaid act establishing specifications relating to open seasons and shooting hours, bag limits, possession and transportation of migratory game birds and also in connection with the issuance of permits for scientific and propagating purposes. On July 7, 1950 (15 F. R. 4316–4318), further specific proposals with respect to seasons on doves (white-winged, mourning or turtle) and rails and gallinules were set out in an amended notice. After consultation with State conservation agencies and others concerning these proposed seasons, it appears that certain minor changes in the schedule included in the notice of July 7 should be made and that notice thereof should be given as far in advance of opening dates as is possible.

In lieu of the previously indicated dates for the opening of the seasons on mourning doves in Georgia, Virginia, and Nebraska, it now is proposed that the opening dates for such seasons be as follows: Georgia, December 17; Virginia, October 2; and Nebraska, September 1.

In lieu of the previously indicated dates for the opening of the seasons on rails and gallinules in certain States, it now is proposed that such seasons open as follows: Florida, September 15; Maryland, New Jersey, Rhode Island, and Virginia, September 1; and Massachusetts, October 20.

In lieu of the previously indicated dates for the season on mourning doves in Idaho, it now is proposed that the season will be September 1 to September 15, both dates inclusive, in all of the State except Bannock, Bear Lake, Caribou, Bingham, Bonneville, Clark, Jefferson, Fremont, Madison, and Teton Counties.

As previously noted, the detailed regulations will be published on or about August 26. Those specifying the open seasons on doves, rails and gallinules, waterfowl and coot in Alaska, scoter, eider, and old squaw ducks in northeastern States, and related matters will become effective September 1, 1950. Those specifying the open seasons, bag limits and possession of waterfowl and coot will become effective October 1, 1950.

Secretary of the Interior.

[7 CFR, Part 918]

HANDLING OF MILK IN MEMPHIS, TENN., MARKETING AREA

NOTICE OF RECOMMENDED DECISION AND OPPORTUNITY TO FILE WRITTEN EXCEPTIONS WITH RESPECT TO A PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of the recommended decision of the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed order, regulating the handling of milk in the Memphis, Tenn., marketing area. Interested parties may file written exceptions to this decision with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the close of business the 15th day after publication of this decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. A public hearing, on the record of which the proposed marketing agreement and the proposed order were formulated was called by the Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, following receipt of a petition filed by the Mid-South Milk Producers Association, Memphis, Tenn., and was held at Memphis, Tenn., March 20 through March 24, 1950, and March 27 through March 29, 1950, pursuant to notice duly published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (15 F. R. 1112, Doc. 50–1659). The period from March 29, 1950, to May 2, 1950, was reserved for interested parties to file briefs on the record.

The major issues developed at the hearing were concerned with the following matters:

(1) Whether the handling of milk produced for the Memphis, Tenn., marketing area is in the current of interstate commerce or directly burdens, obstructs, or affects interstate commerce in milk or its products;

(2) Whether marketing conditions justify the issuance of a milk marketing agreement or order;

(3) The extent of the marketing area;

(4) What milk should be covered for pricing purposes;

(5) The classification of milk;

(6) The level of class prices to be paid and the methods for determining such prices;

(7) The type of pool to be used and a base rating system of distributing returns to producers; and

(8) Administration provisions.

Findings and conclusions. The following findings and conclusions on the material issues decided herein are hereby made upon the basis of the record of the hearing:

(1) The handling of milk produced for the Memphis, Tennessee, marketing area is in the current of interstate commerce and directly burdens, obstructs, or affects interstate commerce in milk and its products.

The record clearly indicates that the proposed marketing area obtains its regular producer milk supply from producers located in several adjoining states. The percentage of the total receipts of milk from producers, by states, is estimated as follows:

	Percent
Tennessee	57.5
Mississippi	36.5
Kentucky	5.4
Arkansas	.6

When the regular producer milk supply is inadequate to meet the requirements of the market, additional milk is imported from the Chicago area. In addition it has been necessary to import substantial quantities of skim milk from Paducah, Kentucky. Other milk products such as nonfat dry milk solids and condensed skim milk are imported by handlers in interstate shipments for use in reconstituted products offered for sale in the Memphis marketing area or for use in manufactured products.

Handlers distribute milk and milk products in interstate commerce in West Memphis, Helena, and Blytheville, all located in the State of Arkansas and in various towns in Mississippi, from routes extending as far south as Clarksdale, Mississippi.

Surplus milk or cream accumulated in the flush production months is usually diverted to manufacturing plants located in Tennessee, Mississippi, Kentucky, and Illinois. The products manufactured from this surplus include cheese, butter, and evaporated milk which are sold on the national market.

The evidence shows that in addition to the receipt of interstate shipments and the distribution of substantial quantities of milk and milk products to points outside the State of Tennessee, there is competition for the local supply of milk by milk distributors located outside of the State.

From the foregoing it is clear that a substantial volume of the milk in the Memphis, Tennessee, marketing area is moved physically in interstate commerce in the form of milk, cream, and manufactured dairy products and that the handling of milk in the market directly burdens, obstructs, and affects interstate commerce in milk and its products.

(2) Marketing conditions in the Memphis, Tennessee, marketing area justify the issuance of a marketing agreement or order.

In the Memphis market the supply of milk cannot be adjusted readily to changes in market conditions. Moreover, in order to assure an adequate supply at all times (both the supply and consumption of milk vary from day to day and season to season without relation to each other), a quantity of milk should always be delivered to the market in excess of that which is used in fluid form. Finally, milk is produced by a large number of individual producers who, because of their inability to control supplies (no one of them produces a significant share of the total market supply) and because the markets for their milk are limited by the pattern of transportation routes and the application of local sanitation regulations, find themselves in a relatively weak bargaining position. All of these factors contribute to an inherent instability in the marketing and pricing of milk in this market. As a result farmers make long run outlays for capital equipment upon which they are not assured reasonable returns. Under these conditions farmers are subject to economic exploitation and they may not, for this reason, be able to continue to supply adequate quantities of pure and wholesome milk for this marketing area.

Fluid milk markets which are unstable engender a situation of recurrent shortages and excesses of supply. When the market is adequately supplied, the necessary reserve (i. e., the amount over and above that used as fluid milk which is delivered to the market in order to assure against shortages arising from the daily and seasonal variation in supplies and consumption) tends to depress prices below a level where farmers can obtain an adequate return on their capital investment. These periods of excess supply can continue for a long time because the costs involved are largely fixed costs and farmers are impelled to continue the production of milk as long as they are able to receive anything more than the direct costs of production. Finally, however, if prices continue at low levels supplies of milk will become less than adequate to the market's needs because farmers are unable under these conditions to replace depleted capital investments. It is then necessary to increase prices to especially high levels in order to induce new suppliers to make the capital outlays which are necessary to produce milk in accordance with health regulations. The production of milk under these unstabilized conditions is more costly than the production of milk in adequate quantities for a stabilized market. The regulatory plan as contained herein is designed to stabilize marketing conditions in a situation where a market (in order to assure adequate supplies of milk daily) is carrying a supply in excess of fluid requirements.

The inherent instability of milk markets is intensified wherever there is a lack of uniformity in the buying, pricing, and pooling plans of handlers.

At the present time there is no uniform plan for establishing prices to producers in the Memphis marketing area. The milk of approximately 620 producers for whom 2 producer cooperative associations are acting as bargaining agents is sold to handlers on a classified basis. The milk of the remaining producers, approximately 380, is purchased by certain handlers without regard to the use of the milk. Under the marketing plan operated by the Mid-South Milk Producers Association and the Madison County Milk Producers Association, cooperating handlers purchase producer milk in accordance with the use of such milk. The returns from the sale of milk are then distributed to producers by means of a "base quota system." Since the development of this marketing plan some handlers have gradually withdrawn their support of the plan. This action has made it difficult, if not impossible, to administer the plan effectively. For example, one large handler in September 1948 inaugurated his own base rating plan for paying producers. Under this plan the daily base of most producers is determined by computing the average daily deliveries of such producer during the months of September, October, November, January, February, and March. The record shows that exceptions to the general plan were made in the case of certain producers. During the base forming months the receipts of producer milk by this handler have been considerably below his Class I requirements as evidenced by the supplemental purchases of Class I milk from the Mid-South Milk Producers Association. Evidence shows that this handler does not adjust the bases of producers from month to month in accordance with the use made of base deliveries nor does he adjust the base price for the use made of base deliveries. It is evident from these facts that his cost of milk is not related to the use made of such milk nor comparable with the cost of milk to competing handlers.

Another handler distributing Class I and Class II milk in the marketing area purchases only Class I milk from the Madison County Milk Producers Association. There is no arrangement under these two purchase plans whereby the returns from the sale of surplus production of producer milk in the market is equitably distributed among member and nonmember producers of the cooperative associations. Under the marketing arrangements in the market the cooperative associations have assumed the responsibility of the disposal of seasonal surpluses and have assumed the responsibility of purchasing supplementary supplies of Class I milk.

It is concluded that a marketing agreement or order is needed to establish uniform prices to handlers for milk in accordance with the use made of such milk and to distribute the returns from the sale of milk equitably among producers. The issuance of a marketing agreement or order would provide producers with the marketing information which is necessary for the efficient marketing of their milk. The auditing of the utilization of milk in the plants of all handlers and the checking of weights and tests of producer milk will aid in establishing and maintaining orderly marketing conditions by assuring producers that they will receive a proper accounting for their milk.

(3) The marketing area should include all the territory within the boundaries of the Cities of Memphis and Jackson, Tennessee.

Two proposals for defining the marketing area were made prior to the hearing. The Mid-South Milk Producers Association proposed the territory within the boundaries of the City of Memphis. The Madison County Milk Producers Association proposed that the area should also include the City of Jackson, Tennessee. This proposal was also supported by the Mid-South Milk Producers Association.

There are nine handlers who purchase milk from producers and distribute milk on wholesale and retail routes in Memphis, one of whom bottles a substantial quantity of milk for sale in the City of Jackson in competition with three handlers who purchase milk from producers and distribute milk on wholesale and retail routes in the City of Jackson and adjacent territory. In addition there is another handler who purchases milk from producers at Martin, Tennessee, and disposes of it in bulk to a handler in the City of Memphis.

The quality of milk distributed in the Cities of Memphis and Jackson, Tennessee, which have a population of 351,000 and 38,000, respectively, is regulated by local municipal health ordinances patterned after the U. S. Public Health Service ordinance. Evidence shows that the provisions and enforcement of the ordinances for the two cities are comparable. In the procurement of Grade A producer milk in the State of Tennessee handlers in the Cities of Memphis and Jackson compete for such supplies.

At the hearing it was proposed by one handler that the marketing area include other towns surrounding Memphis where milk is distributed by Memphis handlers. Such a proposal cannot be considered on the basis of this record since other parties who would be affected by such a proposal were not notified that such areas would be considered at the hearing.

(4) The milk to be priced under the order should be that which is produced under a dairy farm inspection permit issued by the appropriate health authority of the marketing area, for distribution as Grade A milk, and which is regularly delivered to a plant distributing such milk on routes in the marketing area or to a plant supplying milk so approved to such a distributing plant. The record indicates that the milk distributed in the marketing area is inspected by the health authorities of the Cities of Memphis and Jackson, which require fluid milk and cream products to be of Grade A quality.

To implement this conclusion the order should define a "fluid milk plant" as a plant, approved by the appropriate health authorities of the marketing area, which is used during the month for the receipt and processing or packaging of producer milk, and from which all or a portion of such milk is disposed of as Class I milk in the marketing area to wholesale or retail outlets, including plant stores. The definition should also include a plant at which producer milk is received and cooled for shipment to a plant described above. The record indicates at least one such plant is supplying a Memphis handler with Grade A producer milk. The fluid milk plant definition should not include plants approved by the appropriate health authorities of the marketing area to furnish milk to handlers during periods of emergency or shortage if such plants do not receive milk from dairy farmers holding a dairy farm inspection permit issued by such authorities. Inclusion of such plants would be beyond the intended scope of the order and would involve pricing milk not primarily produced for the marketing area.

"Handler," to whom the regulatory provisions of the order are applicable, should be defined as an operator of a "fluid milk plant" in his capacity as such; a producer-handler; or a cooperative association with respect to milk which it causes to be diverted to a nonfluid milk plant for the account of such association. At times of flush production, proprietory handlers may not be in a position to accept milk from all of their producers, or to arrange for its diversion for their account, even though the milk of these producers may be needed to supply the market later in the year. The provision that a cooperative association be defined as a handler with respect to milk which it causes to be diverted to a nonfluid milk plant will permit these producers to share in the market so that their milk will be available to the market when it is needed. The inclusion of a producer-handler in this definition is necessary in order to permit the market administrator to obtain such reports from producer-handlers as he deems necessary.

"Producer" should be defined as any person, except a producer-handler, who produces milk in conformity with the Grade A requirements of the appropriate health authorities in the marketing area and whose milk is received at a fluid milk plant or diverted by a handler to a nonfluid milk plant. The health authorities of the marketing area require that dairy farmers producing milk for sale as Grade A milk in the market shall hold a dairy farm inspection permit issued by such authorities. This definition is not intended to include those producers who hold such a permit but whose milk is not permitted temporarily to be received at a fluid milk plant for bottling purposes. Producer-handlers (those who normally distribute only milk of their own production) should not be included in this definition. In other sections of the order it is proposed that such persons shall not share with producers the benefits of their sales. Producer-handlers normally sell to handlers only milk that is surplus to their own operations and should not share with producers in the Class I sales of the handlers which are regularly supplied by other producers.

(5) It is concluded that two classes of milk should be established.

Class I milk should be all skim milk and butterfat disposed of in fluid form as milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, cream, and any other product required by the appropriate health authority in the marketing area to be made from Grade A milk. It should also include all skim milk and butterfat not specifically accounted for as Class II milk.

Class II milk should include all skim milk and butterfat used to produce any product other than those defined as Class I milk; disposed of for livestock feed; and in shrinkage of producer milk up to 2 percent of the receipts of milk from producers. In the matter of shrinkage of producers' milk, producers proposed the maximum of 2 percent. The evidence indicates that this maximum is considered to be representative of practical plant operation in the market. Any shrinkage in excess of this maximum should be classified in Class I milk as unaccounted for milk. No maximum was proposed or has been adopted with respect to the amount of shrinkage on other source milk allowed as Class II since such milk would be deducted from the lower available use classification under the allocation provisions.

The classification plan herein decided upon results in milk and those products required to be derived from milk produced under the sanitary standards of the appropriate health authority in the marketing area being placed in Class I. Such products as butter, cheese, condensed and evaporated milk, and other milk products, which need not be made from graded milk and which normally are made from such milk only at times when a handler's supply of graded milk is in excess of his needs for graded milk, are placed in Class II.

The health ordinances in effect in the marketing area require that milk disposed of for consumption as milk and milk used to produce skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, and cream be derived from milk produced in conformity with the sanitary standards of the local ordinances. In accordance with these ordinances, milk producers in the local supply area are inspected by the local health authorities and those producers in the area who meet the standards are given certificates of permission to ship to the marketing area. Normally only inspected producers are allowed to provide the milk disposed of as milk, cream, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, and flavored milk drinks. In times of shortage, however, it has been the practice to allow the importation of milk, skim milk, and cream from sources outside the local milkshed. Such importations must meet sanitary standards similar to those applying to milk produced in the local supply area.

A major principle of milk classification plans is that uses of milk with similar economic values are placed in the same class. Because the milk and all the products of milk which it is concluded should be placed in Class I must be derived from milk that meets the standards of the local sanitary ordinances (even though upon occasion milk and milk products may be imported from outside the local supply area), the costs of producing this milk, insofar as the sanitary standards have any affect, are the same for all uses. Moreover, it is the practice in this market to ship in as whole milk in fluid form all milk from producers needed in the marketing area for milk, cream, and other ordinance products. Cream for use in the marketing area is not separated at country points but is made at plants in the marketing area. Some cream, however, is shipped into the market during times of shortage from outside the local supply area. Because all milk produced within the supply area for use as milk, cream, and other ordinance products must meet the same sanitary standards and is shipped in the form of whole fluid milk to the marketing area, it is concluded that all milk used in milk, cream, and other ordinance products has the same economic value and, hence, is placed in the same class, i. e., Class I.

Milk consumers have an interest in the classification system. If all products which because of economic circumstances should be placed in Class I and thereby bear their share of supporting the uniform price to producers, are not placed in Class I, but are priced lower, then the Class I price must be at a higher level than otherwise would be necessary. Thus, if cream and skim milk drinks are not placed in Class I, consumers who use products of Class I, e. g., fluid milk, are required, insofar as the Class I price is a factor in resale prices, to pay higher prices for milk in order that the consumers of cream and other products not in Class I may purchase these products at lower prices. In effect such a system requires consumers of whole milk to subsidize consumers of cream and byproducts.

All this is not to say that where economic conditions in a particular milk market compel differences in the price of milk as compared to cream and byproducts that the classification should not be different. But economic conditions in the market appear to demonstrate, as indicated above, that the values for fat and skim milk when disposed of to consumers in the form of milk, cream, and certain byproducts are equal and hence such products must be placed in Class I.

Provision is made for the reclassification of skim milk and butterfat when it is found that the original classification was incorrect. This provision is necessary in order to determine the ultimate classification of milk which may be used to produce an intermediate product which in turn is disposed of in fluid form such as buttermilk and milk drinks. It also provides for the ultimate classification of milk which may be carried over as inventory and temporarily placed in Class II for purposes of determining a value for such milk for the month within which such milk was received.

In the case of transfers or diversions of milk the responsibility for correct classification is placed on the handler who first receives the milk from producers. In the event milk is transferred without adequate proof of utilization such milk should be classified as Class I milk. Milk transferred by a handler to another handler or to a nonhandler may be classified in a class agreed upon by the parties involved, except in the case of transfers from a fluid milk plant from which no Class I milk is disposed of on wholesale or retail routes in the marketing area to fluid milk plants from which Class I milk is so disposed of in the marketing area. The record shows that there is such a plant located approximately 125 miles from the City of Memphis which supplies bulk milk to a bottling plant located in the City of Memphis. The operators of these two plants would be handlers under the terms of the order. Milk so transferred between plants of this type should be classified on an agreed basis so long as the resulting uniform price for the transferring handler does not exceed the uniform price computed for the transferee handler. If this is not done transfers could be made to the advantage of far-out producers and to the disadvantage of nearby producers.

It was suggested at the hearing that the order specify the class in which transfers of milk would be classified and that the market administrator would subsequently determine the utilization of the milk. The market administrator would then reconcile the differences between the handlers involved in his billing to such handlers for the utilization value of milk received from producers. The practical application of such a provision under the type of pool adopted does not provide the flexibility necessary to secure the most economical utilization of milk.

The order further provides that skim milk and butterfat received by handlers from sources other than producers shall be allocated to the lowest use in the handler's plant. This is to prevent other souree milk from displacing the milk of producers who constitute the regular source of supply of the market. A proposal was made that in the allocation of other source skim milk sufficient producer skim milk should remain in Class II milk so that the butterfat content of producer milk classified as Class II milk would not be more than 40 percent even though the result would allocate skim milk in other source milk to Class I milk. Under the system of pricing adopted in this order inequities could arise between handlers in the cost of milk through the adoption of this proposal.

(6) The Class I price should be fixed in relation to the general level of the value of milk used to produce manufactured dairy products. To achieve this end a basic price should be adopted which will reflect this general level and to which differentials should be added to reach the desired Class I price. Such price should vary in terms of charges of 40 cents per hundredweight in the basic price and the relationship of receipts of producer milk to the sales of Class I milk.

It is concluded that the basic price should be the highest of (a) the average price paid by a group of 18 northern condenseries, (b) a formula based on the price of 92-score butter at Chicago and the price of nonfat dry milk solids f. o. b. plants in the Chicago area, or (c) the average price paid by specified manufacturing plants located in or adjacent to the Memphis milkshed.

The purpose of such basic price is to take into account the national economic factors underlying the price of milk for manufacturing uses which influence the local market prices. Evidence was introduced to show that handlers compete with local manufacturing plants in the procurement of milk. Generally, prices paid for milk used for fluid purposes have been related to prices paid for milk used for manufacturing purposes. Production and marketing of milk for each type of manufacturing outlet are subject to many of the same economic factors. Since the market for most manufactured products is country-wide, prices of manufactured dairy products reflect, to a large extent, changes in general economic conditions affecting the supply of and demand for milk. For these reasons fluid milk markets have used butter, nonfat dry milk solids, and cheese prices, or the prices paid by condenseries with differentials over these basic or manufacturing prices to establish fluid milk prices. These differentials are needed to cover the cost of meeting quality requirements in the production of market milk, transportation costs to the fluid market, and to furnish the necessary incentive to get such milk produced.

Basic prices similar to those proposed herein are contained in the Federal milk orders issued pursuant to the act for the Chicago, Illinois, and Paducah, Kentucky, marketing areas. The record shows that substantial quantities of supplementary supplies of milk, skim milk (including condensed skim milk and nonfat dry milk solids), and cream have been purchased from the Chicago and Paducah milksheds. Such supplies are commingled with producer milk sold in bottled form in competition with producer milk. Furthermore, milk from producers is purchased by handlers in the Memphis marketing area in competition with handlers in the Paducah marketing area. Under these circumstances, the basic price should reflect manufacturing values which influence the prices paid by Chicago and Paducah handlers for milk. The inclusion of the prices paid by the 18 condenseries and the formula price based on the price of butter and nonfat dry milk solids will reflect the manufacturing values which influence the Chicago and Paducah prices. Historically, the average price paid for milk by manufacturing plants in the Memphis area has been below the average of the prices paid by northern condenseries, or the price resulting from the proposed butter and nonfat dry milk solids formula. It is felt, however, that should conditions in the Memphis area at some time result in local manufacturing plants paying prices somewhat higher than normal in relation to the general level of manufacturing milk prices, the Class I price for the Memphis marketing area should be maintained above the local price of ungraded milk by at least the amount of the proposed differentials.

The testimony indicates that general economic conditions and business activity in the Memphis marketing area together with increasing population point to a continued good demand for fluid milk and milk products. The record indicates also that wages of farm labor and prices of building material, machinery, equipment, and supplies for the production of milk continue at relatively high levels. While there has been some decline in the cost of feed grains and hay in the past year, no substantial reduction in production costs of Grade A milk as compared with ungraded milk is apparent. A substantial investment is necessary if a producer is to provide facilities to meet the requirements for the production of milk qualified for sale in the marketing area. The expense of properly handling and cooling milk and maintaining the milk barn and milk house is substantially greater for producing Grade A milk than for producing ungraded milk.

To reflect the additional costs involved in the production and marketing of Grade A milk and to furnish the necessary incentive for farmers to produce a sufficient supply of such milk for the marketing area, the prices of Grade A milk must be maintained at a substantially higher level than the prices of milk produced for manufacturing purposes.

The Class I price for milk containing 4.0 percent butterfat should be $5.08 per hundredweight during the months of September through February and $4.68 per hundredweight during the months of March through August whenever the basic price is between $3.20 and $3.60 per hundredweight. Increases or decreases of 40 cents per hundredweight in the basic price range will be reflected in an increase or a decrease of a like amount in the Class I price. An average Class I differential is applied over the basic price of $1.68 during the fall and winter months and $1.28 during the spring and summer months, or $1.48 average for the year. In computing the Class I price for the current month, the basic price for the previous month would be used in order that producers and handlers may know, on or before the 5th of the month the price for Class I milk.

Prices should be maintained at approximately their present levels as a means of assuring the market an adequate supply of pure and wholesome milk for the coming fall and winter months. Historically, the market has been short of milk during the short production season and the record indicates that there is considerable unrest and uncertainty among producers concerning the market for milk in the coming months. With the basic price plus the proposed differential for Class I milk together with the United States Department of Agriculture's purchase program supporting the price of milk and butterfat nationally, it is anticipated that the Class I price would remain at approximately the present level. However, in view of the uncertainty and unrest among producers and their lack of understanding of the operations of a formula price, it is concluded that the Class I price should not be less than $5.08 per hundredweight from the effective date of the order through the month of February 1951.

Provision is made for a reduction of 40 cents per hundredweight in the average Class I differential applied over the basic price during the months of March through August. Handlers of the Memphis marketing area regularly dispose of large quantities of Class I milk to outlets adjacent to the marketing area. These outlets are also served regularly by unregulated distributors who are normally able to obtain supplies of milk for fluid uses at considerably reduced prices during these months. In order to enable handlers to compete more readily with such distributors for Class I sales, it is appropriate that the price of Class I milk be reduced during such months.

In arriving at a Class I price in a market where an order is being promulgated, it is difficult to determine the relative long term influence which such price would have upon the volume of supply and sales of milk. This is particularly true in a market where new methods of determining prices and paying producers are being instituted. In view of this it is concluded that for any month, after the pricing provisions of this order have been in effect for 13 months, the Class I price should be increased 40 cents per hundredweight if the total volume of milk received from producers by all handlers during the 12 months immediately preceding the month prior to the month for which the class price is being computed is less than 110 percent of the total Class I sales of all handlers during such 12 month period. Likewise, if the total volume of milk received from producers by all handlers during such period is more than 125 percent of the total Class I sales of all handlers the Class I price should be reduced 40 cents per hundredweight. This will provide for changes in the Class I price differential in accordance with current supply and demand conditions without the necessity of a hearing procedure.

An analysis of the production and sales figures for the years of 1948–49 indicates that an annual production of milk for the Memphis marketing area of approximately 15 percent greater than the annual sales of Class I milk was needed in order to supply the market with sufficient producer milk for Class I use during the short production month. In view of the high butterfat content in milk received from producers and the relatively large demand for skim milk in Class I products, it is questionable whether it is economical for producers to attempt to supply the market with sufficient milk to meet all Class I demands in the shortest production months. It may be more economical for the market to import small amounts of milk for Class I use during the short production months rather than to be faced with burdensome surpluses during the spring months. Therefore, it is concluded that the Class I price should not be increased because of the supply-demand adjustment until the market has had less than 10 percent of the receipts of milk from producers utilized in Class II on an annual basis. Likewise, no adjustment downward resulting from the supply-demand factor should be made unless it is obvious that the market is over-supplied with milk. In this connection the higher limit of the bracket, i. e., 125 percent, appears to be reasonable.

Class II milk prices should be based on the average of prices paid for milk by nearby milk manufacturing plants. The prices paid by the plants selected are representative of the value of manufacturing milk in the Memphis milkshed. Since handlers compete with these plants in the sale of products included in Class II milk and at times dispose of some of their surplus milk to one or another of these plants, it is necessary that producer milk going into such products be priced at a similar level in order to assure a market for producer milk delivered in excess of fluid requirements. The plants named as a basis for fixing the Class II price are those of the Pet Milk Company at Mayfield, Kentucky, and Kosciusko, Mississippi; the Carnation Company at Tupelo, Mississippi; the Borden Company at Starkville, Mississippi; the Collierville Dairy Products Company at Collierville, Tennessee; the Coldwater Dairy Products Company at Coldwater, Mississippi; and the Olive Branch Cheese Company at Olive Branch, Mississippi.

The class prices computed and publicly announced by the market administrator under the terms of the order would be those for milk containing 4.0 percent butterfat. The skim milk and butterfat in milk received from producers is separated, classified in the respective classes. The class prices for each handler would be adjusted by a butterfat differential in accordance with the average test of producer milk classified in such class. Such differential for Class II milk should be on the basis of the value of 92-score butter in the Chicago market plus 20 percent. This differential is in line with the general level of the price of butterfat for manufacturing uses. With regard to Class I milk, such differential should be on the basis of the value of 92-score butter in the Chicago market plus 25 percent which reflects the higher valued use of butterfat for fluid uses.

The price to handlers for Class I milk received at plants located 40 miles or more from the City Hall in Memphis should be adjusted to reflect the value of such milk at the various plants. The economic value of milk for fluid uses decreases as the distance at which it is produced increases in relation to the terminal market which in this instance is Memphis. This is due largely to the cost of transporting milk in fluid form to the market. It is therefore concluded that the Class I price to handlers for milk received from producers at plants located 40 miles or more from Memphis should be reduced as follows: 40 miles but less than 50 miles, 17 cents; 50 miles but less than 60 miles, 18 cents; 60 miles but less than 70 miles, 19 cents; and, for each 10 mile zone thereafter an additional 1 cent. These location differentials would result in a reduction of 25 cents per hundredweight in the price of Class I milk received at the Martin, Tennessee, plant which amount corresponds to the pricing arrangement practiced at the present time by the handler operating such plant. It is not appropriate to apply these location differentials to Class II milk since such milk can be disposed of to manufacturing plants located throughout the milkshed.

Testimony was received at the hearing on a proposal to reduce the price of Class II milk diverted to cheese plants by an amount which varies with the distance of such cheese plant from the City of Memphis. The record indicates that in the assembly of fluid milk for the market, milk haulers pass by or near to several manufacturing plants in the milkshed on their routes to the city plants. It should be possible therefore to deliver milk to such manufacturing plants with a saving in transportation cost. Furthermore, the record shows that manufacturing plants receiving diverted milk pay the same price for such milk as they pay for milk received from their farmers. Under these circumstances, it is concluded that the proposed allowance is not justified.

It was suggested at the hearing that class prices be established on the basis of milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat and that handlers should be charged for Class I milk disposed of as whole milk on the basis of minimum standard tests even though such milk contained less than the minimum butterfat specified in such standards. It appears that the objectives sought through adoption of the above proposals would be accomplished by the adoption of certain provisions of the order, such as skim milk and butterfat accounting and class butterfat differentials to handlers.

(7) The "individual-handler" type of pool should be established in this order for the purpose of distributing returns from the sale of milk among producers. Under the individual-handler pooling arrangement producers delivering to each handler receive a uniform price based upon such handler's utilization of milk.

The record indicates that the Class II operations of handlers in the marketing area are small in relation to the total operations of such handlers and in relation to the manufacturing operations carried on by handlers in the majority of other markets of this size. Because of the relatively small volume of Class II operations the uniform prices of individual handlers should not vary substantially. Because of an adjustment between prices paid to producers who are members of a cooperative association and those who are not members (see below) substantial equity in the distribution of returns among producers can be achieved in this market under the individual-handler pool arrangement. The additional mechanics and procedures of the market-wide pool are thus not necessary and the inherent difficulty of market-wide pools of defining the milk to be included is avoided.

The principal objective of a pooling system in an order is to distribute the returns from the sale of milk equitably among producers. This is also one of the functions of cooperative associations representing producers in a market. However, in cases such as Memphis, where all of the producers are not members of the cooperative association, the returns from the sale of milk by the cooperative association are distributed equitably among the producers represented by the cooperative association but the total returns from the sale of all milk in the market may not be distributed equitably among all producers. The record indicates that the cooperative associations have not only assumed the responsibility for the importation of supplementary supplies of milk for fluid uses but have also assumed the burden for disposal of seasonal surpluses. In this instance the effects of the cooperative associations' removing or diverting surplus milk to manufacturing plants are to raise the uniform price to the nonmember producers whose milk remains in the handler's plant. Had the handler diverted all of the surplus in his plant to manufacturing channels, the returns from the sale of milk by such handler would be distributed equitably among his producers. In order to accomplish this result, it is concluded that member producers should receive at least the same percentage of a handler's Class I sales during the months of April through July as was purchased by such handler from the cooperative association during the months of October through January. In the event a handler purchases, during any of the months of April through July, a smaller percentage of his Class I sales from producers who are members of a cooperative association than the monthly average percentage of such purchases from member producers during the preceding period of October through January, a provision is made whereby the returns to producers (members and nonmembers) of such handler will be shared proportionately in the same manner as though such handler had continued to receive milk from the same group of producers. If an equivalent amount of milk were not purchased from the cooperative association by another handler or a nonhandler for Class II use there would be no inequity among producers and the provisions should not apply since such member producers would not be penalized by being paid for a disproportionate share of the Class II sales of the market.

In the distribution of the returns from the sale of milk among producers, a base rating plan is incorporated to encourage the production of a more level supply of milk throughout the year. Although there is some indication of improvement in the seasonal pattern of production in recent months, the deliveries of milk by producers during the war years was more uneven than for the period of 1938–43. This unevenness was due largely to an increase in the rate of turnover of producers supplying the market during the years of 1943–46 and to the conditions influenced by the war effort to obtain maximum production of milk which deemphasized the level production programs in effect in fluid markets. Furthermore, the low level of production in relation to the Class I sales in Memphis resulted in an average price to producers of approximately the Class I price during all months of each year for the period of 1943–46. In recent months the local supply of milk has shown some increase in relation to the Class I sales thereby reducing the average price of milk to producers, particularly in the spring months, and the rate of turnover of producers in the market is decreasing.

A proposal was made for a base rating plan. A base rating plan has wide support among producers in this market. Base rating plans are a means of distributing returns from the sale of milk among producers in a way which tends to even out seasonal variation in milk deliveries. Under the plan provided for herein new bases would be established each year on the basis of total deliveries made by each producer during the months of shortest production, i. e., October through January. The market administrator would compute the base of each producer from whom each handler received milk during the base period of October through January and notify each producer of his established base on or before the 20th day following the close of the base period. The bases so established would be used in making payments to producers during the months of greatest production, i. e., April through July. Deliveries of base milk during these months would receive the highest available classification and deliveries in excess of base milk would receive the lowest classification.

It is necessary to set forth certain rules for the handling of established bases which will assure their use in accordance with the intent of the plan. Since a base would be established for each producer at the plant of the handler to whom he delivered milk during the base period, it is necessary to provide for the transfer of base to another handler in the event a producer transfers deliveries from one handler to another. The rules should provide also that the established base of a producer may be transferred to another producer. Base may be retained by a producer in case he moves his dairy herd from one farm to another. In the case of a landlord and tenant relationship, the landlord would be entitled to the entire base to the exclusion of the tenant if the landlord owns the entire herd, or the tenant would be entitled to the entire base to the exclusion of the landlord if the tenant owns the entire herd. If the herd is jointly owned by the tenant and landlord, the base would be divided between the joint owners according to ownership of the herd when such relationship is terminated. If a producer begins shipping milk to the market during the months of April through July without an established base, he would receive the excess price until August 1. Such a producer may obtain a base by transfer of established base from another producer. During the period of August through March, he would receive the uniform price the same as all other producers, and, during the period of October through January, he would establish a base for the following months of April through July. These rules should assure the workability of the plan without placing undue hardship upon any producer.

(8) Certain other provisions should be adopted in order to carry out administratively the purposes of the regulation.

(a) Administrative assessments. Each handler should be required to pay to the market administrator, as his pro rata share in the costs of administration of the order, 4 cents per hundredweight, or such amount not to exceed 4 cents per hundredweight as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe, on receipts of (1) milk from producers and (2) other source milk classified as Class I milk.

The market administrator is required to verify the utilization of all milk received, and therefore other source milk, as well as producer milk, should bear an appropriate share of the administrative cost. Substantial quantities of other source milk are received by handlers, some of which is sold in Class I uses at certain times during the year. An assessment on other source milk used as Class I milk will appropriately apportion the expenses among handlers. The testimony indicates that some handlers receive other source milk for manufacturing purposes. Application of the assessment to all the other source milk received by such a handler could place him at some disadvantage in disposing of manufactured dairy products in competition with persons not regulated by the order.

Both handlers and producers recognize that the market administrator must have the necessary funds to enable him to administer properly the terms of the order. A rate of 5 cents per hundredweight was proposed by producers and was supported by handlers at the hearing. In view of the anticipated volume of milk to be regulated, a maximum of 4 cents per hundredweight should be adequate to guarantee a sufficient administrative income. Office expenses are usualy relatively high at the beginning of a program. In the event a lesser amount proves upon experience to be sufficient for proper administration, provision is made to enable the Secretary to revise the assessment accordingly within the 4-cent maximum without the necessity of amending the order.

Some objection was made at the hearing to the proposed rate of 5 cents per hundredweight because of fear that consumers would be taxed in the form of higher retail prices to pay for the cost of administering an order. While the act does not give the Secretary authority to fix retail prices it does require that minimum prices to be paid to producers should be in the public interest. In this connection, it is worthy of notice that the Class I price of $5.08 per hundredweight which handlers would be required to pay to producers plus the administrative assessment charge of 4 cents per hundredweight would be identical to the price currently paid by handlers for Class I milk.

(b) Deductions for marketing services. Provision should be made for the performance by the market administrator of marketing services for producers who do not belong to a cooperative association performing such services. These services should include sampling, testing, and checking the weights of milk delivered and furnishing market information to such producers. Such provision is specifically authorized by the act, and the proponents of the order proposed that in making payments to producers 0.07 cent per hundredweight should be deducted with respect to the milk of such nonmember producers to cover expenses in connection with the services to be rendered. The cost of performing these services will vary with the volume of milk involved at any given time and the number of producers delivering to each plant. The proponents who have had experience with sampling, testing, and checking of weights expressed the opinion based on such experience that these services could not be performed for less than the 7 cent rate under current conditions. Should experience prove that a lesser rate is sufficient, provision is made whereby the Secretary may reduce the assessment to an amount which he determines is necessary without the necessity of amending the order. In the event that any qualified cooperative association of producers is determined to be performing such services for its members the market administrator in making payments to the cooperative association for milk received from its members shall not make the deductions for marketing services. Such an association in making payments to its members may make such deductions as are authorized by the members of the association.

(c) Reports and records. All accounting, reports, price computations and payments should be made on a monthly basis. The term "month" is used throughout the order in its ordinary and usual meaning as one of the twelve divisions of the year. However, the use of this term within the text of the order shall not be construed to prevent the issuance by the Secretary of amendments to the order to be effective on any day of a month.—In view of this, it is determined that it is not necessary to include a definition of "delivery period."

Provisions should be included in the order for the purpose of requiring handlers to maintain adequate records and to make reports with respect to receipts, utilization, and payments for milk. Such records and reports are necessary for the purpose of determining proper classification, pricing, and payment relative to the milk of producers. Producers proposed that reports of receipts and utilization of milk be filed with the market administrator on or before the 9th day after the end of the month. It is necessary to allow sufficient time following the month for the compiling and filing of such reports by the handler. On the other hand, the payments to producers should not be unduly delayed. It is concluded that the 8th day following the end of the month will allow handlers sufficient time to file such reports and will permit payments to producers by the 15th day after the end of the month.

(d) Audits. Provisions should be included in the order to provide for the auditing of each handler's reports and records to insure producers the proper returns for milk as provided for in the order. It is necessary that the handler also provide whatever facilities are necessary to verify reports or to ascertain the correct information regarding the receipts and utilization of milk and payments to producers.

(e) Payments to producers. Provision should be made for the computation of a uniform price for each handler and the payment to producers on a monthly basis. Such payment should be made to individual producers by the market administrator on or before the 15th day after the end of the month, or to a cooperative association on or before the 13th day after the end of the month. Producers proposed an advance payment covering milk delivered during the first 15 days of the month to be made on or before the last day of the month. Such an advance payment was proposed to be made only upon request of the individual producer. The record indicates that producers are customarily paid on the 15th day after the end of the month but handlers have made advance payments to some producers upon individual requests. The plan proposed herein would allow such a practice to continue by permitting handlers to deduct such advances from the money due producers on the 15th day after the end of the month. Dates for the filing of handler reports and for the payment by handlers to the market administrator of the utilization value of producer milk, less money advances and other deductions authorized in writing by individual producers, have been adjusted in a manner which will permit the market administrator to make payments to producers within the date prescribed.

In making payments to producers, an appropriate location differential should be deducted from the uniform prices and the base prices to be paid by a handler for producer milk received at a fluid milk plant located 40 miles or more by shortest hard surface highway distance from the City Hall in Memphis, Tennessee. Such rate of deduction is the same as is applied for Class I milk received by such handler at such plant. This deduction will result in approximately equal prices for milk at the farm whether the milk is delivered to the country plant or directly to a plant in Memphis.

One handler objected to the market administrator collecting the utilization value of milk from handlers and making payments to producers on the basis that such a procedure was uneconomical as well as impractical in settling disputes between producers and handlers. It was contended that it takes less time to write a check to a producer than it does to relay the information to a second party who in turn would write the check. It was argued that mistakes may arise in handler-producer transactions and in such instances the producer naturally looks to his handler for the correction of such mistakes or errors. It was also contended that under the method of payment proposed, it would be necessary for the handler to notify the market administrator who in turn would have to communicate with the producer in order to correct a mistake.

Under the plan proposed herein the handler would furnish the market administrator with a statement for each producer showing among other things the total pounds and the average butterfat content of milk delivered by the producer and the amount or rates per hundredweight of each deduction claimed by the handler including money advancements to such producer. Both producers and handlers proposed that such a statement be given to each producer each month. The statement could be filled out in triplicate showing the above information and given to the market administrator each month in lieu of a producer pay-roll report which is normally required to be filed by a handler when payments are required to be made direct to producers by the handler. The market administrator could fill in the uniform price on the statement and complete the extensions to determine the net amount of payment due the producer. Such calculations would normally be performed by the market administrator in verification of handlers' payments to producers. After such extensions have been completed one copy of the statement would accompany the check mailed to producers. In the case of producers who are members of a cooperative association collecting payment for milk of its members, a copy of the statements for such producers accompanied by a check for the total amount due for all such milk would be mailed to the cooperative association. The second copy of the completed statement would be returned to the appropriate handler and the third copy would be retained by the market administrator for his files.

The writing of checks to producers by the market administrator would not involve more time than would be required to verify cancelled checks or cash receipts in the handler's plant as a means of assuring payments of minimum prices to producers. The number of mistakes normally made in the extensions on the statements and the writing of individual checks is relatively small and inconsequential. Other errors or disputes between handlers and producers could continue to be settled in the normal manner. Other handlers did not object to the proposed plan. It is concluded that it would not be uneconomical in this market for each handler to make a lump sum payment to the market administrator of the money due his producers and for the market administrator to make payment to such producers. This will preserve the confidential character of the membership rolls of a cooperative association. Furthermore, it will facilitate the operations of the adjustment of prices to be paid to producers who are members and those who are not members of a cooperative association. Such payments by handlers to the market administrator should be made on or before the 12th day after the end of the month.

(f) Other administrative provisions. The other provisions of the order are of general administrative nature which are common to all orders and have been found from experience to be necessary for proper and efficient administration. They provide for the selection of a market administrator, define his powers and duties, prescribe the information to be reported by handlers each month and set forth the rules to be followed by the market administrator in making the computations required by the order. They also prescribe the length of time that records must be retained and provide a plan for liquidation of the order in the event of its suspension or termination.

It is also provided that a "producer-handler" shall be exempt from all the regulatory provisions of the order except that requiring the filing of reports as requested by the market administrator. The producer-handler maintains control of his milk until ultimate disposition and in this respect his situation is different from the regular producer whose milk is marketed through a handler. On the other hand, such persons frequently change their status. It is necessary, therefore, for the market administrator to have authority to require reports from the producer-handler in order to verify his status as well as to supplement other market information.

The order provides also for the retention of necessary records by handlers and for the ultimate termination of obligations. It is necessary for handlers to retain records in order to prove the utilization of milk and the payments made to producers. It is necessary that these records be kept for a substantial period of time since some transactions with respect to the handling of the producers' milk are not completed and audited until several months after producers have delivered the milk to handlers' plants. Detailed records of this kind soon assume tremendous physical proportions and become burdensome for this reason. It is necessary that a definite time period be provided within which handlers must maintain their records and after which they will be relieved of so doing. The order should provide that handlers shall retain records for three years after the end of the delivery period or month to which such records relate. In terms of the volume of records which would be retained and the types of transactions involved in disposing of milk, the retention of records for three years is concluded to be a reasonable requirement. If litigation is in progress, it may be necessary to require records to be retained for a longer period and provision should be made for this contingency.

The order should provide for the termination of obligations to handlers after a reasonable period of time has elapsed. Without such a provision handlers may file claims which, because the period involved might extend back over many years, could be in substantial amounts. This creates uncertainties which could endanger the stability of the market and lead to serious inequities. The order should provide that any obligation to pay a handler shall terminate two years after the month in which the milk was received if an underpayment is claimed, or within two years after payment was made if a refund is claimed, unless within such period of time the handler files a petition, pursuant to section 8c (15) (A) of the act, claiming such money. Handlers also need the protection of provisions terminating their obligations to make payments. Since handlers cannot be forewarned always as to contingent liabilities, it is extremely difficult and burdensome for them to make adequate provisions therefor by setting up reserves or by taking other precautionary measures. The obligation of any handler to pay money should, except under certain extraordinary conditions, such as litigation, terminate two years after the last day of the month during which the market administrator receives the handler's report of utilization of the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. It is concluded that in general a period of two years is a reasonable time within which a market administrator should complete his auditing and inspection work and render any billings for money due under the order. Provisions are necessary also, as contained in the order included in this decision, to meet such contingencies as failure of the handler to submit required books and records and to deal with situations where fraud or willful concealment of information may be involved.

It was proposed that if a handler fails to make the required reports or payments, his name may be publicly announced by the market administrator, unless otherwise directed by the Secretary. Such a provision is provided for by the act and it is concluded that its adoption will facilitate the enforcement of the terms of the order.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds, and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk in the marketing area, and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed order will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs were filed on behalf of producers and certain handlers. The briefs contained proposed findings of fact, conclusions and argument with respect to the proposals discussed at the hearing. Every point covered in the briefs was carefully considered along with the evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions hereinbefore set forth. To the extent that such suggested findings and conclusions contained in the briefs are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein the request to make such findings or to reach such conclusions are denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions in this decision.

Recommended marketing agreement and order. The following order is recommended as the detailed and appropriate means by which these conclusions may be carried out. The proposed marketing agreement is not included because the regulatory provisions thereof would be the same as those contained in the order:

(3) On or before the first day other source milk is received, such handler's intention to receive such milk and on or before the last day such milk is received, his intention to discontinue receipt of such milk.

§ 918.32 Records and facilities. Each handler shall maintain and make available to the market administrator during the usual hours of business such accounts and records of his operations and such facilities as are necessary for the market administrator to verify or establish the correct data with respect to:

(a) The receipts and utilization of all producer milk and other source milk;

(b) The weights and tests for butterfat and other content of all milk, skim milk, cream, and milk products handled; and

(c) The pounds of skim milk and butterfat contained in or represented by all milk, skim milk, cream, and milk products on hand at the beginning and end of each month.

§ 918.33 Retention of records. All books and records required under this part to be made available to the market administrator shall be retained by the handler for a period of three years to begin at the end of the calendar month to which such books and records pertain: Provided, That if, within such three-year period, the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that the retention of such books and records, or of specified books and records, is necessary in connection with a proceeding under section 8c (15) (A) of the act or a court action specified in such notice, the handler shall retain such books and records, or specified books and records, until further written notification from the market administrator. In either case the market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler promptly upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

CLASSIFICATION

§ 918.40 Skim milk and butterfat to be classified. All skim milk and butterfat received within the month by a handler and which is required to be reported pursuant to § 918.30 shall be classified by the market administrator pursuant to the provisions of §§ 918.41 through 918.46.

§ 918.41 Classes of utilization. Subject to the conditions set forth in §§ 918.43 and 918.44, the classes of utilization shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk shall be all skim milk (including reconstituted skim milk) and butterfat disposed of in the form of milk, skim milk, buttermilk, flavored milk, flavored milk drinks, cream, and any other product required by the appropriate health authority in the marketing area to be made from Grade A milk, and all skim milk and butterfat not specifically accounted for under paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) Class II milk shall be all skim milk and butterfat (1) used to produce any product other than those specified in paragraph (a) of this section, (2) disposed of for livestock feed, (3) in shrinkage up to 2 percent of receipts from producers, and (4) in shrinkage of other source milk.

§ 918.42 Shrinkage. The market administrator shall allocate shrinkage over a handler's receipts as follows:

(a) Compute the total shrinkage of skim milk and butterfat for such handler; and

(b) Pro rate the resulting amounts between such handler's receipts of skim milk and butterfat in producer milk and in other source milk.

§ 918.43 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (a) All skim milk and butterfat shall be Class I milk unless the handler who first receives such skim milk or butterfat can prove to the market administrator that such skim milk or butterfat should be classified otherwise.

(b) Any skim milk or butterfat shall be reclassified if verification by the market administrator discloses that the original classification was incorrect.

§ 918.44 Transfers. Skim milk or butterfat disposed of by a handler either by transfer or diversion from a fluid milk plant shall be classified:

(a) As Class I milk if transferred or diverted in the form of milk, skim milk or cream, to another fluid milk plant unless utilization in Class II is mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator by both handlers on or before the 8th day after the end of the month within which such transaction occurred: Provided, That the skim milk or butterfat so assigned to Class II shall be limited to the amount thereof remaining in Class II in the plant of the transferee-handler after the subtraction of other source milk pursuant to § 918.46, and any additional amounts of such skim milk or butterfat shall be assigned to Class I: Provided further, That if either or both handlers have received other source milk, the skim milk or butterfat so transferred or diverted shall be classified at both plants so as to allocate the greatest possible Class I utilization to producer milk: And provided further, That the amount of skim milk or butterfat transferred or diverted from a fluid milk plant described in § 918.7 (b) to a fluid milk plant described in § 918.7 (a) shall not be classified in Class I to the extent that the resulting uniform price for the transferring handler shall be higher than the resulting uniform price for the transferee-handler.

(b) As Class I milk if transferred to a producer-handler in the form of milk, skim milk or cream.

(c) As Class I milk if transferred or diverted in the form of milk, skim milk, or cream to a nonfluid milk plant, except that of a producer-handler, unless the following conditions are met:

(1) The handler claims classification in Class II;

(2) The market administrator is permitted to audit the books and records showing the utilization of all skim milk and butterfat received at such nonfluid milk plant, for the purpose of verification; and

(3) An amount of skim milk and butterfat not less than that so transferred or diverted was used in Class II: Provided, That the skim milk and butterfat so assigned to Class II shall be limited to the amount thereof in Class II in such nonfluid milk plant and any additional amounts of skim milk and butterfat so transferred or diverted shall be assigned to Class I.

§ 918.45 Computation of the skim milk and butterfat in each class. For each month, the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for other obvious errors the report of receipts and utilization submitted by each handler and shall compute the pounds of skim milk and butterfat in Class I milk and Class II milk for such handler.

§ 918.46 Allocation of skim milk and butterfat classified. After making the computations pursuant to § 918.45 the market administrator shall determine the classification of milk received from producers as follows:

(a) Skim milk shall be allocated in the following manner:

(1) Subtract from the total pounds of skim milk in Class II the pounds of skim milk determined pursuant to § 918.41 (b) (3);

(2) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II the pounds of skim milk in other source milk: Provided, That if the receipts of skim milk in other source milk are greater than the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II, an amount equal to the difference shall be subtracted from the pounds of skim milk in Class I;

(3) Subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class the skim milk received from other handlers according to its classification as determined pursuant to § 918.44 (a);

(4) Add to the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II the pounds of skim milk subtracted pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph; and

(5) If the remaining pounds of skim milk in both classes exceed the pounds of skim milk received from producers, subtract such excess from the remaining pounds of skim milk in series beginning with Class II. Any amount so subtracted shall be called "overage."

(b) Butterfat shall be allocated in accordance with the same procedure outlined for skim milk in paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) Determine the weighted average butterfat content of the Class I and Class II milk computed pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 918.50 Basic formula price to be used in determining the Class I price. The basic formula price to be used in determining the price per hundredweight of Class I milk shall be the highest of the prices computed pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section and § 918.51 (b), all for the preceding month.

(a) To the average of the basic or field prices per hundredweight reported to have been paid or to be paid for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the month at the following plants or places for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or to the Department of Agriculture:

(b) The price per hundredweight computed by adding together the plus values pursuant to subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph:

(1) To the simple average as computed by the market administrator of the daily wholesale selling prices (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) per pound of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter per pound at Chicago, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the month, add 20 percent thereof and multiply by 4.0.

(2) From the simple average as computed by the market administrator of the weighted averages of carlot prices per pound for nonfat dry milk solids, spray and roller process, respectively, for human consumption, f. o. b. manufacturing plants in the Chicago area as published for the period from the 26th day of the preceeding month through the 25th day of the current month by the Department of Agriculture, deduct 5 cents, and multiply by 7.5.

§ 918.51 Class prices. Subject to the provisions of §§ 918.52 and 918.53, the minimum prices per hundredweight to be paid by each handler for milk received at his fluid milk plant from producers during the month shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk. The price per hundredweight for Class I milk for the month shall be the amount set forth below for such months opposite the price range within which the basic formula price falls:

Basic formula price range (dollars per hundredweight)	Amount per hundredweight
	September through February	March through August
Not more than 1.999	$3.48	$3.08
2.00 but not more than 2.399	3.88	3.48

4.00 but not more than 4.399	5.88	5.48
And for each additional 40 cents or fraction thereof.	An additional 40 cents

Provided, That the Class I price from the effective date of this provision through the month of February 1951 shall not be less than $5.08 per hundredweight: And provided further, That for any month after this provision has been in effect for 13 months the Class I price shall be increased 40 cents per hundredweight if the receipts of milk from producers by all handlers, during the 12 months prior to the month immediately preceding the month for which the Class I price is being computed, was less than 110 percent of the total Class I milk disposed of by all handlers during such 12-month period; or the Class I price for any such month shall be reduced 40 cents per hundredweight if the receipts of milk from producers during such 12-month period are more than 125 percent of the total Class I milk disposed of by all handlers during such 12-month period.

(b) Class II milk. The average of the basic or field prices reported to have been paid or to be paid for ungraded milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content received from farmers during the month at the following plants or places for which prices have been reported to the market administrator or to the Department of Agriculture.

§ 918.52 Butterfat differential to handlers. If the average butterfat content of producer milk allocated to any class pursuant to § 918.46 is more or less than 4.0 percent there shall be added to the respective class price computed pursuant to § 918.51 for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such milk is above 4.0 percent, or subtracted for each one-tenth of 1 percent that such average butterfat content is below 4.0 percent an amount equal to the butterfat differential computed by multiplying the simple average, as computed by the market administrator, of the daily wholesale selling prices per pound (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter at Chicago, as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the period listed below by the applicable factor so listed and dividing the result by 10:

(a) Class I milk. Multiply such price reported for the preceding month by 1.25;

(b) Class II milk. Multiply such price reported for the current month by 1.20.

§ 918.53 Location differentials to handlers. For that portion of milk which is received from producers at a handler's fluid milk plant located 40 miles or more from the City Hall in Memphis, Tennessee, by shortest hard surfaced highway distance, as determined by the market administrator, and which is classified as Class I milk, the prices specified in § 918.51 (a) shall be reduced by the amount per hundredweight set forth in the schedule below for the appropriate distance at which is located the fluid milk plant where such milk was received:

Distance from the City Hall in Memphis (miles):	Amount per hundredweight (cents)

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 918.60 Producer-handlers. Sections 918.40 through 918.46, 918.50 through 918.53, 918.70 through 918.72, 918.80 through 918.83, 918.90 through 918.97 shall not apply to a producer-handler.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICE

§ 918.70 Net obligation of each handler. The net obligation of each handler for milk received during each month from producers shall be a sum of money computed by the market administrator as follows: (a) Multiply the pounds of such milk in each class by the applicable class prices; (b) add together the resulting amounts; (c) add the amounts computed by multiplying the pounds of overage deducted from each class pursuant to § 918.46 by the applicable class prices; and (d) add or subtract, as the case may be, an amount necessary to correct errors discovered by the market administrator in the verification of reports of such handler of his receipts and utilization of skim milk and butterfat for previous months.

§ 918.71 Computation of the uniform price for each handler. For each of the months of August through March the market administrator shall compute for each handler the uniform price as follows:

(a) Add to the amount computed pursuant to § 918.70 the amount of location differential pursuant to § 918.93;

(b) Subtract, if the average butterfat content of milk received from producers by such handler is more than 4.0 percent, or add, if such average butterfat content is less than 4.0 percent, an amount computed as follows: Multiply the amount by which the average butterfat content of such milk varies from 4.0 percent by the butterfat differential to producers, and multiply the result by the total hundredweight of such milk;

(c) Add the amount represented by any deductions made pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section for fractions of a cent in computing the uniform price for the preceding month;

(d) Divide the resulting amount by the total hundredweight of milk received from producers by such handler. The result, less any fraction of a cent per hundredweight, shall be known as the uniform price for such handler for milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content, f. o. b. the marketing area.

§ 918.72 Computation of the uniform price for base milk and for excess milk for each handler. For each of the months of April through July, the market administrator shall compute for each handler the uniform price for base milk and for excess milk as follows:

(a) Add to the amount computed pursuant to § 918.70 the amount of location differential pursuant to § 918.93;

(b) Subtract, if the average butterfat content of milk received from producers by such handler is more than 4.0 percent, or add, if such average butterfat content is less than 4.0 percent, an amount computed as follows: Multiply the amount by which the average butterfat content of such milk varies from 4.0 percent by the butterfat differential to producers, and multiply the result by the total hundredweight of such milk;

(c) Subtract, for each of the months of April through July, if a handler purchases a smaller proportion of his Class I milk from producers who are members of a cooperative association than the monthly average of such purchases by such handler during the preceding months of October through January, an amount computed as follows:

(1) Compute the difference between the percentage which Class I milk purchased from producers who were members of such cooperative association was of the total Class I milk disposed of by such handler during the months of October through January, and the percentage which Class I milk purchased from member producers of such cooperative association was of the total Class I milk disposed of by such handler during the month;

(2) Multiply this percentage difference by the total Class I milk disposed of by such handler during the month;

(3) Multiply this quantity of milk by the difference between the price of Class I milk and Class II milk for the month: Provided, That the total quantity of all handlers to which such difference in price shall apply shall not be greater than the pounds of milk which were received by all handlers from member producers of such cooperative association during the month, and which were classified as Class II milk: And provided further, That during any month when the preceding proviso applies to more than one handler the quantities of milk for each handler to be multiplied by such difference in price shall be reduced pro rata until the total of such quantities is equal to the total pounds of milk which were received by all handlers from member producers of such cooperative during the month, and which were classified as Class II milk.

(d) Add, in computing the uniform price of base milk and excess milk diverted by a cooperative association, the sum of the deductions made for the month pursuant to paragraph (c) of this section in computing such uniform prices for all handlers;

(e) Add the amount represented by any deductions made pursuant to paragraphs (h) and (i) of this section for fractions of a cent in computing such uniform prices for the preceding months;

(f) Subject to the conditions set forth in paragraph (g) of this section, compute the value of excess milk received by such handler from producers by multiplying the quantity of such milk by the Class price;

(g) Compute the value of base milk received by such handler from producers by substracting the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (f) of this section from the value obtained pursuant to paragraphs (a) through (e) of this section: Provided, That if such resulting value is greater than an amount computed by multiplying the pounds of such base milk by the Class I price such value in excess thereof shall be added to the value computed pursuant to paragraph (f) of this section;

(h) Divide the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (g) of this section by the hundredweight of base milk received by such handler from producers. This result, less any fraction of a cent per hundredweight, shall be known as the uniform price for such handler for base milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content, f. o. b. the marketing area; and

(i) Divide the value obtained pursuant to paragraph (f) of this section, subject to the conditions set forth in paragraph (g) of this section, by the hundredweight of excess milk received by such handler from producers. This result, less any fraction of a cent per hundredweight, shall be known as the uniform price for such handler for excess milk of 4.0 percent butterfat content.

BASE RATING

§ 918.80 Determination of daily base of each producer. For the months of April through July of each year, the daily base of each producer shall be an amount of milk computed by the market administrator by dividing the total pounds of milk received from such producer by handlers during the preceding months of October through January by the total number of days in such period.

§ 918.81 Determination of monthly base of each producer. For each of the months of April through July of each year, the monthly base of each producer shall be an amount of milk computed by the market administrator by multiplying the daily base of such producer by the number of days on which milk was received during such month from such producer by a handler.

§ 918.82 Base rules. (a) A landlord who rents on a share basis shall be entitled to the entire daily base to the exclusion of the tenant if the landlord owns the entire herd. A tenant who rents on a share basis shall be entitled to the entire daily base to the exclusion of the landlord if the tenant owns the entire herd. If the cattle are jointly owned by the tenant and landlord, the daily base shall be divided between the joint owners according to ownership of the cattle.

(b) A producer, whether landlord or tenant, may retain his base when moving his entire herd of cows from one farm to another: Provided, That at the beginning of a tenant and landlord relationship the base of the landlord and tenant may be combined and may be divided when such relationship is terminated.

(c) The base of a producer may be moved from one handler to another and may be transferred from such producer to another producer.

§ 918.83 Announcement of daily bases. On or before February 20, of each year, the market administrator shall notify each producer of his daily base.

PAYMENTS

§ 918.90 Payments to market administrator. On or before the 12th day of each month each handler shall pay to the market administrator an amount equal to such handler's net obligation for the previous month as determined pursuant to § 918.70 less deductions authorized in writing by producers from whom he received milk. The market administrator shall maintain a separate fund in which he shall deposit all payments of handlers received pursuant to this paragraph and out of which he shall make all payments pursuant to § 918.91.

§ 918.91 Payments to producers. The market administrator shall pay each producer in the following manner for milk received by a handler from such producer: Provided, That if such handler has not made full payment pursuant to § 918.90 for the month the market administrator shall reduce uniformly such payments to such handler's producers and shall complete such payments as soon as the necessary funds are available.

(a) On or before the 15th day after the end of the months of August through March, the market administrator shall pay each producer for milk received by a handler from such producer during the month an amount computed by multiplying the hundredweight of such milk by not less than the uniform price computed for such handler pursuant to § 918.71, subject to the adjustments specified in §§ 918.92, 918.93, and 918.96, and less deductions authorized in writing by such producer.

(b) On or before the 15th day after the end of each of the months of April through July, the market administrator shall pay each producer for milk received by a handler from such producer during the month an amount computed as follows, subject to the adjustments specified in §§ 918.92, 918.93, and 918.96, and less deductions authorized in writing by such producer:

(1) Multiply the hundredweight of base milk received from such producer by such handler by not less than the uniform price for base milk computed for such handler pursuant to § 918.72;

(2) Multiply the hundredweight of excess milk received from such producer by such handler by not less than the uniform price for excess milk computed for such handler pursuant to § 918.72; and

(3) Add together the resulting sums.

(c) In making payments to producers pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section the market administrator shall pay, on or before the 2d day prior to the date payments are due to individual producers, to a cooperative association which is authorized to collect payment for milk of its members and from which a request for such payment has been received a total amount equal to not less than the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producers pursuant to this section.

§ 918.92 Butterfat differential to producers. In making payment to producers pursuant to § 918.91, there shall be added to or subtracted from, as the case may be, the applicable uniform prices computed pursuant to §§ 918.71 and 918.72 for the handler who received milk from such producer for each one-tenth of one percent of butterfat content above or below 4.0 percent in such milk the amount shown in the schedule below for the butter price range in which falls the simple average of the daily wholesale selling prices per pound (using the midpoint of any price range as one price) of Grade A (92-score) bulk creamery butter at Chicago as reported by the Department of Agriculture during the month:

(a) The delivery period and the identity of the handler and the producer;

(b) The total pounds and the average butterfat content of milk delivered by the producer;

(c) The minimum rates at which payment to the producer or cooperative association is required under the provisions of §§ 918.91 and 918.92;

(d) The amount or rates per hundredweight of each deduction, together with a description of the respective deductions; and

(e) The net amount of payment to the producer or cooperative association.

§ 918.95 Adjustment of accounts. Whenever audit by the market administrator of any handler's reports, books, records, or accounts discloses errors resulting in moneys due the market administrator from such handler, or due such handler from the market administrator, the market administrator shall promptly notify such handler of any amount so due and payment thereof shall be made on or before the next date for making payments set forth in the provisions under which such error occurred.

§ 918.96 Marketing services—(a) Deductions. In making payments to producers pursuant to § 918.91, the market administrator shall deduct 7 cents per hundredweight or such amount not exceeding 7 cents per hundredweight as may be prescribed by the Secretary, with respect to milk (other than milk of a handler's own production) of those producers for whom the marketing services set forth in paragraph (b) of this section are not being performed by a cooperative association.

(b) Marketing services to be rendered. The moneys received by the market administrator pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section shall be used by the market administrator to sample, test, and check the weights of milk received from producers for whom a cooperative association is not performing such services and to provide such producers with market information.

§ 918.97 Expense of administration. As his pro rata share of the expense of administration of this part, each handler shall pay to the market administrator, on or before the 15th day after the end of the month, 4 cents per hundredweight or such amount not exceeding 4 cents per hundredweight as the Secretary may prescribe with respect to all receipts within the month of (a) milk from producers including such handler's own production, and (b) other source milk which is classified as Class I milk.

§ 918.98 Termination of obligations. The provisions of this section shall apply to any obligation under this part for the payment of money.

(a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this part shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator receives the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain, but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to an association of producers, the name of such producer(s) or association of producers, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this part, to make available to the market administrator or his representatives all books and records required by this part to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which all such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representatives.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section a handler's obligation under this part to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or willful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this part shall terminate two years after the end of the calendar month during which the milk involved in the claim was received if an underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the calendar month during which the payment (including deduction or set-off by the market administrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler, within the applicable period of time, files, pursuant to section 8c (15) (A) of the act, a petition claiming such money.

EFFECTIVE TIME, SUSPENSION OR TERMINATION

§ 918.100 Effective time. The provisions of this part or any amendment to this part shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended or terminated pursuant to § 918.101.

§ 918.101 Suspension or termination. The Secretary may suspend or terminate this part or any provision of this part whenever he finds this part or any provision of this part obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act. This part shall terminate in any event whenever the provisions of the act authorizing it cease to be in effect.

§ 918.102 Continuing obligations. If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this part, there are any obligations thereunder, the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any person (including the market administrator), such further acts shall be performed notwithstanding such suspension or termination.

§ 918.103 Liquidation. Upon the suspension or termination of the provisions of this part, except this section, the market administrator, or such other liquidating agent as the Secretary may designate, shall if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, dispose of all property in his possession or control, including accounts receivable, and execute and deliver all assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to effectuate any such disposition. If a liquidating agent is so designated, all assets, books and records of the market administrator shall be transferred promptly to such liquidating agent. If, upon such liquidation, the funds on hand exceed the amounts required to pay outstanding obligations of the office of the market administrator and to pay necessary expenses of liquidation and distribution, such excess shall be distributed to contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

MISCELLANEOUS PROVISIONS

§ 918.110 Agents. The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this part.

§ 918.111 Separability of provisions. If any provision of this part, or its application to any person or circumstances, is held invalid, the application of such provision and of the remaining provisions of this part, to other persons or circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

[Docket No. AO–220]

HANDLING OF IRISH POTATOES GROWN IN UPSTATE NEW YORK

DECISION WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER

Pursuant to Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress (May 12, 1933), as amended and as reenacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 61 Stat. 202, 707; 62 Stat. 1247; 63 Stat. 1051), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR, Part 900), a public hearing was held at Rochester, New York, beginning on May 15, 1950, pursuant to notice thereof in the FEDERAL REGISTER (15 F. R. 2364), upon a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed marketing order regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in the State of New York (except the Counties of Suffolk, Nassau, Queens, Kings, New York, Bronx, and Richmond).

Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at the aforesaid hearing and the record thereof, the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, on July 7, 1950, filed with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, his recommended decision in this proceeding. The notice of the filing of such recommended decision, affording opportunity to file written exceptions thereto, was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (15 F. R. 4399).

The material issues and the findings and conclusions of the recommended decision set forth in the FEDERAL REGISTER (F. R. Doc. 50–6013; 15 F. R. 4399) are hereby approved, and adopted, and incorporated herein, as the material issues and the findings and conclusions of this decision as if set forth in full herein, and such findings and conclusions are supplemented to the extent hereinafter set forth.

Rulings. Exceptions to the recommended decision were filed, on behalf of the Upstate New York Potato Marketing Agreement Committee, by Harold J. Evans, Chairman of the Committee. Each of such exceptions was fully and carefully considered, together with the evidence in the record, in arriving at the findings and conclusions set forth herein.

It was asserted that changes should be made in the provisions of the proposed marketing agreement and order to require expressly that growers and handlers pay their proportionate shares of the cost of administration on the basis of "potatoes marketed." It is assumed that the term "marketed," as used in the exception, is synonomous with the terms "shipped" and "handled," as such terms are defined in the proposals and refers to the person who first markets, or ships, or handles the potatoes. In § 919.43 it is provided that funds "shall be acquired by the levying on handlers of assessments which shall be at a rate fixed by the Secretary, upon the basis of the committee's recommendation or other available information." It is further provided that "each handler who first ships potatoes shall pay assessments to the committee upon demand, which assessments shall be such handler's pro rata share of the expenses which will be appropriately incurred by the committee during each fiscal year." It appears, in view of the foregoing and the reasons and findings in the recommended decision with respect thereto, that there is no conflict between the terms and provisions of the proposed regulatory program and the implications of the exception insofar as the achievement of the objectives of the exception may be concerned. In addition, the proposed program does not require that assessments be paid on the basis of the quantity of potatoes "indicated by inspection certificates," as this exception seems to infer. The proposals, in § 919.43, clearly state that each handler's share of the expenses "shall be proportionate to the ratio between the total quantity of potatoes handled by him as the first handler thereof, during the applicable fiscal year, and the total quantity of potatoes handled by all handlers, as the first handlers thereof, during the same fiscal year."

An additional exception urges "some flexibility must be provided by which the committee can work out flexible arrangements, with the approval of the Secretary, to effectively control the grade and size of the potatoes marketed." The exception further suggests the use of the following or a similar statement to accomplish this purpose: "Provided further, That the committee have responsibility of recommending to the Secretary practical rules concerning the waiver of inspection for small lots of potatoes that cannot be inspected in the usual way." Such authority is already incorporated in the provisions of the said marketing agreement and order through the provision (§ 919.56) of exemption of shipments from regulation when the volume thereof is below such minimum quantities as may be established by the administrative committee with the approval of the Secretary and through the provision relating to inspection and certification contained in § 919.66. Provision is made in such section that "the committee may adopt, subject to the approval of the Secretary, procedures permitting the shipment of potatoes without the required prior inspection thereon; such procedures shall include a requirement that each handler-applicant for a waiver show that he requested shipping point inspection and that the appropriate inspection agency stated that it could not supply reasonably prompt service in connection with such request." Such provision embodies the prerequisites set forth in the aforesaid exception as necessary for efficient operation of the program.

Exception was taken to some of the other findings and conclusions and provisions of the marketing agreement and order contained in the recommended decision. To the extent that the findings and conclusions herein are at variance with any of the exceptions pertaining thereto, such exceptions are denied for the foregoing reasons and on the basis of the findings and conclusions relating to the issues to which the exceptions refer.

Marketing agreement and order. Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled, respectively, "Marketing Agreement Regulating the Handling of Irish Potatoes Grown in Upstate New York" and "Order Regulating Handling of Irish Potatoes Grown in Upstate New York", which have been decided upon as the appropriate and detailed means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. The aforesaid marketing agreement and the aforesaid order shall not become effective unless and until the requirements of § 900.14 of the aforesaid rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders have been met.

It is hereby ordered, That all of this decison, except the attached agreement, be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The regulatory provisions of the said agreement are identical with those contained in the attached order, which will be published with this decision.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 3d day of August 1950.

AUTHORITY: §§ 919.0 to 919.93 issued under 48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 61 Stat. 202, 707; 62 Stat. 1247; 63 Stat. 1501.

§ 919.0 Findings and determinations—(a) Findings upon the basis of the hearing record. Pursuant to Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress (May 12, 1933), as amended and as reenacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 61 Stat. 202, 707; 62 Stat. 1247; 63 Stat. 1051), and the rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR, Part 900), a public hearing was held at Rochester, New York, on May 15–17, 1950, upon a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed marketing order regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in the State of New York (except the Counties of Suffolk, Nassau, Queens, Kings, New York, Bronx, and Richmond). Upon the basis of the evidence introduced at such hearing, and the record thereof, it is found that:

(1) All handling of potatoes grown in the production area is either in the current of interstate or foreign commerce, or directly burdens, obstructs, or affects such commerce;

(2) This part, and all of the terms and conditions of this part, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act with respect to Irish potatoes produced in the production area specified in this part by establishing and maintaining such orderly marketing conditions therefor as will tend to establish, as prices to the producers thereof, parity prices and by protecting the interest of the consumer (i) by approaching the level of prices which it is declared in the act to be the policy of Congress to establish by a gradual correction of the current level of prices at as rapid a rate as the Secretary deems to be in the public interest and feasible in view of the current consumptive demand in domestic and foreign markets, and (ii) by authorizing no action which has for its purpose the maintenance of prices to producers of such Irish potatoes above the parity level, and (iii) by authorizing the establishment and maintenance of such minimum standards of quality and maturity, as will tend to effectuate such orderly marketing of such Irish potatoes as will be in the public interest;

(3) This part regulates the handling of potatoes grown in the production area in the same manner as, and is applicable only to the persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in, a proposed marketing agreement on which a hearing has been held;

(4) This part is limited in its application to the smallest regional production area that is practicable, consistent with carrying out the declared policy of the act; and the issuance of several orders applicable to any subdivision of the production area specified in this order would not effectively carry out the declared policy of the act; and

(5) The terms and provisions of this part prescribe, so far as practicable, such different terms, applicable to different parts of the production area, as are necessary to give due recognition to the differences in production and marketing of potatoes grown in the production area.

Order relative to handling. It is, therefore, ordered that on and after the effective time of this part the handling of potatoes, as defined in this part, shall be in conformity to and in compliance with the terms and conditions of this part; and the terms and conditions of this part are as follows:

§ 919.43 Rate of assessment. The funds to cover such expenses shall be acquired by the levying on handlers of assessments which shall be at a rate fixed by the Secretary, upon the basis of the committee's recommendation or other available information. Each handler who first ships potatoes shall pay assessments to the committee, upon demand, which assessments shall be such handler's pro rata share of the expenses which will be appropriately incurred by the committee during each fiscal year. Such handler's share of such expense shall be proportionate to the ratio between the total quantity of potatoes handled by him as the first handler thereof, during the applicable fiscal year, and the total quantity of potatoes handled by all handlers as the first handlers thereof, during the same fiscal year.

§ 919.44 Increasing rate of assessment. Upon recommendation of the committee or upon the basis of a later finding relative to the committee's expenses or revenue, the Secretary may increase the rate of assessment to cover expenses which shall be appropriately incurred. Such increase shall be applicable to all potatoes handled during the given fiscal year.

§ 919.45 Refunds. If at the end of a fiscal year, it shall appear that assessments collected are in excess of expenses incurred, each handler entitled to a proportionate refund of the excess assessments shall be credited with such refund against the operations of the following fiscal year, unless he demands payment thereof, in which event such proportionate refund shall be paid to him.

§ 919.46 Accounting. All funds received by the committee pursuant to any provision of this part shall be used solely for the purposes specified in this part and shall be accounted for in the following manner:

(a) The Secretary may at any time require the committee and its members to account for all receipts and disbursements.

(b) Whenever any person ceases to be a committee member or alternate, he shall account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver all property and funds in his hands, together with all books and records in his possession, to his successor in office or to such person as the Secretary may designate, and shall execute such assignments and other instruments as may be necessary or appropriate to vest in such successor or in such designated person the right to all the property, funds, or claims vested in such member or alternate.

§ 919.47 Collection of funds. (a) The committee may, with the approval of the Secretary, maintain in its own name or in the name of its members, a suit against any handler for the collection of such handler's pro rata share of the expenses of the committee.

(b) In order to provide funds to carry out the functions of the committee, handlers may make advance payment of assessments.

REGULATION

§ 919.51 Marketing policy preparation. At the beginning of each fiscal year the committee shall consider and prepare a proposed policy for the marketing of potatoes during such fiscal year. In developing its marketing policy the committee shall investigate relevant supply and demand conditions for potatoes. In such investigations the committee shall give appropriate consideration to the following:

§ 919.52 Marketing policy report. (a) The committee shall submit to the Secretary a report setting forth the aforesaid marketing policy. The committee shall also notify producers and handlers of the contents of such reports.

(b) In the event it becomes advisable to deviate from such marketing policy, because of changed supply or demand conditions, the committee shall formulate a new marketing policy, in accordance with the manner previously outlined in § 919.51. The committee shall also submit a report thereon to the Secretary and notify producers and handlers of such revised or amended marketing policy.

§ 919.53 Recommendation for regulation; committee recommendations. The committee shall recommend regulation to the Secretary whenever it finds that such regulation, as provided in § 919.54, will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act. The committee may also recommend modification, suspension, or termination of any regulation in order to facilitate shipments of potatoes for the specified purposes set forth in § 919.55.

§ 919.54 Issuance of regulations. (a) The Secretary shall limit the shipment of potatoes whenever he finds from the recommendations and information submitted by the committee, or from other available information, that such regulation will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act. Such limitation may:

(1) Regulate, in any or all portions of the production area, the shipment of particular grades, sizes or quality of any or all varieties of potatoes during any period;

(2) Regulate the shipment of particular grades, sizes or quality of potatoes differently for different varieties, for different portions of the production area, for different packs, or any combination of the foregoing, during any period; or

(3) Regulate the shipment of potatoes by establishing and maintaining, in terms of grades, sizes, or both, minimum standards of quality and maturity.

(b) During any period when grade, size, or quality regulations are in effect the Secretary may require that potato containers shall be branded whenever such requirements will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act.

(c) During any period when branding is required pursuant to this subpart, each handler who first handles potatoes shall, prior to such handling, brand, or cause to be branded, each container of such potatoes; and no person shall handle any potatoes during such period unless the respective container thereof is branded.

§ 919.55 Modification, suspension, or termination. The Secretary, whenever he finds, upon the basis of the recommendations and information submitted by the committee, or from other available information, that it will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act, shall modify, suspend, or terminate regulations issued pursuant to §§ 919.43, 919.44, 919.54, 919.66, or any combination thereof, in order to facilitate shipments of potatoes for the following purposes:

(c) For distribution by the Federal Government;

(d) For manufacture or conversion into specified products;

(e) For livestock feed;

(f) For other purposes which may be specified.

§ 919.56 Minimum quantity regulation. The committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may establish, for any or all portions of the production area, minimum quantities below which shipments will be free from regulations, issued or in effect pursuant to §§ 919.43, 919.44, 919.54, 919.66, or any combination thereof.

§ 919.57 Notification of regulation. The Secretary shall notify the committee of any regulations issued or of any modification, suspension, or termination thereof. The committee shall give reasonable notice thereof to handlers.

§ 919.58 Safeguards. (a) The committee, with the approval of the Secretary, may prescribe, (1) adequate safeguards to prevent shipments pursuant to §§ 919.55 and 919.56 from entering channels of trade for other than the specific purpose authorized therefor, (2) adequate safeguards to assure that shipments made without inspection pursuant to §919.66 meet effective grade, size or quality regulations, and (3) rules governing the issuance and the contents of Certificates of Privilege if such certificates are prescribed as safeguards by the committee.

(b) Safeguards, as prescribed herein, may include requirements that:

(1) Handlers shall file applications with the committee to ship potatoes pursuant to §§ 919.55 and 919.56;

(2) Handlers shall obtain inspection provided by § 919.66 or pay the pro rata share of expenses provided by § 919.43, or both, in connection with potato shipments effected under the provisions of §§ 919.55 and 919.56: Provided, That such inspection or payment of expenses may be required at different times than otherwise specified by the aforesaid sections; and

(3) Handlers shall obtain Certificates of Privilege from the committee for shipments of potatoes effected or to be effected under provisions of §§ 919.55 and 919.56 and shipments made without inspection pursuant to § 919.66.

(c) The committee may rescind or deny Certificates of Privilege to any shipper if proof is obtained that potatoes shipped by him for the purposes stated in §§ 919.55, 919.56, and 919.66 were handled contrary to the requirements applicable thereto.

(d) The Secretary shall have the right to modify, change, alter, or rescind any safeguards prescribed and any certificates issued by the committee pursuant to the provisions of this section.

(e) The committee shall make reports to the Secretary, as requested, showing the number of applications for such certificates, the quantity of potatoes covered by such applications, the number of such applications denied and certificates granted, the quantity of potatoes shipped under duly issued certificates and such other information as may be requested.

INSPECTION

§ 919.66 Inspection and certification. During any period in which shipments of potatoes are regulated, pursuant to the provisions of §§ 919.43, 919.44, or 919.54, or any combination thereof, no handler shall ship potatoes unless, prior thereto, such shipment was inspected by an authorized representative of the Federal-State Inspection Service, or such other inspection service as the Secretary shall designate. Each handler procuring inspections pursuant to this section, shall make arrangements with the inspecting agency to forward promptly to the committee a copy of the inspection certificate: Provided, That the regrading, resorting, repacking, or other further preparation of inspected potatoes for market shall invalidate prior inspection thereon and subsequent shipment of such potatoes after regrading, resorting, repacking, or other preparation for market shall not be effected unless, prior thereto, such shipment is inspected as provided in this section: Provided further, That the committee may adopt, subject to the approval of the Secretary, procedures permitting the shipment of potatoes without the required prior inspection thereon; such procedures shall include a requirement that each handler-applicant for a waiver show that he requested shipping point inspection and that the appropriate inspection agency stated that it could not supply reasonably prompt service in connection with such request; and such procedures may require that each applicant agrees, as a condition for the issuance of a waiver, to one or more of the following:

(a) That the potatoes to be shipped under such waiver will be inspected and certified at destination if an inspector is available for such purpose;

(b) That, where inspection indicates that potatoes shipped under a waiver fail to meet minimum grade, size, and quality requirements in effect at the time of such inspection, the potatoes will be removed from all normal domestic commercial channels, except for disposition pursuant to § 919.55; and

(c) That additional waivers will not be granted to an applicant, for the remainder of the fiscal year, if the potatoes shipped under a waiver and failing to meet minimum grade, size, and quality requirements, are not removed from all normal domestic market channels, except for disposition pursuant to § 919.55.

EXEMPTIONS

§ 919.71 Procedure. The committee may adopt, subject to approval of the Secretary, the procedures pursuant to which certificates of exemption will be issued to producers or handlers.

§ 919.72 Granting exemptions. (a) The committee may issue certificates of exemption to any producer who applies for such exemption and furnishes adequate evidence to the committee that, by reason of a regulation issued pursuant to § 919.54, he will be prevented from handling, or causing to be handled, as large a proportion of his production as the average proportion of production handled, or caused to be handled, during the entire season (or such portion thereof as may be determined by the committee) by all producers in said applicant's immediate area of production and that the grade, size, or quality of the applicant's potatoes have been adversely affected by acts beyond the applicant's control and by acts beyond reasonable expectation. Each such certificate shall permit the producer to handle, or cause to be handled, the amount of potatoes specified thereon. Such certificate shall be transferred with such potatoes at time of transportation or sale.

(b) The committee may issue certificates of exemption to any handler who applies for such exemption and furnishes adequate evidence to the committee that, by reason of a regulation issued pursuant to § 919.54, he will be prevented from handling as large a proportion of his storage holdings of ungraded potatoes, acquired during or immediately following the digging season, as the average proportion of ungraded storage holdings handled by all handlers in said applicant's immediate shipping area, and that the grade, size, or quality of the applicant's potatoes have been adversely affected by acts beyond the applicant's control and by acts beyond reasonable expectation. Each certificate shall permit the handler to handle the amount of potatoes specified thereon. Such certificate shall be transferred with such potatoes at time of transportation or sale.

(c) The committee shall be permitted, at any time, to make a thorough investigation of any producer's or handler's claim pertaining to exemptions.

§ 919.73 Appeal. If any applicant for exemption certificates is dissatisfied with the determination by the committee with respect to his application, said applicant may file an appeal with the committee. Such an appeal must be taken promptly after the determination by the committee from which the appeal is taken. Any applicant filing an appeal shall furnish evidence satisfactory to the committee for a determination on the appeal. The committee shall thereupon reconsider the application, examine all available evidence, and make a final determination concerning the application. The committee shall notify the appellant of the final determination and shall furnish the Secretary with a copy of the appeal and a statement of considerations involved in making the final determination.

§ 919.74 Records, reports and review of exemptions. (a) The committee shall maintain a record of all applications submitted for exemption certificates, a record of all exemption certificates issued and denied, the quantity of potatoes covered by such exemption certificates, a record of the amount of potatoes shipped under exemption certificates, a record of appeals for reconsideration of applications, and such additional information as may be requested by the Secretary. Periodic reports on such records shall be compiled and issued by the committee upon request of the Secretary.

(c) The Secretary shall terminate the provisions of this subpart at the end of any fiscal year whenever he finds that such termination is favored by a majority of producers who, during the preceding fiscal year, have been engaged in the production for market of potatoes: Provided, That such majority has, during such year, produced for market more than fifty percent of the volume of such potatoes produced for market; but such termination shall be effective only if announced on or before May 31 of the then current fiscal year.

(d) The provisions of this subpart shall, in any event, terminate whenever the provisions of the act authorizing them cease to be in effect.

§ 919.86 Proceedings after termination. (a) Upon the termination of the provisions of this subpart, the then functioning members of the committee shall continue as trustees for the purpose of liquidating the affairs of the committee, of all the funds and property then in the possession of or under control of the committee, including claims for any funds unpaid or property not delivered at the time of such termination. Action by said trusteeship shall require the concurrence of a majority of the said trustees.

(c) Any person to whom funds, property, or claims have been transferred or delivered by the committee or its members, pursuant to this section, shall be subject to the same obligations imposed upon the members of the committee and upon the said trustees.

§ 919.87 Effect of termination or amendment. Unless otherwise expressly provided by the Secretary, the termination of this subpart or of any regulation issued pursuant to this subpart, or the issuance of any amendments to either thereof, shall not (a) affect or waive any right, duty, obligation, or liability which shall have arisen or which may thereafter arise in connection with any provision of this subpart or any regulation issued under this subpart, or (b) release or extinguish any violation of this subpart or of any regulation issued under this subpart, or (c) affect or impair any rights or remedies of the Secretary or of any other person with respect to any such violation.

§ 919.90 Derogation. Nothing contained in this subpart is, or shall be construed to be, in derogation or in modifications of the rights of the Secretary or of the United States to exercise any powers granted by the act or otherwise, or, in accordance with such powers, to act in the premises whenever such action is deemed advisable.

§ 919.91 Personal liability. No member or alternate member of the committee nor any employee or agent thereof, shall be held personally responsible, either individually or jointly with others, in any way whatsoever, to any handler or to any person for errors in judgment mistakes, or other acts, either of commission or omission, as such member, alternate, agent, or employee except for acts of dishonesty.

§ 919.92 Separability. If any provision of this subpart is declared invalid, or the applicability thereof to any person, circumstance, or thing is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of this subpart, or the applicability thereof to any other person, circumstance, or thing, shall not be affected thereby.

§ 919.93 Amendments. Amendments to this subpart may be proposed, from time to time, by the committee or by the Secretary.

Pursuant to the applicable provisions of Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress (May 12, 1933), as amended and as reenacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 61 Stat. 202, 707; 62 Stat. 1247; 63 Stat. 1051), it is hereby directed that a referendum be conducted among producers who, during the period July 1, 1949, to June 30, 1950 (which period is hereby determined to be a representative period for the purpose of such referendum), were engaged in the production in the State of New York (except the Counties of Suffolk, Nassau, Queens, Kings, New York, Bronx, and Richmond) of Irish potatoes for market, to determine whether such producers favor the issuance of an order regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in the State of New York (except the Counties of Suffolk, Nassau, Queens, Kings, New York, Bronx, and Richmond); and said order is annexed to the decision of the Secretary of Agriculture filed[1] simultaneously herewith.

A. C. Cook, O. H. Chapin, John Rivoire, R. L. Hawes, and M. F. Miller, of the Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture are hereby designated as agents of the Secretary of Agriculture to perform, jointly or severally, the following functions in connection with such referendum:

(a) Conduct said referendum in the manner herein prescribed:

(1) By determining the time of commencement and termination of the period of the referendum, and by giving opportunity to each of the aforesaid producers to cast his ballot, in the manner herein authorized, relative to the aforesaid order, on a copy of the appropriate ballot form. A cooperative association of producers, bona fide engaged in marketing potatoes grown in the State of New York (except the counties of Suffolk, Nassau, Queens, Kings, New York, Bronx, and Richmond), or in rendering services for or advancing the interests of producers of such potatoes, may vote for the producers who are members of, stockholders in, or under contract with such cooperative association (such vote to be cast on a copy of the appropriate ballot form), and the vote of such cooperative association shall be considered as the votes of such producers.

(2) By giving public notice, as prescribed in (a) (3) hereof, (i) of the time during which the referendum will be conducted; (ii) that any ballot may be cast by mail; (iii) that all ballots so cast must be addressed to O. H. Chapin, c/o New York State PMA Committee, Byrne Building, Syracuse 2, New York; and (iv) of the time prior to which such ballots must be postmarked.

(3) By giving public notice (i) by utilizing (without advertising expense), available agencies of public information, including both press and radio facilities serving the aforesaid production area; (ii) by mailing a notice thereof (including a copy of the text of the order and a copy of the appropriate ballot form) to each producer, and to each such cooperative association, whose name and address is known to such agents; and (iii) by such other means as said referendum agents may deem advisable.

(4) By conducting meetings of producers and arranging for balloting at the meeting places, if said referendum agents determine that voting shall be at meetings. At each such meeting, balloting shall continue until all of the producers who are present, and who desire to do so, have had an opportunity to vote. Any producer may cast his ballot at any such meeting in lieu of voting by mail.

(5) By giving ballots and copies of the text of the order to producers at the meeting; and receiving any ballots when they are cast.

(6) By securing the name and address of each person casting a ballot, and inquiring into the eligibility of such person to vote in the referendum. Any individual casting a ballot on behalf of a producer, a corporation, or a cooperative association of producers shall submit, with the ballot, evidence of his authority to cast such ballot, which evidence in the case of a corporation or a cooperative association shall be in the form of a certified copy of a resolution of the Board of Directors.

(7) By giving public notice of the time and place of any meetings authorized hereunder by posting a notice thereof, at least two days in advance of each such meeting, at each such meeting place, and in two or more public places within the applicable area; and, so far as practicable by giving additional notice in the manner prescribed in paragraph (a) (3) hereof.

(8) By appointing any county agricultural agent, and by authorizing the chairman of the State Production and Marketing Administration committee in the State of New York to appoint any member or members of a county Production and Marketing Administration committee in the State of New York and by appointing any other persons deemed necessary or desirable, to assist the said referendum agents in performing their duties hereunder. Each such person, so appointed, shall serve without compensation; may be authorized by the said referendum agents, or any of them, to perform any or all of the functions set forth in subparagraphs (4), (5), (6), and (7) of paragraph (a) hereof (which, in the absence of such appointment of subagents, shall be performed by said referendum agents) in accordance with the requirements herein set forth, and shall forward to O. H. Chapin, c/o New York State Production and Marketing Administration Committee, Byrne Building, Syracuse 2, New York, immediately after the close of the referendum, the following:

(i) A register containing the name and address of each producer and cooperative association, as aforesaid, to whom a ballot form was given;

(ii) A register containing the name and address of each producer and cooperative association, as aforesaid, from whom an executed ballot was received;

(iii) All of the ballots received by the respective referendum agent or appointee in connection with the referendum, together with a certificate to the effect that the ballots forwarded are all of the ballots cast and which were received by the respective agent or appointee during the referendum period;

(iv) A statement showing when and where each notice of referendum was given and, if the notice was mailed, the mailing list showing the names and addresses to which the notice was mailed and the time of such mailing; and

(v) A detailed statement reciting the method used in giving publicity of such referendum.

(b) Each referendum agent and appointee pursuant hereto shall not refuse to accept a ballot submitted or cast; but should they, or any of them, deem that a ballot should be challenged for any reason, or if such ballot is challenged by any other person, said agent or appointee shall endorse above his signature, on the back of said ballot, a statement that such ballot was challenged, by whom challenged, and the reasons therefor; and the number of such challenged ballots shall be stated when they are forwarded as provided herein.

(c) Upon receipt by O. H. Chapin of all ballots cast and such other information and data as may be required pursuant hereto, he shall forward the ballots, together with the information and data, to the Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C. The Fruit and Vegetable Branch shall canvass the ballots and prepare and submit to the Secretary a detailed report covering the results of the referendum, the manner in which the referendum was conducted, the extent and kind of public notice given, and all other information pertinent to the full analysis of the referendum and its results.

(d) All ballots shall be kept confidential.

The Director of the Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture is hereby authorized to prescribe additional instructions, not inconsistent with the provisions hereof, to govern the procedure to be followed by the said referendum agents and appointees in conducting said referendum.

Copies of the text of the aforesaid order may be examined in the Office of the Hearing Clerk, Room 1353, South Building, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., and at the county Production and Marketing Administration Office in each of the counties within the production area.

Ballots to be cast in the referendum and copies of the text of the order may be obtained from any referendum agent, and any appointee hereunder.

HANDLING OF IRISH POTATOES GROWN IN CENTRAL NEBRASKA

FINDINGS AND DETERMINATIONS ON RESULTS OF REFERENDUM ON PROPOSED MARKETING ORDER

Pursuant to Public Act No. 10, 73d Congress (May 12, 1933) as amended and as reenacted and amended by the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.; 61 Stat. 202, 707; 62 Stat. 1247; 63 Stat. 1051), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure governing proceedings to formulate marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR, Part 900), a public hearing was held at Kearney, Nebraska, on May 1-2, 1950, pursuant to notice thereof which was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (15 F. R. 2109, 2228), upon a proposed marketing agreement and a proposed marketing order regulating the handling of potatoes grown in the counties of Phelps, Loup, Garfield, Custer, Valley, Greeley, Sherman, Howard, Hall, Buffalo, Dawson, and Kearney in Nebraska. The recommended decision (15 F. R. 3687) of the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, and the decision (15 F. R. 4284) of the Secretary of Agriculture, setting forth a proposed marketing agreement and order as the appropriate and detailed means for effectuating the declared policy of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, were published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on June 13 and July 6, 1950, respectively. The Secretary also issued an order (15 F. R. 4289) directing that a referendum be conducted among producers of potatoes grown in Central Nebraska to determine whether the requisite majority of such producers favors the issuance of the proposed marketing order.

It is hereby found and determined, on the basis of the results of the referendum conducted pursuant to the aforesaid referendum order, that the issuance of the proposed marketing order regulating the handling of Irish potatoes grown in Central Nebraska is not approved or favored by the requisite percentage of producers or of the total volume of production voting in the aforesaid referendum.

It is hereby further determined that the proposed marketing order set forth in the Secretary's decision of July 6, 1950 (15 F. R. 4284), cannot be made effective because of the failure of producers to approve or favor its issuance by the requisite percentage of producers or of the total volume of production voting in the referendum conducted among such producers.

Done at Washington, D. C., this 3d day of August 1950.

[SEAL] CHARLES F. BRANNAN,
Secretary of Agriculture.

[Docket No. FDC-31 (b)]

BAKERY PRODUCTS; DEFINITIONS AND STANDARDS OF IDENTITY

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

In the matter of definitions and standards of identity for the following foods: bread, white bread, and rolls, white rolls, or buns, white buns; enriched bread and enriched rolls or enriched buns; milk bread, and milk rolls or milk buns; raisin bread and raisin rolls or raisin buns; whole wheat bread, graham bread, entire wheat bread, and whole wheat rolls, graham rolls, entire wheat rolls, or whole wheat buns, graham buns, entire wheat buns; breads and rolls or buns made with combinations of flour, whole wheat flour, cracked wheat, and crushed wheat; and unsalted breads and rolls or buns:

It is proposed that, by virtue of the authority vested in the Federal Security Administrator by the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (secs. 401, 701, 52 Stat. 1046, 1055; 21 U. S. C. 341, 371) and upon the basis of substantial evidence received at the public hearing held pursuant to the notice published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on October 14, 1948 (13 F. R. 6023), and upon consideration of proposed findings of fact filed by interested parties, which are adopted in part and rejected in part as is apparent from the detailed findings made below, the following order be made:

Findings of fact.[1] 1. The food commonly and usually known as "bread" or "white bread" and that commonly and usually known as "rolls," "white rolls," "buns," or "white buns" are prepared by baking a kneaded yeast-leavened dough made by moistening flour with water (or with certain other liquid ingredients hereinafter specified, alone or in combination with water) with the addition of salt, and usually with the addition of certain other ingredients as hereafter set forth. Bread and rolls are sometimes prepared from bromated flour or phosphated flour or both, with or without admixture with plain flour. (R. 30, 49, 57, 59-62, 69, 70, 71; Ex. A)

2. Rolls, sometimes known as buns, differ from bread in the size of the units baked, and usually in their shape. A reasonable and satisfactory differentiation is that a loaf of bread weighs, after cooling, one-half pound or more, whereas a roll, after cooling, weighs less than one-half pound. (R. 60-62, 69; Ex. A)

3. White bread and, at times, other types of bread are sometimes made without added salt, for special dietary use. These breads are often referred to as salt-free breads. A more accurate modifying designation is "unsalted." They serve a useful purpose when sold to persons who know their characteristics and use them as a special type of bread. (R. 14296-14297)

4. All bread and rolls contain moisture. An excessive moisture content tends to defraud consumers. A reasonable maximum limitation upon the moisture, which is somewhat in excess of the usual content, is 38 percent by weight, the solids being not less than 62 percent by weight. A satisfactory and reliable method for determining the total solids contained in bread and rolls is the method prescribed in "Official and Tentative Methods of Analysis of the Association of Official Agricultural Chemists," Sixth Edition, 1945, page 260, section 20.84 (a), "Total Solids in an Entire Loaf of Bread—Official," except that if the baked unit weighs 1 pound or more, one entire unit is used for the determination, and if the baked unit weighs less than 1 pound such number of entire units as weigh 1 pound or more are used for the determination. (R. 64, 68, 85-87, 138-142; Ex. A, 2)

5. Shortening is commonly, but not always, added to bread dough. Any food fat or food oil, including butter, oleomargarine and cream or any mixture of two or more of these, is suitable for this purpose. For accentuating the shortening action of fats and oils, lecithins derived from corn oil or soybean oil (which with their associated phosphatides are both commercially known as lecithin) and mono- and diglycerides of fat-forming fatty acids are sometimes used, and are suitable for such use. Lecithin was proposed as an ingredient of the dough apart from its use as an ingredient of shortening. There was no substantial evidence, however, that it serves any useful purpose other than as an ingredient of shortening. In 1942, mono- and diglycerides in limited amounts, usually not exceeding 5 percent, were used in many types of shortening. Since 1942, experience has shown that even larger proportions of mono- and diglycerides in the shortening still further increase the shortening effect. Although detailed data as to the physical properties of bread prepared with varying amounts of shortenings containing varying amounts of mono- and diglycerides are not shown in the record, it is evident that when the mono- and diglyceride content of the shortening does not exceed 25 percent no properties are imparted by it to bread other than those commonly associated with the use of shortening. (R. 71-73, 194, 193, 209-213, 228-229, 243-244, 269-270, 295, 307, 327, 454-466, 496-497, 4190-4191, 4391, 5160, 5254, 5287-5290, 5305-5306, 5407-5408, 5504-5505, 5514-5518, 5815-5816, 5856-5858, 14045-14051; Ex. 3, 4, 44)

6. In addition to mono- and diglycerides of fat-forming fatty acids, corresponding compounds have recently been developed in which acetylated tartaric acid has been substituted for fat-forming fatty acids. Compounds of this kind have been used to some extent in bread dough. Their effect on the bread is very similar to that resulting from the use of similar quantities of mono- and diglycerides of fat-forming fatty acids. Prior to the use of mono- and diglycerides of acetylated tartaric acid there had been no known employment of acetylated tartaric acid in preparing a food ingredient. Limited studies have been made of the physiological effects following the ingestion of acetylated tartaric acid. It appears to have little, if any, food value. Proponents of the use of the mono- and diglycerides of acetylated tartaric acid assumed, but we did not present evidence to prove, that the pharmacological properties of acetylated tartaric acid are the same as those of tartaric acid. The evidence showed that when mono- and digylcerides of acetylated tartaric acid were fed to animals in amounts somewhat exceeding those that would normally be present in bread there was no observable injury. Further experiments showed, however, that the acetylated tartaric acid was not broken down into acetic acid and tartaric acid in the bodies of the animals for a considerable time. Whether for this reason any adverse effect on humans might result was not definitely known. Although no injury was noted in the limited experiments carried out, the introduction into the human body of a substance such as acetylated tartaric acid, whose properties have not been thoroughly studied, cannot be justified by necessity for its use or by any advantages that the mono- and diglycerides of this acid may have over those of mono- and diglycerides of the fatty acids. The evidence does not justify a finding that the recognition of the mono- and diglycerides of acetylated tartaric acid as an optional ingredient of bread, rolls, and buns would promote honesty and fair dealing in the interest of consumers. (R. 12840-12841, 12843-12844, 12865-12866, 13052, 13086, 13119-13125, 13231, 13233, 13254-13255, 13299, 13304, 13356, 13358-13359, 13387-13389, 13412-13413, 13542; Ex. 244, 246, 247)

7. The quantity of shortening used in bread dough varies widely. Some breads contain no shortening. The evidence affords no basis for concluding that the fixing of any maximum or minimum limits for shortening would serve consumer interest. The usual quantities of shortening are between 2 and 6 parts by weight for each 100 parts by weight of flour used, and seldom exceed 12 parts except in the cases of "sweet goods" and "specialty goods," products so distinctively different from bread and rolls as to be unlikely to be confused with bread or rolls by consumers. Such products usually contain from 12 to 30 parts of shortening. The possible effect of the use of products referred to as emulsifiers on the quantity of shortening used in bread and rolls is discussed in finding 39. (R. 368, 2543-2544, 2549, 2594, 2597, 17063-17064, 17069-17071; Ex. D., 383, 384)

8. Milk and various milk products are widely used in making bread and rolls and serve to improve their nutritive value and modify certain physical characteristics. In addition to fluid milk there have been used for these purposes, singly or in combination, concentrated milk, evaporated milk, sweetened condensed milk, dried milk, skim milk, concentrated skim milk, evaporated skim milk, sweetened condensed skim milk, sweetened condensed partly skim milk, and nonfat dry milk solids. (R. 73-75, 128-130, 438-440, 449; Ex. A)

9. In order to set bread made with any of the ingredients specified in finding 8 apart from milk bread, it is reasonable that such ingredients, together with any butter and cream used in bread, be so limited in quantity or composition as not to meet the requirements prescribed in findings 54 to 57, inclusive, for the quantity and composition of such ingredients in milk bread. (R. 74, 129)

10. Nonfat dry milk solids are widely used in the baking industry as an ingredient of bread and rolls. Occasionally bakers receive shipments of nonfat dry milk solids which have unsatisfactory baking qualities. The causes of poor baking qualities in these occasional lots of nonfat dry milk solids are not well understood. A proposal was made to provide, for use as an optional ingredient in bread or rolls, of nonfat dry milk solids that had been treated with calcium and magnesium oxides and to which soy flour was added. The mineral salts were said to neutralize any excess acidity of the product and improve its baking qualities. Testimony was incomplete relative to the type of nonfat dry milk solids used in preparing this combination, its acidity, and whether the properties of the finished mixture depended upon neutralization of the acidity of the nonfat dry milk solids. The evidence did not show that such modified nonfat dry milk solids had any better baking qualities by reason of the addition of calcium and magnesium oxide and soy flour. Calcium and magnesium oxides serve no useful purpose in bread or rolls. The use of soy flour as an ingredient of bread is described in other findings. (R. 14364-14366, 14386, 14393-14394, 14399, 14414, 14428-14429, 14463-14464, 14479, 14495-14496, 14516-14517, 14532-14536, 14543-14544, 14547, 14549-14551, 14563-14564)

11. During and shortly after the Second World War, nonfat dry milk solids were in short supply in the baking industry, and manufacturers of dairy products developed a dried cheese whey as a substitute for nonfat dry milk solids in bread and rolls. Dried cheese whey contains more lactose and less protein than nonfat dry milk solids. When prepared from proper raw materials cheese whey is suitable for human food. Although the properties imparted to bread by cheese whey are not identical with those imparted by nonfat dry milk solids, cheese whey performs certain desirable functions in bread. However, when cheese whey is used in place of nonfat dry milk solids the loaf volume of bread is decreased. In order to make the action of dried cheese whey simulate that of nonfat dry milk solids on the mixing time and loaf volume of bread, some manufacturers experimented with cheese whey containing calcium sulfate, and obtained a loaf volume comparable to that obtained with similar quantities of nonfat dry milk solids. In some of their experiments the cheese whey was first treated with sulfuric acid which was later neutralized by the addition of lime, thus forming calcium sulfate. Whether the use of this process actually changed some constituents of the whey or whether the added calcium sulfate increased the size of the loaves of bread in which this type of whey was used is not clear. The evidence does not show that the use in bread and rolls of cheese whey so processed would promote honesty and fair dealing in the interest of consumers. (R. 4844-4855, 4876-4881, 4895, 4915, 4918, 4922-4937, 4958, 4966, 5025-5026, 5034-5035, 5055-5056, 5062-5067)

12. Another ingredient of milk (usually prepared from whey but sometimes from skim milk) proposed for use in bread and rolls is a mixture of proteins consisting largely of albumin. The nutritive properties of these mixed proteins are very similar to those of casein, which supplies most of the protein in nonfat dry milk solids. Although formerly the cost of separating albumin from whey has been such that it has not been used to any substantial extent as a separate ingredient in foods, such albumin is a valuable food ingredient and serves somewhat the same purpose in bread as the proteins of nonfat dry milk solids. Albumin in amounts likely to be used would cause no noticeable change in the physical characteristics of the bread or rolls. There were indications from the testimony of proponents of the recognition of albumin as an optional ingredient of bread that its use would be accompanied by exaggerated representations, through labeling or advertising, that bread containing albumin had special nutritive properties. Although such promotion is not in the consumer interest, prohibition of the use of albumin does not appear warranted. The information required by the regulations prescribing the labeling of foods for special dietary use (21 CFR 125.1 et seq.) will aid in preventing consumer deception. (R.

13. Buttermilk, concentrated buttermilk, dried buttermilk, sweet cream buttermilk, concentrated sweet cream buttermilk, and dried sweet cream buttermilk, singly or in combination, are sometimes used in bread making, for purposes similar to those stated for the dairy ingredients specified in finding 8. (R. 75–76, 128, 1627–1629, 1638–1639)

14. Liquid eggs, frozen eggs, dried eggs, egg yolks, frozen yolks, dried yolks, egg white, frozen egg white, and dried egg white, singly or in combination with each other, are sometimes used in bread making, for the purpose of improving the nutritive value and imparting other desired characteristics. (R. 76, 130; Ex. A)

15. As the quantity of egg solids or egg-yolk solids in the dough is increased, the characteristics imparted to the baked product by such solids become more noticeable. The evidence does not establish the point at which the quantity of such solids results in products of identities different from bread and rolls, although the evidence indicates that such point lies between 2 parts and 5 parts for each 100 parts of flour. (R. 131, 2669–2672)

16. In making bread or rolls certain saccharine products are commonly used to furnish fermentable carbohydrates, to control the color of the crust, and to alter the taste, frequently to the extent of imparting some sweetness to the finished product. These include sugar, invert sugar (in sirup or congealed form), light-colored molasses, light-colored brown sugar, refiners' sirup, dextrose, honey, glucose sirup, corn sirup, dried corn sirup, nondiastatic malt sirup, and nondiastatic dried malt sirup. All these products, used either singly or in combination with each other, are satisfactory for the purpose stated. (R. 76–77, 131, 712, 714–715, 740–741, 781, 785, 788, 795–797, 4598–4600, 4607, 4617; Ex. A)

17. Blackstrap molasses and dark-colored brown sugar, by reason of their color and other properties, are unsuitable for use in bread or rolls. Concentrated water extract of raisins and concentrated water extract of prunes have been proposed as saccharine ingredients in bread or rolls, but are not shown to be suitable for this purpose, especially because of their color and taste. (R. 670–672, 691, 743–744, 754–755, 1759–1761)

18. If carbohydrates are desired only for yeast fermentation, the quantity of saccharine substances added generally does not exceed 3 parts by weight, on a dry basis, for each 100 parts by weight of flour. When the baker wishes to produce some minor change in taste or in the appearance of the crumb or crust, increased quantities are used. Such baked products are considered by consumers as ordinary white bread or rolls unless they are definitely sweet or have acquired other definite characteristics from such ingredients. (R. 327, 359, 791, 1046–1047; Ex. D)

19. It is impracticable to prescribe a maximum limit for saccharine ingredients generally in white bread or rolls because of the wide differences in the respective sweetness and other characteristics of such ingredients and because even where sugar alone is used the evidence is not definite as to the quantity above which an article ceases to be ordinary bread and becomes sweet goods, although 16 parts by weight of sugar to each 100 parts by weight of flour appears to be near the average for sweet goods. (R. 2744, 2947, 2979, 2983, 2990; Ex. D)

20. Inactive dry yeast is occasionally used to impart a flavor, sometimes referred to as a "homemade flavor," to bread and rolls. If added in excess of 2 parts per 100 parts by weight of flour used, inactive dry yeast adversely affects the color of the crumb and crust. Inactive yeast of the Saccharomyces cerevisiae type, which is the type of yeast used for leavening, is suitable for the above purpose in quantities up to 2 parts per 100 parts by weight of flour used. Inactive yeast of the Toruplosis utilis variety was also proposed as an optional ingredient of bread and rolls. This type of inactive dry yeast is used to some extent in the United States as an ingredient of animal feeds and was used in Europe as a dietary supplement for humans during the wartime food shortages. Inactive dry yeast of the Toruplosis utilis variety has not been used in bread or rolls in the United States except experimentally. The evidence does not show that there is any demand on the part of bakers for inactive yeast of this variety or that under the conditions under which it is now produced it is suitable for use as an ingredient of bread and rolls. (R. 4707, 4716–4718, 4722–4725, 4728–4729, 15411–15412, 15423–15425, 15430–15433, 15468)

21. Malt sirup, dried malt sirup, malted barley flour, and malted wheat flour, each of which is diastatically active, are frequently used, singly or in combination with each other, in making bread or rolls. These substances are generally used to compensate for a deficiency of natural enzymes in the flour used, and when used for this purpose alone the quantity is limited to about 0.25 percent of the weight of the flour. In certain kinds of hearth bread, however, quantities of malt sirup or dried malt sirup as high as 4 percent, or even higher, are used to improve the crust characteristics, especially the color of crust. (R. 505–509, 517–519, 522–523, 527–530)

22. The desired action of malt flour and diastatically active malt sirups in bread dough is primarily due to their content of certain enzymes that act upon the starch of the flour during the fermentation of the dough. The action of these enzymes is rather complex and affects the baking qualities of the dough in several ways. Recently it has been found that enzymes having a somewhat similar action on the starch of flour can be obtained from media in which certain molds, particularly Aspergillus oryzae, are grown. Purified preparations containing enzymes from Aspergillus oryzae are suitable for use in bread making. (R. 15031–15036, 15057, 15065–15066, 15072–15073, 15226–15228, 15358–15365; Ex. 40)

23. Consumers normally expect white bread and rolls to be essentially products of wheat flour. At various times in the past, however, when there has been a scarcity of wheat flour, other similar grain products, especially corn flour, have been extensively used to replace part of the flour in making bread and rolls. Potato mash is sometimes used to develop a preliminary yeast growth and is then incorporated in the dough. So-called dusting flour, often consisting in whole or in part of farinaceous products other than wheat flour, has long been in common use to prevent the dough from sticking to the receptacles or to machinery; a considerable proportion of such dusting flour becomes incorporated in the dough. Dextrinized starch is believed by some to have the property of retaining moisture in bread after baking. The advisory standards issued by the Secretary of Agriculture for white bread, beginning with the first such standard in 1923, have all recognized the propriety of such practices to the extent of the replacement of not more than 3 percent of the wheat flour by some "other edible farinaceous substance." (R. 27, 30, 34, 77–78, 111–112, 1762–1764)

24. Products that have been used and are suitable for one or more of the purposes stated in finding 23 are corn flour or finely ground corn meal, potato flour, rice flour, cornstarch, milo starch, potato starch, sweet potato starch, and wheat starch. Sometimes these products are wholly or in part dextrinized. Dextrinized wheat flour is also suitable for such use. In recent years soy flour has also been used in small amounts. At times one or more of such starches or flours are used in preparing pastes in which flavors are developed by the action of certain harmless souring organisms. These pastes are dried and the material used as an ingredient of bread or rolls for the purpose of slightly modifying their flavor. (R. 77–78, 105, 111–115, 132–133, 567–568, 4505, 4508, 4540, 4593–4595, 4736–4738, 4750–4751, 4753, 4764, 4782–4783; Ex. M, O)

25. Use in making white bread or rolls of any one or more of the products specified in finding 24, in a total quantity not greater than 3 parts by weight for each 100 parts by weight of wheat flour used, does not run counter to the normal expectation of present-day consumers. (R. 34, 49, 78, 133; Ex. A)

26. Subsequent to the hearing held in 1942, a great many bakers had experimented with the use of various quantities of soy flour in bread. Their experience shows that up to 3 parts of soy flour to 100 parts flour may be used without a substantial change in the physical characteristics of white bread. Within this limit, many bakers wish soy flour recognized as an optional ingredient, as described in finding 24. When bakers use more than this amount of soy flour they do so primarily because they wish to increase the protein content of the bread. As the soy flour content of bread is increased above 3 parts per 100 parts of flour, the taste and color of the bread are progressively changed. Special breads known as wheat-and-soya breads have been sold containing varying proportions of soy flour. No interest was manifested by the persons desiring to use soy flour in bread in excess of 3 parts per 100 parts of flour in the adoption of a definition and standard of identity for wheat-and-soy bread. (R. 4505–4506, 4539–4540, 4673, 15512–15514)

27. Products referred to as peanut flour and cottonseed flour were proposed for use as optional ingredients in bread and rolls, in quantities up to 3 parts per 100 parts of flour. These products were said to serve the same purposes as the products described in finding 24 and also to contribute substantial nutritive values. Cottonseed flour was not proposed as an ingredient in white bread and rolls. The evidence does not show that these products have been used to any material extent in making bread or rolls or that they are suitable for such use. (R. 538, 548, 613–630, 640, 1772, 3897–3908, 3910, 4572–4574, 4576–4577; Ex. 17)

28. Rolled oats, ground oatmeal, and oat flour were proposed as optional ingredients for inclusion with the products specified in finding 24, on the ground that such oat products are economical and nutritious foods and furnish a distinctive and desirable flavor. The evidence does not establish that any of these products have been used in making white bread or rolls, or their suitability for such use. (R. 1768–1769; Ex. P)

29. The evidence does not establish that the use of the products listed in findings 27 and 28 results in any significant improvement in nutritive properties when the quantities used are not more than 3 parts to each 100 parts of flour; it does indicate that the inclusion of such products in white bread would run counter to the normal expectation of consumers. The evidence furnishes no basis for a determination of what quantities of such products should be used with flour to produce breads of different identities recognizable as such by consumers. (R. 624–627, 633–643, 1769–1772, 3914–3915, 3937–3938, 3942–3945, 4573, 4578)

30. Wheat germ processed in various ways to modify its enzymatic activity and to prevent rancidity has been used as an ingredient in some white bread. The processing may consist of heating it, treating it with potassium bromate, removing part of the wheat germ oil, and possibly of treating it in other ways suggested but not described in the record. Such processed wheat germ was proposed as an optional ingredient for the purpose of imparting flavor and improving some of the physical characteristics of white bread. No proposal was advanced for recognition of the use of unprocessed wheat germ such as that naturally present in small amounts in flour. The testimony regarding benefits from the use of small amounts of processed wheat germ in white bread ($1\frac{1}{2}$ to 2 parts by weight of processed wheat germ per 100 parts by weight of flour) is not convincing. On the other hand, there was evidence establishing that the use of processed wheat germ in white bread has led to labeling and advertising claims, based on its vitamin and mineral content, that might confuse consumers with respect to identity and relative nutritive properties of bread and enriched bread. (R. 116–118, 559–572, 576–577, 579–580, 584–585, 589–591, 593–605, 1765–1767, 3292–3293, 3298, 3367–3368, 15534–15535; Ex. ZZ)

31. Ground dehulled soybeans, with or without heat treatment and with or without removal of oil, but which retain their enzymatic activity, exert a bleaching action upon flour in bread dough. The use of such products in dough permits the production of light-colored bread or rolls from unbleached or slightly bleached flour. Substantial quantities of ground dehulled soybeans have been used for this purpose for many years. For this bleaching effect it is not necessary to use more than 0.5 part by weight of such a product to each 100 parts by weight of flour used. (R. 111–113, 165–166, 539–540, 545, 552–555, 3926–3933)

32. In making bread and rolls it has become a widespread practice among bakers to add to the dough small quantities of certain mineral salts, commonly known by such designations as yeast foods, dough conditioners, and bread improvers. Calcium and ammonium salts are used to stimulate the growth of yeast during fermentation. Other salts, which act as oxidizing agents are used to affect the process of fermentation, although the evidence establishes no satisfactory scientific explanation of the mechanism of their action. The evidence indicates that the addition of so-called dough conditioners tends to lessen the variability in the qualities of the dough resulting from differences in characteristics of the flour used, differences in water supply, and other factors, and thereby to facilitate the handling of the dough in mechanized bakeries. (R. 78–82, 133–135, 838–858, 875–876, 892–900, 904–905, 995–999, 1014, 1034–1035, 1065, 1071–1074, 1080)

33. The calcium salts used for the purpose described in finding 32 are monocalcium phosphate, dicalcium phosphate, calcium sulfate, and calcium lactate. Calcium carbonate has a limited use in a so-called double-strength dough conditioner. Ammonium salts used for this purpose are monobasic and dibasic ammonium phosphates, ammonium sulfate, ammonium chloride, ammonium carbonate, and ammonium lactate. Ammonium carbonate and ammonium lactate, however, are no longer of commercial importance. It is not necessary to use any of these salts or any combination of them in a quantity greater than 0.25 part by weight for each 100 parts by weight of flour used. (R. 78–81, 104, 133–135, 831, 838–840, 870, 883–884, 887–888, 990, 992–993, 4195–4196, 14301–14309)

34. The over-all effect of the use of varying kinds and quantities of oxidizing agents in bread dough is usually judged by the change in the size of the loaf in comparison with similar loaves baked from dough to which no oxidizing agents are added. The use of too large a quantity of an oxidizing agent is likely to cause a decrease in loaf volume.

There was no evidence that potassium bromate, potassium iodate, and calcium peroxide in the amounts commonly used leave residues or cause the formation of oxidation products which might make the bread injurious to health. Due to uncertainty as to the end-products resulting from the action of oxidizing agents on the ingredients of bread and to the fact that they leave small residues (potassium bromate leaves a residue of potassium bromide, and potassium iodate a residue of potassium iodide) which serve no useful purpose in bread, it is desirable that the amounts of such substances used be restricted to a minimum. It is not necessary to use any of these oxidizing agents or any combination of them, including the potassium bromate contained in any bromated flour used, in a quantity greater than 0.0075 part by weight for each 100 parts by weight of flour used.

In 1942 sodium chlorite was proposed as an optional oxidizing agent. It was shown by rather limited experimental use to be suitable for use in bread. Although accorded tentative recognition in the proposed order published in 1943, no evidence was presented to show that it has been used commercially or experimentally since that time or that there is any desire on the part of the baking industry to use this product.

Ammonium persulfate and potassium persulfate have been used to a limited extent as ingredients of so-called dough conditioners in the United States. These salts have at times been added to flour in countries other than the United States, for the purpose of affecting the properties of dough and bread made therefrom. There was evidence indicating that dough prepared from flour containing persulfates has been the cause of the sensitization of some of the persons handling it and that frequent handling of such dough caused allergic manifestations (dermatitis). The evidence does not justify the finding that ammonium persulfate and potassium persulfate are suitable ingredients for use in bread or that their use will promote honesty and fair dealing in the interest of consumers. (R. 78–81, 135–136, 840–841, 895–900, 933–935, 990–994, 13527–13528, 13541–13542, 13661–13663, 13694–13695, 13703, 13975, 14128, 14212, 14252, 16337–16344; Ex. 260–263, 271, 289–290, 292–295)

35. A product described as grain infusion was proposed for use as a yeast food and bread improver. It is a mixture of concentrated corn steepwater (neutralized with calcium carbonate) and dextrinized cornstarch, with added ammonium chloride, salt, and potassium bromate. The concentrated steepwater, a byproduct of the starch industry now generally used for cattle feed, is made by concentrating the liquid obtained by steeping corn in water containing 0.15 percent of sulfur dioxide. The so-called grain infusion as sold to the baker contains approximately 0.002 percent of sulfur dioxide, which is oxidized during fermentation and baking. The evidence does not establish that this so-called grain infusion is suitable for use in bread or that it improves the quality of bread otherwise than through the action of the calcium and ammonium salts and the potassium bromate contained in it. (R. 946–981, 1776, 2146–2175, 4106–4112, 4129–4130, 4134)

36. Amino acids, especially cystine, were proposed as a substitute for the oxidizing agents in bread or rolls. The evidence does not establish the suitability of such acids for this purpose. (R. 1773–1775; Ex. W)

37. Spice is sometimes added to bread or rolls, usually on the surface, but occasionally by incorporation in the dough. Spice oil and spice extracts have been used to a slight extent. Such additions materially affect the flavor of the bread or rolls. Consumers do not ordinarily expect such additions unless announced by appropriate label statement. Such statements which are accurate and informative are "spice added," "with added spice," or such statements in which the common or usual name of the spice is substituted for the word "spice." (R. 84, 1817–1820)

38. Bread is subject to deterioration and spoilage. The most common form of deterioration is staling. Old bread or stale bread is harder than fresh bread, its taste has changed, and it is almost universally regarded as less desirable than fresh bread. The length of time for staleness to develop varies, depending on several factors; but it is the common practice of many bakers to withdraw bread from sale 2 days after baking. Some bakers make a price concession on bread over 1 day old. (R. 435, 1162, 1407–1408, 1438–1440, 2365; Ex. FF, GG)

39. Since the issuance in 1943 of the tentative order proposing definitions and standards of identity for bread, it was discovered that the addition to bread dough of small amounts of certain substances, referred to as surface-active agents or emulsifying agents, causes the bread baked from such dough to be more compressible and to feel softer when squeezed. Soon after this discovery, certain products containing one or more such substances were offered for sale to bakers. (A somewhat similar effect obtained by using mono- and diglycerides is described in findings 5 and 6.) Three classes of compounds were involved. One class includes compounds prepared by reacting sorbitol with a fatty acid. In the reaction the sorbitol loses moisture and the resulting product is a fatty acid ester of sorbitan. Compounds of this class are distributed under the trade name of Spans. Products of a second class are prepared by reacting a sorbitan ester of a fatty acid with ethylene oxide. This reaction makes possible the addition to the sorbitan portion of the molecule of a predetermined number of ethylene-oxide groups. Compounds of this type prepared for use in food products theoretically contain from four to twenty such groups. They are distributed under the trade name of Tweens. A third class of compounds is prepared by reacting ethylene oxide directly with a fatty acid, or by first reacting ethylene oxide with water, forming a glycol, and then reacting this glycol with a fatty acid. There are a great number of compounds possible in each of these three classes, due to the possibility of using different fatty acids and different amounts of the ethylene oxide.

The classes of compounds known as Spans and Tweens were used in the baking industry in a limited way prior to the discovery that some surface-active agents made bread feel softer. Mixtures of Spans or Tweens or both with other substances were sold under trade names and represented for a time as useful to the baking industry as egg substitutes. As bakers became acquainted with the properties of the various special products offered them, a compound of stearic acid and ethylene oxide (or a glycol and stearic acid) containing about 40 percent stearic acid (chemical name polyoxyethylene monostearate; widely used trade names Myrj 45 and Sta-Soft) became the most generally used. It was distributed to the baking industry beginning early in 1947.

During the latter years of the Second World War practically all bakers reduced the proportion of shortening in bread. They began to return to prewar practices after orders of the War Food Administration regulating the use of the various ingredients of bread were rescinded. Shortening at this time was high in price, and there is reason to believe that some bakers were influenced in their decision to use a preparation containing a surface-active agent because of merchandising claims that its use would make possible a reduction in shortening without materially changing the properties of the finished bread.

Representations were made by a number of promoters of the use of polyoxyethylene monostearate that it retarded or prevented the staling of bread. Experience by bakers in the use of polyoxyethylene monostearate showed that 0.5 part to 100 parts of flour in bread dough made measurably softer bread, and that this effect was obtained even if no shortening was used. Experience further showed that breads in which polyoxyethylene monostearate was used remained slightly softer over a period of days than breads of the same composition except that they contained no polyoxyethylene monostearate. Thus bakers using polyoxyethylene monostearate were able to place on the market breads which appealed to the large segment of consumers who choose bread because it feels soft upon squeezing the wrapped loaf. Some bakers using polyoxyethylene monostearate in their bread advertised softness as an index to the freshness of their bread. No bakers, by advertisements or label statements, advised consumers of their use of this chemical to influence the softness of the bread.

Softness and freshness are intimately connected in the minds of purchasers of bread. Undoubtedly a great many purchasers were led to believe by the feeling of softness of breads containing surface-active agents that such bread was not as old as it actually was.

Whether the addition of polyoxyethylene monostearate to bread dough caused the bread to retain the properties of fresh bread, other than softness, for a longer period of time than similar bread without this substance is highly controversial. There was some persuasive testimony that the only significant effect from the addition of polyoxyethylene monostearate was to make the bread softer at the time of baking, without any effect on the rate of hardening or staling thereafter. Findings as to the exact action of this substance in affecting the properties of bread cannot be made with certainty from the evidence. (R. 4290–4291, 4384–4385, 4391, 4394–4404, 4420–4421, 5827–5828, 5835, 5957–5959, 5972–5975, 5977–5979, 5987–5988, 5991–5992, 6258, 6270–6272, 6330, 6362–6363, 6371, 6385, 6392, 7446–7448, 7518–7525, 7600, 7628–7629, 7679–7680, 8930, 9787–9788, 9793–9797, 10293, 10606, 10633, 10651, 10722, 10751, 11165–11193, 11226, 11240–11243, 11599–11601, 11938, 11954–11955, 11973, 12037–12038, 12058, 12083–12084, 12217–12218, 12221–12222, 12784–12785; Ex. 4–6, 57, 58, 96–99, 120, 128, 181–185, 202–206, 226)

40. There was evidence tending to show that some of the polyoxyethlene monostearate prepared for food use contained small amounts of poisonous glycols of low molecular weight, that is, ethylene glycol and diethylene glycol. Due to the type of chemical reaction involved in combining ethylene oxide with water, with fatty acids, or with sorbitan, it is probable that a number of esters of varying molecular weight, including esters of higher and lower molecular weight than planned, are always present. Some polyoxyethylene glycols of quite high molecular weight have been found to cause injury when fed to test animals, and it is possible that small quantities of such substances, as well as esters of quite low molecular weight, are present in some of the polyoxyethylene monostearates sold to bakers. The range in quantity of such deleterious substances that might be present was not shown but the maximum is probably quite small. (R. 7447–7448, 7601–7602, 7628–7629, 7858–7859, 7863–7866, 8363; Ex. 96, 97, 98, 99, 350–354)

41. Experimental feedings to test animals of substances in each of the three classes described indicated that when used in the diet of these animals in amounts several times greater than might be expected in the human diet they had no noticeable effect on the animals. However, when the amounts in the animal diet were increased to 10 percent or more of the dry matter there was some evidence of adverse effects.

The mechanism by which the lower animal body and the human body eliminate these products has been the subject of study in both experimental animals and in human subjects. This scientific work indicates that polyoxyethylene monostearate is largely split into stearic acid and a glycol and that the fatty acid portion is utilized for food. The glycol portion, according to some experimenters, is largely absorbed and later eliminated unchanged in the urine. Other experimenters, however, were never able to trace the fate of all the glycol portion, indicating the possibility of its oxidation in the body or the possibility of its conversion into unrecognized substances. In general, experimental feeding to test animals indicated that only small portions, if any, of compounds of Span and Tween type were utilized for food. These substances appear to be excreted, for the most part, in the feces.

Experiments with polyoxyethylene monostearate and one of the Tweens were made by giving these substances to human subjects, most of whom were in a hospital following operations on the stomach. In the amounts given there was no indication of injury to these patients, and some indication of increased fat absorption. One of these substances of the Tween class has been used to a limited extent by physicians, with no apparent injury, in attempting to promote the absorption of fat in patients suffering from faulty fat absorption. Experimental feeding of a solution containing Spans and Tweens to a group of college students showed no apparent injury, but control over the subjects was such that not much reliance can be placed on the results reported.

Reports were made of the examination of the urine of persons and of animals to detect the possible appearance of oxalic acid when compounds containing the polyoxyethylene group were fed to them. None of these experiments showed an increase in oxalic acid in the urine which could be ascribed definitely to the ingestion of the polyoxyethylene compounds. However, in some test animals fed large quantities of polyoxyethylene monostearate urinary calculi of undetermined composition were found.

There was testimony indicating the possibility that surface-active agents containing the polyoxyethylene group may influence the absorption in the human digestive tract of substances contained in fats, such as cholesterol, and possibly of other ingredients. This possibility, however, appears to be largely conjectural. (R. 6380, 6480, 6487–6488, 6492–6494, 6496–6497, 6499–6500, 6504–6508, 6516–6522, 6525–6526, 6532, 6540–6546, 6549–6554, 6691–6692, 6910–6911, 6941, 7078, 7296–7300, 7304–7305, 7318–7319, 7383–7384, 7400–7403, 7732, 7751, 7754, 7763, 7796, 7823, 7827, 7955, 7999, 8002–8004, 8140–8142, 8169, 8196, 8303–8304, 8973, 9503, 9508–9511, 9525, 9528–9531, 9537, 9542, 9550, 9567, 9570, 9583, 9586, 10832, 11646, 11781, 11800–11802, 11804, 15630, 15644, 15682, 15716, 15718, 15752, 16115, 16136; Ex. 20, 59, 60–62, 76, 78, 78A, 84–90, 93, 94, 106, 113, 114, 132, 152, 153, 155–161, 163–167, 173, 174, 176, 177, 201, 211, 213, 343–347, 347A, 357, 358)

42. Although the use of surface-active agents in bread may enable consumers to keep such bread longer before it becomes unpalatable, it is doubtful that any substantial number of consumers have benefited by the use in bread of the substances described in finding 39. Deception of some consumers as to the age of bread purchased has resulted from the use in it of polyoxyethylene monostearate. A slight lowering is indicated in the nutritive value of the bread in which compounds containing the polyoxyethylene group are used. The consequences of the use of chemicals having any significant potentiality for harm in any food consumed as extensively and continuously as bread are of great importance to public health. Although there has been no definite evidence of injury from the use of Spans, Tweens, or polyoxyethylene monostearate in amounts in which they are likely to occur in the diet from their use in bread, the investigational work does not definitely establish their safety, and the record does not permit a conclusion that bread containing them is safe for continuous use over the human life span. Apart from their possible toxicity, the record as a whole will not support a finding that it would promote honesty and fair dealing in the interest of consumers to recognize sorbitan esters of fatty acids, polyoxyethylene sorbitan esters of fatty acids, and polyoxyethylene esters of fatty acids as optional ingredients in breads, rolls, and buns. (R. 6492–6494, 6497–6500, 6506–6508, 6522, 6525–6526, 6540, 6542, 6544, 6549–6554, 6716–6720, 6910, 7296–7300, 7304–7305, 7732, 7754, 7768, 7955, 7999, 9379–9380, 9508–9511, 9528–9531, 9537, 9542, 9550, 9567, 9586, 9797, 10832, 11600, 11646, 12218, 12784–12785, 15630, 15644, 15682, 15716, 15718, 16136; Ex. 59–62, 76, 78, 84, 86, 90, 147, 152, 153, 155–158, 160, 161, 163–165, 167, 173, 177, 181–185, 201, 343–346, 357, 358)

43. In addition to staling, bread is subject to spoilage from the growth of mold. If the surface of bread is moist it is a good medium for the growth of mold spores. The temperature of baking effectively destroys any mold spores in the dough, but such spores may be present in the bakery, and bread not suitably protected during and after cooling may become contaminated with such spores. When bread is sliced and wrapped, as is the common practice among large bakeries, the moisture remaining in the bread is held inside the wrapper, keeping the surface of bread moist and so creating a favorable environment for the growth of mold spores which may have accumulated on the surface of the loaf or of the slices prior to wrapping. Unwrapped bread from which moisture can evaporate readily is less likely to become moldy. Mold development on bread is most rapid in warm weather, especially when the humidity is high. (R. 1124–1137, 1140, 1143; 1270, 1481, 1500; Ex. AA)

44. The time necessary for the development of visible mold varies greatly, depending on a number of conditions. Under conditions most favorable to mold growth, a visible speck of mold may develop within 1 or 2 days after exposure of the bread to the spores. Under normal summer conditions, however, several days will elapse between the time of contamination and the appearance of a mold spot sufficiently large to be noticed. (R. 1143, 1409, 1413, 1473, 1490–1491)

45. A considerable number of bakers take no steps to protect their bread from mold other than controls within the bakery which tend to prevent contamination of the bread with mold spores. A few bakers have installed special precautionary devices for this purpose that are elaborate and beyond the means of bakers generally. Methods available to most bakers do not wholly prevent contamination, and where this occurs in sufficient degree and conditions are favorable to mold growth losses of bread may follow. Many bakeries, and probably a majority of wholesale bakeries, have adopted the practice of adding to the dough, at least during summer months, some substance that will retard the growth of mold on the bread. Proposals were made to recognize as optional ingredients for this purpose sodium and calcium propionates and sodium diacetate. (R. 1138–1139, 1151, 1154, 1476–1479, 1673, 1674, 3879–3880, 3986, 4046–4047; Ex. X, QQ)

46. In addition to spoilage from mold, decomposition and spoilage in bread are caused on rare occasions by the growth inside the loaf of a type of bacterium which, in spore form, can survive the temperature of baking. This bacterium, Bacillus mesentericus, causes spoilage which in advanced stages is characterized by an unpleasant odor and a pasty consistency of the center of the loaf. This pasty material will pull out into fine threads, and such bread is said to be "ropy." B. mesentericus is known as the rope-forming organism. (R. 1163–1164, 1166, 1231, 1425, 2658, 2993–2994, 3001, 3820–3822, 4045)

47. Technical experts in the baking industry are not entirely in agreement as to how the rope organism enters bread dough, but they generally agree that the most probable means is through use in preparing the dough of raw materials contaminated with numerous spores of the organism. There is some possibility that spores may be air-borne and enter the dough from the air circulating in the bakery. In order for spoilage from rope organisms to develop in bread there must be a combination of circumstances where a considerable number of spores enter the dough and where the bread is held for some time after baking at a high temperature under conditions whereby the moisture in the bread is retained. Where such a combination of circumstances is present, large losses may occur from such spoilage. (R. 1165–1167, 1169, 1353–1354, 1495, 2190, 3813, 3819, 3824; Ex. HH, II)

48. A considerable number of bakers take no steps for the protection of bread from rope other than to use ingredients sufficiently low in spore content. The ordinary baker, however, has no means of quickly testing ingredients to determine if they are contaminated with rope-forming organisms and must rely upon suppliers to furnish ingredients that are safe to use. Much progress has been made by suppliers in safeguarding their products. Many bakers, however, probably including a majority of wholesale bakers, at some time during the year add some type of ingredient to dough as additional assurance against rope development. (R. 1174, 1294–1298, 1502, 3826, 3832, 3870–3871, 4042, 4044; Ex. HH, WWWW)

49. It was found several years ago that materials that render the dough slightly more acid than normal are effective in preventing the development of the rope organism. The acidity of the finished bread need not be greater than pH 5.0. The necessary increase in acidity is frequently effected by adding about a pint of 100-grain vinegar for each 100 pounds of flour used in the dough. Another product used by bakers for increasing acidity is monocalcium phosphate, which is the acidifying ingredient in phosphated flour. About ½ pound or less of monocalcium phosphate for each 100 pounds of flour usually increases acidity sufficiently for this purpose, or phosphated flour may be used. Other acids that are said not to interfere with yeast growth have also been tried to a limited extent. Lactic acid, in a quantity sufficient to reduce the pH of the bread to not less than 4.5, has recently been found to be a suitable acidifying ingredient of the dough for the purpose of preventing or retarding the growth of certain spore-forming organisms, the spores of which are not destroyed in the baking process. Sodium and calcium propionates have been found to be effective in retarding the growth of rope organism without a significant change in acidity. Sodium diacetate, which liberates acetic acid in the dough, has been used in lieu of vinegar and monocalcium phosphate against the possibility of spoilage due to rope. (R. 137, 1040, 1170, 1174, 1183–1134, 1644, 1674–1679, 3918, 3968–3969, 3976–3977, 4771–4773; Ex. JJ, KK)

50. The quantity of calcium propionate or sodium propionate or both used in white bread for the purposes indicated in findings 45 and 49 need not exceed 0.32 part by weight for each 100 parts by weight of flour used. The quantity of sodium diacetate used for such purposes need not exceed 0.4 part by weight. The quantity of any vinegar used for the purposes indicated in finding 49 need not exceed 1 pint of any vinegar of 100-grain strength for each 100 pounds of flour used, or corresponding amounts of vinegar of less strength to furnish an equivalent amount of acetic acid. The quantity of monocalcium phosphate used for the purposes indicated in finding 49 exceeds the amount used as a yeast food (for which purpose the maximum amount used is 0.25 part for each 100 parts by weight of flour used) but does not exceed 0.75 part for each 100 parts by weight of flour. (R. 1322–1323, 1413, 1486, 1649, 1680, 1687, 3964, 3969, 3976, 3977; Ex. X)

51. The evidence shows that a substantial proportion of bakers do not consider that they have a mold or rope problem and that they use none of the substances referred to in finding 49. Most bakers consider that they do have a mold or rope problem during the months of relatively high temperature, particularly when the humidity is high, and these bakers use such substances during those months. Some bakers consider that they have a mold and rope problem throughout the entire year and use such substances continuously. The evidence points to the possibility that the use of such substances may result in practices contrary to consumer interest, but does not establish that such practices exist or are likely to develop to any material extent. (R. 1412, 1428–1429, 1453–1459, 1478–1479, 1495, 1697, 2187–2191, 3003–3005, 3879, 3880, 3986, 4046–4047; Ex. QQ)

52. All the substances used as set forth in findings 49 and 50 act as preservatives in bread and rolls in that they delay spoilage by certain micro-organisms. All such substances, except vinegar are chemicals within the usual meaning of the term. (R. 2046–2048, 2050)

53. The foods commonly and usually known as milk bread and milk rolls or milk buns differ from bread and rolls primarily in that they contain a certain minimum of milk solids. Findings 2 to 7 and 14 to 53, inclusive, are applicable to milk bread and milk rolls. (R. 35, 1830, 1831, 2415, 2527, 2586; Ex. A)

54. Milk bread is prepared in the home, and to a considerable extent in commercial bakeries, by using milk as the sole ingredient for moistening the flour and other ingredients to make the dough. However, many bakers use, instead of milk, various milk products (with or without water), containing essentially the same quantity of milk solids as would be supplied by milk when it is used as the sole wetting agent. Milk products used for this purpose, and which are suitable for such use, are concentrated milk, evaporated milk, sweetened condensed milk, dried milk, and reconstituted milk (see finding 56). (R. 1836–1837, 2527–2528; Ex. A, III)

55. The solids of milk may be divided into two well-recognized components, milk fat and nonfat milk solids. The relative proportion of fat and nonfat milk solids varies somewhat, but in milk of average composition as delivered to consumers the quantity of nonfat milk solids is not more than 2.3 times the quantity of milk fat. In milks of greater richness than average milk the fat content may rise to a point where the nonfat milk solids is about 1.2 times the milk fat. (R. 1838, 2371–2383, 2529; Ex. 4, AAA, LLL)

56. The ingredients used to supply milk-constituent solids in the reconstitution of milk for making milk bread are skim milk, concentrated skim milk, evaporated skim milk, sweetened condensed skim milk, sweetened condensed partly skimmed milk, and nonfat dry milk solids or any two or more of these, combined with butter or cream or both. Unless a maximum limit is set on the proportion of nonfat dry milk solids to milk fat in reconstituting milk, abuses can easily arise through the use of decreasing quantities of milk fat and increasing quantities of the less expensive nonfat milk solids. It is reasonable to require that when reconstituted milk is used the proportion of nonfat milk solids to milk fat fall within the range set forth in finding 55. (R. 444–447, 1830, 1833, 1836, 1838, 1846, 2507, 2509; Ex. 2, III)

57. The quantity of water necessary to make flour into dough varies somewhat, but it is generally about 60 pounds to each 100 pounds of flour, and in practically no case is less than 58 pounds to 100 pounds of flour. In milk of average composition, 58 pounds of moisture is associated with 8.23 pounds of milk solids. A reasonable minimum requirement for milk solids in milk bread made with dairy ingredients other than fluid milk is 8.2 pounds to each 100 pounds of flour. Because of variation in the total solids content of fluid milk and because of differences in the quantity of moisture absorbed in making the dough, it would not be reasonable to prescribe a minimum based on the average composition of milk for the milk solids content of milk bread when fluid milk is used as the sole moistening ingredient. (R. 452–454, 1840, 2445–2446, 2565, 2566, 2607)

58. Milk bread is generally considered by consumers to be made from milk and not from buttermilk. Buttermilk and its products, such as those listed in finding 13, are not appropriate ingredients of milk bread. (R. 443, 1840–1842, 2419)

59. In the announcement of the hearing definitions and standards of identity were proposed for:

Cream bread and cream rolls or cream buns.

Butter bread and butter rolls or butter buns.

Egg bread and egg rolls or egg buns.

Butter and egg bread and butter and egg rolls or butter and egg buns.

Honey bread and honey rolls or honey buns.

Milk and honey bread and milk and honey rolls or milk and honey buns.

In each instance the American Bakers Association proposed other definitions and standards differing from the proposals for hearing chiefly in that they would require substantially lesser amounts of the ingredients indicated by the names of the various kinds of bread and rolls or buns. (R. Ex. 1. Also see page references under finding 60)

60. The quantities of the characterizing ingredients specified in the published proposal and the quantities recommended by the American Bakers Association are shown in the following tabulation ("parts" signify parts by weight for each 100 parts by weight of flour used in preparing dough):

	Published proposals	Proposals by American Bakers Association
Cream bread, Cream rolls, Cream buns, Butter bread, Butter rolls, Butter buns	12 parts of milk fat from cream or combination of milk and nonfat milk solids in certain specified proportions.	4 parts of milk fat.
	12 parts of milk fat from butter.	Do.
Egg bread, Egg rolls, Egg buns	5 parts of egg solids.	2 parts of egg solids.
Butter and egg bread, Butter and egg rolls, Butter and egg buns	12 parts of milk fat from butter, 5 parts egg solids.	4 parts of milk fat, 2 parts of egg solids.
Honey bread, Honey rolls, Honey buns	16 parts of honey solids.	4 parts of honey solids.[1]
Milk and honey bread, Milk and honey rolls, Milk and honey buns	Milk content same as for milk bread, 16 parts honey solids.	Milk content same as for milk bread, 4 parts of honey solids.

[1] Three parts of honey solids was recommended by a witness introduced by the American Bakers Association. (R. 2868, 2870)

(R. 1849–1854, 2423–2425, 2427–2428, 2476–2479, 2552–2555, 2568, 2623–2625, 2633, 2644–2645, 2673, 2703, 2713, 2717, 2739–2746, 2755–2757, 2759–2760, 2795–2796, 2820, 2837–2838, 2846, 2933, 2965, 3046–3047, 3049–3051, 3061, 3068)

61. There have been sold at times under the names of the products listed in finding 60, or under similar names, breads containing little or none of the ingredients for which the breads have been named. This practice has not been widespread. The amount of such bread is small in comparison with the total amount of bread sold, but this practice has tended to mislead the consumer, giving the impression that these ingredients are used in such substantial amounts as to characterize the breads. (R. 1851, 1854, 2339–2340, 2476, 2478, 2497–2498, 2617–2620, 2625, 2627, 2631, 2640, 2740–2742, 2788, 2910–2911, 3044–3046, 3058–3060; Ex. III)

62. The evidence does not establish that products containing these ingredients in the quantities proposed by the American Bakers Association (see finding 60) are distinguishable by the ordinary consumer from the product commonly known as bread or white bread. It is not shown that benefit to consumers would result from the promulgation of definitions and standards of identity for these products as proposed by the American Bakers Association. (R. 2495, 2552–2553, 2555, 2569, 2621–2624, 2632, 2641, 2672, 2742–2743, 2795–2797, 2807, 2820, 3036–3037, 3039, 3046, 3049, 3051)

63. There is not shown to be, nor is there likely to develop, a demand on the part of consumers for bread or rolls containing the quantities of these ingredients in the published proposals that were supported by the Food and Drug Administration (see finding 60). The evidence does not establish that such proposed definitions and standards of identity would be reasonable. (R. 1851, 2427, 2476, 2498, 2553, 2570, 2700, 2713–2715, 2867–2868, 2931–2932, 2965–2966)

64. The foods commonly and usually known as raisin bread and raisin rolls or raisin buns differ from bread and rolls primarily in that raisins are added to the dough before baking. Seedless (or seeded) raisins are suitable for such use. They are usually washed and are often soaked in water before being added to the dough. Except as noted in findings 66 and 67, findings 2 to 52, inclusive (except finding 9), are applicable to raisin bread and raisin rolls. (R. 35–36, 3076–3084, 3086–3091, 3093–3097)

65. The quantity of raisins used in making raisin bread varies somewhat. A minimum requirement for raisins based on the weight of the raisins in the loaf was contained in the advisory standard for raisin bread promulgated some years ago. A more understandable requirement from the standpoint of the baker is a specification of the weight of raisins (before soaking or washing) used with each 100 parts by weight of flour. The requirement of the advisory standard calculated to this basis is about 35 parts of raisins to each 100 parts of flour. In recent years it has become the practice of most bakers to use substantially more raisins, and a minimum requirement of 50 parts of raisins to each 100 parts of flour now conforms more nearly to consumer preference and good bakery practice. (R. 35–36, 3076–3080, 3088–3090, 3093–3097; Ex. 2, III, TTT, UUU, VVV)

66. When making raisin bread some bakers use as a saccharine ingredient a raisin sirup made by concentrating a water extract of raisins (referred to in finding 16). Such an extract is suitable for use in raisin bread, but such raisin extractives as are incorporated in this manner do not take the place of raisins used in making the raisin bread. Raisin bread and raisin rolls are sometimes prepared with an icing or frosting. (R. 3080, 3125)

67. The method of determining total solids, described in finding 4, must be modified slightly to be applicable to raisin bread and raisin rolls, in order to insure the proper mixing of raisins in the sample. This can be accomplished by passing the sample twice through a food chopper and then taking a portion for solids determination without attempting to pass the ground sample through a 20-mesh sieve. (R. 3086–3087; Ex. 2)

68. The foods commonly and usually known as whole wheat bread, graham bread, entire wheat bread, and whole wheat rolls, graham rolls, wheat rolls, or whole wheat buns, graham buns, and entire wheat buns differ from white bread and white rolls only in that the dough is made with whole wheat flour or bromated whole wheat flour, and no flour, bromated flour, or phosphated flour is used therein. Findings 2 to 52, inclusive (except finding 9), are applicable to whole wheat bread and whole wheat rolls, except that the maximum limit for propionates (see finding 50) is 0.38 part by weight to each 100 parts by weight of whole wheat flour used. (R. 34–35, 1323, 1413, 3126–3135, 3160–3161; Ex. 2, A)

69. Several different kinds of bread and rolls are prepared which differ from white bread and white rolls only in that the dough is made by using various mixtures of two or more of the wheat ingredients flour (including bromated flour and phosphated flour), whole wheat flour, cracked wheat, and crushed wheat. In order to obtain in finished bread and rolls of these kinds the characteristics of each of the wheat ingredients used, it is necessary that the quantity of each such ingredient be not less than 20 percent by weight of the mixture of wheat ingredients used. Findings 2 to 52, inclusive (except finding 9), are applicable to bread and rolls of these kinds, except that the maximum limit for propionates (see finding 50) is 0.38 part by weight for each 100 parts by weight of the mixture of wheat ingredients. (R. 38, 1323, 1413, 3135–3158, 3160–3161; Ex. 5, 6, 7)

70. Bread and rolls of these kinds are ordinarily labeled with the word "bread" or "rolls," preceded by the name of one of the wheat ingredients (for example, "cracked wheat bread"). Consumers are confused as to the composition of such products by the failure to disclose in the name other wheat ingredients present in characterizing quantities. Names for them which are accurate and informative are the words "bread," "rolls," and "buns," as the case may be, preceded by words which show the wheat ingredients used, in the order of their predominance, if any, by weight in the mixture (for example, "white and whole wheat bread"). (R. 3135–3158; Ex. 5, 6, 7)

71. "Enriched bread" and "enriched rolls" or "enriched buns" are the common and usual names of baked products identical with bread and rolls, respectively, except that they contain added nutrients and are not subject to the limitations indicated in finding 9. The reasons for enriching flour and for regulating such enrichment are applicable to enriched bread and enriched rolls; such reasons are set forth in findings 33 to 41, inclusive, of the order prescribing a definition and standard of identity for enriched flour (6. F. R. 2574), as modified and supplemented by findings 1 to 11, inclusive, of the order amending that definition and standard of identity (8 F. R. 9115). The basis for requiring or permitting the particular enriching ingredients and the particular quantities thereof specified in such findings is also applicable to enriched bread and enriched rolls. Findings 2 to 52, inclusive (except findings 9 and 30), are applicable to enriched bread and enriched rolls. (R. 3241–3255)

72. The quantities of vitamins and minerals in enriched bread and enriched rolls are those which result from the use of enriched flour or enriched bromated flour in lieu of flour, bromated flour, or phosphated flour. These quantities may be contributed by any of the following methods, or by any two or more of them in combination:

1. Enriched flour or enriched bromated flour is used, in whole or in part.

2. The substances used for enriching flour (including wheat germ or partly defatted wheat germ in a quantity not more than 5 parts by weight to each 100 parts of flour, bromated flour, and phosphated flour used) are added in making the dough, under the conditions permitted by 21 CFR 15.10, for the addition of such substances in preparing enriched flour.

3. Ingredients of bread which contain such vitamins or minerals (e. g., yeast, dried skim milk, monocalcium phosphate) are used within the limits, if any, for such use in bread. (R. 3241; Supp. R. 375, 843, 893, 900, 958, 961)

73. It would not be reasonable to subject enriched bread or enriched rolls to any requirement for or limitation on enrichment that cannot be met in ordinary commercial practice by the use of any enriched flour which conforms to the definition and standard of identity prescribed in 21 CFR 15.10. (R. 3320)

74. The flour content of enriched bread and enriched rolls varies from a minimum of about 60 percent to a maximum of about 75 percent, depending upon such factors as the quantity of ingredients other than flour used and the moisture content of the finished products. In baking such products there is some loss of vitamins, mostly through destruction in the crust. Such losses of niacin, riboflavin, and vitamin D are negligible, and in the cases of niacin and riboflavin are compensated by some contribution of these vitamins by yeast and other ingredients commonly used. Except as noted for thiamine, riboflavin, and calcium in findings 75, 76, and 77, minima for the vitamins and minerals in enriched bread and enriched rolls of 60 percent of the minima prescribed for enriched flour, and maxima of 75 percent of the maxima for enriched flour, are, when rounded off to the nearest significant decimal point, reasonable limits when enriched flour is used to make enriched bread and enriched rolls. On this basis each pound of enriched bread or enriched rolls contains not less than 10 milligrams nor more than 15 milligrams of niacin; not less than 8 milligrams nor more than 12.5 milligrams of iron; and when the optional ingredient vitamin D is used, not less than 150 U. S. P. units nor more than 750 U. S. P. units of such vitamin. It would not be reasonable to prescribe minima and maxima for vitamins and minerals, when they are added in making the dough, different from the minima and maxima prescribed when enriched flour is used. An unnecessarily wide spread between minima and maxima would likely lead to competitive increases between manufacturers, accompanied by such advertising claims as would confuse consumers as to their nutritionary needs and the value of enriched bread in supplying those needs. Consumer understanding of the value of enriched bread will be promoted by requiring its composition to be as nearly uniform as practicable as to both quantities and kinds of nutritive factors present. (R. 3241–3252, 3306, 3466–3472, 3474–3488, 3692–3696, 3770–3782, 3786–3800; Supp. R. 287, 362–364, 645, 648, 649, 844–854)

75. In baking enriched bread and enriched rolls losses of thiamine are appreciable. However, if flour enriched to the minimum of 2 milligrams of thiamine per pound is used there is sufficient contribution of thiamine from the yeast and other ingredients customarily added that in common commercial practice the finished products contain not less than 1.1 milligrams of thiamine per pound. If flour enriched to the maximum of 2.5 milligrams per pound is used, the thiamine content of the finished products, after due allowances are made for contributions from such ingredients and for baking losses, will not exceed 1.8 milligrams per pound. (R. 3242–3251, 3466–3472, 3474–3488, 3770–3782; Supp. R. 363–368, 372, 647, 844–854)

76. Yeast and milk or its products used in making enriched bread and rolls may contribute as much as 0.48 milligram of riboflavin per pound of bread or rolls. When these are used with enriched flour containing 1.5 milligrams of riboflavin per pound, the riboflavin content of the enriched bread or enriched rolls may approach 1.6 milligrams per pound. When milk and its products are not used, and the enriched flour contains the minimum 1.2 milligrams of riboflavin per pound, the riboflavin content of the enriched bread or enriched rolls may fall to nearly 0.7 milligram per pound. (Supp. R. 844, 848)

77. Nonfat dry milk solids, so-called bread improvers, rope inhibitors, and other optional ingredients used in making bread and rolls may contribute nearly 300 milligrams of calcium per pound to bread or rolls. When these are used with enriched flour containing 625 milligrams of calcium per pound, the calcium content of the enriched bread or enriched rolls may approach 800 milligrams per pound, particularly if water used in making the dough is high in calcium. When these are not used and the enriched flour contains the minimum of 500 milligrams of calcium per pound the calcium content of the enriched bread or enriched rolls may fall to about 300 milligrams per pound. (Supp. R. 849, 858)

78. The following are reasonable limits for the specified vitamins and minerals in enriched bread and enriched rolls or enriched buns:

	Minimum	Maximum
Required ingredients:
Thiamine	1.10 mg. per lb.	1.8 mg. per lb.
Niacin	10.0 mg. per lb.	15.0 mg. per lb.
Riboflavin	0.7 mg. per lb.	1.6 mg. per lb.
Iron	8.0 mg. per lb.	12.5 mg. per lb.
Optional ingredients:
Calcium	300 mg. per lb.	800 mg. per lb.
Vitamin D	150 U. S. P. units per lb.	750 U. S. P. units per lb.

79. Several proposals were made to require label declarations of certain optional ingredients used in bread. There was testimony indicating that some ingredients of bread are causes of allergic manifestations, and that consumers who are sensitive to such ingredients might be benefited by label declaration of these ingredients. There was conflicting testimony as to the prevalence of food allergies and the extent to which the ingredients of bread are the causative agents. The evidence does not indicate that a significant proportion of consumers are sensitive to any particular optional ingredient whose presence in bread would not be expected without label declaration, or would benefit by label declarations of any or all of the optional ingredients used in bread.

A witness representing the Union of Orthodox Jewish Congregations of America, Inc., recommended that the origin and type of shortening used in bread be stated on the label, so that those persons who wished to observe the Jewish dietary laws might avoid the purchase of bread containing "non-kosher" fat. It was not shown that a significant number of persons observing the Jewish dietary laws would benefit by such a label declaration.

A witness appearing on behalf of the American Home Economics Association recommended that bread be labeled to show all the ingredients used in excess of 1 percent of the weight of the flour, the number of calories in a specified unit of weight, the percentage of protein in the loaf, and the maximum percentage of water in the loaf. Interest in such labeling, except in the case of bread and rolls represented for or purporting to be for special dietary use, is restricted to small groups. Requirements for informative labeling of foods for special dietary uses are contained in regulations adopted under authority of section 403 (j) of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U. S. C. 343 (j)). (R. 5635–5640, 14596–14630, 14685–14687, 14729–14730, 14743, 14744–14748, 14752–14758, 14765, 14768, 14782–14783, 14809–14810, 14812–14813, 14839, 14847–14848, 15545–15548)

Conclusions. Upon consideration of the whole record and the foregoing findings of fact, it is concluded that the adoption of the following definitions and standards of identity for various kinds of breads and rolls or buns will promote honesty and fair dealing in the interest of consumers:

§ 17.1 Bread, white bread, and rolls, white rolls, or buns, white buns; identity; label statement of optional ingredients. (a) Each of the foods bread, white bread, rolls, white rolls, buns, white buns is prepared by baking a kneaded yeast-leavened dough, made by moistening flour with water or with one or more of the optional liquid ingredients specified in this section or with any mixture of water and one or more of such ingredients. The term "flour," unqualified, as used in this section, includes flour, bromated flour, and phosphated flour. The potassium bromate in any bromated flour used and the monocalcium phosphate in any phosphated flour used shall be deemed to be optional ingredients in the bread or rolls. Each of such foods is seasoned with salt, and in its preparation one or more of the optional ingredients prescribed by subparagraphs (1) to (14), inclusive, of this paragraph may be used:

(1) Shortening, which may contain lecithin and which may contain not more than 25 percent by weight of mono- and diglycerides of fat-forming fatty acids.

[Docket No. FDC-34 (a)]

ICE CREAM, FROZEN CUSTARD, SHERBET, WATER ICES, AND RELATED FOODS; DEFINITIONS AND STANDARDS OF IDENTITY

NOTICE OF HEARING

In the matter of definitions and standards of identity for ice cream, frozen custard, sherbet, water ices, and related foods:

Notice is hereby given that the Federal Security Administrator, in accordance with the provisions of the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (secs. 401, 701, 52 Stat. 1046, 1055; 21 U. S. C. 341, 371), will reopen the record in the above matter and hold further hearings commencing at 10:00 o'clock in the morning of November 13, 1950, in Room 5140, Federal Security Building, Independence Avenue and Fourth Street SW., Washington, D. C., for the purpose of taking additional evidence for use in the formulation of definitions and standards of identity for ice cream, frozen custard, sherbet, water ices, and related foods.

Pursuant to notices published in the FEDERAL REGISTER of November 1, 1941, and November 19, 1941 (6 F. R. 5574, 6 F. R. 5888), a hearing was held beginning January 5, 1942, and ending April 21, 1942, on proposals to adopt definitions and standards of identity for ice cream, frozen custard, sherbet, water ices, and related foods. A tentative order was not published because the War Food Administration had issued regulations restricting the use of some of the raw materials used in the preparation of the above-described foods. At the suggestion of the War Food Administration further action relative to the promulgation of definitions and standards of identity for these foods was deferred.

Because of the time that has elapsed since the evidence was received at the hearing which ended April 21, 1942, it is determined that the record in this matter should be reopened to afford interested parties an opportunity to present further evidence. For the purpose of avoiding the introduction of repetitious or unnecessary additional evidence and to assist interested parties, in deciding what evidence they will offer, there are published herewith the proposals from the notice of November 1, 1941 (6 F. R. 5574), and also proposed findings of fact and proposed regulations suggested by the Food and Drug Administration on the basis of the evidence adduced at the hearing which ended April 21, 1942.

At the hearing commencing November 13, 1950, evidence will be limited to that which is material and relevant to the proposals herewith republished from the notice of November 1, 1941, or to the proposed findings of fact and proposed regulations suggested by the Food and Drug Administration. These proposals and suggested findings and regulations are as follows:

PROPOSALS IN NOTICE PUBLISHED NOVEMBER 1, 1941 [1]

It may be seasoned with salt, and may be homogenized. It is frozen while being stirred.

The quantity of the optional dairy ingredient used, and its content of milk fat, are such that the weight of milk fat is not less than 12 percent of the weight of the finished ice cream; except that when one or more of the optional ingredients, other than malted milk, indicated in subparagraphs (3) to (9), inclusive, of this paragraph is used, the weight of milk fat is not less than 12 percent of the remainder obtained by subtracting the weight of such optional ingredients from the weight of the finished ice cream, but in no case is the weight of the milk fat less than 10 percent of the weight of the finished ice cream. The finished ice cream contains not less than 1.6 pounds of total solids to the gallon, and weighs not less than 4.5 pounds to the gallon.

(2) Wherever the name of the food appears on the label so conspicuously as to be easily seen under customary conditions of purchase, such statement shall immediately and conspicuously precede or follow such name, without intervening written, printed, or other graphic matter, except that a word or words indicating the kind of the ice cream may so intervene.

PROPOSED FINDINGS AND REGULATIONS BASED ON EVIDENCE TAKEN AT HEARING OF JANUARY 5, 1942–APRIL 21, 1942, SUGGESTED BY FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION

Findings of fact.[1] 1. Ice cream is the common and usual name of the frozen product made from cream or a mixture of milk and cream (or a combination of dairy products of equivalent composition), sweetened with sugar or other suitable sweetening agent, and containing natural or imitation flavorings or other food ingredients, such as cocoa, fruit, and nuts, to characterize it as a kind of ice cream. It is sometimes seasoned with salt. Gelatin, or other products having similar properties (known in the industry as stabilizers), are usually added. Other ingredients hereinafter noted are sometimes added. (R. 42–46, 82, 231–232, 397, 430, 528–529, 688, 800, 4834)

2. Ice cream is made to some extent in the home. The usual household practice is to prepare it from sweet cream or a mixture of sweet milk and sweet cream. However, a large proportion of commercially produced ice cream is prepared from various dairy products, with or without water, so combined that the composition closely resembles that of cream or a mixture of milk and cream (see finding 3). When prepared for freezing, the sweetened dairy ingredient (with other ingredients used and with or without the addition of flavoring or other characterizing ingredient) is known in the trade as ice cream mix. Certain characterizing ingredients such as fruit may be, and frequently are, added after the mix is frozen. (R. 230–233, 402, 671–672, 699, 1049, 2252, 5236)

3. Milk and cream are composed of certain proportions of water, milk fat, and other constituents commonly referred to as nonfat milk solids or serum solids. The nonfat milk solids include proteins, milk sugar, various minerals, and certain water-soluble vitamins. The dairy products other than milk and cream referred to in finding 2 which are used and are suitable for use in making commercial ice cream contain milk fat or nonfat milk solids or both in varying proportions, and may also contain added sweetening agents. Such dairy products are concentrated milk, evaporated milk, sweetened condensed milk, dried milk, skim milk, concentrated (evaporated or condensed) skim milk, superheated condensed skim milk, sweetened condensed skim milk, dried skim milk, liquid or condensed or dried sweet cream buttermilk (see finding 4), and butter. Combinations of two or more of these products are used. Water is added if necessary. To produce the properties associated by consumers with ice cream the proportions of the various products used in such combinations are so adjusted that the finished ice cream mix contains substantial amounts of both milk fat and nonfat milk solids. In recent years the proportion of nonfat milk solids to milk fat in ice cream has been generally increased, as compared with the proportion naturally present in cream or mixtures of cream and milk previously used as the dairy ingredient. The most important and expensive single constituent of ice cream, however, is milk fat, and ice cream cannot be made without a substantial proportion of this constituent. There is no evidence that any milk or milk product other than cow's milk or cow's milk products is used in making ice cream. (R. 44, 46, 50, 402, 440, 532–533, 564, 696–697, 721–728, 732, 786, 1101, 4422, 5204, 5482–5491)

4. Sweet cream buttermilk, in liquid or condensed or dried form, has substantially the same composition as the corresponding form of skim milk. Careful selection and handling of the product sold as sweet cream buttermilk are necessary to avoid some degree of souring. To be suitable for use in ice cream, the product is made from cream which is churned when it is fresh and sweet. No starter or neutralizer is used, and the resulting buttermilk is promptly used or is promptly evaporated or dried while it is still sweet. Such buttermilk, or the concentrated or dried product mixed with water to a total solids content of 8.5 percent, has a titratable acidity of not more than 0.17 percent, calculated as lactic acid, and a bacterial count (microscopic cluster count) of not more than one million per cubic centimeter. (R. 276–277, 406, 626–628, 660–661, 989–994, 1513–1514, 1517–1519, 1520–1530, 1532–1535, 1539–1546, 1548–1555, 1562–1563, 1570–1585, 1592–1606, 1607–1615, 1620–1622, 3064, 5469–5473, 5512–5527)

5. The tendency in recent years to use increasing amounts of nonfat milk solids in ice cream (see finding 3) has had the effect of improving the texture and, when the fat content is held at the same level, of enhancing the nutritional value of the ice cream. Lactose (milk sugar) constitutes about half or slightly more of the nonfat milk solids. It has a limited solubility in cold water, and when the nonfat milk solids of ice cream are raised to about 12 percent or above, the lactose tends to crystallize while the ice cream is in storage. These crystals impart an undesirable grittiness which is known in the trade as sandiness. In order to incorporate larger amounts of nonfat milk constituents without danger of sandiness, various products derived wholly or in part from milk have been used. One of these is prepared by concentrating in vacuo sweetened skim milk to a point where part of the lactose crystallizes; the crystals are then removed by centrifuging. The resulting product differs from sweetened condensed skim milk only in that it has a lower lactose content. (R. 491–499, 668, 681–684, 906, 1819, 1844)

6. Other products represented as suitable for increasing the nonfat milk solids without danger of sandiness are prepared by the following basic procedure: The casein of skim milk is coagulated by the action of an acid, usually hydrochloric. The coagulated casein is separated from the other solids of the skim milk and is then treated with a solution of soda or other alkali to restore the casein to something like its natural condition. The resulting product is usually dried. It consists mostly of casein or a compound of casein and the alkali used; large parts of the vitamins and minerals of the skim milk from which it is prepared are lost. (R. 686–687, 927–932, 1640–1641, 2200)

7. A product similar to those described in finding 6, which is sold for a similar purpose, is prepared by separating casein from skim milk by the addition of a gum. Usually calcium chloride is also added. The precipitated mass is collected and dried. The final product contains casein, gum, some calcium chloride if this is used, and a part of the soluble constituents of the skim milk. The method of preparing this product also results in a very considerable loss of the vitamins and minerals of the original skim milk. (R. 685–686, 728–729, 916, 1627–1650, 2200)

8. There was considerable testimony about a product sold under the trade name of Sanalac. It was first said to be made by treating skim milk with an alkali to a point where some change occurs in the lactose, the mixture then being neutralized with an acid, concentrated, and dried. Further testimony indicated that this method is not now used but that the skim milk is treated in some other way. The evidence on the composition of this product is contradictory, and the record contains no substantial basis upon which its suitability for use in ice cream can be determined. (R. 729, 1428–1505, 1661–1675, 1677–1694, 2719–2720, 2729–2731, 5462–5464)

9. Ice cream is basically and essentially a milk and cream product. The products described in findings 6 and 7, although derived in part from milk, are so changed that they have lost the characteristics of milk and cream, including a large proportion of the water-soluble vitamins and minerals. Such products contribute to the ice cream in which they are used a certain smoothness of texture ordinarily associated with the milk fat and nonfat milk solids content of ice cream. (R. 729–730, 1631, 2199, 3240, 3825)

10. The sweetening agent most commonly used in ice cream is sugar (sucrose). Other products, however, are used which impart sweetness, and are suitable for such use. These are dextrose or corn sugar, invert sugar in the form of paste or sirup, corn sirup, or dried corn sirup. These may be used singly or in combination with each other and with sugar. Additional products which serve the dual purpose of sweetening the ice cream and imparting to it their own characteristic taste and flavor are specified in finding 19. (R. 44–45, 407–409, 537, 693, 733, 831, 1126, 1705–1715, 1784–1787, 1799–1803, 1814–1820, 1835–1838, 1845–1846, 1853–1859, 1862, 1882–1917, 1918–1937, 1939–1953)

11. Ground spices, ground vanilla beans, infusions of coffee or tea, and a large variety of natural food flavorings, such as extracts of lemon and vanilla, are used as characterizing flavors of ice cream and are suitable for such use. (R. 54–55, 237, 248, 409, 544, 1152, 3032; OPEx. 3)

12. Various artificial food flavorings are also widely used to modify or characterize the flavor of ice cream. They may be added as such or as components of other ingredients. When so used that they do not create a misleading impression as to the presence of a natural ingredient or the amount of a natural ingredient present, artificial food flavorings are suitable ingredients of ice cream. Consumers quite generally prefer natural over artificial flavorings and desire to know when artificial flavorings are present in ice cream. To the extent that information can be conveyed to consumers by labeling on ice cream, label statements of the use of artificial flavorings are in the consumer's interest. Such label statements which are accurate, informative, and reasonable are "artificially flavored," "artificial flavoring added," "with added artificial flavoring," or if the artificial flavoring is not added as such but as a component of some other ingredient, the statement "_____ artificially flavored," the blank being filled in with the name of such other ingredient. (R. 85–86, 416, 426–429, 1248, 1382–1384, 1391–1394, 1401–1402, 1963–1965, 1982, 1997, 2011–2012, 2903, 5095–5099, 5254)

13. The kind of ice cream now produced in greatest quantity is characterized, wholly or substantially, by the flavor of vanilla beans or by the alcoholic extract of such beans. Frequently this flavor is fortified with synthetic vanillin. Vanillin is naturally present in cured vanilla beans but is responsible for only a part of the flavor of such beans and their alcoholic extract. It was proposed that when synthetic vanillin is used in ice cream the label declare its presence simply as vanillin, and that no reference be made to the fact that it is an artificial flavoring. A label declaration in such terms would not reveal to consumers the artificial character of the flavoring, and would tend to be deceptive. R. 54–55, 237, 526, 538–540, 1394, 1935, 4452–4480, 4511–4518, 4525, 4611, 4624–4627, 4655–4658, 4731–4739, 4759, 4769, 4912–4913, 4940–4966, 4968–4973, 4974–4983, 5094–5095; OPEx.3)

14. Chocolate or various kinds of cocoas, or the unpulverized residual material prepared by removing part of the fat from ground cacao beans, or mixtures of any two or more of these substances are used as characterizing ingredients of a kind of ice cream. These cacao ingredients may be added to the ice cream mix as the dry substances or as suspensions in sirup. When added as the dry substances they may cause undue thickening of the mix during pasteurization, which results in difficulties in subsequent steps of manufacture. This may be prevented by the use of a small quantity of disodium phosphate. The quantity necessary and suitable for this purpose is not more than 0.2 percent by weight of the ice cream. (R. 56, 87, 238, 414–415, 546, 648, 692–693, 790–791, 1790, 1807–1808, 3072, 3076, 3102)

15. When fruits are used to characterize ice cream it is customary to use the fresh fruits, when they are available. However, frozen and canned fruits are also extensively used and are suitable for such use. Dried fruits are sometimes used and are likewise suitable. Fruit juices, alone or in combination with fruits, are also suitable for use in ice cream. The fruit juice used may be fresh, canned, frozen, or concentrated. (R. 57, 238–240, 529, 1104, 1167–1168, 1278–1282)

16. To be suitable for use in ice cream, fruits should be mature and properly prepared by removal of pits, seeds, skins, and cores, where such removal is the usual procedure in preparing such fruit for consumption as fresh fruit. In the case of citrus fruit, however, the whole fruit, except seeds, is often used in order to obtain the flavoring value of the peel. Fruits are often sweetened before addition to ice cream, and for some types of ice cream (ripple, variegated, marbleized) the fruit and sugar mixture is thickened with pectin. Sometimes fruits are acidulated before use. Acids suitable for the acidulation of such fruits are citric, tartaric, malic, and lactic acids. (R. 57, 194–196, 415, 469, 543, 788, 1059, 1145, 1276–1284, 1364, 1957, 1966, 1973–1974, 2001, 2006, 2023, 2417, 2422–2425, 2460–2461, 2469–2472, 2490, 2503–2504, 3031, 3083–3084 4265–4266, 4296, 4359–4360, 4393–4397)

17. Substantial quantities of fruit must be added to ice cream to import the definite fruit characteristics expected by consumers in a fruit type of ice cream. However, the evidence is insufficient to establish numerical minima for the content of the various fruits used. (R. 58, 86, 188–192, 252–265, 269–271, 417–421, 1050–1059, 1091, 1097, 1105–1109, 1111–1113, 1128, 1144, 1147, 1152, 1161–1162, 1282–1283, 1284–1286, 1304, 1330, 1365–1366, 1377, 1959–1960, 1973; OPEx. 5; Govt. Exs. 8, 9, 10)

18. Properly prepared nuts are frequently used to characterize ice cream. The nuts used are sometimes roasted or cooked in butter, and are sometimes preserved in a sirup. Substantial quantities of nuts must be added to ice cream to impart the definite characteristics expected by consumers in a nut type of ice cream. However, the record does not contain sufficient evidence to establish numerical minima for the content of the various nuts used. (R. 58–59, 86, 197, 241–242, 254–265, 271, 422–424, 545, 1060–1063, 1110, 1151, 1153, 1231–1232, 1288–1289, 1365, 1961–1963, 1978–1979, 1981, 2005, 2900, 2973–2974, 2994, 5095–5099; Govt. Exs. 8, 9, 10; OPEx. 5)

19. Maple sirup, maple sugar, honey, brown sugar, malt sirup, dried malt extract, and molasses (other than blackstrap) are frequently used to characterize ice cream, in addition to contributing sweetness, and are suitable for such use. (R. 43, 243, 408, 693, 1714, 1730, 1733, 1948–1951)

20. Malted milk is used and is suitable for use as a characterizing ingredient of ice cream. Although malted milk contains substantial quantities of milk solids, its use by ice cream manufacturers is solely as a characterizing ingredient and not as a source of milk fat or nonfat milk solids. (R. 694, 801–802, 936–938, 1653–1657)

21. Candy, cakes, cookies, cooked cereals, and glacéed fruits also are used to characterize ice cream and are suitable for such use. (R. 57, 59, 244–247, 424–425, 4826–4828)

22. Wines and distilled alcoholic beverages, including liqueurs, are used to characterize ice cream and are suitable for such use. (R. 59, 425–426, 1153, 1338–1343)

23. Eggs or egg yolks (liquid, frozen, or dried) are often used in small quantities in ice cream, both in the home and in commercial plants. Their use commercially is mainly to facilitate the whipping or incorporation of air into the ice cream. When eggs or egg yolks are used in sufficient quantity they impart their color and flavor and create a frozen product different from ice cream which is known as frozen custard (see finding 40). The quantity of eggs or egg yolk used in ice cream is such that the egg yolk solids in the finished ice cream is less than 1.4 percent by weight. (R. 65–68, 82, 87, 234, 397, 431–437, 691–692, 741–742, 932–936, 997–998, 4834–4835)

24. The following substances are used as stabilizers in ice cream, to retard the formation of large ice crystals and in some cases to improve the whipping quality of the mix, and are suitable for such use: gelatin, with or without admixture of mono- or diglycerides, or both, of fat-forming fatty acids; algin (sodium alginate); extract of Irish moss; psyllium seed husk; agar-agar; gum acacia; gum karaya; locust bean gum; gum tragacanth. Dextrin is often used as a carrier for such stabilizing substances. The quantity of such substances needed is not more than 0.5 percent by weight of the finished ice cream. Larger quantities are unnecessary and may result in undesirable effects. There is no evidence establishing the use or suitability of egg white or quince seed as stabilizers. (R. 45, 90, 437–439, 549–551, 691, 733–741, 805–806, 824–830, 1860, 2031–2038, 2040–2047, 2067–2073, 2079–2119, 2124–2158, 2190–2192, 2202, 2208–2223, 2248–2259, 2271–2276, 2336–2339, 2374–2382, 2468, 2485–2486, 2515, 2537, 2558, 2691–2717, 2735–2753, 4913)

25. The evidence does not establish that lecithin is used to any substantial extent in ice cream, that it is effective as a stabilizer in ice cream, or that it has any legitimate place in the product. (R. 2564–2614, 2617–2626, 2630–2643, 2656–2658, 2662–2684)

26. Oat flour was proposed for use in ice cream as a stabilizer and antioxident. The evidence does not establish its suitability for use as a stabilizer or that it has been used as such to any substantial extent. The evidence does not establish that there is any need for an antioxident in ice cream. (R. 53, 2761–2771, 2773–2793, 2802–2824, 2832–2873, 3053, 3203, 4888–4899)

27. Ice cream has customarily been made from dairy ingredients that are not sour. From their general knowledge of the composition of ice cream, derived in part from its home preparation, consumers do not expect the milk, cream, or other dairy product used in place of of these, to be sour or to have been prepared from sour materials. Some ice cream manufacturers have added to the dairy ingredients baking soda and other alkalis, such as calcium hydroxide, magnesium hydroxide, and magnesium carbonate, to neutralize the acidity resulting from the souring of milk and cream. An ice cream mix which is prepared with sour dairy ingredients is likely to cause difficulty such as thickening and curdling during pasteurization, homogenization, or freezing, unless the acidity of the mix has been neutralized by an alkali. It was proposed that the alkalis sodium bicarbonate, magnesium oxide, magnesium carbonate, calcium oxide, calcium hydroxide, and calcium sucrate be recognized as optional ingredients of ice cream. It was claimed that the use of such alkalis is necessary to permit the use of milk and cream that have developed acidity while being held for use or during shipment from distant points; that neutralization would not result in abuses since consumers would refuse ice cream having the objectionable flavor accompanying souring; and that in any event the practice could be controlled by setting a limit on the amount of acidity that could be so neutralized. Some manufacturers use neutralizing agents to reduce the slight acidity naturally present in ice cream mix even where no souring has occurred, sometimes with the idea of manipulating the flavoring or whipping quality and sometimes upon the theories, which have not been established, that reduced acidity permits the use of larger quantities of nonfat milk solids without danger of sandiness and improves the viscosity of certain mixes. Recognition of such alkaline substances as optional ingredients of ice cream would encourage the use of sour milk products which are not normal or acceptable ingredients of ice cream, would hinder the work of agencies which long and successfully have been attempting to improve the sanitary quality of dairy products used in ice cream, and may result in the concealment of the presence of such unfit milk products. (R. 51–52, 404, 525, 571, 624, 701, 704, 792, 809–811, 945–954, 975, 978, 1010, 1179, 1245, 1260, 1790, 1807–1808, 1867–1870, 2164, 2264, 2279–2286, 2308–2323, 2487, 2522, 2882–2897, 2965–2968, 3004–3006, 3012–3018, 3022, 3054–3058, 3071, 3189–3192, 3297–3300, 3317, 3371, 3374, 3570, 3637–3640, 4016, 4495–4497, 4504, 4847, 4912, 5136–5140, 5181, 5239–5242, 5280, 5302–5303, 5336–5339, 5417–5462, 5492, 5501–5505; Govt. Exs. 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 37)

28. Occasionally batches of ice cream have the appearance of being "wet" or not fully frozen. Sometimes there is a partial separation of the casein in curd-like particles. Sometimes there is difficulty in cooling the mix after pasteurization and homogenization, due to its becoming too thick to flow freely; this is often caused by the clumping together of particles of fat. Occasionally, different batches of ice cream prepared by the same formula show differences in apparent smoothness and richness. These difficulties often arise from the improper adjustment of certain mechanical equipment used in preparing the mix or freezing the ice cream. Most, if not all, of the difficulties will occur if dairy ingredients are used in which souring has progressed to some degree, and in such cases the use of small quantities of the alkalis referred to in finding 27 will correct the trouble, but such use is subject to the objection expressed in that finding. Some persons advance the theory that these difficulties may also arise occasionally when the mechanical equipment is in proper adjustment and the dairy ingredients used are sweet. In such circumstances these persons ascribe the difficulties to a condition of the mineral salts naturally present in milk, which condition they call lack of salt balance. They describe this as an abnormal relationship in the relative proportions of calcium and magnesium ions on the one hand to phosphate and citrate ions on the other. To correct a deficiency in calcium or magnesium ions these persons recommend the use of calcium chloride or calcium lactate, and for a deficiency in phosphate or citrate ions they recommend the use of sodium citrate, disodium phosphate, or sodium metaphosphate. The use of such salts, except disodium phosphate in a mix characterized by cacao ingredients, has been quite limited. When adequate precautions are adopted to eliminate dairy products in which incipient souring has occurred there is no established need for the use of either alkalis or salts. The evidence does not establish that lack of salt balance is the causative factor in the difficulties listed above or that the addition of the mineral salts serves any legitimate purpose except in the case of ice cream characterized by cacao ingredients. (R. 624, 709–711, 748–763, 769–770, 809–822, 846–858, 869–874, 921–926, 960–977, 998–1000, 1790, 1876–1881, 2172, 2289–2296, 2499, 2520–2523, 3113–3150, 3152–3160, 3162–3170, 3205–3233, 5135, 5260–5267, 5332–5336, 5418, 5421, 5432)

29. Several products made by adding alkalis to skim milk, concentrating the mixture and drying it to a powder, are sold under trade names to ice cream manufacturers with representations that by the use of such products the nonfat milk solids can be increased without danger of sandiness. There was testimony concerning a mixture of an alkali-treated dried skim milk and dried egg yolk, largely to the effect that its egg yolk content causes a change in texture and permits a high overrun. Another such product is prepared by adding calcium and magnesium hydroxide and disodium phosphate to skim milk and drying, although theories advanced by witnesses concerning the use of such substances as salt-balancing agents (see finding 28) indicate that the effect from calcium and magnesium is offset by the phosphate. The use of such alkalis neutralizes the natural acidity of the skim milk. Whether or not such neutralized dried skim milk retards the crystallization of lactose in ice cream is not established by the evidence. To the extent that these products may be overneutralized and serve as vehicles for the introduction of alkalis into ice cream, their use is subject to the same objection as the direct addition of such alkalis (see finding 27). When they are not overneutralized their incorporation in any substantial proportion in the ice cream mix dilutes the acidity of the mix and makes possible the use of larger quantities of dairy ingredients in which souring has occurred. The evidence does not establish that such products have a legitimate place in ice cream. (R. 44, 739, 3238–3280, 3557–3570, 3605–3616; Govt. Exs. 20, 24, 37)

30. Carotene (provitamin A) was proposed by a manufacturer of this substance as an optional ingredient of ice cream for the purpose of enhancing its nutritive value. The evidence does not establish that carotene is stable and retains its potency in ice cream. Ice cream is consumed in relatively small quantities, particularly by those groups whose diet is likely to be deficient in vitamin A. It is not shown that, even if carotene retains its potency in ice cream, the quantity of vitamin A it would contribute to such diets would be of any substantial significance. It was also not shown that carotene would otherwise serve a useful purpose in ice cream or that it has been used in ice cream to any substantial extent. To avoid confusing and misleading consumers, the fortification of foods with vitamins should be restricted to a few staple foods which are effective carriers of the particular vitamins that are deficient in the diet of a significant segment of the population who regularly consume these foods. The quantities of carotene suggested for addition to ice cream would be of no substantial nutritional significance and would tend to mislead consumers. (R. 3850–3868, 3871–3897, 4992–5012, 5041–5046; OP Ex. 100)

31. Many kinds of ice cream are colored. When so used that they do not create a misleading impression as to the presence of a natural ingredient or the amount of a natural ingredient present, colorings are suitable ingredients of ice cream. (R. 53–54, 86, 547–548, 614, 776–778, 1021, 1102–1103, 1119–1126, 1143–1144, 1148, 1183, 1344, 1958, 1970, 1975, 1993–1995, 2507, 3025, 4361, 4835, 4845)

32. To obtain uniformity of distribution of the components of ice cream mix and to disperse the fat particles so as to produce a better texture in the finished product, it is customary to heat the ice cream mix to a temperature of about 145° Fahrenheit or above while the mix is being stirred and then to run it through a homogenizer. (R. 43, 530, 745–747)

33. The heating prior to homogenization is normally such that it pasteurizes the mix. Pasteurization eliminates danger of milk-borne diseases and increases the keeping quality of ice cream. Pasteurization is generally recognized as an essential step in the preparation of commercial ice cream, and consumers expect the protection from milk-borne diseases afforded by pasteurization. (R. 397, 534, 745)

34. Each State and the District of Columbia have established through law or regulation minima for the fat content of ice cream. In the case of plain ice cream, that is, ice cream in which the characterizing ingredients are not bulky, the minimum requirements are as follows:

Milk Fat
8 percent (5)	10 percent (23)	12 percent (13)	13 percent (1)	14 percent (7)
District of Columbia. Missouri. Rhode Island. Texas. West Virginia.	Alabama. Arizona. Arkansas. California. Connecticut. Florida. Georgia. Indiana. Kansas. Kentucky. Louisiana. Massachusetts. Mississippi. Montana. New Jersey. New York. North Carolina. Ohio. Pennsylvania. South Carolina. Tennessee. Virginia. Washington.	Colorado. Delaware Illinois Iowa Maryland. Michigan. Minnesota. New Mexico. North Dakota. Oregon. South Dakota. Utah. Wyoming.	Wisconsin.	Idaho. Maine. Nebraska. Nevada. New Hampshire. Oklahoma. Vermont.

(R. Govt. Ex. 4)

35. The characteristic smoothness and texture and the characteristic richness in taste and food values expected in ice cream by consumers are produced primarily by the content of milk fat, nonfat milk solids, and other solids in the mix, by the homogenization of the mix, and by the technique of freezing. Of all these factors, the quantity of milk fat has the greatest influence on such characteristics. A reasonable minimum limit for milk fat in ice cream is 12 percent by weight. (R. 23–25, 27, 46, 50, 83–84, 440–443, 478–479, 564, 678–679, 1022–1025, 1101, 1158–1159, 1236–1244, 1259, 1263, 1834, 1865, 2230–2231, 2240, 2489, 2908–2912, 2981–2982, 3175–3184, 3321–3323, 3349–3350, 3364, 4422, 4433–4447, 4487–4494, 4498–4500, 4836, 4914, 5133, 5482–5491; Govt. Exs. 3, 5, 28–34; OPEx. 224)

36. The characterizing ingredients specified in findings 14, 15, 18, 20, and 21, are bulky, that is, they must be used in relatively large quantities in order to characterize ice cream. When such quantities are added to an ice cream mix, the fat content of the finished ice cream will be lowered in proportion to the quantity of such characterizing ingredients used. This is recognized in practically all State standards. A considerable number of States permit a reduction in fat content proportionate to the quantity of such characterizing ingredients, but provide that in no case shall the reduction be more than 2 percent. Many States provide for a flat reduction of 2 percent. Most State standards limit the reduction to not more than 2 percent below the minimum prescribed for ice cream characterized by non-bulky ingredients. The characterizing ingredients specified in findings 11, 12, and 22 are used in relatively small quantities and do not significantly lower the fat content of the mix. The characterizing and sweetening ingredients specified in finding 19 replace other sweetening agents and do not lower the fat content of the mix. (See page references under findings 11, 12, 14, 15, 18, 19,

37. Although there was no evidence of the use of insufficient nonfat milk solids in ice cream, attention was called to the possibility that abuses in this respect might arise unless a minimum nonfat milk solids content is required. When the fat content is low (8 percent to 10 percent), it is customary to use 10 percent to 12 percent of nonfat milk solids. In high-fat ice cream the content of nonfat milk solids is lower, but even in the case of very high-fat ice cream it does not fall below about 6 percent. A minimum of 6 percent by weight of nonfat milk solids in ice cream is a reasonable limitation. (R. 50, 681, 1717–1722, 1725–1726, 1745, 1753–1756, 1766–1767, 1771–1773, 1804–1805, 1824; OPEx. 15)

38. When ice cream mix is frozen, air is whipped in and the volume of finished ice cream is greater than the volume of the original mix. This increase in volume is known in the trade as "overrun." The amount of overrun depends mainly on the vigor of whipping, the temperature of freezing, and the composition of the mix. A certain amount of overrun is necessary to give ice cream some of its characteristic properties, but ice cream can be excessively inflated and thus cheapened, since it is sold by volume. As the amount of air is increased the weight of a given volume of the ice cream decreases. It is practicable in manufacturing ice cream to control the quantity of overrun with either of the two types of freezers in general use, that is, the batch type and the continuous type. Most of the State standards limit the overrun either by establishing a minimum weight per gallon for the finished ice cream or by other provisions. An overrun of more than approximately 100 percent is excessive. A requirement that the weight of ice cream be not less than 4.5 pounds per gallon, coupled with a minimum limit on solids per gallon (see finding 39), permits an overrun of about 100 percent, is effective in preventing the excessive incorporation of air, and is reasonable. (R. 60–62, 85, 443b–443c, 448–449, 765–768, 771–776, 2229, 4914; Govt. Ex. 4)

39. Excessive water in ice cream mix dilutes its solids content and cheapens the product. A reasonable limitation against excessive dilution is a requirement that the solids content be not less than 1.6 pounds per gallon of finished ice cream. Such a requirement also serves as a desirable adjunct to the method of controlling overrun referred to in finding 38, since it allows higher overrun in the case of higher solids content and restricts overrun in the case of lower solids content (R. 29, 60–61, 448, 525; Govt. Ex. 4)

40. Frozen custard, french ice cream, and french custard ice cream are common and usual names for the food which is identical with ice cream except that it contains eggs or egg yolk in such quantity that the egg yolk solids are not less than 1.4 percent of the weight of the finished food. Findings 1 to 39 on ice cream, except that part of finding 1 on the name "ice cream" and that part of finding 23 limiting the egg yolk solids content of ice cream, are applicable to frozen custard. (See page references under finding 23; also R. 523–524, 569; Govt. Ex. 4)

41. A frozen product which closely resembles ice cream but which usually contains only about 4 or 5 percent of milk fat is sold in several States. Proposals were advanced that a definition and standard of identity be prescribed for this product under the name "ice milk." In comparison with the volume of ice cream, the quantity of ice milk sold is small; its production in 1938 was less than 3.5 percent of that of ice cream. Fourteen States define the product as imitation ice cream, and ten of these prohibit its sale; twelve States define ice milk and prescribe restrictions designed to safeguard against its sale as ice cream. Among such safeguards are: Sale is permitted only in packages conspicuously labeled ice milk; the size of the packages is limited to not more than 1 pint or other relatively small quantity; sale is restricted to establishments which sell no other frozen desserts; establishments selling the product are required to display signs in letters of specified height bearing such inscriptions as "Ice milk sold here." A large proportion of this product is used in certain soda fountain beverages. Consumers do not generally distinguish ice milk from ice cream. It is easily passed off as and for ice cream, and sometimes is so passed off. (R. 22, 68, 75–76, 89, 551, 2508–2511, 2513–2514, 2983–2988, 3000, 3037–3039, 3086–3096, 3325–3338, 3531–3556, 3576–3588, 3700–3704, 3722–3725, 3775–3786, 3791, 3835–3836, 3900–3904, 3908–3923, 3925–3954, 3955–3969, 3970–3993, 4000–4005, 4007–4012, 4020–4044, 4059–4067, 4074–4111, 4139–4140, 5141–5145, 5245–5248, 5252, 5287–5297, 5328, 5341–5350, 5473–5482; Govt. Ex. 15, 26, 27; OP Ex. 98, 99, 101, 102, 105)

42. Sherbet is a frozen food having a number of characteristics that distinguish it from ice cream. The most outstanding characteristics of ice cream, even of the fruit types, are the smoothness, texture, and richness in taste and food values arising from a relatively high content of milk fat and nonfat milk solids (see findings 5 and 35), whereas the principal characteristic of most sherbet arises from its content of fruit or fruit juice. Sherbet contains milk constituent solids, but in quantities much less than does ice cream, and these solids usually serve to impart no more than a slightly milky (not creamy) taste. (R. 21–22, 69–70, 88, 398, 410, 443B, 530, 2504–2508, 4211, 4278–4279, 4834, 4914–4915, 5146–5147, 5249)

43. Other significant differences between ice cream and sherbet are: Sherbet has a tarter taste, due to its fruit content or to added acid or both; it is usually somewhat sweeter than ice cream, lower in total solids, and of somewhat coarser texture. (R. 22, 69–70, 203, 209, 398, 530, 1961, 2524, 4186, 4196, 4212, 4223–4224, 4291–4292, 4834)

44. Small quantities of frozen foods are sold as sherbet which contain no fruit or fruit juice but are characterized by mint, wine, chocolate, vanilla, tea, coffee, spices, ginger ale, or pistachio. Some of these are not acidulated and do not have the characteristic tartness of sherbet. Such products can be made to resemble ice cream, and to the extent that they are so made they tend toward deception of consumers (cf. finding 41). The name "sherbet" so generally implies a frozen food of fruity characteristics that it may be a misnomer for a non-fruity food. However, there is no evidence that when the word "sherbet" is preceded by the name of a nonfruit characterizing ingredient (e. g. "mint sherbet") such designation is misleading, nor is there evidence that such nonfruity products are not legitimate articles if they can be and are so made as not to simulate ice cream. (R. 72, 411–412, 4219, 4238, 4241–4244, 4249, 4257, 4304, 4834, 4914–4915, 5146–5147, 5249)

45. Findings 15, 16, and 17 are applicable to fruit sherbet, except that the record shows no use of dried fruits in sherbet. When fruit is used it is screened or crushed. Screened or crushed tomato and rhubard, which have fruity characteristics (cf. definitions and standards of identity for fruit preserves, 5 F. R. 3557), are sometimes used instead of fruit or fruit juice. (R. 70–71, 270–271, 417–418, 543, 1960, 2517–2518, 3033, 4189–4190, 4219, 4221–4222, 4278–4279, 4289, 4303, 4372)

46. Sherbet is frequently called "milk sherbet," and this designation is used in many State laws defining the product. Some of the essential characteristics of fruit sherbet are imparted by its content of milk fat and nonfat milk solids. The milk constituent solids of fruit sherbet are ordinarily obtained by adding unflavored ice cream mix, with or without the addition of one or more of the dairy products specified in findings 2 and 3 as suitable for use in making ice cream. Sometimes milk is used alone or in combination with other dairy products so specified. All of the dairy ingredients specified in findings 2 to 5, inclusive, as suitable for use in ice cream are also suitable for use in fruit sherbet, but there is no occasion for the use of the ingredient so specified in finding 5 except as a component of ice cream mix, and the use of skim milk in any of its forms as the sole dairy ingredient would tend to mislead consumers. (R. 70, 72, 400, 401–402, 440, 443A, 530, 4186–4187, 4214, 4286)

47. The quantity of milk constituent solids necessary to characterize fruit sherbet is at least 2 percent by weight of the finished product. More than 5 percent of such solids tends to make the product resemble ice cream, as does a quantity of milk fat above 2 percent. Maxima of not more than 5 percent total milk constituent solids and not more than 2 percent milk fat, and minima of not less than 2 percent total milk constituent solids and not less than 1 percent milk fat, are necessary to characterize fruit sherbet and to differentiate it from ice cream and water ice. (R. 440A, 4188, 4215–4217, 4236, 4281–4282, 4371–4372)

48. The sweetening agents which are used and are suitable for use in fruit sherbet are sugar, dextrose, invert sugar (as paste or sirup), corn sirup, and dried corn sirup. (R. 1786–1787, 1820, 1838, 1858, 1917, 1971, 4286)

49. Finding 24 is applicable to fruit sherbet, except that there is evidence indicating the use and suitability of egg white as a stabilizer in fruit sherbet. Pectin is also stuitable for use for this purpose, in a quantity not more than 0.5 percent by weight. (R. 70, 88, 439, 530, 2417, 2420–2421, 2430–2431, 2441, 2459–2460, 2478–2479, 2502, 4218, 4282–4285)

50. Most State laws defining sherbet are designed to prevent its manufacture in simulation of ice cream. One requirement of many such laws is that the acidity of the product be not less than 0.35 percent, calculated as lactic acid. The acidity of sherbet averages about 0.5 to 0.6. A minimum of 0.35 acidity, calculated as lactic acid, is a reasonable limit for fruit sherbet. (R. 22, 71–72, 2903–2904, 4257)

51. To reach the desired acidity harmless acids are usually added. Those generally used and suitable for use are citric, tartaric, lactic, and malic. (R. 202–203, 207, 1978, 2006, 4197, 4223–4224, 4291–4292)

52. Salt and eggs or egg yolks are sometimes present in fruit sherbet as a result of the use of ice cream mix in its preparation (see findings 23 and 46). The quantity of egg yolk solids thus introduced is less than ½ of 1 percent. (R. 70, 430, 4211)

53. Much fruit sherbet is colored. When so used that they do not create a misleading impression as to the quantity of fruit or fruit juice present, colorings are suitable ingredients of fruit sherbet. (R. 70, 1960, 2504–2506, 4200, 4211, 4251)

54. Some frozen foods sold as fruit sherbet contain no fruit or fruit juice but are characterized by natural or artificial fruit flavoring, including extracts or emulsions of citrus oils. These same flavorings are frequently used as "kickers" with some fruit or fruit juice, that is, they enhance the fruity characteristics of the finished product to an intensity that would otherwise be reached only by using more fruit or fruit juice. Such flavorings produce a given flavor intensity at a lesser cost than does fruit or fruit juice. The most important and expensive single constituent of fruit sherbet is fruit or fruit juice. Authorization to use such flavorings in any frozen product having the apparent characteristics of fruit sherbet would tend to deception of consumers. (R. 70–71, 411, 530, 2504–2507, 3031–3035, 4189, 4192–4195, 4246, 4261–4262, 4278–4279, 4289, 4295, 4336–4337, 4372, 4507, 5146–5147)

55. The dairy ingredient of fruit sherbet is pasteurized, and may be homogenized, either before or after addition to the fruit sherbet mix. Pasteurization of the dairy ingredient is generally recognized as an essential step in the preparation of commercial fruit sherbet, and consumers expect the protection from milk-borne diseases afforded by pasteurization (see finding 33). (R. 72, 214, 368, 401)

56. Finding 38 is applicable to fruit sherbet. The normal overrun in fruit sherbet is less than that in ice cream. A requirement that the weight of fruit sherbet be not less than 6 pounds per gallon is effective in preventing the excessive incorporation of air, and is a reasonable limit. (R. 69, 72, 449, 4278, 4290, 4386)

57. The common and usual name of each kind of fruit sherbet is the word "sherbet," preceded by the common or usual name of the fruit from which the fruit ingredient used is obtained.

58. Most of the commercially produced water ices are characterized by their fruity flavor and are of the same composition as the correspondingly flavored commercial fruit sherbets except that no dairy ingredient is used in water ice. Some nonfruity-type water ices are produced, but the record contains insufficient evidence to determine what the composition and characteristics of each of such various products should be. (R. 72–73, 398–399, 4237, 4278, 4363–4365)

59. Findings 45, 48, and 49 are applicable to fruity-type water ice. (R. 72–73, 401)

60. To obtain the desired tartness, the acids specified in finding 51 are frequently used and are suitable for use in fruity-type water ice. (R. 72–73, 212, 1234–1235)

61. Findings 53, 54, and 56 are applicable to fruity-type water ice. (R. 72–73, 89, 1234–1235)

62. The common and usual name of each kind of fruity-type water ice is the word "ice" preceded by the common or usual name of the fruit from which the fruit ingredient used is obtained. (R. 73, 453)

63. There are other frozen foods which differ from ice cream, fruit sherbet, and fruit-type water ice. They are not sold under these names, but usually are referred to collectively as "frozen confections." A proposal was advanced that a definition and standard of identity be prescribed for these articles under the name "frozen confections." The composition and characteristics of these articles are so varied that no blanket requirement sufficiently definitive to be of substantial significance to consumers is practicable. (R. 552, 553, 563, 597–598, 5163)

DEFINITIONS AND STANDARDS OF IDENTITY SUGGESTED BY FOOD AND DRUG ADMINISTRATION, BASED ON EVIDENCE AT 1942 HEARING

§ 20.1 Ice cream; identity; label statement of optional ingredients. (a) Ice cream is the food prepared by freezing, while stirring, a pasteurized mix composed of one or more of the optional dairy ingredients specified in paragraph (b) of this section, sweetened with one or more of the optional saccharine ingredients specified in paragraph (c) of this section. One or more of the optional ingredients indicated under subparagraphs (1) to (9), inclusive, of this paragraph and under paragraph (c) (5) to (10), inclusive, of this section may be used, subject to the conditions hereinafter set forth:

(1) Ground spice, ground vanilla beans, infusion of coffee or tea, any natural food flavoring.

(2) Any artificial food flavoring.

(3) Chocolate or cocoa, which may be added as such or as a suspension in sirup, and which may contain disodium phosphate in such quantity that the finished ice cream contains not more than 0.2 percent thereof by weight. For the purpose of this section the term "cocoa" means one or any combination of two or more of the following: cocoa, breakfast cocoa, low-fat cocoa, the unpulverized residual material prepared by removing part of the fat from ground cacao nibs.

(4) Mature fruit, or the juice of mature fruit. The fruit used may be fresh, frozen, canned, or dried, and may be sweetened, thickened with pectin, and acidulated with citric, tartaric, malic, or lactic acid. The fruit is prepared by the removal of pits, seeds, skins, and cores, where such removal is usual in preparing that kind of fruit for consumption as fresh fruit; except that in the case of citrus fruits the whole fruit, including the peel but excluding the seeds, may be used. The fruit juice used may be fresh, frozen, canned, or concentrated.

(5) Nut meats, which may be roasted, cooked in butter, or preserved in sirup.

(6) Malted milk.

(7) Confectionery. For the purpose of this section the term "confectionery" means candy, cakes, cookies, or glacéed fruits.

(8) Properly prepared and cooked cereal.

(9) Any distilled alcoholic beverage, including liqueurs, or any wine, or both.

One or more of the optional ingredients designated under subparagraphs (10) and (11) of this paragraph may be used:

(10) Liquid eggs, frozen eggs, dried eggs, egg yolks, frozen yolks, dried yolks; but the total weight of egg yolk solids in any such ingredient used singly, or in any combination of two or more such ingredients used, is less than 1.4 percent of the weight of the finished ice cream.

(11) Gelatin (with or without admixture of monoglycerides or diglycerides or both of fat-forming fatty acids), algin, extract of Irish moss, psyllium seed husk, agar-agar, gum acacia, gum karaya, locust bean gum, gum tragacanth; but the total weight of the solids of any such ingredient used singly, or of any combination of two or more such ingredients used, is not more than 0.5 percent of the weight of the finished ice cream. Such ingredients may be added in admixture with dextrin.

Coloring may be added. The mix may be seasoned with salt and may be homogenized. The kind and quantity of optional dairy ingredients used, and the content of milk and nonfat milk solids therein, are such that the weights of milk fat and nonfat milk solids are not less than 12 percent and 6 percent, respectively, of the weight of the finished ice cream; except that when one or more of the optional ingredients indicated in subparagraphs (3) to (8), inclusive, of this paragraph are used the weights of milk fat and nonfat milk solids (exclusive of such fat and solids in any malted milk used) are not less than 12 percent and 6 percent, respectively, of the remainder obtained by subtracting the weight of such optional ingredients from the weight of the finished ice cream; but in no case is the weight of milk fat or nonfat milk solids less than 10 percent and 5 percent, respectively, of the weight of the finished ice cream. The weight of such optional ingredients is their weight exclusive of any sweetening ingredient, water, or any other substance added thereto; and in the case of any ingredient whose proper preparation requires the removal of pits, seeds, skins, cores, peel, shell, or other parts, the weight of such ingredient after it is so prepared; and in the case of concentrated fruit juice the original weight of the juice before it was concentrated; and in the case of dried fruit the weight thereof multiplied by four. The finished ice cream contains not less than 1.6 pounds of total solids to the gallon and weighs not less than 4.5 pounds to the gallon. Any artificial flavoring in any chocolate, cocoa, confectionery, or other ingredient used is an optional ingredient of the finished ice cream.

(b) The optional dairy ingredients referred to in paragraph (a) of this section are cream, butter, milk, concentrated milk, evaporated milk, sweetened condensed milk, dried milk, skim milk, concentrated (evaporated or condensed) skim milk, superheated condensed skim milk, sweetened condensed skim milk, dried skim milk, sweet cream buttermilk, condensed sweet cream buttermilk, dried sweet cream buttermilk, sweetened skim milk which has been concentrated and from which part of the lactose has been removed after crystallization. Water may be added. The sweet cream buttermilk, and the concentrated sweet cream buttermilk or dried sweet cream buttermilk mixed with water to a total solids content of 8.5 percent each, has a titratable acidity of not more than 0.17 percent, calculated as lactic acid, and a bacterial count (microscopic cluster count) of not more than 1,000,000 per cubic centimeter. The term "milk" as used in this section means cow's milk.

(c) The optional saccharine ingredients referred to in paragraph (a) of this section are:

(1) Sugar.
(2) Dextrose.
(3) Invert sugar (paste or sirup).
(4) Corn sirup, dried corn sirup.
(5) Maple sirup, maple sugar.
(6) Honey.
(7) Brown sugar.
(8) Malt sirup.
(9) Dried malt extract.
(10) Molasses (other than blackstrap).

(d) (1) When any artificial flavoring is used, directly or as a component of any other ingredient, the label shall bear the statement "artificially flavored" or "artificial flavoring added" or "with added artificial flavoring," or in lieu thereof, in case the artificial flavoring is a component of another ingredient, "_____ artificially flavored," the blank being filled in with the name of such other ingredient.

(2) Wherever the name of the food appears on the label so conspicuously as to be easily seen under customary conditions of purchase, such statement shall immediately and conspicuously precede or follow such name, without intervening written, printed, or other graphic matter, except that a word or words indicating the kind of the ice cream may so intervene.

§ 20.2 Frozen custard, french ice cream, french custard ice cream; identity; label statement of optional ingredients. Frozen custard, french ice cream, french custard ice cream conforms to the definition and standard of identity, and is subject to the requirements for label statement of optional ingredients, prescribed for ice cream by § 20.1, except that one or more of the optional egg ingredients permitted by § 20.1 (a) (10) are used in such quantity that the total weight of egg yolk solids therein is not less than 1.4 percent of the weight of the finished frozen custard.

§ 20.3 Fruit sherbets; identity. (a) Fruit sherbets are the foods each of which is prepared by freezing, while stirring, a mix composed of one or more of the optional fruit ingredients specified in paragraph (b) of this section and one or more of the pasteurized optional dairy ingredients specified in paragraph (c) of this section, sweetened with one or more of the optional saccharine ingredients sugar, dextrose, invert sugar (paste or sirup), corn sirup, and dried corn sirup, and with or without added water. One or more of the optional ingredients indicated under subparagraphs (1) to (3), inclusive, of this paragraph may be used, subject to the conditions hereinafter set forth:

(1) Liquid eggs, frozen eggs, dried eggs, egg yolks, frozen yolks, dried yolks; but the weight of egg yolk solids therein is less than ½ of 1 percent of the weight of the finished fruit sherbet.

(2) Gelatin (with or without admixture of monoglycerides or diglycerides or both, of fat-forming fatty acids), egg white, algin, extract of Irish moss, psyllium seed husk, agar-agar, gum acacia, gum karaya, locust bean gum, gum tragacanth, pectin; but the total weight of the solids of any such ingredient used singly, or of any combination of two or more such ingredients used, is not more than 0.5 percent of the weight of the finished fruit sherbet. Such ingredients may be added in admixture with dextrin.

(3) Citric acid, tartaric acid, malic acid, lactic acid, or any combination of two or more of these, in such quantity as seasons the finished food.

Coloring may be added. The mix may be seasoned with salt and may be homogenized. The kind and quantity of optional dairy ingredients used, and the content of milk fat and nonfat milk solids therein, are such that the weight of milk fat is not less than 1 percent and not more than 2 percent, and the weight of total milk constituent solids is not less than 2 percent and not more than 5 percent, of the weight of the finished fruit sherbet. The titratable acidity of the finished fruit sherbet, calculated as lactic acid, is not less than 0.35 percent. The finished fruit sherbet weighs not less than 6 pounds to the gallon.

(b) The optional fruit ingredients referred to in paragraph (a) of this section are any mature fruit or the juice of mature fruit. The fruit used may be fresh, frozen, or canned; and the fruit juice used may be fresh, frozen, canned, or concentrated. The fruit is prepared by the removal of pits, seeds, skins, and cores, where such removal is usual in preparing that kind of fruit for consumption as fresh fruit, except that in the case of citrus fruits the whole fruit, including the peel but excluding the seeds, may be used. The fruit is screened, crushed, or otherwise comminuted.

(c) The optional dairy ingredients referred to in paragraph (a) of this section are cream, butter, milk, concentrated milk, evaporated milk, sweetened condensed milk, dried milk, skim milk, concentrated (evaporated or condensed) skim milk, superheated condensed skim milk, sweetened condensed skim milk, dried skim milk, sweet cream buttermilk, condensed sweet cream buttermilk, dried sweet cream buttermilk, sweetened skim milk which has been concentrated and from which part of the lactose has been removed after crystallization. Water may be added. The sweet cream buttermilk, and the concentrated sweet cream buttermilk or dried sweet cream buttermilk mixed with water to a total solids content of 8.5 percent, each has a titratable acidity of not more than 0.17 percent, calculated as lactic acid, and a bacterial count (microscopic cluster count) of not more than 1,000,000 per cubic centimeter. The term "milk" as used in this section means cow's milk.

(d) The name of each such fruit sherbet is "_____ sherbet," the blank being filled in with the common name of the fruit or fruits from which the fruit ingredient used is obtained. When two or more fruit names are filled in, such names are in the order of predominance, if any, by weight of the respective fruit ingredients used.

§ 20.4 Water ices; identity. (a) Water ices are the foods each of which is prepared by freezing, while stirring, a mix composed of one or more of the optional fruit ingredients specified in paragraph (b) of this section, sweetened with one or more of the optional saccharine ingredients: sugar, dextrose, invert sugar (paste or sirup), corn sirup, and dried corn sirup, and with or without added water. One or more of the optional ingredients indicated under subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph may be used, subject to the conditions hereinafter set forth:

Such ingredients may be added in admixture with dextrin.

(2) Citric acid, tartaric acid, malic acid, lactic acid, or any combination of two or more of these, in such quantity as seasons the finished food.

Coloring may be added. The mix may be seasoned with salt and may be homogenized. The titratable acidity of the finished water ice, calculated as lactic acid, is not less than 0.35 percent. The finished water ice weighs not less than 6 pounds to the gallon.

(b) The optional fruit ingredients referred to in paragraph (a) of this section are any mature fruit or the juice of mature fruit. The fruit used may be fresh, frozen, or canned; and the fruit juice used may be fresh, frozen, canned, or concentrated. The fruit is prepared by the removal of pits, seeds, skins, and cores, where such removal is usual in preparing that kind of fruit for consumption as fresh fruit, except that in the case of citrus fruits the whole fruit, including the peel but excluding the seeds, may be used. The fruit is screened, crushed, or otherwise comminuted.

(c) The name of each such water ice is "_____ ice," the blank being filled in with the common name of the fruit or fruits from which the fruit ingredient used is obtained. When two or more fruit names are filled in, such names are in the order of predominance, if any, by weight of the respective fruit ingredients used.

Mr. Edward E. Turkel is designated as presiding officer to conduct the hearing, in the place of the Administrator, with full authority to administer oaths and affirmations and to do all other things appropriate to the conduct of the hearing. The presiding officer is required to certify the supplementary record of the proceedings of this hearing to the Administrator for consideration together with the previous record, prior to issuance of a tentative order based on the entire record.

SUBPART A—GENERAL

§ 5.1 Basis and purpose. (a) The rules following in this part are promulgated pursuant to the provisions of Title III of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which vests authority in the Federal Communications Commission to regulate radio transmissions and to issue licenses for radio stations.

(b) The purpose of this part is to prescribe the manner in which parts of the radio frequency spectrum may be made available for radio experimentation, looking toward the advancement of the science or technique of radio utilization.

§ 5.2 Services available. (a) Experimental services are classified, according to the type of experimentations permitted, into two categories as follows:

(1) Experimental Service (Research) Subpart E.

(2) Experimental Service (Developmental) Subpart F.

§ 5.3 Definition of terms. For the purpose of this part, the following definitions shall be applicable. For other definitions, refer to Part 2, Frequency Allocations and Treaty Matters; General Rules and Regulations.

(a) Authorized frequency. The frequency assigned to a station by the Commission and specified in the instrument of authorization.

(b) Authorized power. The power assigned to a radio station by the Commission and specified in the instrument of authorization. The authorized power does not necessarily correspond to the power used by the Commission for purposes of its Master Frequency Record (MFR) and notification to the Bureau of the International Telecommunications Union.

(c) Experimental service. Any service conducted by a station utilizing Hertzian waves in connection with research, design, the development of equipment, the determination of engineering data or technique pertaining to radio art, or the development of an existing or proposed radio service.

In an engineering sense, the subdivisions may be made according to the method of operation, as, for example, mobile service and fixed service. In a regulatory sense, the subdivisions may be descriptive of particular groups of licensees, as, for example, the groups of persons licensed under this part.

(r) Station authorization. Any construction permit, license, or special temporary authorization issued by the Commission.

§ 5.4 General citizenship restrictions. A station license may not be granted to or held by:

(a) Any alien or the representative of any alien.

(c) Any corporation organized under the laws of any foreign government.

(d) Any corporation of which more than one-fifth of the capital stock is owned of record or voted by: Aliens or their representatives; a foreign government or representative thereof; or any corporation organized under the laws of a foreign country.

(e) Any corporation of which any officer or director is an alien.

(f) Any corporation directly or indirectly controlled by any other corporation of which any officer or more than one-fourth of the directors are aliens, if the Commission finds that the public interest will be served by the refusal or revocation of such license; or

(g) Any corporation directly or indirectly controlled by any other corporation of which more than one-fourth of the capital stock is owned of record or voted by: Aliens or their representative; a foreign government or representative thereof; or any corporation organized under the laws of a foreign country, if the Commission finds that the public interest will be served by the refusal or revocation of such license.

§ 5.5 Transfer and assignment of station authorization. A station authorization, the frequencies authorized to be used by the grantee of such authorization, and the rights therein granted by such authorization shall not be transferred, assigned, or in any manner either voluntarily or involuntarily disposed of, or indirectly by transfer of control of any corporation holding such authorization, to any person, unless the Commission shall, after securing full information decide that said transfer is in the public interest, and shall give its consent in writing. Requests for authority to transfer or assign a station authorization shall be submitted on the forms prescribed by § 5.55.

SUBPART B—APPLICATIONS AND LICENSES

§ 5.51 Station authorization required. No radio transmitter shall be operated in the Experimental Radio Services except under and in accordance with a proper station authorization granted by the Federal Communications Commission.

§ 5.52 Procedure for obtaining a radio station license. (a) The first step toward obtaining a station license is the filing of an application for a construction permit in accordance with these rules. After the construction and installation are completed, an application for station license may be submitted in accordance with § 5.55.

(b) In the case of transmitters which are purchased as complete packaged units and used without modification the application for license may be submitted simultaneously with the application for construction permit, except in those instances when the filing of Form 401a is required under § 5.55.

(c) When the design and construction of the transmitting equipment is an integral part of the experimental program, the application for license may be submitted simultaneously with the application for construction permit, except in those instances when the filing of Form 401a is required under § 5.55.

§ 5.53 Filing of applications. (a) To assure that necessary information is supplied in a consistent manner by all persons, standard forms are prescribed for use in connection with the majority of applications and reports submitted for Commission consideration. Standard numbered forms applicable to these radio services are discussed in § 5.55 and may be obtained from the Washington, D. C., office of the Commission, or from any of its engineering field offices. Concerning matters where no standard form is applicable, the informal application procedure outlined in § 5.55 (k) should be followed.

(b) Any application for radio station authorization and all correspondence relating thereto shall be submitted to the Commission's office at Washington, D. C. An application for commercial radio operator permit or license may be submitted to any of the Commission's engineering field offices, or to the Commission's office at Washington 25, D. C.

(c) Unless otherwise specified, an application shall be filed at least sixty days prior to the date on which it is desired that Commission action thereon be completed.

(d) Each application for station authorization shall be specific and complete with regard to station location, proposed equipment, power, antenna height, and operating frequency; and other information required by the application form and these rules.

(e) Applications involving operation at temporary locations:

(1) When a land station or a fixed station is to remain at a single location for less than six months, the location is considered to be temporary and the procedure outlined in § 5.65 shall apply.

(2) When a land station or fixed station authorized to operate at temporary locations remains at a single location for more than six months, an application for modification of the station authorization to specify the permanent location shall be filed within thirty days after expiration of the six-month period.

(f) Unless otherwise specified in a particular case or for a particular form, each application shall be filed in duplicate.

§ 5.54 Who may sign applications. One copy of each application for an authorization shall be signed under oath or affimation by the applicant if the applicant be an individual, or any one of the partners if an applicant be a partnership, by an officer if the applicant be a corporation, or by a member who is an officer if the applicant be an unincorporated association.

§ 5.55 Forms to be used—(a) Application for construction permit for land stations and fixed stations. A separate application for construction permit shall be submitted on FCC Form 401 for each station to be located at a fixed point. Such application shall be accompanied by FCC Form 401a, in quadruplicate, in all cases when:

(1) The antenna and supporting structures proposed to be erected will exceed an over-all height of 150 feet above ground level; or

(2) The antenna is to be located within 3 miles of a landing area and will exceed an over-all height of one foot above ground for each 100 feet of distance, or fraction thereof, from the nearest boundary of the landing area.

(b) Description of antenna structure. When required to be submitted, by the terms of paragraph (a) of this section, FCC Form 401a shall be submitted in quadruplicate. There shall be attached to each copy of the form a sketch showing the antenna and supporting structure as well as a map showing the location of the antenna, landing areas in the vicinity thereof, and all tall structures that may affect the requirement for marking the antenna or supporting structure.

(c) Application for construction permit for mobile station. Application for construction permit for any number of mobile units to be operated in the same service, including hand-carried or pack-carried units, may be combined into one application and shall be submitted on FCC Form 401.

Application for modification of construction permit for any number of mobile units to be operated in the same service, including hand-carried or pack-carried units, may be combined into one application and shall be submitted on FCC Form 401.

(f) Application for modification of station license. Application for modification of station license shall be submitted on FCC Form 403. A blanket application for modification of a group of station licenses of the same class may be submitted in those cases where the modification requested is the same for all stations covered by the application. The individual stations covered by such application shall be clearly identified therein.

(g) Application for renewal of license. Application for renewal of station license shall be submitted on FCC Form 405. A blanket application may be submitted for renewal of a group of station licenses in the same class. The individual stations covered by such applications shall be clearly identified thereon. Unless otherwise directed by the Commission, each application for renewal of license shall be filed at least 60 days prior to the expiration date of the license to be renewed.

(h) Application for additional time to construct radio station. FCC Form 701 shall be submitted to the Commission in duplicate, whenever it is necessary to request an extension of the time limit specified on a valid construction permit.

(i) Application for consent to assignment of radio station construction permit or license. Application on FCC Form 702 shall be submitted to the Commission when the legal right to construct or to control the use and operation of a station is to be transferred as a result of a voluntary act (contract or other agreement) or an involuntary act (death or legal disability) of the grantee of a permit or station license or by involuntary assignment of the physical property constituting the station under a court decree in bankruptcy proceedings, or other court order, or by operation of law in any other manner. Such application must be accompanied by statements signed by the proposed assignee which supply information required of an original licensee by § 5.57.

(j) Application for consent to transfer of control of corporation holding construction permit or station license. Application for consent to transfer of control shall be submitted to the Commission on FCC Form 703 whenever it is proposed to change the control of a corporate permittee or licensee.

(k) Informal application. (1) An application not submitted on a standard form prescribed by the Commission is considered to be an informal application. Each informal application shall be submitted in duplicate, normally in letter form, and with the original signed under oath or affirmation. Each application shall be clear and complete within itself as to the facts presented and the action desired.

(2) An informal application for authority to operate transmitting equipment will be accepted only under the conditions set forth in § 5.56.

§ 5.56 Procedure for obtaining a special temporary authorization. (a) The Commission may issue a special temporary authorization under this part:

(1) In cases where an urgent need is shown for operation of an authorized station for a limited time only, in a manner other than that specified in the existing authorization, but not in conflict with the Commission's rules.

(b) An application for special temporary authorization may be filed as an informal application in the manner prescribed by § 5.55 (k) and shall contain the following information:

(1) Name, address, and citizenship status of applicant.

(2) Need for special action.

(3) Type of operation to be conducted.

(4) Purpose of operation.

(5) Time and date of proposed operation.

(6) Class of station and nature of service.

(7) Location of station.

(8) Equipment to be used, including name of manufacturer, model and number of units.

(9) Frequency(s) desired.

(10) Plate power input to final radio frequency stage.

(11) Type of emission.

(12) Antenna height.

(c) No request for special temporary authorization will be considered unless full particulars as to the purpose for which the request is made are stated, and unless the request is received in the Commission at least 10 days prior to the date of the proposed operation. A request received within less than 10 days may be accepted upon due showing of sufficient reason for the delay in submitting the request.

§ 5.57 Supplementary statements required—(a) Showing. In addition to the specific information required for each particular class of station operating in the Experimental Radio Services as covered by §§ 5.204 and 5.252 whichever is applicable, each applicant for a station authorization must enclose with his application for construction permit a satisfactory showing in regard to the following:

(1) That the applicant is a person qualified to carry forward the proposed program of experimentation;

(2) That the program of experimentation will be conducted by qualified personnel, and the applicant possesses adequate technical facilities to carry forward the program and has made adequate financial appropriations toward this end;

(3) That the applicant has an organized plan of experimentation leading to (a) specific objective(s);

(4) That the program of experimentation has reasonable promise of contribution to the development, extension, or expansion of the radio art, or is along lines not already investigated;

(5) That the applicant has a program of experimentation that has reached a stage in the laboratory where actual transmission by radio is essential to its further progress;

(6) That the station(s) shall be operated in accordance with the applicable Commission's rules and regulations and only in such a manner and at such times as to preclude harmful interference with established stations or services;

(7) That the applicant will have, through ownership, lease, or other agreement, exclusive control over the transmitting apparatus.

(b) Confirmation clauses. In addition to the showing required by paragraph (a) of this section, a statement shall be filed with and made a part of each application for construction permit for a station in these services confirming the applicant's understanding:

(1) That all operations on the frequencies assigned will be on an experimental basis, and conducted in accordance with the provisions of this part and as specified in the station instrument of authorization;

(2) That the granting of the authority requested shall not be construed as a finding on the part of the Commission:

(i) That the frequencies authorized are the best suited to the particular purpose to be served by the station;

(ii) That the applicant is qualified to operate a station in a service on any basis other than experimental;

(iii) That the applicant will be authorized to operate on any basis other than experimental;

(iv) That the Commission is obligated by the results of the experimental program to make provision in the service-allocation plan for the applicant's type of operation.

(3) That the applicant desires and is willing to conduct and finance the experimental program with full knowledge and understanding of the provisions of this section.

(c) Cancellation provisions. The applicant for a station in these services accepts the license with the express understanding: (1) That the authority to use the frequency or frequencies assigned is granted upon an experimental basis only and does not confer any right to conduct an activity of a continuing nature; and (2) that said grant is subject to change or cancellation by the Commission at any time without hearing if in its discretion the need for such action arises.

§ 5.58 Partial grant. Where the Commission, without a hearing, grants an application in part, or with any privileges, terms or conditions other than those requested, the action of the Commission shall be considered as a grant of such application unless the applicant shall within 20 days from the date of such grant, or from its effective date if a later date is specified, file with the Commission a written request rejecting the grant as made. Upon receipt of such request, the Commission will vacate its original action and set the application for hearing.

§ 5.59 Defective applications. (a) An application which is not in accordance with the Commission's rules or other requirements will be considered defective and will be returned to the applicant.

(b) If an applicant is requested by the Commission to file any documents or information not included in the prescribed application form, a failure to comply with such request will constitute a defect in the application.

(c) Applications which are not in accordance with the Commission's rules, regulations or other requirements will be considered defective unless accompanied by a petition to amend any rule or regulation with which the application is in conflict.

§ 5.60 Amendment or dismissal of applications. Any application may be amended or dismissed without prejudice upon request of the applicant prior to the time the application is granted or designated for hearing. Each amendment to, or request for dismissal of an application shall be signed, authenticated, and submitted in the same manner and with the same number of copies as required for the original application. All subsequent correspondence or other material which the applicant desires to have incorporated as a part of an application already filed shall be submitted in the form of an amendment to the application.

§ 5.61 Construction period. Each radio station construction permit issued by the Commission will specify the date of grant as the earliest date of commencement of construction and installation, and a maximum of eight months thereafter as the time within which construction shall be completed and the station ready for operation, unless otherwise determined by the Commission in any particular case.

§ 5.62 License required for separate experimental projects. A separate station license will be required for each class of station in the experimental radio services. Application for a class of station embracing widely divergent and unrelated experimentations normally will require a separate license for each phase of the experimental program: Provided, however, The Commission may, when circumstances warrant, issue a single license embracing the entire project.

§ 5.63 License period. (a) Licenses for stations in the Experimental Radio Services will be issued normally for a period of one year unless otherwise stated in the instrument of authorization, and each respective class of station license shall expire each year at 3:00 a. m., e. s. t., on the first day of the following months:

(1) Experimental Service (Research) June.

(2) Experimental Service (Developmental) October.

(b) Unless otherwise ordered, when an application for a new station license is granted within three months of the expiration date of the license term of the particular class of station involved, the license shall be issued for the unexpired period of the current license term and for the full succeeding term. If granted more than three months from the normal expiration date, the license will be issued for the unexpired period of the current license term only.

(c) If the Commission approves a modification of a license, a modified license will be issued for the unexpired license period. If such period is 30 days or less, the application will also be treated as an application for renewal and, if approved, a new authorization will be issued to indicate this unexpired period plus the full succeeding term of the license as designated in paragraph (a) of this section.

§ 5.64 Change in equipment. (a) A change may be made in a licensed transmitter without specific authorization from the Commission provided: (1) The change does not result in operation inconsistent with any term of the outstanding authorization for the station involved; and (2) a description of the change is incorporated in the next application for renewal or modification of license.

(b) Prior authorization from the Commission is required before the following antenna changes may be made at a station at a fixed location:

(1) Any change which will either increase or decrease the antenna height; and

(2) Any change in the location of an antenna when such relocation involves a change in the geographic coordinates of latitude or longitude by as much as one second, or when such relocation involves a change in street address.

§ 5.65 Operation at a temporary location. (a) An application for authority to operate at temporary locations shall specify the general geographical area within which the operation will be confined.

(b) When a station is authorized to operate in an area encompassing two or more Radio Districts, the following notification procedure shall be followed:

(1) When the station is placed in operation for the first time, the Engineer in Charge of the Radio District(s) involved shall be notified.

(2) When the station is moved from one Radio District to another, the Engineer in Charge of each of the two Radio Districts involved shall be notified.

§ 5.66 Discontinuance of station operation. In case of permanent discontinuance of operation of a fixed or land station in these services, or in case of permanent discontinuance of operation of all transmitter units listed in the license for a mobile station in these services, the licensee shall forward the station license to the Washington, D. C., office of the Commission for cancellation. A copy of the request for cancellation of the license shall be forwarded to the Commission's Engineer in Charge of the radio district in which the station is located.

§ 5.67 Policy governing the assignment of frequencies. (a) Each frequency or band of frequencies, available for assignment to stations in these services, is available on a shared basis only, and will not be assigned for the exclusive use of any one applicant, and such use may also be restricted to one or more specified geographical areas. Normally not more than one frequency in a band of frequencies will be assigned for the use of a single applicant unless a showing is made demonstrating that need for the assignment of additional frequencies is essential to the proposed program of experimentation. Applicants for authorizations should request use of an available frequency in the band in which it is desired to operate. Upon receipt of such application, the Commission will then assign the frequency or frequencies which will cause least interference in the area of proposed operation. In the event a specific frequency is essential for the program of experimentation, requests for use of that specific frequency must be accompanied by a detailed showing of need for the specific frequency requested and must indicate reasons why another frequency in the general vicinity in the radio frequency spectrum will not adequately meet the required needs.

(b) Frequency assignments will be made only on the condition that harmful interference will not be caused to any station operating in accordance with the Table of Frequency Allocation of Part 2 of the Commission's rules.

(c) The frequencies available for use in these services are set forth in §§ 5.203 and 5.253.

SUBPART C—TECHNICAL STANDARDS

§ 5.101 Frequency stability. (a) The carrier frequency of each authorized transmitter operating in the Experimental Radio Service on frequencies specified by § 5.203 (a) shall be maintained within plus or minus 0.01 percent unless otherwise designated in the station authorization.

(b) The frequencies assigned in accordance with the provisions of §§ 5.203 and 5.253 shall be maintained to within the tolerances set forth in the rules governing the service to which the frequencies are assigned in the Table of Frequency Allocations of Part 2 of the Commission's rules unless otherwise designated in the station authorization.

(c) Less restrictive tolerances than those specified in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section may be authorized for stations in these services provided the applicant presents satisfactory evidence of the need for such tolerances and that the program of research can and will be conducted without causing harmful interference to any other radio service operating in accordance with the Table of Frequency Allocations.

§ 5.102 Types of emission.—(a) Stations in the Experimental Radio Services may be authorized to use any of the classification of emissions covered in Part 2 of the Commission's rules. A request for a specific type of emission not included in paragraph (b) of this section shall be accompanied by a showing of need therefor, which shall include a statement of the band width required for the proposed operations, a full and complete description of the emission specified and the purpose for which such emission is desired.

§ 5.103 Emission limitations. (a) Each authorization issued to a station operating in these services will show, as the prefix to the emission classification, a figure specifying the maximum authorized bandwidth in kilocycles to be occupied by the emission. The specified band shall contain those frequencies upon which a total of 99 percent of the radiated power appears, extended to include any discrete frequency upon which the power is at least 0.25 percent of the total radiated power. Any radiation in excess of the limits specified in paragraph (c) of this section is considered to be an unauthorized emission.

(b) The emission prefix figures referred to in paragraph (a) of this section for the types of emission covered by § 5.102 shall be as designated in the station instrument of authorization.

(c) For the purpose of demonstrating compliance with paragraph (a) of this section, the following limits apply:

(1) Any emission appearing on any frequency removed from the carrier frequency by at least 50 percent, but not more than 100 percent, of the maximum authorized bandwidth shall be attenuated not less than 25 db below the unmodulated carrier.

Maximum authorized plate power input to the final radio frequency stage:	Attenuation (db)
3 watts or less	40
Over 3 watts and including 150 watts	60
Over 150 watts and including 600 watts	70
Over 600 watts	80

(d) When an unauthorized emission results in harmful interference, the Commission may, in its discretion, require appropriate technical changes in equipment to eliminate such interference.

§ 5.104 Modulation requirements. Modulation requirements of stations in the Experimental Radio Services shall not be in excess of that necessary for the conduct of the authorized program of experimentation nor shall the emissions exceed the limitations imposed by § 5.103 of this part, unless specifically authorized by the Commission.

§ 5.105 Power and antenna heights. (a) The effective radiated power and antenna height which may be used by a station in this service shall be no more than the minimum necessary to satisfactorily carry on the authorized program of experimentation. No station shall operate at any time with power in excess of that authorized in the station instrument of authorization. In cases of harmful interference, the Commission may order a change in the effective radiated power or antenna height, or both.

(b) The maximum carrier power requested by an applicant shall not be in excess of the maximum obtainable carrier power output of the transmitter consistent with satisfactory technical operation.

§ 5.106 Transmitter control requirements. (a) Each transmitter shall be so installed and protected that it is not accessible to or capable of operation by persons other than those duly authorized by the licensee.

(b) A control point is an operating position which meets all of the following conditions:

(1) The position must be under the control and supervision of the licensee;

(2) It is a position at which the monitoring facilities required by this section are installed; and

(3) It is a position at which an operator responsible for the operation of the transmitter is stationed.

(c) Each station shall be provided with a control point, the location of which will be specified in the license. It will be assumed that the location of the control point is the same as that of the transmitting equipment unless the application includes a request for a different location. Authority must be obtained from the Commission for the installation of additional control points.

(d) A dispatch point is a position from which messages may be transmitted under the supervision of a control point operator. Dispatch points may be installed without authorization from the Commission.

(e) At each control point the following facilities shall be installed:

(1) A carrier operated device which will provide continuous visual indication when the transmitter is radiating; or, in lieu thereof, a pilot lamp or meter which will provide continuous visual indication when the transmitter control circuits have been placed in a condition to produce radiation: Provided, however, That the provisions of this subparagraph shall not apply to hand-carried or pack-carried transmitters;

(2) Equipment to permit the operator to aurally monitor all transmissions originating at dispatch points under his supervision; and capable of receiving transmissions from co-channel stations to which harmful interference might be caused.

(3) Facilities which will permit the operator either to disconnect the dispatch point circuits from the transmitter or to render the transmitter inoperative from any dispatch point under his supervision; and

(4) Facilities which will permit the operator to turn the transmitter carrier on and off at will.

§ 5.107 Transmitter measurements. (a) The licensee of each station in the Experimental Radio Services shall employ suitable procedures to determine that the frequency deviation, power, and modulation do not exceed the limits prescribed in the station authorization.

(b) The transmitter operating characteristics shall be checked and adjustments made, if necessary, at the beginning of each period of operation and as often thereafter as necessary to maintain the transmitter's operation within the limits specified on the instrument of authorization.

(c) Exceptions to these provisions may be made, provided the applicant makes a satisfactory showing that the nature of the proposed program of experimentation precludes compliance therewith.

§ 5.108 Tests. (a) When construction is completed in exact accordance with the terms of the construction permit, the technical provisions of the application therefor and the applicable rules of the Commission, and after an application for station license has been filed with the Commission, the permittee is authorized to conduct tests in exact accordance with the terms of the construction permit: Provided, That:

(1) The Engineer in Charge of the local Radio District is notified two days in advance of the beginning of tests.

(2) The Commission may cancel, suspend, or change the date of beginning of such tests if and when such action may appear to be in the public interest, convenience and necessity.

(3) Tests will not be authorized after the expiration date of the construction permit.

(4) The authorization for tests embodied in this section shall not be constructed as constituting a license to operate but as a necessary part of construction.

(b) When a construction permit and license or a construction permit and modification of licenses are issued simultaneously for a station, such station may be placed in operation without notification to the Engineer in Charge of the local Radio District, except as required by § 5.65.

SUBPART D—OPERATING REQUIREMENTS

§ 5.151 General limitations on use. (a) The following transmission limitations are applicable to all classes of stations in these services and are in addition to the specific requirements applicable to each respective class of service as covered under Subparts E and F of this part:

(1) Stations may make only such transmissions as are necessary and directly related to the conduct of the licensee's stated program of experimentation as specified in his application for construction permit and license and the related station instrument of authorization, and as governed by the provisions of the rules and regulations contained in this part. All transmissions shall be limited to the minimum practical transmission time.

(2) When transmitting, the licensee must use every precaution to insure that the radio frequency energy emitted will not cause harmful interference to the services carried on by stations operating in accordance with the Table of Frequency Allocations of Part 2 of the Commission's rules and, further, that the power radiated is reduced to the lowest practical value consistent with the program of experimentation for which the station authorization is granted. If harmful interference to an established radio service develops, the licensee shall cease transmissions and such transmissions shall not be resumed until the interference has been eliminated.

(b) Unless expressly permitted in the instrument of authorization, experimental stations shall not be used:

(1) To transmit the program of any other station, except in conjunction with the authorized program of experimentation.

(2) To transmit programs intended for public reception or render any communication service.

§ 5.152 Station identification. Each class of station in these services, shall, unless specifically exempted by the terms of the station authorization, transmit its assigned call sign at the end of each complete transmission: Provided, however, That the transmission of the call sign at the end of each transmission is not required for projects requiring continuous, frequent, or extended use of the transmitting apparatus, if, during such periods and in connection with such use, the call sign is transmitted at least once every fifteen minutes.

§ 5.153 Suspension of transmission required. The radiations of the transmitter shall be suspended immediately upon detection or notification of a deviation from the technical requirements of the station authorization until such deviation is corrected, except for transmissions concerning the immediate safety of life or property, in which case the transmissions shall be suspended as soon as the emergency is terminated.

§ 5.154 Mobile installations in vehicles not under the continuous control of the licensee. A mobile radio station licensed in these services may not be installed or maintained in a vehicle, aircraft, or vessel, which is not at all times controlled exclusively by the licensee, unless precautions have been taken to eliminate effectively the possibility of the licensed transmitter being operated during the period that the vehicle, aircraft, or vessel is not under the control of the licensee.

§ 5.155 Operator requirements. (a) All transmitter adjustments or tests during or coincident with the experimental program authorized, or with the installation, servicing, or maintenance of a radio station, which may affect the proper operation of such station, shall be made by or under the immediate supervision and responsibility of a person holding a first or second class commercial radio operator license, either radiotelephone or radiotelegraph, who shall be responsible for the proper functioning of the station equipment: Provided, however, That only persons holding a first or second class commercial radiotelegraph operator license shall perform such functions at radiotelegraph stations transmitting by any type of the Morse Code.

(b) Except under the circumstances specified in paragraph (a) of this section, only a person holding a commercial radiotelegraph operator license or permit of any class issued by the Commission shall operate a station when transmitting, in a normal[1] manner and in accordance with the experimental program authorized, radiotelegraphy by any type of the Morse Code: Provided, That when such telegraphy is transmitted by automatic means for identification, for testing, or for actuating an automatic selective signalling device, the holder of a radiotelephone operator license may operate the station under the conditions set forth in § 13.62 (b) (1) of the rules governing Commercial Radio Operators.

(c) Except under the circumstances specified in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, and except as limited by paragraphs (g) through (j) of this section, an unlicensed person may operate a mobile station when transmitting, in a normal[1] manner and in accordance with the experimental program authorized, on frequencies above 25 Mc. after being authorized to do so by the station licensee.

(d) Except under the circumstances specified in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, and except as limited by paragraphs (g) through (j) of this section, only a person holding a commercial radio operator license or permit of any class issued by the Commission, shall operate in a mobile station when transmitting, in a normal[1] manner and in accordance with the experimental program authorized, on frequencies below 25 Mc.: Provided, however, That an unlicensed person, after being authorized to do so by the station licensee, may operate such a mobile station when transmitting, in a normal[1] manner and in accordance with the experimental program authorized, on frequencies below 25 Mc. while it is associated with and under the operational control of a land station of the same licensee.

(e) Except under the circumstances specified in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, and except as limited by paragraphs (g) through (j) of this section, land stations and fixed stations shall be operated in accordance with the following when transmitting in a normal[1] manner and in accordance with the experimental program authorized:

(1) From a control point, only by a person holding a commercial radio operator license or permit of any class issued by the Commission.

(2) From a dispatch point, an unlicensed person may operate such stations after being authorized to do so by the station licensee: Provided, however, That such operation shall be under the direct supervision and responsibility of a person who (i) holds a commercial radio operator license or permit of any class issued by the Commission, and who (ii) is on duty at a control point.

(f) Except under the circumstances specified in paragraph (a) of this section, and except as limited by paragraphs (g) through (j) of this section, no person, whether or not a licensed operator, is required to be in attendance at a station when transmitting, in a normal[1] manner and in accordance with the experimental program authorized, on frequencies solely above 50 Mc and when either:

(1) Transmitting for telemetering purposes or

(2) When properly serving as a relay station and for the purpose retransmitting by self-actuating means a radio signal received from another radio station or stations.

(g) The provisions of this section, authorizing certain unlicensed persons to operate certain stations, shall be applicable only to stations in the domestic service except that the provisions of paragraph (e) (2) of this section shall be applicable to stations in either the domestic or international service. For the purpose of this section, a station in the domestic service is one which is located within the United States, its territories or possessions and which, when communicating with other stations, is in communication exclusively with one or more other United States stations which are also located in the United States, its territories or possessions; a station in the international service is one which is not in the domestic service as just defined.

(h) The provisions of this section authorizing certain unlicensed persons to operate mobile stations shall not be construed to change or diminish in any respect the responsibility of station licensees to have and to maintain control over the stations licensed to them (including all transmitter units thereof), or for the proper functioning and operation of those stations (including all transmitter units thereof) in accordance with the terms of the licenses of those stations.

(i) Notwithstanding any other provisions of this section, unless the transmitter is so designed that none of the operations necessary to be performed during the course of transmission, in a normal[1] manner and in accordance with the experimental program authorized, may cause off-frequency operation or result in any unauthorized radiation, such transmitter shall be operated by a person holding a first or second class commercial radio operator license (either radiotelephone or radiotelegraph as may be appropriate for the type of emission being used) issued by the Commission.

(j) Any reference in this section to a commercial radio operator license or permit of any class issued by the Commission shall not be construed to include Aircraft Radiotelephone Operator Authorizations.

§ 5.156 Posting of operator license. (a) The original license of each operator of a station in these services, other than an operator exclusively performing service and maintenance duties, shall be posted or kept immediately available at the place where he is on duty as an operator: Provided, however, That if an operator who is on duty holds a restricted radiotelephone operator permit of the card form (as distinguished from such document of the diploma form) or holds a valid license verification card (FCC 758–F) attesting to the existence of any other valid commercial radio operator license, he may have such permit or verification card, as the case may be, in his personal possession.

(b) Whenever a licensed operator is required for a mobile station, the original license of each such operator, other than an operator exclusively performing service and maintenance duties, shall be kept in his possession whenever he performs the duties of an operator at such station: Provided, That in lieu of an original license of the diploma form (as distinguished from such document of the card form) he may have in his personal possession a valid verification card attesting to its existence.

(c) The original license of every station operator who exclusively performs service and maintenance duties at that station shall be posted at the transmitter involved whenever the transmitter is in actual operation while service or maintenance work is being performed by him or under his immediate supervision and responsibility: Provided, That in lieu of posting his license, he may have on his person either his license or a valid verification card.

§ 5.15 Transmitter identification card and posting of station license. (a) The current authorization of each station in these services authorized at a fixed location shall be posted in a conspicuous place in the principal control position of that station. At all other control points listed on the station authorization, a photocopy of the authorization shall be posted. In addition, an executed transmitter Identification Card (FCC Form No. 452–C, Revised—obtainable from the Washington, D. C. office of the Commission, or from any of its field offices) shall be affixed to each transmitter operated at a fixed location, when such transmitter is not in view of, and readily accessible to, the operator at the principal control position. The following information shall be entered on the card by the permittee or licensee:

(1) Name of permittee or licensee.

(2) Station call sign assigned by the Commission.

(3) Exact location or locations of the station's records of operation.

(4) Frequency or frequencies on which the transmitter to which the card is attached is adjusted to operate; and

(5) Signature of the permittee or licensee, or a designated official thereof.

(b) The current station authorization for each station authorized for mobile operation shall be retained as a permanent part of the station record but need not be posted. In addition, a transmitter Identification Card (FCC Form No. 452–C, Revised) executed in accordance with paragraph (a) of this section, shall be affixed to each mobile transmitter or associated control equipment. When the transmitter is not in view of, and readily accessible to, the operator, it is preferred that the Identification Card be affixed to the control equipment at the transmitter operating position.

§ 5.158 Communication with other stations. Stations in the Experimental Radio Service may be authorized under special Commission authority to communicate with stations in other services and with U. S. Government stations for communications essential to the conduct of program of experimentation of the permittee or licensee. Authority for such transmissions may be granted by the Commission only upon a written request therefor by the permittee or licensee accompanied by a statement of need for such communications, stations with which communications are desired, frequency to be used, and any other data pertinent to the proposed operations.

§ 5.159 Operation during an emergency. The licensee of any station in the Experimental Radio Services may, during a period of emergency in which the normal communication facilities are disrupted as a result of hurricane, flood, earthquake, or similar disaster, utilize such station for emergency communication service by communicating in a manner other than that specified in the station license: Provided:

(a) That as soon as possible after the beginning of such emergency use, notice be sent to the Commission at Washington, D. C., and to the Engineer in Charge of the district in which the station is located, stating the nature of the emergency and the use to which the station is being put, and

(b) That the emergency use of the station shall be discontinued as soon as substantially normal communication facilities are again available, and

(c) That the Commission at Washington, D. C., and the Engineer in Charge shall be notified immediately when such special use of the station is terminated: Provided further,

(d) That in no event shall any station engage in emergency transmission on frequencies other than, or with power in excess of, that specified in the instrument of authorization or as otherwise expressly provided by the Commission, or by law: And provided further,

(e) That the Commission may, at any time, order the discontinuance of any such emergency communication undertaken under this section.

[1] Normal transmission is defined as transmissions, other than those occurring in the course of transmitter adjustments or tests, during or coincident with the experimental program authorized or the installation, service or maintenance of the station equipment.

See footnote on p. 5126.

(vi) Names and addresses of the persons for whom the survey is conducted if other than the licensee of the experimental station together with a statement from that person indicating that such a survey has been requested.

(2) Upon receipt of authorization from the Commission, the licensee shall furnish the Engineer in Charge of the radio district in which the survey is to be conducted sufficiently in advance to assure receipt before the commencement thereof, the following information; time, date, duration, frequency, location of transmitter, area to be covered, and the purpose of the survey.

(a) An authorization for the development of a new service or for the use of frequencies not in accordance with the Table of Frequency Allocations will be granted only after the Commission has made a preliminary determination of the following factors as the case may require:

(1) That the public interest, convenience or necessity would be served by the establishment of the proposed service or by the use of the proposed frequency;

(2) That the importance of the proposed operation appears to warrant a change in the Table of Frequency Allocations.

(b) The Commission will follow such rule making procedure as may be appropriate before making a grant for the operation of a station under this section.

(c) Where circumstances require and permit, the Commission may authorize a grant of limited duration for the express and sole purpose of developing data which the Commission finds to be necessary to make the determination required under paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section. Such grants shall in no way be construed as a finding by the Commission with respect to the matters set forth in the aforementioned paragraphs or that the operation of any radio station thereunder will serve the public interest, convenience and necessity beyond the express terms of the particular grant. The terms of such grant, including frequency, power, emission, etc., will be specified in the instrument of authorization.

§ 5.255 Experimental report. (a) A report on the results of the experimental program carried on under this sub-part shall be filed with and made a part of each application for renewal of license: Provided, however, That the licensee shall, upon request, forward experimental reports at such time during the term of the station authorization as the Commission may deem necessary to evaluate the progress of the experimental program.

(b) An applicant may request that the Commission withhold from public information certain reports and associated material, and the Commission will so regard the same unless the public interest requires disclosures.

(c) The experimental report of stations operating in this service for the development of existing services shall include comprehensive information on the following items in the order designated:

(1) Detailed analysis of the results obtained.

(2) Report on the experimental work conducted.

(1) Probable public support and methods of its determination.

(2) Practicability of service operations.

(3) Interference encountered.

(4) Pertinent information relative to merits of the proposed service.

ATLANTIC BROADCASTING CO., INC. (WHOM)

ORDER DESIGNATING APPLICATION FOR HEARING ON STATED ISSUES

In re application of Atlantic Broadcasting Company, Inc. (WHOM), Jersey City, New Jersey, Docket No. 9747, File No. BML-1413; for modification of license.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 26th day of July 1950,

The Commission having under consideration the above-entitled application requesting a modification of the license of Station WHOM authorizing the removal of its main studios from Jersey City, New Jersey to New York, New York; and

It appearing, that the applicant is legally, technically, financially, and otherwise qualified to operate Station WHOM as proposed, but that the operation of Station WHOM as proposed would fail to provide satisfactory service in accordance with the Commission's Standards of Good Engineering Practice to the city of New York, New York, that the removal of WHOM's main studios from Jersey City, New Jersey, would deprive that city of its only existing facility for the local origination of standard broadcast programs, and that for these reasons, among others, the Commission is unable to conclude that a grant of the above-entitled application would serve public interest, convenience, and necessity;

It is ordered, That, pursuant to section 309 (a) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, the above-entitled application is designated for hearing commencing at 10:00 a. m. January 17, 1951, at Jersey City, New Jersey, upon the following issues:

1. To determine the comparative needs of the cities of Jersey City, New Jersey, and New York, New York, for broadcast service originating in local studios, and, in view thereof, whether a grant of this application would be in accordance with section 307 (b) of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

2. To determine whether the operation of Station WHOM as proposed would be in compliance with the Commission's rules and regulations and Standards of Good Engineering Practice with particular reference to extent and quality of service which would be provided to the city of New York, New York.

AIR WAVES, INC. (WJOC)

ORDER DESIGNATING APPLICATION FOR FURTHER HEARING ON STATED ISSUE

In re application of Air Waves, Incorporated (WJOC), Jamestown, New York, Docket No. 9105, File No. BP-6822; for construction permit.

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 26th day of July 1950;

The Commission having under consideration (1) the record herein; (2) the Examiner's Initial Decision in this proceeding, released February 24, 1950; and (3) a Petition to Reopen Record, Accept Supplemental Evidence, and Close Record without Further Hearing, filed on July 3, 1950, by Air Waves, Incorporated, licensee of Station WJOC, Jamestown, New York, applicant herein; and

It appearing, that WJOC now operates on the frequency of 1470 kc., daytime only, with 1 kw. power; that in the above-entitled application it requests authority to operate on 1340 kc. with 250 watts power, unlimited time; that following hearings held on the said application the Examiner issued an Initial Decision looking to the grant thereof; that exceptions were timely filed thereto by the General Counsel of the Commission; and

It further appearing, that from evidence developed at the hearing on the application it appeared that the proposed operation would cause daytime co-channel interference to Station CKOX, Woodstock, Ontario, Canada, based upon calculations employing soil map conductivities as set forth in the Commission's and Canadian soil maps; and

It further appearing, that the Examiner in his Initial Decision found that "On the basis of conductivities as shown in the Commission's ground conductivity map, Station WJOC, operating as proposed, would cause some interference to Station CKOX but the entire area of interference to CKOX is already suffering interference from Station WIKK, operating at Erie, Pennsylvania, on 1330 kc. * * *"; and

It further appearing, That in its above-mentioned petition the applicant states that as it was "of the opinion that its original estimates regarding the conductivity in the Jamestown area in the direction of Canada were substantially correct, it proceeded to take measurements on a radial from Jamestown to Woodstock, Ontario, Canada, to ascertain the conductivity within the United States from Jamestown in the direction of Woodstock, Ontario, Canada."; that such measurements and the analysis thereof "show that the conductivity within the United States is lower than that shown on the Commission's soil maps, and that using the measured conductivity plus the map conductivity shown for Lake Erie and that portion of Canada over which the signal would traverse, * * * no interference of any nature would be caused to CKOX."; and that the applicant requests that without further hearing the record be reopened for the purpose of admitting the measurements and analysis referred to above, attached to the petition and designated as Exhibit No. 29; and

It further appearing, That in view of the foregoing circumstances, the record should show whether interference would be caused to Station CKOX from the proposed operation of Station WJOC, based upon the measurements contained in Exhibit No. 29 attached to the above-described petition; but that a determination of such question should be made on the basis of evidence received at a hearing rather than on the basis of ex parte affidavits, statements, and calculations as proposed by the applicant;

It is ordered, That in so far as the above-described petition of Air Waves, Incorporated, requests that the record in this proceeding be reopened and the measurements and analysis thereof, identified as Exhibit No. 29, be accepted in evidence, and the record closed without further hearing, the said petition is denied; but in so far as it requests reopening of the record, the said petition is granted; the Initial Decision herein, released on February 24, 1950, is vacated and set aside; the record is reopened and the proceeding is remanded to the Examiner previously appointed for further hearing upon the following issue:

1. To determine, on the basis of measurements taken by the applicant and attached to the above-described petition and identified as Exhibit No. 29, whether the operation of Station WJOC as proposed would cause objectionable interference to Station CKOX, Woodstock, Ontario, Canada, and if so, the nature and extent thereof.

Released: July 28, 1950.

The Commission having under consideration a petition filed July 28, 1950, by the Tul'e Broadcasting Co., Tulia, Texas, requesting a continuance of the hearing herein (presently scheduled for August 1, 1950, in Washington, D. It appearing that West Texas Broadcasters, Inc., Floydada, Texas, has consented to action upon this petition and a grant thereof prior to the expiration of the four-day period, as set forth in § 1.745 of the Commission's rules, that the General Counsel has also agreed to immediate action upon this petition, and that there are no other parties to this proceeding;

FORT INDUSTRY CO. (WSPD)

ORDER AMENDING ISSUE

In the matter of the petition of The Fort Industry Company (WSPD), for designation for hearing of Northeastern Indiana Broadcasting Company, Inc. (WKJG), Docket No. 9157; for modification of construction permit (File No. BMP-3332).

At a session of the Federal Communications Commission held at its offices in Washington, D. C., on the 1st day of August 1950;

The Commission having under consideration a petition filed July 21, 1950, by The Northeastern Indiana Broadcasting Company, Inc. (WKJG) requesting the Commission to enlarge the issue in the above-entitled proceeding so as to permit the introduction of testimony relating to the operation of Station WKJG as indicated by its proof of performance which was filed with the Commission on August 23, 1949; and

It appearing, that the Commission is, among other things, interested in the effect the actual operation of Station WKJG would have upon the operation of Station WSPD; and that, therefore, the issue in this proceeding should be designed to allow such a showing;

It is ordered, That the petition is granted; and that the issue in the Commission's order of October 27, 1948, designating the above-entitled matter for hearing is amended to read as follows: To determine whether the operation of the proposed station at Fort Wayne, Indiana (WKJG), under the original construction permit would involve objectionable interference with WSPD, Toledo, Ohio, and whether the operation of Station WKJG under the modification application as reflected by the proof of performance submitted to the Commission on or about August 23, 1949, would involve an increase of interference, if any, with Station WSPD, Toledo, Ohio, and, if so, the nature and extent thereof, the areas and populations affected thereby, and the availability of other broadcast service to such areas and populations.

MIDWEST BROADCASTING CORP.

ORDER CONTINUING HEARING

In the matter of Midwest Broadcasting Corporation, Montevideo, Minn., Docket No. 9634, File No. BP-7458; applicant for construction permit for a new standard broadcasting station.

The Commission having under consideration a petition filed July 28, 1950, by the applicant, Midwest Broadcasting Corporation, requesting a continuance of the hearing which is now scheduled for Wednesday, August 2, 1950, because the business obligations of applicant's counsel preclude his appearing at the appointed time and place of hearing; and

It appearing, that counsel for the Commission and counsel for the respondent, Times Publishing Company, St. Cloud, Minn., have informally consented to waive the time of filing requirements of § 1.745 of the rules and to a grant of the petition for continuance; and

It further appearing, that applicant's counsel has encountered unexpected conflicting business obligations and is unable in the time available to delegate responsibility for representation of this applicant at the hearing as now scheduled, and that good cause for continuance is thus shown, and that a grant of the petition therefor will conduce to the proper dispatch of the Commission's business and the ends of justice; now therefore,

It is ordered, This 1st day of August 1950, that the petition for continuance be, and it is hereby, granted, and the hearing upon the Midwest Broadcasting Corporation application, presently scheduled to commence on August 2, 1950, is continued until 10 o'clock a. m., on Wednesday, September 13, 1950.

TITLE 14—CIVIL AVIATION

Chapter I—Civil Aeronautics Board

[Regs., Serial No. SR-352]

PART 34—FLIGHT NAVIGATOR CERTIFICATES

LIMITED FLIGHT NAVIGATOR CERTIFICATES

Adopted by the Civil Aeronautics Board at its office in Washington, D. C., on the 1st day of August 1950.

On July 20, 1950, the Board adopted Special Civil Air Regulation SR-347 which prescribed the requirements for the issuance of a limited flight navigator certificate. At the time of adoption the Board indicated that there was urgent need for flight navigators for air carriers who are under contract with the armed forces but that there was an insufficient number of individuals holding flight navigator certificates available for employment by those air carriers. Special Civil Air Regulation SR-347 was designed to secure a sufficient number of qualified flight navigators for immediate employment by those air carriers. It will be noted that only those individuals who had served on active duty as rated navigators with the armed forces of the United States for at least six months since December 7, 1941, were eligible to make application for limited flight navigator certificates.

At the time of the adoption of Special Civil Air Regulation SR-347, the Board was of the opinion that only former military navigators were available to and desired by the air carriers involved. However, since that time the Board has been advised that the air carriers desire to include in the eligible group for this purpose employees of United States air carriers who performed flight navigator duties prior to November 15, 1947, the date beyond which no person could serve as a flight navigator without a certificate issued in accordance with the provisions of Part 34 of the Civil Air Regulations. The Board believes that such individuals can be considered as proficient in the performance of flight navigator duties as former military navigators. The Board is also of the opinion that there are additional groups of individuals who should be given an opportunity to apply for limited flight navigator certificates. One group consists of employees of a person engaged in the conduct of military contract operations. Another group consists of civilian employees of the armed forces of the United States who might have served as flight navigators in the conduct of operations for the armed forces.

In view of the above, we are superseding the provisions of Special Civil Air Regulation SR-347 in order to permit the groups of individuals referred to above to make application for limited flight navigator certificates. The Board believes that from these groups a sufficient number of flight navigators will be secured to insure the expeditious fulfillment of the air carriers' obligations under existing military contracts.

It is to be noted that the provisions of paragraphs 1 (b), 1 (c), 2, 3, and 4 of SR–347 are not being altered. It should be further noted that this regulation provides that all limited flight navigator certificates issued in accordance with the provisions of Special Civil Air Regulation SR–347 shall be treated in all respects as though issued under this Special Civil Air Regulation.

For the reasons stated above notice and public procedure hereon are impracticable and contrary to the public interest, and the Board finds that good cause exists for making this Special Civil Air Regulation effective immediately.

In consideration of the foregoing the Civil Aeronautics Board hereby makes and promulgates a Special Civil Air Regulation, effective immediately, to read as follows:

1. Contrary provisions of the Civil Air Regulations notwithstanding, the Administrator may issue a limited flight navigator certificate to an individual who meets the following requirements:

(a) The applicant for such certificate shall have served as a flight navigator for at least six months, or for at least 500 hours, since December 7, 1941.

(1) As a member of the armed forces of the United States or a civilian employee thereof.

(2) As an employee of a United States air carrier prior to November 15, 1947.

(3) As an employee of a person engaged in the conduct of military contract operations;

(b) The applicant shall meet the requirements of §§ 34.2 through 34.5 and 34.8; and

(c) The applicant shall satisfactorily accomplish such written examination as may be prescribed by the Administrator.

2. The holder of a limited flight navigator certificate may exercise the same privileges as the holder of a flight navigator certificate issued in accordance with Part 34 of the Civil Air Regulations except that he may act as a flight navigator only in those operations which are conducted by an air carrier pursuant to a contract entered into by that air carrier with the armed forces.

3. A limited flight navigator certificate shall remain in effect for a period no longer than 3 months and shall not be renewable.

4. A flight navigator certificate shall be issued to the holder of a limited flight navigator certificate, if such holder accomplishes successfully the written examination prescribed in § 34.7. If such individual fails to accomplish satisfactorily any part of such written examination he may, with the approval of the Administrator, apply notwithstanding the provisions of § 34.13, at any time, for re-examination on the part failed.

5. All limited flight navigator certificates issued pursuant to the authority of Special Civil Air Regulation SR–347 shall have the same effect as though issued hereunder.

This regulation supersedes Special Civil Air Regulation SR–347 and shall terminate December 31, 1950, unless sooner superseded or rescinded.

(Sec. 205, 52 Stat. 984; 49 U. S. C. 425. Interprets or applies secs. 601, 602, 52 Stat. 1007, 1008, as amended; 49 U. S. C. and Sup., 551, 552)

(c) Continuation of pay and allowances. A member who is hospitalized for treatment of an injury incurred in line of duty while participating in the Reserve training program, under competent orders, is entitled to continue to receive the pay and allowances to which entitled on date of entry to the hospital, if in a pay status at that time; or he is entitled to receive pay and allowances commensurate with his grade and length of service if performing inactive duty training without pay on the date of entry to the hospital. In either case he is entitled to receive such pay and allowances for the entire period of hospitalization, even though for all or a portion of that time he is not, in fact, on active duty.

(d) Disability retirement or severance pay. A member who, by determination of proper authority, has received maximum benefit from hospitalization may be separated from the service and receive disability retirement or severance pay.

§ 867.5 Conditions of entitlement. Under the provisions of law cited in § 867.1, members called or ordered to active duty in excess of 30 days are entitled, after entry on active duty, to benefits if disability or death is the result of disease or injury contracted or incurred in line of duty. Members called or ordered to active duty for 30 days or less, on and after August 14, 1945, are entitled to benefits only if disability or death is the result of injury incurred in line of duty after entry on active duty. Members called or ordered to perform inactive duty training with or without pay, on and after August 14, 1945, are entitled to the benefits of the law referred to in this section only if disability or death is the result of injury incurred in line of duty while engaged in such inactive duty training.

§ 867.6 Limitations of benefits—(a) While traveling. Members engaged in inactive duty training with or without pay are not entitled to benefits under the provisions of the regulations contained in this part:

(1) While traveling to and from the site designated for the inactive duty training period (armory, air base, firing range, field training, command post exercise, etc.) except:

(i) When engaged in authorized travel in Government owned vehicles from the regular site designated for inactive duty training (armory or air base) to such other site specifically designated for a period of inactive duty training (firing range, convoy training, command post exercise, etc.) and return therefrom, or

(ii) When engaged in authorized travel in Government owned vehicle from an authorized assembly point to the site designated for inactive duty training and return thereto, provided that the designated assembly points, transportation schedule, route, and the date are authorized in advance by duly authenticated written orders; or

(iii) When engaged in authorized travel in privately owned vehicles from and to the site designated for training when authorized in advance by competent written orders.

NOTE: The above restriction has the effect of excluding claims for benefits under the provisions of the regulations contained in this part for all injuries sustained by members of the Reserve Forces while traveling from their homes, places of employment, or other places to the regular site designated for inactive duty training or such other site specifically designated for a period of inactive duty training and return therefrom, except as provided in subdivisions (i), (ii), and (iii) of this subparagraph.

(2) During any period, training or otherwise, which is not designated as a period of inactive duty training by written authorization of competent authority covering a specific training assignment and prescribing a time limit

(b) While hospitalized. (1) Members injured in connection with participation in any way in the Reserve training program are entitled to pay and allowances, if otherwise proper, only while hospitalized as a result of injury incurred in line of duty. If hospitalization, as determined by the appropriate medical authorization, is not required, no pay and allowances will accrue but medical treatment may be provided at Government expense.

(2) Medical and dental attendance at civilian hospitals for members of the Reserve Forces at public expense is authorized only when the required treatment cannot be obtained from available facilities of the Air Force or other Federal agencies such as Army, Navy, Veterans Administration, United States Public Health Service, or Indian Service. All personnel assigned to duty, or performing inactive duty training at places where there are no Air Force medical facilities, will be advised to familiarize themselves with the location of the nearest Federal medical installation and instructed to utilize the facilities at these installations when circumstances permit. In other than emergencies, prior approval of competent authority will be required to obtain medical and dental attendance from civilian agencies.

§ 867.7 Travel. A member of the Reserve Forces who contracts a disease while on active duty for a period in excess of 30 days, or is injured while on active duty or while participating in inactive duty training is entitled to transportation in kind or reimbursement for travel performed in connection with hospitalization. For travel performed from and to the places indicated in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, officer and enlisted members of the Reserve Forces will be furnished transportation in kind and/or reimbursed for travel expenses in accordance with regulations governing members of the Regular Air Force traveling under the same conditions:

(a) Members on active duty. (1) From active duty station to hospital if transferred in permanent change of station status; or from active duty station to hospital for observation and treatment if ordered to hospital in temporary duty status.

(2) From hospital to active duty station or home of record upon release from hospital in permanent change of station status; or from hospital to active duty station upon release from hospital in temporary duty status.

(b) Members on inactive duty training (with or without pay).

(1) From designated place for performance of inactive duty training to hospital (temporary duty status).

(2) From hospital to home of record (temporary duty status), the amount payable not to exceed the amount which would be payable from hospital to designated place for performance of inactive duty at time of injury.

§ 867.8 Claims for death gratuity. Claims for six months' lump sum payment for death gratuity will be settled as prescribed in Part 833 of this Chapter.

§ 867.9 Retroactive claims. If line of duty has been previously determined by Headquarters United States Air Force, retroactive claims for benefits under the provisions of the regulations contained in this part, accruing on and after August 14, 1945, and prior to July 1, 1949, other than those for pensions or compensation administered by the Veterans Administration, may be submitted by the claimant to the headquarters of the numbered air force having jurisdiction over the unit to which he is, or was, assigned. Claims for pensions or compensation administered by the Veterans Administration may be submitted by the claimant direct to the appropriate Veterans' Administration regional office; however, to expedite adjudication the claimant should insure that line of duty status has been determined by Headquarters United States Air Force.

TITLE 38—PENSIONS, BONUSES, AND VETERANS' RELIEF

Chapter I—Veterans' Administration

PART 17—MEDICAL

OUTPATIENT TREATMENT

Section 17.60 is amended to read as follows:

§ 17.60 Outpatient treatment. (a) Outpatient treatment, medical or dental, including necessary medicines, prosthetic appliances and other supplies, may be rendered to the following applicants under the conditions stated:

(1) Persons discharged or released from active military or naval service, including those who had active duty as a member of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps and officers retired for disability under the provisions of the Emergency Officers Retirement Act (Public No. 506, 70th Congress, as amended) who served during a period of war as defined in § 17.47 (a) (1) and who are in need of treatment for a disease or injury adjudicated by the Veterans' Administration as incurred or aggravated in such war service.

(2) Persons included in paragraph III, Part I, Veterans Regulation 1 (a), and paragraph IV, Part II, Veterans Regulation 1 (a) (approved May 11, 1944) (38 U. S. C. ch. 12 note), who are in need of treatment for an injury or disease incurred in line of duty and for which they are receiving disability compensation.

(3) Retired members of the Regular Establishment who have elected, under Public Law 314, 78th Congress, to receive disability compensation from the Veterans' Administration for a service-connected disease or injury and who are in need of treatment for said service-connected compensable disease or injury.

(4) Persons who were discharged or released under other than dishonorable conditions from active military or naval service for disability incurred or aggravated in line of duty in active service or who are in receipt of compensation for service-connected or service-aggravated disability. A formal claim for disability compensation will not be required of an applicant eligible for outpatient treatment by reason of discharge for disability incurred or aggravated in line of duty; and a denial of a claim for disability compensation will not debar outpatient treatment for such disability. (See determination of line of duty, § 17.47 (b) (1) (i) and (iii).)

(5) Persons pursuing a course of vocational training authorized under Public Law 16, 78th Congress, as amended, who are in need of treatment to avoid interruption of such training.

(6) Persons properly referred by authorized officials of other Federal agencies for which the Administrator of Veterans Affairs may agree to render such service under conditions stipulated by him and pensioners of nations allied with the United States in World War I and World War II when duly authorized. Charges for treatment of patients of the classes specified herein will be at prescribed rates.

(7) Employees of the Veterans' Administration, their families, and the general public in emergencies, subject to conditions stipulated by the Administrator of Veterans Affairs. Charges for treatment of patients specified herein will be at prescribed rates.

(b) While outpatient treatment is primarily authorized only for service-connected or service-aggravated conditions, adjunct outpatient treatment for a non-service-connected condition which is associated with and held to be aggravating disability from a disease or injury service connected or service aggravated may be also authorized in accordance with prescribed principles for persons defined in paragraph (a) (1) through (4) of this section. The opinion of the chief medical director may be requested in any individual case where advice as to the propriety of furnishing adjunct treatment is desired.

PART 160—GRAZING LEASES

Correction

In Federal Register Document 50-6107, appearing at page 4504 of the issue for Saturday, July 15, 1950, § 169.19 (page 4507) should be designated "§ 160.19".

TITLE 46—SHIPPING

Chapter I—Coast Guard, Department of the Treasury

[CGFR 50-28]

EXAMINATIONS FOR ABLE SEAMEN; PERMITS FOR LOADING CLASS A EXPLOSIVES

The purpose of the following new regulations is to provide a guide for the administration of regulations and to inform the public of conditions which must be met. The new regulation to be added to 46 CFR 12.05-9 definitely states that no additional professional examination will be required for any person who is in valid possession of a certificate as able seaman indorsed "any waters—12 months" and who produces documentary evidence of sufficient service to qualify for a certificate as able seaman indorsed "any waters—limited." Neither will a physical examination be required unless the applicant obviously suffers from some physical or mental infirmity which, in the opinion of the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, would render him incompetent to perform the usual duties of an able seaman at sea. This regulation is being added to remove any question of doubt as to the intent of the present regulations. It does not impose new requirements. It is therefore found that compliance with the notice of proposed rule making, public rule making procedure thereon, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act is unnecessary.

The new regulation regarding permits for Class A explosives will be added to the Dangerous Cargo Regulations and is to provide a series of requirements which shall be met before authorizing the transfer of Class A explosives. This regulation is considered necessary to provide adequate standards and to obtain uniformity in the issuance of permits. Since Class A explosives are presently being shipped in large quantities and the hazards to safety of life at sea are great it is hereby found that compliance with the notice of proposed rule making, public rule making procedure thereon, and effective date requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act is impracticable and contrary to the public interest. It is also found that an emergency exists and the provisions of R. S. 4472, as amended (46 USC 170 (9)), regarding publication of proposed rule making, public hearings thereon, and effective date requirements are contrary to the public interest and it is necessary that the regulation shall become effective on the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

By virtue of the authority vested in me as Commandant, United States Coast Guard (R. S. 4405 as amended, 46 U. S. C. 375, and Section 101 of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1946, 11 CFR 7875, 60 Stat. 1097, 46 U. S. C. 1), as well as the additional authorities cited with the regulations below, the following amendments to the regulations are prescribed and shall become effective on the date of publication of this document in the FEDERAL REGISTER:

Subchapter B—Merchant Marine Officers and Seamen

PART 12—CERTIFICATION OF SEAMEN

Section 12.05-9 is amended by adding a new paragraph (d) reading as follows:

§ 12.05-9 Examination and demonstration of ability. • • •

(d) Any person who is in valid possession of a certificate as able seaman indorsed, "any waters—12 months" and who can produce documentary evidence of sufficient service to qualify for a certificate as able seaman indorsed, "any waters—unlimited," may be issued a new document bearing this indorsement without additional professional examination. The applicant shall surrender for cancellation the document bearing the limited indorsement. No physical examination will be required at the time of this exchange unless it is found that the applicant obviously suffers from some physical or mental infirmity to a degree that in the opinion of the Officer in Charge, Marine Inspection, would render him incompetent to perform the usual duties of an able seaman at sea. If such condition is believed to exist, the applicant shall be required to undergo an examination by a medical officer of the Public Health Service to determine his competency.

(R. S. 4405, 4417a, 4488, 4551, as amended, sec. 13, 38 Stat. 1169, as amended, secs. 1, 2, 49 Stat. 1544, sec. 7, 49 Stat. 1936, sec. 1, 52 Stat. 753, 55 Stat. 579; 46 U. S. C. 375, 391a, 491, 643, 672, 367, 689, 672b, 672–1, 672–2)

Subchapter N—Explosives or Other Dangerous Articles or Substances and Combustible Liquids on Board Vessels

PART 146—TRANSPORTATION OR STORAGE OF EXPLOSIVES OR OTHER DANGEROUS ARTICLES OR SUBSTANCES AND COMBUSTIBLE LIQUIDS ON BOARD VESSELS

SUBPART—DETAILED REGULATIONS GOVERNING EXPLOSIVES

Part 146 is amended by adding a new § 146.20–43, reading as follows:

§ 146.20–43 Permits for Class A explosives. (a) Before permits to load or discharge Class A explosives in amounts exceeding five hundred (500) pounds are granted in accordance with § 146.20–42, the requirements of this section shall be met.

(b) Where loading or discharge operations take place in designated explosive anchorages, the following requirements shall be determined:

(1) The requested amount of explosives to be loaded or discharged shall not exceed limits set by the applicable anchorage regulation of the Secretary of the Army in regard to the quantity of Class A explosives which a vessel may have on board.

(2) The vessel shall comply in all respects with the regulations in this subchapter.

(3) Conditions within the anchorage shall offer no more than normal acceptable hazards to the vessel or its cargo.

(4) If there are Department of Defense installations, such as a Navy or Army depot, navy yard, naval anchorage, etc., in the vicinity of an explosive anchorage, the Commanding Officer of the installation should be appraised of the proposed movement of explosives and if opposition is raised the permit shall be withheld.

(c) Where loading or discharge operations take place in civilian establishments outside designated explosive anchorages, the following requirements shall be determined:

(1) The Coast Guard District Commander, together with the cognizant Captain of the Port, shall be furnished a written permit or document having comparable legal effect from the municipal, state, or port authority authorizing the vessel to use a designated waterfront facility for explosives loading or discharge.

(2) The vessel shall comply in all respects with the regulations in this subchapter.

(3) The facility shall offer no more than normal acceptable hazards to the vessel or its cargo.

(4) The proposed loading or discharge facility shall offer isolation and remoteness from populous areas which compare favorably with the distance required by the American Table of Distances for inhabited buildings, unbarricaded, even though permission has been obtained for its use from local authorities.

NOTE: Under the exemption contained in § 146.10–4 railroad carfloats transporting railroad vehicles to vessel's side for the purpose of transferring their cargo to the vessel should not be required to obtain a permit as required by § 146.20–42. However, the Captain of the Port has the authority under 33 U. S. C. 471 to require a permit for such carfloats to enter an explosives anchorage. A permit is also required under § 146.20–42 for the transfer of explosives from the carfloats to the vessel.

(d) Where loading or discharge operations take place in the establishments under direct control of the Department of Defense, the following requirements shall be determined:

(1) The vessel shall comply in all respects with the regulations in this subchapter.

(2) Commercial vessels loading or discharging military explosives shipped by or consigned to the Department of Defense of the U. S. Government at facilities under its direct control such as a Navy or Army depot, arsenal, navy yard, port of embarkation, etc., where transfer of the explosives is supervised by Army, Navy or Air Force personnel, shall comply with the Coast Guard regulations pertaining to the safe handling, transportation, conveyance, stowage, or use of explosives or other dangerous articles or substances on board vessels.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

CIVIL AERONAUTICS BOARD

[14 CFR, Part 4b]

HUMIDITY ACCOUNTABILITY

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Pursuant to authority delegated by the Civil Aeronautics Board to the Bureau of Safety Regulation, notice is hereby given that the Bureau will propose to the Board an amendment of Part 4b of the Civil Air Regulations in substance as hereinafter set forth:

Interested persons may participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted, in duplicate, to the Civil Aeronautics Board, attention Bureau of Safety Regulation, Washington 25, D. C. All communications received by September 1, 1950, will be considered by the Board before taking further action on the proposed rule. Copies of the communications received will be available after September 6, 1950, for perusal by interested persons at the Docket Section of the Board, Room 5412, Commerce Building, Washington, D. C.

Currently effective § 4b.110 provides that the prescribed airplane's performance shall be determined, and compliance shall be shown, for standard atmospheric conditions and still air. Standard atmosphere is defined in part as a "dry, perfect gas." Thus, this regulation in effect stipulates that whenever an airplane is flight tested in other than standard atmospheric conditions the performance data shall be corrected to the standard atmosphere. In the past, compliance with this provision was shown by correcting the performance data to all of the conditions defining the standard atmosphere except that condition which relates to the humidity of the air. This procedure was considered acceptable because the results of the tests conducted in average atmospheric conditions (i. e. humid instead of dry air) are always conservative. It had not been considered worth while to correct for humidity because the corrections were small and therefore not considered to be of practical significance. Therefore, even though the regulations did not require humidity accountability, accountability to an average degree had in the past actually been introduced in the procedures for the certification of transport airplanes.

With the advent of larger and greater powered airplanes, it has become evident that the effect of humidity on the performance of the airplane, as expressed in useful load, is of practical significance. As a result, some manufacturers have sought to comply strictly with the regulation which permits correcting the airplane's performance to dry air, i. e., to zero humidity. In their study of this problem both the Administrator and the Bureau realized that the current requirement has unconservative implications, particularly with respect to the larger and greater powered airplanes, which were not foreseen at the time of its promulgation. In view of this the Administrator requested that no corrections be made by the manufacturers for humidity to a value lower than 0.4 in. hg. vapor pressure, a value considered by him to be a practical average. Upon being informed of the Administrator's request, the Bureau considered the whole problem of humidity accountability for transport type airplanes. At that time the Bureau felt that the problem of humidity might be solved more realistically in a manner similar to that used in taking account of temperature effects, namely by allowing corrections to be made to zero humidity in the certification of airplanes but simultaneously requiring that humidity be taken into account operationally. However, we believe that development and implementation of an appropriate operational requirement at this time would impose too great a burden upon the manufacturers and operators in view of the increased activity on their part to meet current and anticipated military commitments. The Administrator of Civil Aeronautics has expressed the belief that no new transport aircraft types should be certificated without some form of humidity accountability. Accordingly, it is considered advisable to incorporate into the airworthiness regulations a requirement that humidity be accounted for in determining the performance of newly type certificated transport aircraft.

It should be noted that it was the Bureau's intention to discuss this subject matter during this year's annual review of the airworthiness parts of the Civil Air Regulations, and that this subject was included as one of the items for discussion under Committee No. 2—Transport Category Airplanes: Part 4b. However, this item was deleted from the agenda for the annual review at the official request of the Aircraft Industries Association and the Air Transport Association. In making such requests these industry groups pointed out that the increased activity on military projects has made it impossible for the transport aircraft manufacturers and the scheduled air carriers to provide adequate technical representation at the forthcoming annual meeting. The Bureau regrets that it will not have the benefit of the full exchange of information between government agencies and the various industry groups with respect to this subject which it anticipated in the annual review meeting. Nevertheless, we feel that the subject of humidity accountability is of such urgency as to warrant action at this time to remove the unconservative implications in the current requirement, even though the method chosen may not be as rational as ultimately desired. In the meantime, the Bureau will continue its study of this problem.

Accordingly, it is proposed to amend § 4b.110 to read as follows:

§ 4b.110 General. With respect to all airplanes type certificated on or after (the effective date of this section), the performance prescribed in this subpart shall be determined, and compliance shall be shown, for standard atmospheric conditions and still air, except that the performance instead of being based on dry air shall be based on a humidity not less than 0.4 in. hg. vapor pressure.

This amendment is proposed under authority of Title VI of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended.

NONTRANSPORT CATEGORY AIRPLANES IN SCHEDULED PASSENGER OPERATION

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

Pursuant to authority delegated by the Civil Aeronautics Board to the Bureau of Safety Regulation, notice is hereby given that the Bureau will propose to the Board a Special Civil Air Regulation in substance as hereinafter set forth.

Interested persons may participate in the making of the proposed rule by submitting such written data, views, or arguments as they may desire. Communications should be submitted, in duplicate, to the Civil Aeronautics Board, attention Bureau of Safety Regulation, Washington 25, D. C. All communications received prior to September 11, 1950, will be considered by the Board before taking further action on the proposed regulation. Copies of such communications will be available after September 14, 1950, for perusal by interested persons at the Docket Section of the Board, Room 5412, Commerce Building, Washington 25, D. C.

Certain airplanes certificated as a basic type prior to June 30, 1942, and currently used in scheduled air carrier passenger operations have at various times since original certification been allowed increases in their certificated maximum take-off and landing weights. The increases have been allowed under the provisions of later adopted airworthiness requirements based upon different and more realistic safety criteria where the airplane has been shown to comply with such requirements for particular operations.

However, these developments have not followed a consistent pattern, and at the present time airplanes of the same basic type are operated at differing maximum landing weights. For example, the usual maximum landing weight for a Douglas DC–3 (not certificated in the transport category) operated in scheduled passenger service is 24,400 pounds when operated in accordance with limitations established in the air carrier's operating specifications, whereas a comparable airplane used by an irregular air carrier or commercial operator operates at a maximum landing weight of 25,200 pounds subject to operating limitations recently provided for in Part 42 of the Civil Air Regulations.[1]

We have been asked by certain scheduled air carriers to permit operation of the DC–3 and the Lockheed Model 18 as nontransport category airplanes at higher landing weights than are currently authorized. It is our opinion that such higher weights may be justified for nontransport category airplanes when they are operated in accordance with the operating limitations established for such airplanes in Part 42. Therefore, we propose authorizing the operating in passenger service by air carriers or commercial operators of nontransport category airplanes type certificated prior to June 30, 1942, at maximum landing weights not exceeding their presently certificated maximum take-off weights for passenger use, when such airplanes are operated under operating limitations established pursuant to current provisions of Part 42.

It is proposed to promulgate a Special Civil Air Regulation to read as follows:

Contrary provisions of the Civil Air Regulations notwithstanding, an airplane type certificated or approved prior to June 30, 1942, may be used for the carriage of persons in scheduled service at a maximum landing weight not exceeding its maximum certificated take-off weight for passenger service: Provided, That such landing weight does not exceed the weight for which the structure has been substantiated in accordance with the structural requirements upon which the original certification was based: And provided further, That the airplane is operated in accordance with operating limitations established pursuant to §§ 42.80 through 42.83 of the Civil Air Regulations as heretofore or hereafter amended.

This regulation shall terminate on December 31, 1951, unless sooner superseded or rescinded.

This regulation is proposed under the authority of Title VI of the Civil Aeronautics Act of 1938, as amended.

[1] The DC–3 is also eligible and is being operated at a maximum certificated take-off weight of 26,200 lbs. and a maximum certificated landing weight of 26,000 lbs. in accordance with transport category performance rules. The DC–3 when used for carriage of cargo only is eligible and is being operated at maximum certificated take-off and landing weights as high as 26,900 lbs. Furthermore, corresponding military versions of the DC–3 have been operated at maximum weights in excess of 30,000 lbs.

SHENANDOAH GAS CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

AUGUST 3, 1950.

Take notice that Shenandoah Gas Company (Applicant), a Virginia corporation, with office at Lynchburg, Virginia, filed an application on July 26, 1950, for (1) an Order, pursuant to section 7 (a) of the Natural Gas Act, directing Virginia Gas Transmission Corporation (Virginia), a subsidiary of Atlantic Seaboard Corporation, which is controlled by the Columbia Gas System, Inc., to establish a physical connection of its transmission facilities with the proposed facilities of, and to sell and deliver natural gas to, the Applicant; and (2) a certificate of public convenience and necessity pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, authorizing Applicant to construct and operate approximately 38 miles of 8⅝ inch transmission pipeline and 11 miles of 4½ and 3½ inch transmission pipeline from a point on Virginia's 26 inch transmission line near Cedarville, Warren County, Virginia, to communities proposed to be served by Applicant, including Front Royal and Winchester, Virginia, and Martinsburg, West Virginia.

Applicant proposes to construct or acquire distribution systems for the distribution of natural gas at retail in the designated communities, which are presently being served with bottle gas, and propane air gas. In the event that Applicant cannot purchase distribution facilities in communities proposed to be served, Applicant proposes to sell natural gas at wholesale to such companies as now own distribution systems. [Docket No. G-1451]

NATURAL GAS CO. OF W. VA. AND MANUFACTURERS LIGHT AND HEAT CO.

NOTICE OF APPLICATION

AUGUST 3, 1950.

Take notice that on July 27, 1950, Natural Gas Company of West Virginia ("Natural") and The Manufacturers Light and Heat Company ("Manufacturers"), West Virginia and Pennsylvania public utility corporations, respectively, with their principal places of business at 800 Union Trust Building in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, filed an application for authority pursuant to section 7 of the Natural Gas Act, as amended, for the transfer from Natural to Manufacturers of the following described facilities:

All of Natural's properties located in the States of Pennsylvania and West Virginia, particularly such transmission facilities as are located in Washington and Greene Counties, Pennsylvania, and in Ohio and Marshall Counties, West Virginia, consisting of three 8-inch pipelines and one 10-inch pipeline running generally from the production and storage fields of Natural located in the Pennsylvania area to the Wheeling area, the Heard Station in Washington County, Pennsylvania, and the Conkey Station in Greene County, Pennsylvania, all leases, wells and gathering lines, including Heard Storage Field, located mainly in Washington and Greene Counties, Pennsylvania, and distribution systems in the city of Wheeling and in other smaller communities in Washington and Greene Counties, Pennsylvania, and in Ohio and Marshall Counties, West Virginia.

Natural and Manufacturers (Applicants) state that the volume of gas produced by Natural in the Pennsylvania fields, from which it obtains gas to serve the Wheeling area, has declined, while the requirements of that area have increased, that Natural must now purchase 75 percent of the gas for its West Virginia and Pennsylvania markets from Manufacturers, that Manufacturers has facilities in this general area which parallel and complement those of Natural, that if this transfer is approved, the present facilities of both companies in the area can be integrated and more efficient and economical service rendered to the customers of both companies in the area, that duplication of lines can be avoided in the future, and that certain bookkeeping and administrative expenses can be eliminated.

Applicants aver that the properties of Natural in Ohio are separate operating units whose operation will not be impaired in any way by the proposed transfer, and that the Ohio customers of Natural will not be adversely affected thereby.

Applicants further state that if the proposed transfer is approved, Manufacturers does not propose by reason of such approval to serve any new communities not now served by either Natural or Manufacturers.

Applicants have agreed that the consideration for this transfer will be the original cost, less depreciation, of the facilities as of the date of the transfer, the calculated purchase price as of February 28, 1950, being $3,231,833.74.

To finance this cost, Columbia Gas System, Inc., parent of the two applicants, has agreed that Manufacturers may assume up to $3,200,000 principal amount of 3¼ percent Notes of Natural, which may be held by Columbia at the time of the transfer. Manufacturers proposes to finance the amount of consideration over $3,200,000 with cash out of its own funds.

Protests or petitions to intervene may be filed with the Federal Power Commission, Washington 25, D. C., in accordance with the rules of practice and procedure (18 CFR 1.8 or 1.10) before the 22d day of August 1950. The application is on file with the Commission for public inspection.

[File Nos. 59-15, 70-2438]

NORTHERN NEW ENGLAND CO. ET AL.

NOTICE OF FILING, NOTICE OF AND ORDER FOR HEARING, AND ORDER CONSOLIDATING HEARINGS

At a regular session of the Securities and Exchange Commission held at its office in the city of Washington, D. C., on the 3d day of August A. D. 1950.

In the matter of Northern New England Company, New England Public Service Company, File No. 59-15; New England Public Service Company, File No. 70-2438.

Notice is hereby given that New England Public Service Company ("NEPSCO"), a registered holding company and a subsidiary of Northern New England Company, also a registered holding company, has filed with this Commission, pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935, an application requesting approval pursuant to section 11 (e) of the act of further amendments to NEPSCO's plan for corporate simplification by retirement of Prior lien stock dated March 8, 1947, as heretofore amended, which was approved by the Commission by order of June 27, 1947 (Holding Company Act Release No. 7511), and by the District Court of the United States for the District of Maine by order of August 6, 1947.

All interested persons are referred to said application which is on file in the offices of the Commission for a statement of the matters set forth therein, which are summarized as follows:

NEPSCO's plan, dated March 8, 1947, as heretofore amended ("the plan"), provided that NEPSCO might borrow from banks the funds necessary to carry out the plan. The plan further provided, in the last paragraph of Appendix III thereof:

If NEPSCO shall borrow as aforesaid, it will within one year after the date of the loan sell * * * sufficient of its holdings of utility stocks to repay the loan in full, provided that NEPSCO may request, and the Commission may grant, one or more extensions of said period of one year.

On October 9, 1947, NEPSCO borrowed an aggregate amount of $13,500,000, Holding Company Act Release No. 7713, and on October 10, 1947, the prior lien stock was retired pursuant to the plan, certificates of contingent interest secured by an escrow fund being issued, in addition to the amounts then paid. By order of June 19, 1950, the Commission entered its determination as to the amounts payable on such certificates, Holding Company Act Release No. 9982.

The bank loan has now been reduced to $8,625,000 by quarterly payments of $400,000 and by an additional payment of $475,000 made May 15, 1950. The loan was renewed with Commission approval for a term of one year in October 1948 and again in October 1949; however, requested extensions of the time in which portfolio securities were to be sold to retire the notes were not granted. Holding Company Act Releases Nos. 8567 and 9404. In its Memorandum Opinion of April 7, 1950 (Holding Company Act Release No. 9781) the Commission concluded that no further delay was justified in the sale by NEPSCO of portfolio securities for the purpose of reducing the loan. NEPSCO has filed with the Commission a declaration proposing the sale by it of 260,000 shares of the common stock of Central Maine Power Company for the purpose of applying the proceeds of the sale to the reduction of the loan. Holding Company Act Release No. 9984.

NEPSCO now proposes to substitute for the last paragraph of Appendix III of the plan, referred to above, the following:

If NEPSCO shall borrow as aforesaid, it will, prior to October 1, 1950, or such later date as the Commission shall approve, sell at competitive bidding pursuant to the Commission's Rule U-50, 260,000 shares of common stock of Central Maine Power Company, and will apply the proceeds of said sale to the reduction of its bank loan, and will further similarly apply moneys released from said Escrow Deposit when received by NEPSCO. The unpaid balance of NEPSCO's bank loan on October 11, 1950, shall be renewed or replaced for a period of one year on such terms as the Commission shall approve, with the right in NEPSCO to renew said loan, with the Commission's approval, for a further year. It is expected that the proceeds of the above sale and said escrow moneys will reduce NEPSCO's bank loan to a point where it will by October 11, 1952, be paid in full from NEPSCO's earnings, at the same time leaving sufficient earnings to permit the declaration and payment of dividends on NEPSCO's plain Preferred Stock at the current quarterly rate. In the event, however, that it shall become apparent that said loan will not by October 11, 1952, be paid in full from earnings, NEPSCO will sell additional shares of its utility stocks so that said loan will be paid in full not later than October 11, 1952.

NEPSCO further proposes to delete from the first paragraph of said Appendix III of the plan the last sentence thereof, which reads as follows:

No dividends will be paid on any class of stock of NEPSCO so long as any part of the loan remains unpaid.

NEPSCO further proposes to insert in the plan a new paragraph as follows:

2a. As of August 31, 1950, NEPSCO will transfer its Industrial Liquidation Suspense Account in the amount of $5,430,781.04 to Earned Surplus; will appropriate from Earned Surplus $4,000,000 to a reserve against the payment to the holders of Certificates of Contingent Interest of the amounts ultimately due thereon, and will appropriate from Earned Surplus $1,600,000 to a Reserve for Contingencies to provide for losses, if any, in any subsequent sale of assets and for fees, costs, expenses and other possible losses incurred in liquidation of the company, the amounts of which are indeterminable at said date, any amounts from said reserves not required for said purposes will thereafter be credited to Capital Surplus; and will charge Capital Surplus and credit Earned Surplus (Deficit) with the amount of any Earned Surplus (Deficit) then remaining, leaving Earned Surplus at zero as of said date.

NEPSCO further proposes that paragraph 8 of the plan, which provides as follows:

This plan may be amended or altered by NEPSCO in any manner suggested or approved by the Securities and Exchange Commission or required or approved by the court referred to in paragraph 6 above, and whether before or after the consummation thereof, but in the latter case, in no way which will diminish the payment hereunder to holders of Prior Lien Stock, be amended to read:

This plan may be amended by NEPSCO in any manner approved by the Securities and Exchange Commission and by the Court referred to in paragraph 6 above.

NEPSCO further requests that the Commission apply to the District Court of the United States for the District of Maine for modification of the order of the Court of August 6, 1947, so that said order will apply to the plan as amended by the proposed amendments.

NEPSCO has undertaken to mail to all of its stockholders of record a notice of the time, place and general purpose of the hearing herein with respect to the proposed amendments.

The Commission being required by the provisions of section 11 (e) of the act, before approving any plan thereunder, to find, after notice and opportunity for hearing, that such plan, as submitted or as modified, is necessary to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) and is fair and equitable to the persons affected by such plan;

The Commission having on July 21, 1950 ordered that a hearing be held with respect to the declaration of NEPSCO (File No. 70-2438) regarding the sale by NEPSCO of 260,000 shares of the common stock of Central Maine Power Company; and the related issues arising in connection with said declaration and NEPSCO's application herein making it appropriate that the hearings in said matters be consolidated;

It is hereby ordered, That the hearing in File No. 59-15 be reconvened for the purpose of considering said application and that there be consolidated therewith the hearing with respect to said declaration set by the Commission's order of July 21, 1950; and that the consolidated hearing be held on August 15, 1950 at 10:00 a. m., e. d. s. t., at the offices of the Commission, 425 Second Street NW., Washington 25, D. C. On such date the hearing room clerk in Room 193 will advise as to the room in which such hearing will be held. Any persons desiring to be heard or otherwise wishing to participate in the consolidated hearing shall file with the Secretary of the Commission on or before August 14, 1950 his request or application therefor as provided in Rule XVII of the Commission's rules of practice.

It is further ordered, That William W. Swift, or any other officer or officers of this Commission designated by it for that purpose, shall preside at such hearing and is hereby authorized to exercise all powers granted to the Commission under section 18 (c) of the act and to a hearing officer under the Commission's rules of practice.

The Division of Public Utilities of the Commission having advised the Commission that it has made a preliminary examination of the application and that, upon the basis thereof, the following matters and questions are presented for consideration without prejudice to its specifying additional matters or questions upon further examination:

1. Whether the proposed amendments are necessary to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the act.

2. Whether the proposed amendments are fair and equitable to the persons affected thereby.

3. Whether the accounting entries proposed to be made by NEPSCO are consistent with sound accounting principles and conform to the standards of the act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder.

4. Generally, whether the proposed amendments comply and are otherwise consistent with all the requirements of the applicable provisions of the act and the rules and regulations promulgated thereunder, and whether it is necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors and consumers to impose terms or conditions in connection therewith, or to require modification thereof.

It is further ordered, That particular attention be directed at said hearing to the foregoing matters and questions and to the matters and questions specified in the Commission's order of July 21, 1950, in File No. 70-2438, Holding Company Act Release No. 9984.

It is further ordered, That jurisdiction be and it hereby is reserved to separate, in whole or in part, either for hearing or for disposition, the matters consolidated herein or any of the issues or questions which may arise in the consolidated hearing, and to take such other action as may appear conducive to an orderly, prompt and economic disposition of the matters involved.

ERENCE AUG 14 5(

It is further ordered, That the Secretary of this Commission shall serve a copy of this order by registered mail on NEPSCO, Central Maine Power Company, and on all persons heretofore granted participation in the proceeding in File No. 59–15; and that notice of said consolidated hearing shall be given to all other persons by publication of this Notice and Order in the FEDERAL REGISTER and by general release of this Commission distributed to the press and mailed to the mailing list for releases issued under the act.

The Commission, on October 4, 1949, having issued its order (Holding Company Act Release No. 9392) permitting to become effective a declaration filed pursuant to the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935 by Pennsylvania Gas & Electric Corporation ("Penn Corp"), a registered holding company, relating to the sale by Penn Corp of its holdings of 4,506 shares of the capital stock of York County Gas Company ("York") for an aggregate cash price of $255,850.68, and having reserved jurisdiction with respect to the use of the net proceeds of such sale and the request of Penn Corp for findings and recitals conforming to the Internal Revenue Code; and

The Commission, on August 1, 1950, having issued its order approving a plan filed by Penn Corp pursuant to section 11 (e) of the act providing for the redemption of all of Penn Corp's outstanding 6 percent Gold Debentures on September 1, 1950, at the redemption price of 105 percent plus accrued interest; and

Penn Corp having requested the entry of an order releasing jurisdiction over the $251,822 of net proceeds from the sale of its holdings of the capital stock of York and authorizing Penn Corp to use such net proceeds to redeem outstanding 6 percent Gold Debentures of Penn Corp on September 1, 1950, at the redemption price thereof, and conforming to the requirements of sections 371 and 373 of the Internal Revenue Code; and

The Commission deeming it appropriate to grant such request:

It is ordered, That the jurisdiction heretofore reserved over the net proceeds from the sale of capital stock of York be, and it hereby is, released.

It is further ordered and recited, That the expenditure by Penn Corp of the $251,822 of net proceeds from the sale by Penn Corp of 4,506 shares of the capital stock of York, for the redemption of 6 percent Gold Debentures of Penn Corp on September 1, 1950, at the redemption price of 105 percent of principal amount plus accrued interest is necessary or appropriate to the integration or simplification of the holding company system of which York is a member and is necessary or appropriate to effectuate the provisions of section 11 (b) of the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935.

By the Commission.

AUTHORITY: §§ 601.371 to 601.378 issued under sec. 4, 62 Stat. 1070, as amended; 15 U. S. C. Sup. 714b. Interpret or apply sec. 5, 62 Stat. 1072, secs. 101, 401, 63 Stat. 1051; 15 U. S. C. Sup. 714c, 7 U. S. C. Sup. 1441, 1421.

§ 601.371 Purpose. This supplement states additional specific requirements which, together with the general requirements contained in the 1950 C. C. C. Grain Price Support Bulletin 1, 15 F. R. 3147, and 1950 C. C. C. Rice Bulletin A, 15 F. R. 3054, apply to loans and purchase agreements under the 1950 Crop Rice Price Support Program.

§ 601.372 Availability of price support—(a) Method of support. Price support will be made available to eligible producers by means of nonrecourse farm-storage and warehouse-storage loans and of purchase agreements.

(b) Area. Farm-storage and warehouse-storage loans and purchase agreements will be available on eligible rice produced in the States of Arizona, Arkansas, California, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, and Texas.

(c) Where to apply. Application for price support must be made at the office of the PMA county committee which keeps the farm-program records for the farm.

(d) When to apply. Loans and purchase agreements will be available from the time of harvest through January 31, 1951, and the applicable documents must be signed by the producer and delivered to the county committee not later than such date.

(e) Eligible producer. (1) An eligible producer shall be any individual, partnership, association, corporation, or other legal entity producing rice in 1950 or having an interest in a 1950 rice crop as landlord, tenant, or sharecropper, and includes a person owning and operating his own farm, a tenant operating a farm rented for cash, a tenant operating a farm under a crop-share lease, contract, or agreement, a landlord leasing to share tenants, and an irrigation company furnishing water for a share of the crop, who is in compliance with the 1950 Rice Acreage Allotment Regulations, 15 F. R. 1457, as determined in accordance with 1950 Rice Bulletin A, 15 F. R. 3054.

(2) Cooperative marketing associations of producers shall be eligible for loans and purchase agreements: Provided, That:

(i) The producer members are bound by contract to market through the association;

(ii) The major part of the rice marketed by the association is produced by members who are eligible producers;

(iii) The members share proportionately in the proceeds from marketings according to the quantity and quality of rice each delivers to the association;

(iv) The association has the legal right to pledge or mortgage the rice as security for a loan.

(3) The following special conditions of price support shall apply to cooperative marketing associations of producers:

(i) The association must maintain a record of the total quantity of rough rice acquired by or delivered to the association from all sources and a separate record of the quantity of eligible rice delivered to the association by eligible producer members. The books of such associations shall be made available to CCC for inspection at all reasonable times.

(ii) Eligible rice placed under loan by the association must be stored separately from all other rice and kept separately stored until redeemed from the loan or delivered to CCC.

(iii) Eligible rice delivered by the association to CCC under purchase agreements must represent the average quality of eligible rice delivered by eligible producers as shown in the records of the association.

(iv) The total quantity of rough rice delivered to CCC by a cooperative marketing association under loans and purchase agreements may not exceed a quantity determined by multiplying the quantity of rough rice in the inventory of the association on April 30, 1951, by a factor determined (by or under the direction of the PMA State Committee) by dividing the total quantity of eligible rice received from eligible producer members by the total quantity of rough rice received by the association from all sources during the period August 1, 1950, through April 30, 1951; except that this limitation shall not operate to reduce the quantity of rice under loan which may be delivered to CCC, below the quantity of eligible rice actually under loan by the association on April 30, 1951.

§ 601.373 Eligible rice. At the time the rice is placed under loan or delivered under a purchase agreement, it must meet the following requirements:

(a) The rice must have been produced in 1950 by an eligible producer in the States of Arizona, Arkansas, California, Louisiana, Mississippi, Missouri, or Texas, on a farm on which the rice acreage is within the rice acreage allotment.

(b) Except in the case of eligible cooperative marketing associations, the beneficial interest in the rice must be in the person tendering the rice for loan or for delivery under a purchase agreement, and must always have been in him, or must have been in him and a former producer whom he succeeded before the rice was harvested.

(c) In accordance with the Official Standards of the United States for Rough Rice, the rice must be of the varieties included in classes I to IX, inclusive, or of the varieties Arkrose, Blue Bonnet, Calrose, Kamrose, Magnolia, Patna, Prelude, R. N., Rexark, and Zenith, included in the miscellaneous class X.

(d) The rice must (1) grade U. S. No. 4 or better, or U. S. No. 4 or better of special grades ("slightly seedy," "seedy," "slightly chalky," "chalky," "slightly muddy" or "muddy") (rice of special grades other than those listed shall not be eligible rice); (2) show a minimum yield of 25 pounds of head rice from 100 pounds of rough rice on the basis of the respective milling tests in California and in the southern States; and (3) contain not more than 14½ percent moisture, except that rice produced in California and Arizona may contain not more than 15 percent moisture.

(e) If offered as security for a farm-storage loan, the rice must have been stored in the granary at least 30 days prior to its inspection for measurement, sampling, and sealing, unless otherwise approved by the PMA State committee.

§ 601.374 Warehouse receipts. Warehouse receipts, representing rice in approved warehouse storage to be placed under loan or delivered under a purchase agreement, must meet the requirements below:

(a) Warehouse receipts must be issued in the name of the producer, or cooperative marketing association, must be properly endorsed in blank so as to vest title in the holder, and must be issued by a warehouse approved under the Uniform Rice Storage Agreement. (In accordance with the terms of this agreement, the warehouseman must insure the rice.)

(b) Each warehouse receipt, or the warehouseman's supplemental certificate (in duplicate) properly identified with the warehouse recept, must show weight, quality in terms of class, grade, test weight, dockage, moisture, and such applicable factors as damaged kernels, red rice, foreign material, milling quality or milling test, chalky kernels, mud lumps, muddy kernels, seeds, cereal grains, and rice of other classes.

(c) Warehouse receipts representing rice stored on a "commingled" basis must be accompanied by supplemental certificates (CCC Rice Form B, Supplement) executed in duplicate by the warehouseman, under which the warehouseman assumes responsibility for delivering rice of the quantity and quality indicated thereon.

(d) If the warehouse receipt states that the rice is stored "identity preserved," the producer must execute a supplemental certificate and assume responsibility for the quantity and quality indicated thereon.

(e) A separate warehouse receipt must be submitted for each class (or in the case of Class X, for each variety), grade, and milling quality or milling test of rice.

(f) Warehouse receipts shall carry an endorsement in substantially the following form:

Warehouse charges through April 30, 1951, on the rice represented by this warehouse receipt have been paid or otherwise provided for, and a lien for such charges will not be claimed by the warehouseman from CCC or any subsequent holder of this warehouse receipt.

§ 601.375 Determination of quantity. Loans and purchase agreements shall be made on the basis of rough rice expressed in units of 100 pounds, and fractional units of less than 100 pounds shall be disregarded. The quantity of rice placed under farm-storage loan may be determined either by weight or by measurement. The quantity of rice placed under a warehouse-storage loan or delivered under a farm-storage loan or under a purchase agreement shall be determined by weight.

In determining the quantity of sacked rice by weight, a deduction of ¾ of a pound for each 100 pounds of gross weight will be made.

When the quantity of rice is determined by measurement, a cubic foot of rice testing 45 pounds per bushel, shall be 36 pounds. The quantity determined will be the following percentages of the quantity determined for 45 pound rice:

For rice testing—	Percent
45 pounds or over	100
44 pounds or over, but less than 45 pounds	98
43 pounds or over, but less than 44 pounds	96
42 pounds or over, but less than 43 pounds	93
41 pounds or over, but less than 42 pounds	91
40 pounds or over, but less than 41 pounds	89

Proportionately lower for rice testing below 40 pounds.

In cases where the warehouseman guarantees the quantity and quality of rice shown on the warehouse receipt or the supplemental certificate, loans will be made on 100 percent of the quantity of rice determined in accordance with this section. In all other cases, loans will be made on 95 percent of the quantity of rice so determined, and at the time of delivery settlement will be made on the basis of the actual quantity and quality of rice delivered.

The percentage of dockage shall be determined in accordance with the United States Standards for Rough Rice with respect to all lots of rice produced in California and Arizona. The weight of such dockage shall be deducted from the gross weight of the rice in determining the net quantity available for loan or purchase.

§ 601.376 Determination of quality. The class, variety, grade, grade factors, milling quality or milling test and all quality factors shall be determined in accordance with the methods set forth in the official United States Standards for Rough Rice and the instructions for determining milling quality and milling test. The test weight and milling test for such rice shall be on a dockage-free basis.

At the time of making a loan on farm-stored rice or "identity preserved" warehouse-stored rice, the county committee will draw a representative sample of each lot of rice and obtain an official sample inspection certificate for each such lot. The producer will execute the supplemental certificate (C. C. C. Rice Form B, Supplement) for each such lot.

Whenever, at the time of delivery of rice to CCC, quality and quantity are guaranteed by the warehouseman under a warehouse-storage loan, the quality and quantity shown on the warehouse receipt or supplemental certificate shall be the basis for settlement with the producer. In all other cases, the producer shall submit an official Federal or Federal-State lot inspection certificate dated subsequent to April 30, 1951. Sample inspection fees incurred by the county committee in connection with the making of loans will be for the account of CCC. Lot inspection fees incurred in connection with the delivery of rice to CCC will be for the account of the producer.

§ 601.377 Maturity of loans. Loans mature on demand but not later than April 30, 1951.

§ 601.378 Support rates. Loans will be made, and rice delivered under purchase agreements will be purchased, at the support rates set forth in this section.

(a) Basic rates. The basic support rate for 100 pounds of rough rice in store in an approved warehouse and with all accrued charges paid through April 30, 1951, shall be computed as follows:

Multiply the yield (in pounds per hundredweight) of head rice by the applicable value factor for head rice (as shown in the table below according to class or variety and geographical area). Similarly, multiply the yield (in pounds per hundredweight) of broken rice by the applicable value factor for broken rice. Add the results of these two computations to obtain the basic loan or purchase rate per 100 pounds of rough rice and express such rate in dollars and cents.

In the case of rough rice produced in California and Arizona, the milling test must be made on the basis of dockage-free rough rice and the head rice yield shall be stated on the basis of head rice with 4 percent broken kernels. In computing the loan or purchase rate, fractions of a pound of yields of heads or brokens shall be dropped and the rate shall be rounded to the nearest whole cent.

VALUE FACTORS FOR HEAD AND BROKEN RICE

Class or variety	California and Arizona		Other areas

(b) Discounts and premiums. The basic support rates, specified under paragraph (a) of this section, per 100 pounds of rough rice shall be adjusted by the discounts and premiums for each grade applicable to an individual lot of rough rice, for which a premium or discount is specified:

(1) California and Arizona:

Grade U. S. No. 1: Premium of 10 cents per 100 pounds.

Grade U. S. No. 2: Premium of 5 cents per 100 pounds.

Special grade, slightly muddy: Discount of 5 cents per 100 pounds.

Special grade, muddy: Discount of 15 cents per 100 pounds.

NOTE: Discounts for special grades are in addition to the applicable numerical grade premium or the applicable numerical grade discount.

(c) Warehouse charges. There shall be no storage allowance on rice placed under loan or delivered to CCC under a purchase agreement. In the case of rice placed under a warehouse-storage loan or stored in an approved warehouse and delivered to CCC under a purchase agreement, each warehouse receipt must be endorsed to show that warehouse charges through April 30, 1951, on the rice represented by the warehouse receipt have been paid or otherwise provided for, and that a lien for such charges will not be claimed by the warehouseman from CCC or any subsequent holder of the warehouse receipt.

(d) Settlement—(1) Farm-storage and "identity preserved" warehouse-storage loans. In the case of rice delivered to CCC from farm-storage or "identity preserved" warehouse storage under the loan program, settlement will be made at the applicable support rate. The support rate will be for the grade and quality of the total quantity of rice delivered.

If the rice under farm-storage or "identity preserved" warehouse-storage loan is, upon delivery, of a grade and/or yield (as shown by milling quality or milling test) for which no support rate has been established, the settlement value shall be the support rate established for the grade and yield of the rice placed under loan, less the difference, if any, at the time of delivery, between the market price for the grade and yield placed under loan and the market price of the rice delivered, as determined by CCC.

(2) Purchase agreements. Rice delivered to CCC under a purchase agreement must meet the eligibility requirements of rice placed under loan. The purchase rate per 100 pounds of eligible rice will be the applicable support rate established for the grade and yield of the rice delivered.

TITLE 7—AGRICULTURE

Chapter VIII—Production and Marketing Administration (Sugar Branch), Department of Agriculture

Subchapter B—Sugar Requirements and Quotas

[Sugar Reg. 814.3, Amdt. 2]

PART 814—ALLOTMENT OF SUGAR QUOTAS

PUERTO RICO 1950

Basis and purpose. This amendment is issued under section 205 (a) of the Sugar Act of 1948 (hereinafter called the "act") for the purpose of revising § 814.3, as amended (15 F. R. 2400; 15 F. R. 3982) which allots the 1950 sugar quota for Puerto Rico for consumption in the continental United States (including raw sugar transferred for further processing and shipment within the direct-consumption portion of such quota) and the 1950 sugar quota for local consumption in Puerto Rico among persons (1) whose Puerto Rican raw sugar is brought into the continental United States or who transfer such sugar for further processing and shipment to the continental United States as direct-consumption sugar, and (2) who market sugar for local consumption in Puerto Rico.

The sugar quota for Puerto Rico for consumption in the continental United States is referred to herein as "mainland quota" and allotments thereof are referred to as "mainland allotments." The sugar quota for consumption in Puerto Rico and allotments thereof are referred to respectively as "local quota" and "local allotments."

The allotments established by the initial order and amendment 1 were based in part upon estimates of production of sugar from the 1949–50 crop by each allottee and to guard against the possibility of a processor exceeding its final allotment, the amount which could be marketed prior to September 1, 1950, was limited to 75 percent of the initial allotment, and later to 90 percent of the amended allotment.

Each allottee under § 814.3 agreed to waive its right to a public hearing prior to the issuance of a revised order based upon the same allotment formula as the initial order but using final 1949–50 crop production data in place of the estimated data used in the initial order.

Such actual production data are now available and this amendment provides for the substitution of the actual data. However, the revised allotments are determined by use of the same formula as that utilized in determining the initial allotments.

This amendment also removes the restriction on marketings prior to September 1, 1950, so that the full amounts of the allotments established herein may be marketed at any time during the remainder of the calendar year. The previous allotment order limits marketings prior to September 1, 1950, to 90 percent of the allotments. Since a number of allottees have already marketed 90 percent of their initial allotments, they are precluded from marketing additional quantities of sugar until this amendment becomes effective. It is imperative, therefore, that this amendment become effective at the earliest possible date in order to permit continued orderly marketing of sugar. Accordingly, it is hereby found that compliance with the 30-day effective date requirement of the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237), is impracticable and contrary to the public interest and, consequently, this order shall be effective when published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Pursuant to the authority vested in the Secretary of Agriculture by section 205 (a) of the act, § 814.3 is hereby amended to read as follows:

§ 814.3 Allotments of 1950 sugar quotas for Puerto Rico—(a) Allotments. The 1950 sugar quota for Puerto Rico for consumption in the continental United States, including raw sugar to be further processed and shipped within the direct-consumption portion of such quota, amounting to 910,000 short tons of sugar, raw value, and the 1950 sugar quota for local consumption in Puerto Rico, amounting to 105,000 short tons of sugar, raw value, are hereby allotted to the following processors in amounts which appear opposite their respective names:

(b) Producers' marketings under allotments. If settlement with producers of sugarcane is made in sugar, marketings of such sugar of such producers shall be charged to the allotments of the processor. Each processor shall reserve a share of each of its allotments for the marketings of each such producer. Such share shall be equal to the same percentage of the allotment that the producer's 1949–50 crop sugar plus carryover on January 1, 1950, is of the total production of 1949–50 crop sugar plus carryover on January 1, 1950, of the processor and all his producers.

(c) Restrictions on marketing. (1) During the calendar year 1950 each processor named in paragraph (a) of this section, together with the producers with whom it shares its allotments under paragraph (b) of this section, is hereby prohibited from bringing into or marketing for entry into the continental United States for consumption therein, or from marketing for local consumption in Puerto Rico, any sugar in excess of the allotments established in paragraph (a) of this section.

(2) All persons who acquire raw sugar for further processing and resale as direct-consumption sugar are hereby prohibited from marketing sugar for local consumption in Puerto Rico in excess of the amounts of sugar acquired for such purpose within the limitations specified in paragraph (a) of this section, and subparagraph (1) of this paragraph.

(d) Transfer or exchange of allotments. The allotments established in paragraph (a) of this section, or producers' shares thereof established under paragraph (b) of this section shall not be transferred or exchanged without the approval of the Director or Assistant Director, Caribbean Area Office, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, San Juan, Puerto Rico.

(e) Specific charges against allotments. Sugar produced in Puerto Rico which is brought into or marketed for entry into the continental United States for consumption therein or marketed for local consumption in Puerto Rico after December 31, 1949, but prior to April 28, 1950, shall be charged to the applicable allotment of the processor who processed such sugar.

TERMINATION OF DETERMINATION OF EQUIVALENT PRICE

In accordance with the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.) a determination by the Secretary of Agriculture of a price equivalent to or comparable with the weighted average price per 40-quart can of 40 percent bottling quality cream, f. o. b. Boston, was published in the June 6, 1950, issue of the FEDERAL REGISTER (15 F. R. 3501) to be effective immediately, pursuant to § 904.7 (f) of the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Greater Boston, Massachusetts, milk marketing area; § 934.6 (f) of the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Lowell-Lawrence, Massachusetts, marketing area; § 947.14 of the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Fall River, Massachusetts, marketing area; § 996.7 (e) of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Springfield, Massachusetts, marketing area; and § 999.7 (e) of the order regulating the handling of milk in the Worcester, Massachusetts, marketing area. The purpose of this determination was to provide an equivalent or a comparable price for use in the computation of minimum class prices and butterfat differentials under the orders referred to above during those months in which the United States Department of Agriculture did not report or publish a weighted average price per 40-quart can of 40 percent bottling quality cream, f. o. b. Boston, as specified in the respective orders. The determination recited that the United States Department of Agriculture had not published the aforesaid price during recent reporting periods and provided that the equivalent or comparable price determined should remain in full force and effect indefinitely. The United States Department of Agriculture has resumed reporting the weighted average price per 40-quart can of 40 percent bottling quality cream, f. o. b. Boston, therefore the determination of an equivalent or comparable price published in the June 6, 1950, issue of the FEDERAL REGISTER (15 F. R. 3501) is hereby terminated.

As required by section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.), it is hereby found and determined that notice and public procedure prior to this termination are unnecessary since the determination of equivalent or comparable price being terminated has already been rendered inoperative by the resumption of the reporting of a weighted average price per 40-quart can of 40 percent bottling quality cream f. o. b. Boston, by the United States Department of Agriculture, and for the reason that the submission at this time of oral or written data, views, or arguments relative to the future effect of the determination would serve no useful purpose inasmuch as all such data, views, and arguments would necessarily be subject to review when and if the use of a price equivalent is again required.

In accordance with section 4 (c) of the Administrative Procedure Act, it is also found and determined that good cause exists for making this termination of an equivalent or comparable price immediately effective because it results in no modification of the current regulation and requires no preparation by the persons affected.

(Sec. 5, 49 Stat. 753, as amended; 7 U. S. C. and Sup., 608c)

Issued at Washington, D. C., this 7th day of August 1950, to become effective immediately.

ESTABLISHMENT OF PIECE RATES

On July 22, 1950, notice was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER that the Administrator of the Wage and Hour Division, United States Department of Labor, proposed to establish minimum piece rates of 48 cents per gross for the hand-braiding of cotton tape buttons, 24 to 30 ligne, and 53⅓ cents per gross for the hand-braiding of leather buttons, 24 to 30 ligne, by homeworkers in Puerto Rico. The hand-braiding of cotton tape buttons consists of tying a braided knot around the tip of a finger, bringing the knot into a rounded button shape by pulling at the ends of the strip, inserting the ends of the strip into the braided part, and bringing the ends together. The hand-braiding of leather buttons consists of tying a braided knot around the tip of a finger, bringing the knot into a rounded button shape by pulling at the ends of the strip, inserting a leather shank at the base, and tucking the loose ends between the braided part and the shank.

So that the above minimum piece rates be effective on the same date as the minimum wage order for the Button, Buckle and Jewelry Industry in Puerto Rico (part 697 of this chapter) this order is hereby issued to become effective August 21, 1950.

Signed at Washington, D. C., this 8th day of August 1950.

DEER HUNTING

Basis and Purpose: On the basis of observations and reports of field representatives of the Fish and Wildlife Service and of the Nevada Fish and Game Commission, it has been determined that the public hunting of deer can be permitted on the Charles Sheldon Antelope Range without interfering with the primary purpose of the Range.

Inasmuch as the following regulation is a relaxation of the present prohibition against deer hunting on the Range, the notice and public rule-making procedure required by the Administrative Procedure Act (60 Stat. 237, 5 U. S. C. 1001 et seq.) are herewith found to be impracticable, and the effective date requirement of the Administrative Procedure Act does not apply.

Effective immediately upon publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER, § 31.46 is added.

§ 31.46 Deer hunting permitted. Deer hunting is permitted during the period from October 8, to 15, inclusive, 1950, on that part of the Charles Sheldon Antelope Range situated east and south of the County road (State Highway 8A), otherwise known as the Vya-Denio Road, in accordance with the provisions of §§ 31.43 to 31.45, inclusive. Hunters, when entering or leaving the public hunting area, must report at such checking stations as may be established for the purpose of regulating the hunt.

PROPOSED RULE MAKING

DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Bureau of Animal Industry

[9 CFR, Part 94]

RINDERPEST AND FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE; PROHIBITED AND RESTRICTED IMPORTATION

NOTICE OF PROPOSED AMENDMENT

Notice is hereby given in accordance with section 4 (a) of the Administrative Procedure Act (5 U. S. C. 1003 (a)) that the Secretary of Agriculture, pursuant to the authority vested in him by section 306 of the Tariff Act of 1930 (19 U. S. C. 1306) and by section 2 of the act of Congress approved February 2, 1903, as amended (21 U. S. C. 111), proposes to amend the regulations prohibiting and restricting the importation of certain animals and animal products into the United States because of rinderpest and foot-and-mouth disease (9 CFR Part 94) to read as follows:

PART 94—RINDERPEST, FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE, FOWL PEST (FOWL PLAGUE), AND NEWCASTLE DISEASE (AVIAN PNEUMOENCEPHALITIS); PROHIBITED AND RESTRICTED IMPORTATIONS

§ 94.1 Designation of countries where rinderpest or foot-and-mouth disease exists; importations prohibited. Notice is hereby given that the Secretary of Agriculture has determined that rinderpest or foot-and-mouth disease exists in the following designated countries: Mexico; all the countries of South America except Colombia; and all the countries east of the 30th meridian west longitude and west of the International Date Line, except Iceland, Greenland, Republic of Ireland, Northern Ireland, the Channel Islands, Australia, New Zealand, and the Union of South Africa. Official notice of such determination has been given to the Secretary of the Treasury. Therefore, the importation from such countries into the United States of cattle, sheep, other domestic ruminants, and swine, or of fresh, chilled, or frozen beef, veal, mutton, lamb, or pork (including the entry into any port of the United States of any vessel having on board as sea stores or otherwise such animals or meats from the above named countries), is prohibited.

§ 94.2 Meat or products derived from goats, wild ruminants, or wild swine. The importation of fresh, chilled, or frozen meat or products derived from goats, wild ruminants, or wild swine, originating in any country designated in § 94.1 is prohibited, except as provided in § 94.3.

§ 94.3 Organs, glands, extracts, or secretions of ruminants or swine. The importation of fresh, chilled, or frozen organs, glands, extracts, or secretions derived from ruminants or swine, originating in any country designated in § 94.1, except for pharmaceutical purposes, is prohibited.

§ 94.4 Foreign cured meats from countries where rinderpest or foot-and-mouth disease exists. The importation of cured meat derived from ruminants or swine, originating in any country designated in § 94.1 is prohibited unless the following conditions have been fulfilled:

(a) All bones shall have been completely removed in the country of origin.

(b) The meat shall have been held in an unfrozen, fresh condition for at least 7 days immediately following the slaughter of the animals from which it was derived.

(c) The meat shall have been thoroughly cured by the application of dry salt or by soaking in a solution of salt.

(d) The meat shall be limited to usual commercial wholesale cuts such as hams, loins, briskets, rounds and the like, and shall have been shipped and offered for importation in an unfrozen state.

§ 94.5 Garbage from foreign meats or meat products. No garbage derived in whole or in part from meats or meat products originating in any country designated in § 94.1 shall be unloaded from any vessel, aircraft or other carrier in the United States or within the territorial waters thereof: Provided, however, That such garbage, when contained in tight receptacles, may be so unloaded for incineration or other proper disposal in such manner and under such supervision as may be prescribed by the Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry.

§ 94.6 Dressed poultry. The importation of dressed poultry from any foreign country except Canada is prohibited unless such poultry shall have been drawn and the feet and heads shall have been removed.

§ 94.7 Disposal of animals, meats, products, and other commodities refused admission. Animals, meats, products, and other commodities that are prohibited importation or entry under the regulations in this part shall be handled as follows:

(a) Animals and meats prohibited importation under § 94.1 which come into the United States by ocean vessel and are offered for entry and refused admission into this country shall be destroyed or otherwise disposed of as the Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry may direct unless they are exported by the consignee within 10 days on the same vessel and meanwhile are retained on board such vessel under such isolation and other safeguards as said Chief of Bureau may require.

(b) Animals and meats prohibited importation under § 94.1 which come into the United States by any means other than ocean vessel and are offered for entry and refused admission into this country shall be destroyed or otherwise disposed of as the Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry may direct unless they are exported by the consignee within 24 hours on the same carrier and meanwhile are retained on board such carrier under such isolation and other safeguards as said Chief of Bureau may require.

(c) Animals and meats prohibited importation under § 94.1 which come into the United States by any means but are not offered for entry into this country, and animals, meats, products and other commodities prohibited importation or entry under §§ 94.2, 94.3, 94.4, and 94.6 which come into the United States by any means, whether they are offered for entry into this country or not, shall be immediately destroyed or otherwise disposed of as the Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry may direct.

The principal purposes of the proposed amendments are (1) to designate in simpler form the countries where foot-and-mouth disease or rinderpest has been found to exist; (2) to add fresh, chilled, and frozen goat meat to the coverage of § 94.2; (3) to prohibit the importation of dressed poultry from countries other than Canada unless the poultry have been drawn and their feet and heads removed; and (4) to consolidate in one regulation the provisions of several regulations dealing with the disposal of animals, meats, products, and commodities prohibited importation or entry into the United States.

Any interested person who wishes to submit data, views, or arguments concerning the proposed amendment may do so by filing them with the Chief of the Bureau of Animal Industry within 15 days after publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

R. 7637), which sets apart and reserves the airspace below the altitude of 4,000 feet above sea level over the below-designated areas in the Counties of Cook, Lake, and St. Louis, State of Minnesota, as an airspace reservation, and prohibits the navigation of aircraft within these areas after January 1, 1951, except in conformity with the provisions of said Executive order and as permitted by or under the authority of regulations prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture.

Prior to the issuance of such regulations, consideration will be given to any data, views, or arguments pertaining thereto which are filed in writing with the Chief, Forest Service, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., within 30 days after the date of publication of this notice in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The proposed regulations are as follows:

§ 251.26 Description of areas. Sections 251.27 to 251.31, inclusive, apply to those areas of land and water in the Counties of Cook, Lake, and St. Louis, State of Minnesota, within the exterior boundaries of the Superior National Forest which have heretofore been designated by the Secretary of Agriculture as the Superior Roadless Area, the Little Indian Sioux Roadless Area, and the Caribou Roadless Area, respectively, and which are more particularly described as follows:

[Docket No. AO-166-A12]

HANDLING OF MILK IN CINCINNATI, OHIO, MARKETING AREA

NOTICE OF RECOMMENDED DECISION AND OPPORTUNITY TO FILE WRITTEN EXCEPTIONS WITH RESPECT TO PROPOSED AMENDMENT TO TENTATIVE MARKETING AGREEMENT, AND TO ORDER, AS AMENDED

Pursuant to the provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.), and the applicable rules of practice and procedure, as amended, governing the formulation of marketing agreements and marketing orders (7 CFR Part 900), notice is hereby given of the filing with the Hearing Clerk of the recommended decision of the Assistant Administrator, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, with respect to a proposed amendment to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Cincinnati, Ohio, marketing area. Interested parties may file written exceptions to this decision with the Hearing Clerk, United States Department of Agriculture, Washington 25, D. C., not later than the close of business the 6th day after publication of this decision in the FEDERAL REGISTER. Exceptions should be filed in quadruplicate.

Preliminary statement. The hearing, on the record of which the proposed amendment to the tentative marketing agreement and to the order, as amended, was formulated, was conducted at Cincinnati, Ohio, on March 13-14, 1950, pursuant to notice thereof which was issued on March 3, 1950 (15 F. R. 1240).

The material issues of record related to:

1. A revision of the basis for determination of the milk to be priced and included in the computation of the uniform price;
2. A revision of the definition of "emergency milk;"
3. A revision of the provisions for classifying milk;
4. A revision of the basis for determination of the price for Class III milk;
5. A change in the basic price used in the determination of the prices for Class I milk and Class II milk; and
6. A revision of the present method of accounting for milk.

Findings and conclusions. The findings and conclusions with respect to the aforementioned material issues, all of which are based on the evidence introduced at the hearing and the record thereof, are as follows:

(1) The basis for determination of the milk to be priced and included in the computation of the uniform price should be revised.

The present order provides for pricing and including in the computation of the uniform price, milk which is received at a plant from which milk is disposed of in fluid form in the marketing area.

Objections raised to the present order in this respect were that milk may be priced and included in the uniform price pool without any obligation that such milk be supplied at times when it is need in the market. A plant may make only one small sale in the marketing area during any of the months of flush production and all the milk received from dairy farmers at such plant is now priced and pooled during such month even though the plant does not supply any milk to the market during the months of short supply. Also during any of the months of short supply a plant may make only one small sale in the marketing area, manufacture the remainder of its milk into dairy products and have all the milk received from dairy farmers priced and pooled during such month. The pooling and pricing of all milk received from dairy farmers at such plants tend to reduce the price received by producers whose milk is used regularly in the market and to discourage such producers from supplying an amount of milk sufficient to meet the needs of the market.

Milk received at plants outside the marketing area should not be pooled unless such plants (a) dispose of not less than 10 percent of their total route disposition of Class I milk on routes operating in the marketing area or (b) supply a reasonable amount of milk during the months of short supply to a plant which is located in the marketing area and from which milk is disposed of on routes operating in the marketing area or to a plant which is located outside the marketing area and from which not less than 10 percent of its entire route disposition of Class I milk is on routes operating in the marketing area.

Cincinnati is not the primary market for plants from which less than 10 percent of the total route disposition of Class I milk is in the marketing area. Very likely the market where the 90 percent rather than the market where the 10 percent of the milk is sold would have first claim upon the supplies of such a plant. The economic conditions in the territory where 90 percent of the milk is sold may be different from those prevailing in the area (i. e. regulated marketing area) where the 10 percent is sold and the prices specified in the order for the marketing area may not be appropriate in the territory outside the marketing area. The pricing of all milk received at such a plant from dairy farmers might well result in a serious financial disadvantage to the operator of such plant, especially if the prices paid by competitors were lower than those specified in the order. A requirement that at least 10 percent of the total route disposition of Class I milk from a plant be from routes operating in the marketing area before all milk received at such plant from dairy farmers would be priced and pooled is reasonable under the circumstances of this market.

Plants which are located outside the marketing area and from which no routes are operated in the marketing area should meet specified minimum requirements with respect to furnishing a supply of milk to the market during the months of short supply in order to have the receipts at such plants included in the pooling arrangement. More particularly, plants should furnish during the months listed below a determined amount of milk (i. e., not less than 1 percent of the total Class I milk in the pool for the second preceding month) in order to be included in the pool for the following months:

Months during which the determined amount of milk must be furnished:	For inclusion in the pool during
1 of the 2 months of October and November.	November.
2 of the 3 months of October, November, and December.	December.
3 of the 4 months of October, November, December, and January.	January through October.

This requirement recognizes the need for a standby supply during the months of short supply, furnishes a definite standard amount to be supplied by each and every plant, permits the operator of a plant to learn before the first of any given month what such determined amount is to be for such month and will not disqualify any plant whose supply is needed in the market. At the same time this requirement will tend to limit the abuse of handlers in entering plants in the Cincinnati pool without assuming any substantial responsibility for supplying the market.

It is necessary to delineate a method for determining what plants are to be included in the pool between the date this amendment becomes effective and the date (i. e., November 1, 1950) upon which a plant would first be pooled pursuant to the above requirement. The most desirable method appears to be to include in the pool between the effective date of this amendment and November 1, 1950, all plants which were in the pool during the month next preceding the effective date of this amendment.

Producer milk diverted by a cooperative association during any month of the year to a plant from which no milk is disposed of in the marketing area should be priced and included in the pool.

The present order further provides for pricing and including in the computation of the uniform price, producer milk which is diverted by a cooperative association during April, May, or June to a plant from which no milk is disposed of in the marketing area.

There may be necessity for a cooperative association to divert milk, not needed in a bottling plant, to a manufacturing plant during months other than April, May, or June. Limitation of the period when diverted milk may continue in the pool to these three months would result in reduced prices to those producers whose milk was diverted during months other than April, May, or June as such producers probably would receive only the manufacturing price for their milk so diverted. This would result in uncertainty among producers as to the returns on the sale of their milk and would hinder the efficient production of milk for the market. It is desirable therefore to include in the pool producer milk diverted by a cooperative association during all months. Accordingly, the definitions of "producer" and "handler" are revised and definitions of "route," "fluid milk plant," and "pool plant" are added.

(2) The definition of "emergency milk" should be revised.

More particularly emergency milk should be defined as milk or skim milk in excess of the milk or skim milk, respectively, used in Class III milk received by a handler during any month when the receipts of producer milk by such handler are less than 120 percent of such handler's Class I utilization.

Under the present order emergency milk is that milk or skim milk received from outside sources in excess of the total quantity of milk diverted by a cooperative association on the same day.

The relationship between receipts of producer milk and utilization of Class I milk, however, is a more accurate criterion for the need of emergency milk than is the amount of milk diverted by a cooperative association. A supply equal to 120 percent of Class I milk is sufficient under normal conditions to cover the usual daily variations.

(3) The provisions for classifying milk should be revised by (a) including in Class I any product containing less than 8 percent butterfat not named in another class, (b) by including in Class II any product containing more than 8 percent butterfat not named in another class, (c) by naming the products in Class III milk, and (d) by allocating transfers from a pool plant to a plant other than a pool plant to the highest priced class utilization in such receiving plant during months other than April, May, June, and July.

Under the present order, fluid milk is the main item in Class I milk, cream is the main item in Class II milk, and all milk used to produce a milk product other than one specified in Class II is included in Class III.

When a new product is introduced to the market it should be classified in the class which appears to contain products which are similar to the new product. In the determination of whether such product shall be included in Class I or in Class II a standard based upon the percentage of butterfat in such product is appropriate. A new product containing 8 percent or more of butterfat more nearly resembles cream than milk and should be included in Class II milk. Likewise, a product containing less than 8 percent butterfat appropriately would be included in Class I milk. If the classification of a new product in this way is unsatisfactory to anyone, consideration may be given to classifying it in another class by the usual procedures for amending the order.

In order to avoid misunderstanding as to what products are included in Class III milk, the various products should be definitely named. Accordingly, whipped cream, whipped cream products, and eggnog are specified as products of Class III. These products have heretofore been in that class but producers proposed that they should be classified as Class II. These products, however, may be made from uninspected milk and sold in the marketing area and for this reason they are appropriately classified in Class III with other products which need not be made from inspected milk.

Transfers from a pool plant to a plant other than a pool plant during months other than April, May, June, and July should be allocated to the highest priced utilization in such receiving plant.

Under the present order, milk or cream transferred to another person not a handler may be classified as Class III subject to verification by the market administrator, if both parties agree to such classification.

There appears to be little reason why milk of producers, transferred to a plant other than a pool plant during the normally short season, should be classified as Class III milk if any milk has been used in Class I or Class II in the receiving plant. During the months when the supply of producer milk is usually shortest there may be need for such milk in Class I or Class II in the market.

A provision classifying such milk transferred during months other than the flush season in the highest priced class in which there is use in the receiving plant will assure the highest return to Cincinnati producers commensurate with the utilization of milk in plants having utilization in Class I and Class II, will not interfere with the transfer to plants in which only products named in Class III are manufactured and will not be unduly burdensome upon handlers.

(4) The basis for determination of the Class III price should be revised by changing the butter-powder formula.

The present order provides that the Class III price shall be the higher of the prices resulting from a butter-powder formula and the average price paid for milk at five Kentucky, Ohio, and Indiana manufacturing plants.

The present butter-powder formula makes use of a yield factor of 7 pounds of powder from 96 pounds of skim milk. This is equal to a yield of a slightly less than 7.3 pounds of powder per 100 pounds of skim milk. The average yield of powder from 100 pounds of skim milk in a plant representative of the Cincinnati area, however, approximates 8.5 pounds.

In converting prices of powder to equivalent prices for the skim milk in order to reflect accurately the value of skim milk used in making the powder, a representative yield of powder from skim milk should be used. Hence, the yield factor 8.5 pounds should be used instead of 7.3 pounds.

In months when the butter-powder formula price becomes the basic formula price, the increase in the powder yield factor will result in slightly increased Class I and Class II prices as compared to the present order. There will also be a similar increase in the Class III price during months when the butter-powder formula price becomes the Class III price. Since the result will be to effect a closer alignment among other fluid milk markets, the resultant increase is concluded to be justified.

The average price paid by the five Kentucky, Ohio, and Indiana plants should remain as an alternative Class III price.

The proposed substitution of the average price paid for milk at eighteen Wisconsin and Michigan manufacturing plants for the average price paid by the five Kentucky, Ohio, and Indiana plants as an alternative Class III price was not substantiated. The value of Class III milk is related to the prices paid for uninspected milk produced locally for manufacture into dairy products. The prices paid at the five Kentucky, Ohio, and Indiana plants are more representative of the local value of milk used for manufacturing purposes than are the prices paid at the eighteen Wisconsin and Michigan plants.

(5) The basic price used in the determination of the prices for Class I milk and Class II milk should be changed by substituting the average price paid for milk by eighteen Michigan and Wisconsin manufacturing plants for the average price paid for milk by five Kentucky, Ohio, and Indiana manufacturing plants.

Under the present order, prices for Class I milk and Class II milk are determined by adding a differential to the higher of a butter-powder formula price or the average of the prices paid by five local manufacturing plants.

The average of the prices paid for milk at 18 Michigan and Wisconsin plants would appear to represent better the national level of prices paid for milk to be used in the manufacture of dairy products than would the average of the prices reported as paid for milk at the five local plants.

It is important that class prices be kept in alignment with those in other nearby fluid milk markets and the average paid for milk at the 18 plants is widely used as a basic price for the determination of prices in other milk markets in the Ohio area. A closer correlation between class prices in the Cincinnati market and in other nearby markets would result therefore from the use of the price paid by the 18 plants.

(6) The present method of accounting for milk should be changed to one of accounting for the actual pounds of milk and butterfat used in each class.

Under the provisions of the present order the pounds of Class I milk have been computed on a volume basis and the pounds of Class II milk and Class III milk have been computed on the basis of the 4.0 percent milk equivalent of the butterfat used in each such class. If the total volume in all classes computed in this manner has been more or less than the total volume of receipts, the pounds of Class III milk have been decreased or increased, as the case may be, by the difference in such volume.

A method of accounting on a volume basis for the pounds of milk and butterfat used in each class should be adopted. There should be a butterfat differential for each class in order to reflect the combined value of the skim milk and butterfat used in each class.

The new accounting procedure will result in more accurate volumes classified as Class II milk and Class III milk, will make it possible for handlers to compute the cost of milk in the several products in the various classes, will simplify order operations and will result in costs of milk more nearly equal according to the use of skim milk and butterfat in each class among handlers.

Each class price should be divided into separate values for skim milk and butterfat. This is accomplished by the use of a butterfat differential. By application to the Class I price and to the Class II price of the same percentage that the butterfat value in the butter-powder formula used in the computation of the Class III price is of the total value resulting from such formula, the same relationship between skim milk and butterfat is applied to Class I milk and Class II milk as prevails in the value of milk which is manufactured into nonfat dry milk solids and butter.

The above change necessitates revision of the language of several provisions of the order.

Changes resulting from other issues are as follows:

The number of classes should be increased to four and Class IV should contain only milk manufactured into butter.

The present order provides for a reduction in the price of both skim milk and butterfat used in the manufacture of butter and Cheddar cheese during any month when the receipts of milk from producers by all handlers exceed 140 percent of the total Class I milk and Class II milk.

Although the manufacture of cheese in this market is a comparatively large volume operation carried on throughout the year, it does not serve as an outlet for surplus milk for any appreciable number of handlers. On the other hand, the manufacture of butter in the Cincinnati market affords salvage outlet for small amounts of butterfat which cannot be efficiently processed and for which no other use is available.

The Class III price is indicative of the value of milk manufactured into those products named in Class III and should apply in the case of large scale year-round operations. However, a reduction in the price of butterfat, below the price of butterfat in Class III, should be continued as a means of disposing of surplus butterfat used in the manufacture of butter. It is possible that some butterfat may have to be disposed of in the form of butter during the season of short supply as well as during the flush season; hence, the lower price should be operative during all months of the year, rather than only during the months of May, June and July, as proposed, or during any month when the receipts of milk from producers exceed 140 percent of the total Class I milk and Class II milk in the market as now provided in the order.

To accomplish this reduction and to avoid the confusion of having two prices for Class III milk, butter should be placed in a separate class (Class IV) and the price for Class IV milk should be the price for Class III milk less 17.5 cents per hundredweight ($0.05 x 3.5).

Class prices and uniform prices should be determined on the basis of milk containing 3.5 percent butterfat. Heretofore class prices have been determined on the basis of milk containing 4 percent of butterfat while the uniform price has been computed on the basis of 3.5 percent butterfat. A change in the method of accounting for milk (see Issue 6) to a 3.5 percent basis makes it possible to provide for the determination of the class prices and the uniform price on a single butterfat test without resulting in substantial changes in either cost of milk to handlers or returns on milk to producers. The use of a single butterfat test will reduce confusion regarding the determination of prices and will facilitate aligning prices under this order in appropriate relationship to the prices in other orders in the Ohio area.

A minor administrative change is made in the determination of the milk which is included in the computation of the uniform price. This change will have no effect on the cost of milk of any handler. The provision of the uniform price computation which insures the solvency of the producer-settlement fund is continued.

The definitions of "market administrator" and "delivery period" are deleted. Other provisions which relate to the market administrator render unnecessary a definition of that term. The term "month" has been used throughout the order in place of the term "delivery period."

The section "Expense of Administration" is revised so that the Secretary rather than the market administrator determines the minimum rate of assessment.

General findings. (a) The proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, and all of the terms and conditions thereof will tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act;

(b) The parity prices of milk as determined pursuant to section 2 of the act are not reasonable in view of the price of feeds, available supplies of feeds and other economic conditions which affect market supply of and demand for milk, in the marketing area and the minimum prices specified in the proposed marketing agreement and the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, are such prices as will reflect the aforesaid factors, insure a sufficient quantity of pure and wholesome milk, and be in the public interest; and

(c) The proposed order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended, will regulate the handling of milk in the same manner as, and will be applicable only to persons in the respective classes of industrial and commercial activity specified in a marketing agreement upon which a hearing has been held.

Rulings on proposed findings and conclusions. Briefs were filed on behalf of producers associations and the majority of the handlers.

The briefs contained statements of fact, proposed findings and conclusions, and arguments with respect to the provisions of the proposed amendments. Every point covered in the briefs was carefully considered along with the evidence in the record in making the findings and reaching the conclusions hereinbefore set forth. To the extent that the findings and conclusions proposed in the briefs are inconsistent with the findings and conclusions contained herein, the request to make such findings or to reach such conclusions is denied on the basis of the facts found and stated in connection with the conclusions in this recommended decision.

Recommended marketing agreement and order, as amended, and as hereby amended. The following order, as amended, and as hereby amended, is recommended as the detailed and appropriate means by which the foregoing conclusions may be carried out. The recommended marketing agreement is not included in this decision because the regulatory provisions thereof would be identical with those contained in the order, as amended, and as hereby proposed to be further amended.

For the purpose of this report the milk so received shall be prorated to each class in the proportions that the total receipts of milk from producers by such handler were used in each class.

§ 965.33 Records and facilities. Each handler required to make reports to the market administrator shall maintain, and make available to the market administrator during the usual hours of business, such accounts and records of his operations and such facilities as, in the opinion of the market administrator are necessary to verify reports, or to ascertain the correct information with respect to (1) the receipts and utilization of all skim milk and butterfat received, including all milk products received and disposed of in the same form; (2) the weights and tests for butterfat, and for other contents, of all milk and milk products handled; and (3) payments to producers and cooperative associations.

§ 965.34 Retention of records. All books and records required under this order to be made available to the market administrator shall be retained by the handler for a period of three years to begin at the end of the calendar month to which such books and records pertain: Provided, That if, within such three-year period, the market administrator notifies a handler in writing that the retention of such books and records or of specified books and records, is necessary in connection with a proceeding under section 8c (15) of the act or a court action specified in such notice, the handler shall retain such books and records, or specified books and records, until further written notification from the market administrator. In either case the market administrator shall give further written notification to the handler promptly upon the termination of the litigation or when the records are no longer necessary in connection therewith.

CLASSIFICATION

§ 965.40 Basis of classification. Milk received by each handler, including milk produced by him, shall be classified by the market administrator in the classes set forth in § 965.41 subject to the provisions of §§ 965.42, 965.43 and 965.44.

§ 965.41 Class of utilization. The classes of utilization of milk and butterfat shall be as follows:

(a) Class I milk shall be all milk and skim milk disposed of in the form of milk and milk drinks and any product containing less than 8.0 percent butterfat not specified in Class II milk, Class III milk or Class IV milk and all unaccounted for butterfat in excess of 2½ percent of receipts of butterfat from producers and emergency milk.

(b) Class II milk shall be all milk and skim milk disposed of as buttermilk, cottage cheese, cream for consumption as cream, and any product containing 8.0 percent or more of butterfat, not specified in Class I milk, Class III milk or Class IV milk.

(c) Class III milk shall be all milk (1) disposed of as plain or sweetened condensed or evaporated milk, spray or roller powder, margarine, animal feed, cheese except cottage cheese, commercially manufactured candy, eggnog, and whipped cream and whipped cream substitute; (2) used to produce ice cream, ice cream mix and frozen desserts; (3) dumped or spilled; (4) inventory variations, and butterfat not accounted for to the extent of 2½ percent of total receipts of butterfat from producers and emergency milk.

(d) Class IV milk shall be all milk disposed of as butter.

§ 965.42 Responsibility of handlers and reclassification of milk. (a) In establishing the classification as required in §§ 965.41 and 965.43, the burden rests upon the handler to account for all milk and milk products received by him and to prove to the market administrator that such milk, or milk products, should not be classified as Class I milk.

(b) Any milk or milk product classified in one class shall be reclassified if such milk or milk product is later used or disposed of by any handler in another class, in accordance with such later use or disposition.

§ 965.43 Transfers between pool plants and between pool plants and plants other than pool plants. (a) Milk and skim milk transferred from a pool plant to another pool plant shall be Class I milk, and cream so transferred shall be Class II milk, unless another class use is indicated in writing to the market administrator by the operators of both plants on or before the 10th day after the end of the month within which such transfer was made: Provided, That if either or both plants have received milk other than producer milk or emergency milk, the milk, skim milk or cream so transferred shall be classified at both plants so as to allocate the highest possible utilization to producer milk.

(b) Milk or skim milk transferred from a pool plant to a plant other than a pool plant shall be classified as Class I milk and cream so transferred shall be Class II milk: Provided, That if the operator of the pool plant on or before the 10th day after the end of the month furnishes to the market administrator a statement, which is signed by the operators of both plants, that such milk, skim milk, or cream was used in a lower class, such milk, skim milk, or cream shall be classified accordingly, subject to verification by the market administrator: And provided further, That in making such verification for months other than April, May, June, and July, the market administrator will assign milk, skim milk or cream so transferred to the highest use classification in the plant of the receiver.

§ 965.44 Shrinkage. The market administrator shall allocate shrinkage over a handler's receipts as follows:

(a) Compute the total shrinkage of butterfat for each handler; and

(b) Prorate the resulting amounts between the receipts of butterfat in producer milk and in milk other than producer milk.

§ 965.45 Computation of milk and butterfat in each class. For each month, the market administrator shall correct for mathematical and for obvious errors the report submitted by each handler and compute the total pounds of milk and butterfat, respectively, in Class I milk, Class II milk, Class III milk, and Class IV milk for such handler.

§ 965.46 Allocation of milk and butterfat classified. The pounds of milk and butterfat remaining in each class after making the following computations shall be the pounds of milk and butterfat respectively in such class allocated to producer milk;

(a) The pounds of milk in Class III shall be decreased by any excess of utilization of all classes over total receipts and shall be increased by any excess of total receipts over total utilization of all classes.

(b) Subtract from the pounds of butterfat in Class III the pounds of producer butterfat in plant shrinkage which is not in excess of 2½ percent of all butterfat received from producers and in emergency milk.

(c) Subtract from the remaining pounds of milk and butterfat, respectively, in each class, the pounds of milk and butterfat, respectively, received from other handlers, in the classes transferred pursuant to § 965.43.

(d) Subtract from the remaining pounds of milk and butterfat, respectively, in series beginning with the lowest-priced use available, the pounds of milk and butterfat, respectively, except emergency milk, received other than producer milk.

(e) Add to the Class III butterfat the pounds of butterfat subtracted pursuant to paragraph (b) of this section.

(f) Subtract prorata out of the remaining pounds of milk and butterfat, respectively, in each class, the total pounds of emergency milk and butterfat.

(g) If the pounds of butterfat remaining in all classes exceed the pounds of butterfat received from producers, subtract such excess from the remaining pounds of butterfat in each class in series beginning with the lowest priced class.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 965.50 Basic formula price. The basic formula price per hundredweight of milk to be used in computing the minimum prices for Class I milk and Class II milk shall be the higher of the prices computed by the market administrator pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section:

(a) The average of the basic (or field) prices per hundredweight ascertained to have been paid, or to be paid, for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received from farmers during such month at the following plants or places for which prices are reported to the market administrator or to the United States Department of Agriculture.

(d) The price for Class IV milk shall be the price of Class III milk less 17.5 cents.

§ 965.52 Butterfat differentials to handlers. If the weighted average butterfat test of producer milk which is classified in any class, respectively, for any handler, is more or less than 3.5 percent, there shall be added to or subtracted, as the case may be, from the price for such class, for each one-tenth of one percent that such weighted average butterfat test is above or below 3.5 percent, a butterfat differential calculated by the market administrator as follows: For Class I, Class II and Class III, determine the percent of the alternate basic formula price as computed pursuant to § 965.50 (b) represented by the sum computed pursuant to § 965.50 (b) (1), apply the percentage so determined to the respective Class I, Class II and Class III prices for 3.5 percent milk computed pursuant to § 965.51 (a), (b), and (c) and divide by 35, the resulting sum (to the nearest hundredth of a cent) shall be the handler butterfat differential for each class, respectively. The handler butterfat differential for Class IV milk shall be such differential for Class III milk less 0.5 cent.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICE

§ 965.60 Computation of value of milk for each handler. The value of the milk received from producers during each month by each handler shall be a sum of money computed by the market administrator by multiplying the hundredweight of milk in each class by the applicable class prices, subject to the butterfat differential provided in § 965.52 and adding any amount resulting from the following computation: Multiply the pounds of butterfat subtracted pursuant to § 965.46 (g) by the price for the applicable class adjusted by the applicable butterfat differential.

§ 965.61 Computation of obligation to the producer-settlement fund for handlers operating a fluid milk plant which is not a pool plant. For each month, the obligation to the producer-settlement fund for each handler operating a fluid milk plant which is not a pool plant shall be computed by the market administrator by multiplying by the difference between the Class I and the Class III prices, the hundredweight of milk disposed of as Class I milk by such handler on routes operating within the marketing area less the hundredweight of Class I milk purchased by such handler during the month from a pool plant. On or before the thirteenth day after the end of each month, the market administrator shall notify each such handler of the amount so computed for him subject to adjustment pursuant to § 965.62 and on or before the 17th day after the end of each month each such handler shall make payment to the market administrator.

§ 965.62 Correction of errors. If, in the verification of reports submitted by a handler, the market administrator discovers errors in such reports which result in payment due the producer-settlement fund or the handler for any previous month, there shall be added or subtracted as the case may be, the amount necessary to correct such errors.

§ 965.63 Notification to handler of the value of his milk. On or before the thirteenth day after the end of each month, the market administrator shall notify each handler of the value of milk computed for him in accordance with § 965.60 and of any adjustments pursuant to § 965.62.

§ 965.64 Computation of uniform prices for Grade A producers and Grade B producers. (a) Computation of uniform price for Grade A producers. For each month, the market administrator shall compute the uniform price per hundredweight of milk received by handlers from Grade A producers as follows:

(1) Add together the values of milk as computed pursuant to § 965.60 for handlers other than those in arrears in payment (other than in payment for any amount pursuant to § 965.62) to the producer-settlement fund as required by § 965.72 for the preceding month;

(2) Subtract, if the weighted average butterfat test of all milk received from producers by handlers whose milk is represented in the sum computed under subparagraph (1) of this paragraph, is greater than 3.5 percent, or add, if the weighted average butterfat test of such milk is less than 3.5 percent, an amount computed as follows: Multiply the hundredweight of such milk by the difference of its weighted average butterfat test from 3.5 percent, and multiply the resulting amount by 50 cents if the average price of butter, described under § 965.50 (b) (1), was more than 40 cents but not more than 50 cents, such amount (50 cents) to be increased or decreased, as the case may be, by 10 cents for each 10-cent range in such price of butter above or below the range "more than 40 cents but not more than 50 cents;"

(3) Subtract an amount equivalent to the moneys retained pursuant to § 965.76;

(4) Add the unobligated balance in the producer-settlement fund;

(5) Add an amount computed by multiplying the total hundredweight of milk received from Grade B producers by $0.40;

(6) Divide by the total hundredweight of milk of all producers represented in the sum computed pursuant to subparagraph (1) of this paragraph; and

(7) Subtract from the figure obtained in subparagraph (6) of this paragraph not less than 4 cents or more than 5 cents per hundredweight for the purpose of retaining a cash balance to provide against errors in reports and in payments by handlers. The result shall be known as the uniform price per hundredweight for such month for milk (on the basis of 3.5 percent of butterfat) received from Grade A producers.

(b) Computation of uniform price for Grade B producers. For each delivery period, the market administrator shall compute the uniform price per hundredweight of milk received by handlers from Grade B producers as follows: From the uniform price computed pursuant to paragraph (a) (7) of this section subtract 40 cents. The result shall be known as the uniform price per hundredweight for such month for milk (on the basis of 3.5 percent of butterfat) received from Grade B producers.

PAYMENT FOR MILK

§ 965.70 Payments to producers. On or before the 5th day after the end of each month, each handler shall pay, with respect to all milk received during the month, $1.00 per hundredweight of milk to each producer: Provided, That in the event the total amount of deductions and charges authorized by any producer against payments due such producer for the month next preceding is greater than the payment computed for such producer pursuant to § 965.73 (a) with respect to the milk received from such producer during such preceding month, the handler may deduct from the payment required by this section a sum equal to the difference between such amounts.

§ 965.71 Producer-settlement fund. The market administrator shall maintain a separate fund, known as the producer-settlement fund, in which he shall deposit all payments made pursuant to §§ 965.61 and 965.72 and from which he shall make all payments pursuant to § 965.73.

§ 965.72 Payment to producer-settlement fund. On or before the 17th day after the end of each month, each handler shall pay to the market administrator the amount of money which represents the value of milk for such month of which he is notified pursuant to § 965.63 less the amount paid out to each producer in accordance with § 965.70, and less the amount of the deductions and charges authorized by such producer which are itemized on the handler's producer pay roll: Provided, That in the calculation of the total amount of such deductions and charges to be subtracted, the deductions and charges to be considered with respect to each individual producer shall not be greater than an amount which, when added to the payment made to such producer in accordance with § 965.70 (inclusive of the deductions and charges authorized by § 965.70) will not exceed the total value of the milk received from such producer.

§ 965.73 Payments from producer-settlement fund. (a) The market administrator shall compute the payment due to each producer for milk delivered each month by multiplying the hundredweight of such milk by the uniform price computed pursuant to § 965.64 adjusted to the butterfat test of such milk by adding or subtracting if the butterfat is above or below 3.5 percent, one-tenth of the rate provided in § 965.64 (b) for each one-tenth of one percent variation from 3.5 percent, and subtracting any charges or deductions made pursuant to § 965.72.

(b) On or before the 20th day after the end of each month, the market administrator shall pay, subject to the provisions of § 965.75, to each cooperative association authorized to receive payments due producers who market their milk through such cooperative association, the aggregate of payments calculated pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, for all producers certified to the market administrator by such cooperative association as having authorized such cooperative association to receive such payments. On or before the 20th day after the end of each month, the market administrator shall pay, subject to the provisions of § 965.75, direct to each producer who has not authorized a cooperative association to receive payments for such producer, the amount of the payment calculated for such producer pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section

§ 965.74 Expense of administration. As his pro rata share of the expense incurred in the maintenance and functioning of the office of the market administrator and in the performance of the duties of the market administrator, each handler shall pay to the market administrator, on or before the 17th day after the end of each month, 2 cents per hundredweight or such lesser amount as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe, with respect to all milk received from producers and produced by him during the month: Provided, That any cooperative association which has handled milk during the month under the conditions set forth in § 965.9, shall pay such pro rata share of expense of administration on only that quantity of milk so handled.

§ 965.75 Marketing services. (a) The market administrator shall deduct an amount not exceeding 4 cents per hundredweight (the exact amount to be determined by the market administrator) from the payments made pursuant to § 965.73 (b), with respect to the milk of those producers for whom the marketing services set forth in paragraph (b) of this section are not being performed by a cooperative association which the Secretary determines to be qualified under the provisions of the act of Congress of February 18, 1922, as amended, known as the "Capper-Volstead Act," for the purpose of performing the services set forth in paragraph (b) of this section.

(b) The moneys received by the market administrator pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section shall be expended by the market administrator for market information to, and for the verification of weights, samples, and tests of milk of, producers for whom a cooperative association, as described in paragraph (a) of this section, is not performing the same services on a comparable basis, as determined by the market administrator, subject to review of the Secretary.

§ 965.76 Payments to cooperative associations. (a) Upon application to the Secretary, any cooperative association duly organized under the laws of any State which he determines, after appropriate inquiry or investigation, to be conforming to the provisions of such laws and with the standards set forth in § 965.75 (a); to be operating as a producer-controlled marketing association exercising full authority in the sale of the milk of, and assuming responsibility for payments to, its members; to be maintaining individually or in collaboration with other qualified cooperative associations, a competent staff for dealing with marketing problems and to be complying with all provisions hereof applicable to such cooperative association shall be entitled, under the further conditions hereafter specified, to receive payments from the date of its qualification as fixed by the Secretary, until it has been found by the Secretary, after notice and opportunity for hearing, that it has failed to continue to meet any condition set forth in this section for the receipt of such payments:

(1) At the rate of one-half cent per hundredweight on all milk (i) marketed by it in the manner indicated above on behalf of members, and (ii) on which reports and payments have been made as required under §§ 965.30, 965.70 and 965.74, except that payment at this rate shall not be made on milk with respect to which the same association is eligible to receive payment under subparagraph (2) of this paragraph.

(2) At the rate of 3 cents per hundredweight on all milk which is received from members at any plant operated by such an association, or subsidiary thereof, and which is included in the computations made pursuant to § 965.64.

(b) The market administrator shall, upon notice of the filing of an application by a cooperative association, retain each delivery period in the producer-settlement fund such sum as he estimates is ample to make payments to the applicant, to be held in reserve until the Secretary has ruled upon said application and shall, when the application has been ruled upon by the Secretary, make payment or issue credit out of such reserves in accordance with said ruling and shall release the balance of the reserved sums, if any, for disposition pursuant to § 965.64 (d); and shall on or before the 20th day of each month thereafter, make such payments or issue credit therefor out of the producer-settlement fund, subject to verification of the facts upon which the amount of payment is based.

(c) Each cooperative association qualified to receive payments pursuant to this section shall, from time to time, as requested by the market administrator, make reports to him with respect to its conformity with any of the conditions for qualification or to the use of such payments and shall file with him a copy of its balance sheet and operating statement at the close of each fiscal year.

(d) The market administrator shall suspend payment upon his own initiative or upon request by the Secretary or by such officer of the United States Department of Agriculture as he may designate, by giving written notice to a cooperative association and to the Secretary whenever there is good reason to believe that such association is no longer qualified to receive payment. Such suspended payments shall be aggregated and held in reserve until the Secretary, after notice and opportunity for hearing, has appraised the performance of the cooperative and either has ordered a partial or complete payment of funds held in reserve to the cooperative or has disqualified such cooperative, in which event the balance of funds held in reserve shall be released for disposition pursuant to § 965.64 (d).

§ 965.77 Termination of obligation. (a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this order shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator receives the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligation, unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain, but need not be limited to, the following information:

(1) The amount of the obligation;

(2) The month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and

(3) If the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to a cooperative association, the name of such producers or cooperative association, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this order, to make available to the market administrator or his representatives all books and records required by this part to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market administrator so notifies a handler, the said two-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representatives.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this part to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or willful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this part shall terminate two years after the end of the calender month during which milk involved in the claim was received if any underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the calendar month during which the payment (including deduction or set-off by the market administrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler, within the applicable period of time, files, pursuant to section 8c (15) (A) of the act, a petition claiming such money.

§ 965.81 Suspension or termination. Any or all provisions of this part, or amendments to this part, shall be suspended or terminated as to any or all handlers after such reasonable notice as the Secretary may give, and shall terminate in any event, whenever the provisions of the act authorizing it cease to be in effect.

§ 965.82 Continuing power and duty of the market administrator. If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this part, there are any obligations arising under this part, the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires further acts by any handler, by the market administrator, or by any other person, the power and duty to perform such further acts shall continue notwithstanding such suspension or termination: Provided, That any such acts required to be performed by the market administrator shall, if the Secretary so directs, be performed by such other person, persons, or agency as the Secretary may designate. The market administrator, or such person as the Secretary may designate, shall continue in such capacity until removed by the Secretary; account from time to time for all receipts and disbursements and, when so directed by the Secretary, deliver all funds on hand, together with the books and records of the market administrator or such other person to such person as the Secretary shall direct and execute, if so directed by the Secretary, such assignments or other instruments necessary or appropriate to vest in such person full title to all funds, property, and claims vested in the market administrator or such person pursuant thereto.

§ 965.83 Liquidation after suspension or termination. Upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this part the market administrator, or such person as the Secretary may designate, shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office and dispose of all funds and property then in his possession or under his control, together with claims for any funds which are unpaid or owing at the time of such suspension or termination. Any funds collected pursuant to the provisions of this part, over and above the amount necessary to meet outstanding obligations and the expenses necessarily incurred by the market administrator or such person in liquidating and distributing such funds, shall be distributed to the contributing handlers and producers in an equitable manner.

MARKETING AGREEMENT AND ORDER

Annexed hereto and made a part hereof are two documents entitled respectively "Marketing agreement regulating the handling of milk in the Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minnesota, Marketing Area," and "Order amending the order," as amended, regulating the handling of milk in the Minneapolis-St. Paul, Minnesota, Marketing Area," which have been decided upon as the detailed and appropriate means of effectuating the foregoing conclusions. § 973.43 Transfers. Skim milk or butterfat disposed of by a handler by transfer shall be classified:

(c) As Class I milk if transferred in the form of milk, skim milk, or cream to a nonpool plant located less than 100 miles from the marketing area unless (1) the handler claims other classification on the basis of utilization mutually indicated in writing to the market administrator by both the handler and the person who received such milk, on or before the 8th day after the end of the delivery period within which such transfer occurred, (2) the nonpool plant maintains records showing the receipt and utilization of all skim milk and butterfat at such plant which are made available to the market administrator for the purpose of verification, and (3) such nonpool plant had actually used not less than an equivalent amount of skim milk and butterfat in the use indicated in such statement: Provided, That if verification of such records discloses that an equivalent amount of skim milk and butterfat had not been used in such indicated utilization, the remaining pounds shall be classified in the remaining class.

(d) As Class I milk if transferred in the form of milk or skim milk and as Class II milk if transferred in the form of cream to a nonpool plant located more than 100 miles from the marketing area.

§ 973.44 Computation of milk in each class. For each delivery period the market administrator shall correct mathematical and other obvious errors in the delivery period report submitted by each handler and shall compute the total pounds of skim milk and butterfat, respectively, in Class I milk and Class II milk for each handler.

§ 973.45 Allocation of skim milk and butterfat classified. After computing the classification of all skim milk and butterfat received by a handler, the market administrator shall determine the classification of milk received from producers as follows:

(a) Skim milk shall be allocated in the following manner: (1) Subtract from the pounds of skim milk in Class II the pounds of skim milk received from nonpool plants: Provided, That if the receipts from nonpool plants are greater than the pounds of skim milk remaining in Class II an amount equal to the difference shall be subtracted from the pounds of skim milk in Class I; (2) subtract from the remaining pounds of skim milk in each class, respectively, the pounds of skim milk received from other pool plants in accordance with its classification as determined pursuant to § 973.43 (a); (3) if the total pounds of skim milk remaining in both classes exceed the pounds of skim milk received from producers, an amount equal to the difference shall be subtracted from Class II: Provided, That if the remaining pounds of skim milk in Class II are less than the amount to be subtracted, an amount equal to the difference shall be subtracted from Class I.

(b) Butterfat shall be allocated in accordance with the same procedure outlined for skim milk in paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) Determine, respectively, the weighted average butterfat content of the milk received from producers and allocated to Class I milk and Class II milk pursuant to paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section.

MINIMUM PRICES

§ 973.50 Class prices. Each handler shall, subject to the provisions of §§ 973.52 and 973.53, pay at the time and in the manner set forth in § 973.80 not less than the prices set forth in this paragraph per hundredweight of milk received during each delivery period at such handler's plant.

(a) For Class I milk. The price shall be the basic price determined pursuant to § 973.51 plus 50 cents during the delivery periods of January to June, inclusive; plus 70 cents during the delivery periods of July and December; plus 85 cents during the delivery periods of August to November, inclusive.

(b) For Class II milk. The price shall be that determined by the market administrator as follows: (1) Multiply by 4.24 the average wholesale price per pound of 93-score butter at New York as reported by the Department of Agriculture for the delivery period in which such milk was received; (2) multiply by 8.2 the average price of spray process nonfat dry milk solids for human consumption, in carlots f. o. b. manufacturing plants as reported for the Chicago area by the Department of Agriculture for the delivery period during which the milk was received; (3) add into one sum the amounts obtained in subparagraphs (1) and (2) of this paragraph and (4) subtract 65 cents therefrom.

§ 973.51 Basic prices. The basic price to be used in determining the price per hundredweight of Class I milk shall be the price for Class II milk computed pursuant to § 973.50 (b) or that derived from either of the formulas set forth in paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, whichever is the highest.

(a) The average of the basic or field prices ascertained to have been paid for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content received during the delivery period at the following plants or places for which prices are reported to the market administrator by the listed companies or by the Department of Agriculture;

§ 973.52 Location differential to handlers. With respect to milk purchased or received at a pool plant located more than 15 miles from the Minnesota Transfer Viaduct over University Avenue in St. Paul and which is classified as Class I milk, the price per hundredweight computed pursuant to § 973.50 (a) shall be reduced one cent for each full mile that such plant is more than 15 miles distant from such viaduct. Such deduction shall be based on the shortest highway distance from such pool plant as determined by the market administrator.

For purposes of this section the milk which is classified as Class I milk during each delivery period shall be considered to have been first that which was received from producers at such handler's pool plants located within the marketing area, and then that milk which was received from producers at such handler's other pool plants located nearest to the marketing area.

§ 973.53 Butterfat differentials to handlers. (a) If the average butterfat content of the milk disposed of by any handler as Class I milk is more or less than 3.5 percent, there shall be added to the Class I price per hundredweight computed pursuant to § 973.50 (a) for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such Class I milk is above 3.5 percent or shall be subtracted for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such Class I milk is below 3.5 percent an amount computed by the market administrator as follows: To the average wholesale price per pound of 93-score butter at New York as reported by the Department of Agriculture for the delivery period add 25 percent and divide the sum obtained by 10.

(b) If the average butterfat content of the milk disposed of by any handler as Class II milk is more or less than 3.5 percent, there shall be added to the Class II price per hundredweight computed pursuant to § 973.50 (b) for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such Class II milk is above 3.5 percent or shall be subtracted for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the average butterfat content of such Class II milk is below 3.5 percent an amount computed by the market administrator as follows: To the average wholesale price per pound of 93-score butter at New York as reported by the Department of Agriculture for the delivery period add 21.14 percent and divide the sum obtained by 10.

§ 973.54 Emergency price provision. Whenever the provisions hereof require the market administrator to use a specific price (or prices) for milk or for any milk product for the purpose of determining class prices or for any other purpose, the market administrator shall add to the specified price the amount of any subsidy or other similar payment being made by any Federal agency in connection with the milk or product associated with the price specified: Provided, That if for any reason the price specified is not reported or published as indicated the market administrator shall use the applicable maximum uniform price established by regulations of any Federal agency plus the amount of any such subsidy or other similar payment: And provided further, That if the specified price is not reported or published and there is no applicable maximum uniform price, or if the specified price is not reported or published and the Secretary determines that the market price is below the applicable maximum uniform price, the market administrator shall use a price determined by the Secretary to be equivalent to or comparable with the price specified.

APPLICATION OF PROVISIONS

§ 973.60 Application to producer-handlers. Sections 973.40 to 973.46, 973.50 to 973.54, 973.70 to 973.78, 973.80 to 973.84, and 973.90 to 973.92 shall not apply to the handling of milk by producer-handlers.

§ 973.61 Producer-handlers. Handlers shall furnish to the market administrator for his verification, subject to review by the Secretary, evidence of their qualifications as producer-handlers pursuant to § 973.10, as of the effective date of this part, and they shall furnish evidence of subsequent changes made in the manner of producing or distributing milk that affect their qualifications as producer-handlers; such verification by the market administrator shall be made within 15 days of the receipt of the evidence and shall be retroactive to the effective date of this part in cases verified within 45 days of such effective date and shall be effective retroactively to the first day of the delivery period during which verification is made in subsequent cases.

§ 973.62 Sales of milk by a producer-handler. A producer-handler who sells or disposes of skim milk or butterfat in bulk in the form of whole milk to another handler or producer-handler shall be considered a producer with respect to such skim milk or butterfat.

§ 973.63 Handlers who receive milk from two groups of producers. In the case of a handler who is required by any health authority in the marketing area to separate his producers into two groups and to receive and handle separately the milk received from each group, the market administrator shall compute a uniform price for each group of producers in the manner provided in § 973.71, if the handler files separate reports for each group, and the milk is handled in such a manner and the records of the handler are so kept that the market administrator can verify the utilization of the milk received from each group.

DETERMINATION OF UNIFORM PRICES TO PRODUCERS

§ 973.70 Computation of the value of milk received from producers. The value of the milk received directly from producers' farms during each delivery period by each handler shall be a sum of money computed by the market administrator by multiplying the pounds of milk in each class by the applicable class price and adding together the resulting amounts: Provided, That if any skim milk has been subtracted pursuant to § 973.45 (a) (3), or if any butterfat has been similarly subtracted, there shall be added to the above value an amount computed by multiplying the pounds of skim milk and butterfat so subtracted by the applicable class prices.

§ 973.71 Computation of the uniform price for each handler. The market administrator shall compute the uniform price per hundredweight for milk purchased or received directly from producers' farms during the delivery period by each handler as follows:

(a) To the value computed pursuant to § 973.70 add an amount equal to the total value of the location differentials computed pursuant to § 973.82.

(b) From the sum obtained in paragraph (a) of this section subtract, if the average butterfat content of all milk received by such handler directly from producers' farms is more than 3.5 percent, or add, if such average butterfat content is less than 3.5 percent, an amount computed as follows: Multiply the amount by which the average butterfat content of such milk varies from 3.5 percent by the butterfat differential computed pursuant to § 973.81 and multiply the result by the total hundredweight of milk received directly from producers' farms.

(c) Adjust the resulting sum by an amount representing the fraction used in adjusting the uniform price for the previous delivery period to the nearest cent.

(d) Divide the result by the total hundredweight of milk received directly from producers' farms.

(e) Adjust the resulting figure to the nearest cent. This shall be known as the uniform price per hundredweight for each handler for milk of 3.5 percent butterfat content delivered to the marketing area.

§ 973.72 Announcement of class prices. On or before the 6th day after the end of the delivery period the market administrator shall mail to all handlers and make public announcement of the class prices computed pursuant to § 973.50 and the butterfat differentials computed pursuant to § 973.53 and § 973.81.

§ 973.73 Announcement of uniform prices. On or before the 15th day after the end of each delivery period the market administrator shall notify each handler and make public announcement of the uniform prices computed pursuant to § 973.71.

PAYMENTS FOR MILK

§ 973.80 Time and method of payment. Each handler shall make payment as follows:

(a) On or before the 20th day after the end of the delivery period in which the milk was received, to each producer for milk not caused to be delivered directly from such producers' farms to such handler by a cooperative association, at not less than the uniform price computed pursuant to § 973.71, subject to the differentials set forth in §§ 973.81 and 973.82.

(b) On or before the 15th day after the end of the delivery period in which the milk was received, to a cooperative association for milk which it caused to be delivered directly from producers' farms to such handler and for which such cooperative association collects payment, a total amount equal to not less than the sum of the individual payments otherwise payable to such producers pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, and less the amount of the payment made pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section.

(c) On or before the 10th day after the end of the delivery period in which the skim milk or butterfat was received, to a cooperative association for skim milk or butterfat purchased or received from such cooperative association at not less than the class prices computed pursuant to § 973.50, subject to the differentials set forth in §§ 973.52 and 973.53, and less the amount of the payment made pursuant to paragraph (d) of this section.

(d) On or before the 20th day of the delivery period in which such skim milk and butterfat was received, to a cooperative association, if it so requests, for skim milk and butterfat which was purchased or received from such cooperative association and for skim milk and butterfat which such cooperative association caused to be delivered directly from producers' farms to the plant of such handler during the first 15 days of such delivery period at the approximate value of such skim milk or butterfat.

§ 973.81 Butterfat differential to producers. If, during the delivery period, any handler has purchased or received from any producer, milk having an average butterfat content other than 3.5 percent, such handler in making the payment prescribed in § 973.80 (a) and (b) shall add to the uniform price per hundredweight payable to such producer for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the butterfat content in milk is above 3.5 percent not less than, or shall deduct from the uniform price per hundredweight for each one-tenth of 1 percent that the butterfat content in milk is below 3.5 percent not more than an amount computed by the market administrator as follows: To the average wholesale price per pound of 93-score butter at New York as reported by the Department of Agriculture for the delivery period, add 20 percent and divide the resulting sum by ten (10).

§ 973.82 Location differential to producers. In making payment pursuant to § 973.80 (a) and (b) for milk received from producers at a pool plant located more than 15 miles from the Minnesota Transfer Viaduct over University Avenue in St. Paul, each handler shall deduct from the uniform price payable to such producers an amount equal to one cent per hundredweight for each full mile that the plant where such milk was received is more than 15 miles distant from such viaduct.

§ 973.83 Correction of errors in payments to producers. Errors in making any of the payments prescribed in § 973.80 shall be corrected not later than the date for making payments next following the determination of such errors. Any correction affecting all producers delivering to any handler during the period in which such error occurred shall be corrected in such manner as the market administrator shall determine to be equitable, either by (a) adjustment of the account of each individual producer who delivered during such period on the basis of a recomputation of the price of such handler, or (b) by addition or subtraction of the amount of such correction to or from the value of all milk received by such handler in the delivery period during which such error was determined, computed as set forth in § 973.70.

§ 973.84 Statement to producers. In making the payments required by this section, each handler shall furnish each producer with a supporting statement in such form that it may be retained by the producer, which shall show:

(a) The delivery period and the identity of the handler and of the producer;

(b) The total pounds and the average butterfat content of the milk delivered by the producer;

(c) The minimum rate or rates at which payment to the producer is required under the provisions of §§ 973.80 and 973.83;

(d) The rate which is used in making the payment if such rate is other than the applicable minimum;

(e) The amount or the rate per hundredweight of each deduction claimed by the handler, including any deduction claimed under § 973.91, together with a description of the respective deductions; and

(f) The net amount of payment to the producer.

MISCELLANEOUS

§ 973.90 Expense of administration. As his prorata share of the expense of administration of this part each handler, with respect to all milk purchased or received directly from producers' farms (including such handler's own production) and which is disposed of as Class I milk during the delivery period, shall pay to the market administrator, on or before the 18th day after the end of such delivery period, 2 cents per hundredweight or such lesser amount as the Secretary from time to time may prescribe.

§ 973.91 Marketing services—(a) Deductions for marketing services. Except as set forth in paragraph (b) of this section each handler in making payments to producers (other than himself) pursuant to § 973.80 shall make a deduction of 2 cents per hundredweight or such lesser deduction as the Secretary from time to time may prescribe, with respect to all milk purchased or received directly from producers' farms during the delivery period and shall pay such deductions to the market administrator on or before the 18th day after the end of such delivery period. Such money shall be expended by the market administrator for market information to, and for the verification of weights, sampling, and testing of milk purchased or received from said producers.

(b) Producers' cooperative associations. In the case of producers for whom a cooperative association which the Secretary determines to be qualified under the provisions of the act of Congress of February 18, 1922, as amended, known as the "Capper-Volstead Act" is actually performing, as determined by the Secretary, the services set forth in paragraph (a) of this section, no such deduction shall be made.

§ 973.92 Termination of obligation. The provisions of this section shall apply to any obligation under this order for the payment of money irrespective of when such obligation arose except an obligation involved in an action instituted before August 1, 1949, under section 8c (15) (A) of the act or before a court.

(a) The obligation of any handler to pay money required to be paid under the terms of this part shall, except as provided in paragraphs (b) and (c) of this section, terminate two years after the last day of the calendar month during which the market administrator receives the handler's utilization report on the milk involved in such obligation unless within such two-year period the market administrator notifies the handler in writing that such money is due and payable. Service of such notice shall be complete upon mailing to the handler's last known address, and it shall contain but need not be limited to the following information: (1) The amount of the obligation; (2) the month(s) during which the milk, with respect to which the obligation exists, was received or handled; and (3) if the obligation is payable to one or more producers or to an association of producers, the name of such producer(s) or association of producers, or if the obligation is payable to the market administrator, the account for which it is to be paid.

(b) If a handler fails or refuses, with respect to any obligation under this part, to make available to the market adminstrator or his representatives all books and records required by this part to be made available, the market administrator may, within the two-year period provided for in paragraph (a) of this section, notify the handler in writing of such failure or refusal. If the market adminstrator so notifies a handler, the said two-year period with respect to such obligation shall not begin to run until the first day of the calendar month following the month during which all such books and records pertaining to such obligation are made available to the market administrator or his representatives.

(c) Notwithstanding the provisions of paragraphs (a) and (b) of this section, a handler's obligation under this part to pay money shall not be terminated with respect to any transaction involving fraud or willful concealment of a fact, material to the obligation, on the part of the handler against whom the obligation is sought to be imposed.

(d) Any obligation on the part of the market administrator to pay a handler any money which such handler claims to be due him under the terms of this part shall terminate two years after the end of the calendar month during which the milk involved in the claim was received if an underpayment is claimed, or two years after the end of the calendar month during which the payment (including deduction or set-off by the market adminstrator) was made by the handler if a refund on such payment is claimed, unless such handler, within the applicable period of time, files, pursuant to section 9c (15) (A) of the act, a petition claiming such money.

§ 973.93 Agents. The Secretary may, by designation in writing, name any officer or employee of the United States to act as his agent or representative in connection with any of the provisions of this part.

EFFECTIVE TIME, SUSPENSION, AND TERMINATION

§ 973.100 Effective time. The provisions of this part or any amendment to this part shall become effective at such time as the Secretary may declare and shall continue in force until suspended or terminated pursuant to § 973.101.

§ 973.101 Suspension or termination. The Secretary shall suspend or terminate any or all of the provisions of this part, whenever he finds that it obstructs or does not tend to effectuate the declared policy of the act. This part shall, in any event terminate whenever the provisions of the act authorizing it cease to be in effect.

§ 973.102 Continuing power and duty of the market administrator. If, upon the suspension or termination of any or all of the provisions of this part, there are any obligations arising under this part, the final accrual or ascertainment of which requires acts by any handler, by the market administrator, or by any other person, the power and duty to perform such further acts shall continue notwithstanding such suspension or termination: Provided, That any such acts required to be performed by the market administrator shall, if the Secretary so directs, be performed by such other person, persons, or agency as the Secretary may designate.

The market administrator, or such other person as the Secretary may designate shall:

(a) Continue in such capacity until discharged by the Secretary;

(b) From time to time account for all receipts and disbursements and deliver all funds or property on hand, together with the books and records of the market administrator, or such person, to such person as the Secretary shall direct; and

§ 973.103 Liquidation after suspension or termination. Upon the suspension or termination of any or all provisions of this part, the market administrator, or such person as the Secretary may designate shall, if so directed by the Secretary, liquidate the business of the market administrator's office, and dispose of all funds and property then in his possession or under his control together with claims for any funds which are unpaid at the time of such suspension or termination. § 695.8 Minimum piece rates prescribed by the Administrator. Pursuant to the provisions of section 6 (a) (2) of the act, each home worker shall be paid, in lieu of the applicable hourly rate established by wage order, not less than the piece rates prescribed in § 695.12 for the operations described therein.

§ 695.9 Piece rates adopted by employers. Pursuant to the provisions of section 6 (a) (5) of the act, in the event that a home worker is to perform an operation for which no minimum piece rate has been prescribed by regulation or order of the Administrator or his authorized representative, he shall be paid a piece rate adopted by the employer which shall yield to home workers of ordinary skill, under prevalent operating conditions and with equipment ordinarily found in homes, an amount not less than the applicable minimum hourly wage rate established by wage order. No employer shall adopt such a piece rate until he has first notified the Division of his intention to establish a rate for such operation, the rate fixed and the basis on which the piece rate has been computed. Such an employer piece rate shall be lawful only if it actually satisfies the requirements of this section, and such a rate shall remain in effect only until such time as the Administrator or his authorized representative, by regulation or order, establishes a minimum piece rate for such operation.

§ 695.10 Penalties. Section 15 of the act makes it unlawful for any person to violate the provisions of this part and subjects any such person to the penalties provided by section 16 and section 17 of the act.

§ 695.11 Petition for amendment of regulations. Any person wishing a revision of any of the terms of this part may submit in writing to the Administrator or his authorized representative a petition setting forth the changes desired, and the reasons for proposing them. If, upon inspection of the petition, the Administrator or his authorized representative believes that reasonable cause for amendment of this part is set forth, the Administrator or his authorized representative will either schedule a hearing with due notice to interested parties, or will make other provision for affording interested parties an opportunity to present their views, either in support of or in opposition to the proposed changes.

DISASTER COMMUNICATIONS SERVICE

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULE MAKING

1. Notice is hereby given of proposed rule making in the above entitled matter.

2. On June 5 and 6, 1950, the Commission in accordance with its Public Notices of March 23 and June 1, 1950 (FCC 50-382 and FCC 50-705), held an informal public conference to plan the establishment of a new Disaster Communications Service. That conference discussed the principles that should be covered in such rules as might eventually be adopted to govern a Disaster Communications Service. The subsequent pressure of recent world events makes the early establishment of such a service both highly desirable and necessary. Accordingly, the Commission has accelerated the preparation of proposed rules based on the data obtained at the conference. Because of the urgency of the matter, comments of all interested parties both as to substance and form are earnestly requested.

3. The proposed rules which are set forth in the attached appendix are issued under the authority of sections 4 (i), 301 and 303 of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended.

4. Any interested party who is of the opinion that the proposed rules should not be adopted, or should not be adopted in the manner set forth below, may file with the Commission on or before September 15, 1950, a statement or brief setting forth his comments. At the same time, persons favoring the rules may file statements in support thereof. The Commission will consider all such comments that are presented before taking action in the matter, and if any comments are submitted which appear to warrant the holding of a hearing or oral argument, notice of the time and place of such hearing or oral argument will be given.

5. In accordance with the provisions of § 1.764 of the Commission's rules and regulations, an original and six copies of all statements, briefs, or comments filed shall be furnished the Commission.

Adopted: August 2, 1950.

Released: August 3, 1950.

FEDERAL COMMUNICATIONS COMMISSION,
[SEAL] T. J. SLOWIE,
Secretary.

PART 20—DISASTER COMMUNICATIONS SERVICE

§ 20.1 Basis and purpose. (a) The basis for the rules in this part is the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, and applicable treaties and agreements to which the United States is a party. The rules in this part are issued pursuant to authority contained in Title III of the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, which vests authority in the Federal Communications Commission to regulate radio transmissions and to issue licenses to stations.

(b) The purpose of the rules in this part is to make provision for the authorization of radio stations to operate in a Disaster Communications Service. These stations will provide communications in connection with disasters and other incidents involving loss of communications facilities normally available or demanding the temporary establishment of communications facilities beyond those normally available. As used in this part, the term "disaster and other incidents" means an occurrence of such a nature as to involve the health or safety of a community or larger area and shall include, but not be limited to, floods, earthquakes, hurricanes, explosions, and consequences of armed attack.

§ 20.2 Scope of service. (a) Stations operating in this service are authorized to transmit and receive only disaster communications as set forth in § 20.5 for:

(1) Liaison purposes between individual or network stations handling disaster communications on their own regularly assigned service frequencies; or

(2) Direct operation of Disaster Communications Service networks having no other frequencies available or none satisfactory for the distances to be covered.

(b) Payment in any form for handling any communications in this service is prohibited: Provided, however, That the utilization of persons on a salary basis in connection with the service is permitted.

§ 20.3 Disaster station defined. Any government or non-government radio station able to function as a fixed, land, or mobile station and authorized, if government by its controlling federal government agency or if non-government by the Federal Communications Commission, to operate in the Disaster Communications Service.

§ 20.4 Activation and points of communication. (a) All stations in the Disaster Communications Service are authorized to communicate with one another only when competent local authority:

(1) Determines that a pending or actual disaster warrants their activation, or

(2) Schedules training operations, practice drills, or tests to keep the networks and associated stations alert and the frequencies in use.

(b) Competent local authority is defined as meaning that authority within a community or larger area which is so designated in the coordinated disaster communications plan for the area concerned. In the absence of a specific authority named in the plan, the individual in charge of the net control station, or his representative, for the local Disaster Communications Service net established in accordance with the disaster plan shall be considered as competent local authority for activating the net. Nothing in this paragraph shall be deemed to preclude any station from using the Scene of Disaster Frequency at any time the safety of life and property are in danger as a result of a disaster as that term is defined in § 20.1 (b).

§ 20.5 Disaster communications defined. Disaster communications shall comprise only the following: (a) Communications when there is no impending or actual disaster.

(1) Necessary drills and tests to insure the establishment and maintenance of efficient networks of disaster stations. These drills and tests may include the pre-arranged exchange of communications by stations of established networks with stations outside any established network provided that the purpose of such exchange is to provide training and practice in the establishment and maintenance of liaison and coordination between such network and non-network stations

(b) Communications when there is an impending or actual disaster, the order of priority to be descending in the order named:

(1) Communications directly concerning:

(i) The activation of a disaster network, or

(ii) The establishment and maintenance of liaison and coordination between:

(a) The stations of one network and the stations of any other network,

(b) Any network station and any non-network station of any agency possessed of its own system of radiocommunication which is actually engaged in averting or overcoming the effects of the disaster, or

(c) Any non-network station of one agency possessed of radiocommunication which is actually engaged in averting or overcoming the effects of the disaster and any non-network station of any other agency possessed of its own system of radiocommunication which is actually engaged in averting or overcoming the effects of the disaster.

(2) Communications directly concerning the conduct of service by an activated disaster network.

(3) Communications directly concerning safety of life, preservation of property, or maintenance of law and order by authorized government agencies.

(4) Communications directly concerning the accumulation and dissemination of public information regarding safety of life, preservation of property, or maintenance of law and order by authorized government agencies.

(5) Communications directly concerning the transaction of business.

(6) Communications directly concerning personal matters not included in any of the foregoing categories.

§ 20.6 Eligibility. (a) Authorizations to operate in the Disaster Communications Service will be issued to any person eligible under the Communications Act of 1934, as amended, provided the station or proposed station will operate as an element of a disaster communications network set up under a locally coordinated disaster plan.

(b) If the station to be operated in the service is a United States Government station, the authority to so operate will be granted by the appropriate United States Government agency concerned.

§ 20.7 Organization of networks. Local disaster communications networks shall be organized by whatever local group or groups of people may be interested in providing such a service. In any particular area there may be several networks and each network may be independent of the others. Wherever there are several networks in the same area, however, they will all share the available frequencies in an efficient and orderly manner, under a single coordinated disaster communication plan. Any particular network shall be organized and set up along such lines and include the making of such written records that an inspection of the network will show that there is in fact a local disaster network of definitely identified stations with appropriate leadership and rules for self-government and operating procedure that will tend to assure an orderly and reasonably efficient service. The various networks in different areas shall establish proper liaison arrangements so that in case of need they can all work together under a coordinated inter-area plan.

§ 20.8 Specific frequencies, emission, power. (a) Within the band 1750–1800 kc., disaster stations shall be limited to their choice of the following specific frequencies with the specific type of emission indicated: (Selection and use of frequencies shall be in accordance with a coordinated local area and adjacent area disaster communication plan)

(1) C.' channels (15–1.0 kc. channels):
1. 1750–1751 kc., 1.0A1 (1750.5 kc. center).

12. 1761–1762 kc., 1.0A1 (1761.5 kc. center).
13. 1762–1763 kc., 1.0A1 (1762.5 kc. center).
14. 1763–1764 kc., 1.0A1 (1763.5 kc. center).
15. 1764–1765 kc., 1.0A1 (1764.5 kc. center).

(2) Scene of disaster channel (1–7 kc. channel): S. O. D. 1765–1772 kc., 2.5A1 or 7A3 (1768.5 kc. center).

3. 1786–1793 kc., 7A3 (1789.5 kc. center).
4. 1793–1800 kc., 7A3 (1796.5 kc. center).

(b) For purpose of demonstrating compliance with paragraph (a) of this section, the following limits apply:

(1) Any emission appearing on any frequency, removed from the carrier frequency by at least 50 percent, but not more than 100 percent, of the maximum authorized bandwidth shall be attenuated not less than 25 db below the unmodulated carrier.

(2) Any spurious or harmonic emission appearing on any frequency removed from the carrier frequency by at least 100 percent of the maximum authorized bandwidth shall be attenuated below the unmodulated carrier by not less than the amount indicated in the following table:

Maximum authorized plate power input to the final radio frequency stage:	Attenuation (db)
3 watts or less	40
Over 3 watts and including 150 watts	60
Over 150 watts and including 600 watts	70
Over 600 watts	80

(c) When an authorized emission results in harmful interference, the Commission may, in its discretion, require appropriate technical changes in equipment to alleviate the interference.

(d) The carrier frequency of each authorized transmitter in these services shall be maintained within 0.005 percent of the assigned frequency.

(e) The transmitting equipment in a radio station in the disaster communications service shall be adjusted in such a manner as to produce the minimum radiation necessary to carry out the communication desired when such station is sending radio communications or signals of disaster and radio communications relating thereto.

§ 20.9 Operator requirements. Any amateur radio operator license issued by the Federal Communications Commission authorizing operation of an amateur station in the amateur segments of the 1800–2000 kc. band qualifies the holder of such license to operate an authorized Disaster Station in the 1750–1800 kc. band, in accordance with these rules. Any commercial radio operator license qualifies its holder to operate authorized Disaster Stations under these rules to the extent that the same method of operation is permitted in any other service in which the commercial license can normally be used. All transmitter adjustments or tests during or coincident with the installation, servicing or maintenance of a disaster station which may affect its proper operation shall be made by or under the immediate supervision and responsibility of a person holding the above-type amateur operator license or the holder of either a first or second class commercial radio operator license which authorizes adjustments and repair to the type of equipment being used in the Disaster Communication Service, in accordance with the type of emission being employed.

§ 20.10 Station applications, licenses, and authorizations. (a) An application for authorization to operate, in the Disaster Communications Service, a radio station already licensed in a different service shall be submitted as a notarized letter directly to the Secretary, Federal Communications Commission, Washington 25 D. C. Such letter shall describe in detail the applicant's eligibility under § 20.7, and shall be supported by an attached certified copy of the locally coordinated disaster communication plan, or if already submitted shall include a reference to it in the application letter.

(b) An application (by an applicant not presently licensed in another radio service) for license to operate a radio station in the Disaster Communications Service only, shall be submitted as indicated in paragraph (a) of this section for an authorization, and shall be accompanied by an application for a radio station construction permit (FCC Forms Nos. 401 and 401a).

§ 20.11 Term of station authorizations and licenses. (a) Authorizations to operate in the Disaster Communications Service for stations already licensed in other services will be issued, upon satisfactory application, for a term concurrent with the present station licenses.

(b) Licenses for new stations to operate in this service only, will be issued upon application on FCC Form 403, after completion of construction or installation in accordance with the terms and conditions set forth in the construction permit. Such licenses normally will be issued for an original term of from one to four years, as the Commission may determine in each case, to permit the orderly scheduling of renewals, and for a renewal term of four years.

§ 20.12 Station identification. (a) Call signs. Radio stations licensed in a service other than the Disaster Communications Service shall identify their transmissions in the Disaster Communications Service by using the regular station call signs assigned to them for the service in which they normally operate. Radio stations licensed only in the Disaster Communications Service shall use a special call sign assigned to them for that service.

(b) Use of call signs. Each station shall transmit the call sign of the station being called followed by its own call sign at the beginning of each series of communications with the called station, at least once each fifteen minutes of such operation, and when signing off communication with the called station. One-way transmissions intended for several Disaster Communications Stations shall be identified in the same manner except that a general call or group name may be used in place of the call signs of the several stations intended to receive the transmission. Test transmissions of a station tuning up or making adjustments with a signal on the air must be identified by announcement of its sign at the beginning and end of the test period and each two minutes of that period.

§ 20.13 Equipment requirements. (a) Frequencies, types of emission, bandwidth limitations, frequency tolerance and power are specified in § 20.8.

(b) Transmitting equipment shall include specific means for practicable limitations of emissions to the frequency channel being employed.

(c) When the radio frequency carrier of a station in the Disaster Communications Service is amplitude modulated, such modulation shall not exceed 100 percent on negative peaks.

§ 20.14 Radio station log. The licensee of each radio station authorized to operate in the Disaster Communications Service shall keep a log of all operations in the 1750–1800 kc band which shall include the following:

(a) Name and address of the disaster station licensee or authorization holder, station call sign used in the disaster service, disaster station authorization date and number, and d. c. plate power input to the r. f. tube or tubes supplying power to the antenna system. This information need be entered only once in the log unless there is a change in any of the above items. Each change shall be entered with the date the change is made.

(b) Date and time of beginning and end of each period during which the disaster station is manned.

(c) Signature of each licensed operator who manipulates the key of a manually operated radiotelegraph transmitter or the signature of each licensed operator who operates a transmitter using any other type of emission, and the name (or signature) of any person not holding a radio operator license who transmits by voice. The signature of the operator shall be entered with the date and time at both the beginning and end of each period during which he is manning the controls of the disaster station and at least once on each page additional to the first page covering the period for which he is the responsible operator. The signature of any additional operator who operates the station during the regular watch of another operator shall be entered in the proper space for that additional operator's transmissions.

(d) Upon completion of each period of operation for drill, training, or liaison purposes and each period of operation in connection with an imminent or actual disaster, there shall be entered in the log a summary of such operation describing its nature and giving pertinent details.

(e) There shall be no erasures, obliteration or destruction of any part of the disaster station log. Corrections shall be made by striking out erroneous portions and initialling and dating the correction.

§ 20.15 Availability of station license or authorization and operator licenses. (a) The station license or authorization for a radio station in the Disaster Communications Service, or photo copy thereof, shall be permanently attached to the transmitter if the transmitter is readily accessible, or permanently posted at the transmitter control position.

(b) The original radio operator license or license verification card of the operator controlling the emissions of a station in the Disaster Communications Service shall be carried on his person, or kept immediately available at the place where he is operating the disaster station.

5. A veteran shall accompany his application with a complete photostatic, or other copy (both sides) of his certificate of honorable discharge, or of an official document of his branch of service which shows clearly his honorable discharge as defined in § 181.36 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations, or constitutes evidence of other facts upon which the claim for preference is based and which shows clearly the period of service. Other persons claiming credit for service of veterans must furnish like proof in support of their claim. Persons asserting preference rights, through settlement or otherwise, and those having equitable claim, shall accompany their applications by duly corroborated statements in support thereof, setting forth in detail all facts relevant to their claims.

6. All applications referred to in paragraph 3 and 4, which shall be filed in the Land Office at Anchorage, Alaska, shall be acted upon in accordance with the regulations contained in § 295.8 of Title 43 of the Code of Federal Regulations to the extent that such regulations are applicable. DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE

Production and Marketing Administration

PROCEDURE FOR THE CONDUCT OF REFERENDA AMONG PRODUCERS IN CONNECTION WITH MARKETING ORDERS (EXCEPT THOSE APPLICABLE TO MILK AND ITS PRODUCTS) TO BECOME EFFECTIVE PURSUANT TO THE AGRICULTURAL MARKETING AGREEMENT ACT OF 1937, AS AMENDED

Unless otherwise prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture, the following procedure will be applicable to each producer referendum conducted for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance by the Secretary of a marketing order or amendment thereto (except marketing orders and amendments applicable to milk and its products) is approved or favored, as required under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.):

(a) For the purpose of such referendum:

(1) "Producer" means any individual, partnership, corporation, association, or other business unit who or which: (i) Owns and farms land, resulting in his or its ownership of the commodity produced thereon; (ii) rents and farms land, resulting in his or its ownership of all or a portion of the commodity produced thereon; or (iii) owns land which he or it does not farm and, as rental for such land, obtains the ownership of a portion of the commodity produced thereon. Ownership of, or leasehold interest in, land and the acquisition, in any manner other than as hereinbefore set forth, of legal title to the commodity grown thereon shall not be deemed to result in such owners or lessees becoming producers. For the purpose of this definition, the term "partnership" shall be deemed to include a husband and wife with respect to land the title to which, or leasehold interest in which, is vested in them as tenants in common, joint tenants, tenants by the entirety, or, under community property laws, as community property.

(2) Each producer shall be entitled to only one vote in such referendum, except that: (i) In a landlord-tenant relationship, wherein each of the parties is a producer, each such producer shall be entitled to one vote in the referendum; and (ii) a cooperative association of producers, bona fide engaged in marketing the commodity or product thereof proposed to be regulated, or in rendering services for or advancing the interests of the producers of such commodity or product, may, if it elects to do so, vote for the producers who are members of, stockholders in, or under contract with such association. Each ballot cast by, or on behalf of, a producer shall reflect the total volume of the commodity of which he or it was the producer during the representative period determined by the Secretary.

(3) Any individual casting a ballot in such referendum on behalf of a producer shall submit, with the ballot, evidence of his authority to cast such ballot, which evidence in the case of a corporation or cooperative association shall be in the form of a certified copy of a resolution of the Board of Directors.

(b) The agents designated by the Secretary to conduct any such referendum shall perform their functions subject to, and at the direction of, the Director of the Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration.

(c) Such agents shall:

(1) Conduct the referendum in the manner herein prescribed, by giving an opportunity to producers, who, during the representative period determined by the Secretary, have been engaged, within the specified production area, in the production for market of the commodity specified, to cast their ballots relative to the issuance of such order or amendment.

(2) Determine the time of commencement and termination of the period of the referendum, and the time prior to which all ballots must be cast.

(3) Determine whether ballots may be cast by mail, at polling places, at meetings of producers, or by any combination of the foregoing.

(4) Give reasonable advance notice of the referendum (i) by utilizing without advertising expense available media of public information (including, but not being limited to, press and radio facilities) serving the production area, announcing the dates, places, methods of voting, eligibility requirements, and other pertinent information, and (ii) by such other means as said agents may deem advisable.

(5) Make available to producers and the aforesaid cooperative associations copies of the text of the proposed order or amendment, instructions on voting, and appropriate ballot and other necessary forms.

(6) In the event such agents determine that ballots may be cast by mail, cause all the material specified in paragraph (b) (5) hereof to be mailed to each such cooperative association and each such producer whose name and address is known.

(7) In the event such agents determine that ballots may be cast at polling places, determine the necessary number of polling places, and designate and announce such polling places and the hours during which each such polling place will be open: Provided, That all such polling places shall remain open at least four (4) consecutive daylight hours during each day announced.

(8) In the event such agents determine that ballots may be cast at meetings of producers, determine the necessary number of meeting places, and designate and announce such meeting places, and the time of each such meeting.

(d) Said agents may appoint any person or persons deemed necessary or desirable to assist said agents in performing their functions hereunder. Each person so appointed may be authorized by said agents to perform, in accordance with the requirements herein set forth, any or all of the following functions (which, in the absence of such appointment of subagents, shall be performed by said agents):

(1) Give public notice of the referendum in the manner specified herein;

(2) Preside at a meeting of producers or as poll officer at a polling place;

(3) Distribute ballots and the aforesaid texts to producers and receive any ballots which are cast; and

(4) Obtain the name and address of each person receiving or casting a ballot and inquire into the eligibility of such person to vote in the referendum.

(e) Said agents and their appointees shall accept all ballots cast; but, should they, or any of them, deem that a ballot should be challenged for any reason, or if a ballot is challenged by any other person, said agent or appointee shall endorse above his signature, on the back of said ballot, a statement to the effect that such ballot was challenged, by whom challenged, the reasons therefor, and the results of any investigations made with respect thereto.

(f) At the conclusion of the referendum, the agents shall prepare for, and submit to, the Fruit and Vegetable Branch the following:

(1) All ballots received by the agents and appointees, together with a certificate to the effect that the ballots forwarded are all of the ballots cast and received by such persons during the referendum period;

(2) A list of all challenged ballots; and

(3) A detailed statement explaining the method used in giving publicity to the referendum and showing other information pertinent to the manner in which the referendum was conducted.

(g) The Director, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, may designate any of the said agents to serve as an agent-in-charge to receive the material specified in paragraph (f) hereof. Each such agent-in-charge shall canvass the ballots and list them. The original tabulation shall then be forwarded, together with the ballots and other required documents, to the Director, Fruit and Vegetable Branch.

(h) The Fruit and Vegetable Branch thereafter shall prepare and submit to the Secretary a report covering the results of the referendum, the manner in which the referendum was conducted, the extent and kind of public notice given, and all other information pertinent to the full analysis of the referendum and its results.

(i) All ballots shall be treated as confidential; and the contents of ballots shall not be divulged except as provided herein or as the Secretary may direct.

(j) The Director, Fruit and Vegetable Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, United States Department of Agriculture, is hereby authorized to prescribe additional instructions, not inconsistent with the provisions hereof, to govern the procedure to be followed by said referendum agents and appointees in conducting said referendum.

(48 Stat. 31, as amended; 7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.)

Done at Washington, D. C., this 7th day of August 1950.

[SEAL] CHARLES F. BRANNAN,
Secretary of Agriculture.

PROCEDURE FOR THE CONDUCT OF REFERENDA TO DETERMINE PRODUCER APPROVAL OF MILK MARKETING ORDERS TO BE MADE EFFECTIVE PURSUANT TO THE AGRICULTURAL MARKETING AGREEMENT ACT OF 1937 AS AMENDED

Unless otherwise prescribed by the Secretary of Agriculture, the following procedure will be applicable to each producer referendum conducted for the purpose of ascertaining whether the issuance by the Secretary of a marketing order or amendment thereto with respect to the handling of milk in a specified marketing area is approved or favored, as required under the applicable provisions of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended (7 U. S. C. 601 et seq.).

1. The agent (or agents) to conduct the referendum shall be designated by the Secretary of Agriculture or his duly authorized representative.

2. Each producer, as defined in the order or amendment with respect to which the referendum is to be conducted, who, during the representative period determined by the Secretary, was engaged in the production of milk for sale in the marketing area, shall be entitled to one vote in any such referendum: Provided, That no person who alleges that during all or any part of the representative period he was a producer as defined in the order or amendment shall be refused a ballot: And provided further, That any cooperative association of producers which the Director of the Dairy Branch has found to be qualified to express approval or disapproval on behalf of its producers pursuant to section 8c (12) of the Agricultural Marketing Agreement Act of 1937, as amended, may, if it elects to do so, cast its vote for the producers who are members of, or stockholders in, or under contract with, such association.

3. Any cooperative association of producers, which has not previously been determined by the Director of the Dairy Branch to be qualified to express approval or disapproval on behalf of the producers who are members of, stockholders in, or under contract with, such association, and desires to obtain such qualification, shall, at least five days prior to the time of the referendum, make application to the Director of the Dairy Branch for the required determination. Copies of the association's articles of incorporation, by-laws and membership contracts must accompany such application.

4. Subject to direction of the Director of the Dairy Branch, Production and Marketing Administration, the referendum agent shall perform the following functions in connection with such referendum:

(a) Ascertain the names of all producers eligible to vote.

(b) Ascertain whether any qualified cooperative association desires to cast a ballot on behalf of its eligible producers. If it does,

(1) Verify the names of all of such association's eligible producers and make a record of all duplications of names (names appearing on more than one verified association list) without attempting to judge, as to which association the person legally belongs. Special inquiry should be made to determine whether any producer shown on more than one association list has taken action to withdraw from either association.

(c) If the referendum agent has knowledge of any other producer association which might claim the right to vote its producers, he should notify it in writing of the requirements set forth in section 3 hereof. The referendum agent should also request from the association a certified list of producers who are members of, stockholders in, or under contract with such association, and should advise such association that refusal or failure to comply with the provisions of section 3 hereof, and to permit an immediate verification of the certified list of producers will be regarded as an indication of its desire to waive the right to vote on behalf of its producers.

(d) Referendum conducted by mail. At least three days prior to the time of the referendum

(1) Mail to the chairman of the board of directors of each qualified cooperative association electing to vote its producers, copies of the order or amendment under consideration, enclosing a ballot, notice as to the time prior to which all ballots must be cast, and an addressed envelope for the return of the ballot. The chairman should be instructed that the association's ballot must be accompanied by a certified copy of the resolution of the board of directors authorizing the casting of the ballot;

(2) Mail to each producer who does not appear to be a member of any qualified cooperative association voting in the referendum, a copy of the order or amendment under consideration, a ballot, a letter of instructions for casting the ballot (including notice as to the time prior to which the ballot must be cast), and an addressed envelope for the return of the ballot.

(3) On the day the ballots are mailed to producers, present to the daily newspapers generally distributed throughout the area, to the radio stations serving the area, and to all county agents and PMA county committees within the milkshed, a statement setting forth notice of the referendum, of the mailing of ballots to all known producers, of the final date for the return of the ballots, and of the time and places where eligible producers who have failed to receive the voting materials described in paragraph (d) hereof, may obtain the same. The aforementioned notice should also be given at the same time by such other means as the referendum agent may deem desirable, including paid advertising in daily newspapers.

(e) Referendum conducted at polling places or at meetings of producers.

(1) Designate the polling or meeting places, the day for the referendum, and the time of such meetings or the hours during which such polling places shall be open and closed: Provided, That all polling places shall remain open not less than four hours during such day.

(2) Give notice of the day, places, and hours of polling or time of meetings by (i) issuing a statement to the press and to the radio stations serving the area, giving such information; (ii) posting a copy of such statement at each polling or meeting place at least one day prior to the date of balloting; (iii) mailing to all county agents and to all PMA county committees within the milkshed copies of the order or amendment thereto, on which the referendum is to be conducted, together with the notice of the date, places, and hours of polling or meetings; (iv) mailing at least three days prior to the date of the referendum, to each qualified cooperative association voting on behalf of its producers, and to each eligible producer whose name does not appear on the certified list of such association's producers, a letter giving notice of the date, places, and hours of polling, and enclosing a copy of the order or amendment thereto; and (v) such other means as the referendum agent may deem desirable, including paid advertising in daily newspapers.

(3) Appoint the person or persons who shall be in charge of each polling place, or who shall preside at such meetings and instruct all such officers as to the conduct of the referendum and the manner of transmittal of the ballots. Each person so appointed shall serve without compensation.

(4) Personally supervise the counting and tabulation of all ballots cast.

(f) During the period within which the referendum is to be conducted, present to each handler defined in the order or amendment, a copy of the marketing agreement, containing identical terms, for his signature.

(g) Unless otherwise directed, the referendum shall be completed on or before the 15th day from the date on which the Secretary signs an order directing that a referendum be conducted. All ballots cast shall be treated as confidential and the contents thereof shall be divulged only to the Secretary or to such other persons as the Secretary may direct. The referendum agent shall make no public announcement of, and shall not discuss with any interested person the results of the referendum prior to the official announcement of such results by the Secretary.

(h) Upon receiving the ballots submitted within the specified time for the casting of ballots, tabulate such ballots in a manner which will show the total number of ballots mailed to producers, the number of producers voting in the referendum, the number of producers favoring and the number opposed to the issuance of the order or amendment, and the number of producers whose ballots were disqualified. (If, in checking the ballots, it is found that any ballots were cast by persons who were not producers during the representative period, such ballot shall be disqualified. Likewise, if a ballot is cast by any person whose name appears on the list of producers on whose behalf a qualified cooperative association is voting, such ballot shall be disqualified.)

(i) In the event a poll is also being taken with respect to the inclusion of an individual handler pool provision in the order or amendment, a separate tabulation should be made of the number of producers opposed to or in favor of such a provision, and the number of producers whose ballots were disqualified. The results should be reported separately to the Secretary at the same time that the results of the vote on the issuance of the order or amendment are reported.
